D. 1910, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the said Court can hear the said application for the appointment of three Commissioners, who shall be freeholders and residents of the City of Plainfield, as Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits respectively conferred upon the several lots and parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefitted by the permanent improvements of streets under the ordinance of said City whose title is hereinafter specified and to perform the duties and execute the powers conferred by said Acts of the Legislature. Water Problem Figures.

Editor, The Daily Press:

When Mr. Mygatt attends the next meeting of the Board of Trade or the Civic Club will he please explain:

First. Why he omitted from his figures recently published in regard to the cost of acquiring and operating the water works, any estimate of the annual cost of extending mains during the next fifty years? Does he think Plainfield has its growth and is doomed to remain torpid for half a century?

Second. If the pumping station at Netherwood is not to be purchased or condemned (which seems to be his present notion), what is to prevent the water company from pumping all the water under the city and taking it away for use in other towns?

Third. If the pumping plant should be purchased by the city or acquired by condemnation, what is to prevent the water company from building another station in or near the city and pumping all the water it can get, even to the extent of destroying the city's wells?

Fourth. If Mr. Mygatt should change his present plan and purchase or condemn the right of the company to pump the water in or near Plainfield, and thus appropriate the source from which the company gets water to supply North Plainfield and the towns along the Central Railroad, between Elizabeth and Plainfield, has he any idea of the cost of such an enterprise? If so, what are his figures?

Fifth. What reason has Mr. Mygatt to suppose that the city of Plainfield can get $25,000.00 a year from North Plainfield? Would not the city be in direct competition with the water company in that borough?

Sixth. It might be well, also, for Mr. Mygatt to let the people know what efforts have been made to safeguard the city in the matter of water supply by a contract with the company and the status of the negotiations, if any are pending.

L. B. WOOLSTON.

Says There is a Mistake.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I find in your issue of Tuesday, March 8, the following: "Miss B. L. Clarke, publisher of "Daily Attractions in New York,' has sued and obtained an injunction against a supposedly rival publication called "Every Day in New York" and published by Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketchum and Rev. Dr. A. L. White, of New York. Dr. Ketchum was formerly a pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of this city. Miss Clark avers that the scheme of the two clergymen is to spoil her business and as they have imitated the type, cover and general appearance of her little magazine she has instituted proceedings to prevent her business being ruined."

As before this I had never even heard of either of these publications or parties—it is evident that there is somewhere a mistake by somebody.

REV. K. P. KETCHUM.

SPEAKS FOR FORT.

Nichols Says Governor Won't Run for U. S. Senator.

Said Assemblyman Isaac T. Nichols, the New Idea member from Cumberland county, in speaking of the race for United States Senator:

The Governor will not be a candidate for United States Senatorial honors, but will be in the campaign next fall to aid his friends in the cause of good government."

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

LONG MISSING BROTHER DIED AT RED BANK

David Roberts, aged sixty years a farmer, who disappeared from his home at Martinsville, eighteen years ago, died on Thursday last at his home near Red Bank, and through the information given by him just before he passed away his relatives at Martinsville learned of his whereabouts. The funeral service was held Saturday afternoon at Red Bank and the burial was at that place.

The death of Mr. Roberts reveals rather a strane story. Eighteen years ago he had a quarrel with members of the family at Martinsville and in a fit of anger said he was going away, never again to bother his people. Ten years passed before any word of the man was heard. He was then said to be living in South Jersey.

Again all trace of the man was lost and he was not heard of again until his death on Thursday. He had purchased a small farm at Red Bank and spent his last days there. Just before he died he was asked whether he had any relatives. He said that he had a brother, John Roberts, at Bound Brook. The authorities at Red Bank communicated with Chief of Police Flammer, of Bound Brook, who knowing of the family at once communicated with John Roberts at Martinsville. In this way the latter learned of his brother's whereabouts and he went to Red Bank and identified him.

The dead man also left a nephew, John Roberts, of Duer street, the borough.

Among his effects there was found deeds for property in Florida, but it is not known at present whether he still owns the land or not. This will be investigated. Unless he does own property in Florida, his effects will not amount to a great deal.

F. J. Blatz, Receiver.

Francis J. Blatz on Saturday was appointed receiver for Abraham Cantor, of West Third street, a grocer, who went into bankruptcy several weeks ago. Referee A. DeCoster made the appointment. An inventory is now being made of the stock and fixtures of the store.

Supt. Luhr Out Again.

After a ten days' illness, George Luhr division superintendent of the Public Service Corporation Railway, was able to leave the Elizabeth Hospital on Saturday and is once more on duty. His many friends, uartiularly the P. S. R. employes, are glad to see him around again.

—A cat in the cellar of George Mantz, 961 Union street, Sunday night, made such a racket that the family thought that burglars had got in and were on their way upstairs. Police headquarters was notified and a patrolman sent to investigate. Pussy was found trying to escape from her unaccustomed surroundings.

EARTH NOT MENACED BY HALLEY'S COMET

Halley's comet, the most wonderful celestial visitor of the age, the discovery of which marked a new era in astronomy, was the topic of a fascinating and instructive lecture by Charles C. McBride, an editorial writer of the Newark Evening News, before the members of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth.

Halley's comet is a timely subject for a lecture and discussion, for it has recently been seen with ordinary field glasses as it followed the sun below the horizon each evening. Mr. McBride's remarks included detailed descriptions of the discovery of the remarkable comet, Halley's conclusion that all comets follow well-defined orbits periodically, and its present return to the perihelion of its orbit where it soon will become visible to the naked eye.

One of the most interesting parts of the lecture was Mr. McBride's description of what will happen when the earth passes through the immense tail about May 18. He strongly denied any reason for believing that inhabitants of this planet will suffer. In substantiating this claim he said that according to recent estimates, millions of cubic miles of the matter composing a comet's tail, if confined, would not weigh more than a jar full of air. He said that the entire tail of a comet, composed of the minutest particles of material, could be carried away in a satchel.

Mr McBride led his hearers up to a thrilling description of the obliteration of all life on the earth if the head of a comet struck the earth, by saying that Halley's comet on some of its visits within the orbit of the earth passes within 40,000 miles of the earth's orbit, but fortunately, he said as he relieved the strain, the earth always has been at the other end of its orbit and has therefore been millions of miles away from the dangerous body.

In describing the immense journey of Halley's comet, which is visible to the earth only once every seventy-six years, he began with the comet located at its perihelion, or point nearest the sun. He said it was 135,000,000 miles from the sun when it crossed the orbit of Mars, 470,000,000 of miles from the sun when it crossed Jupiter's orbit, 880,000,000 miles when it crossed Uranus' orbit, and 2,800,000,000 of miles when it crossed Neptune's orbit. Then as it begins to return toward the sun and toward "light, heat and civilization," as Mr. McBride put it, it steadily increases in speed.

It requires twenty-one years for it to cross Neptune's orbit, eight to cross Uranus' orbit, five years to cross Saturn's orbit. From Saturn to upiter, a distance of 470,00,000 miles it requires but one year, steadily increasing its speed until it reaches a velocity of twenty-five miles per second as it passes the point nearest the sun.

He said that the nearest the head of the comet will come to the earth is 14,000,000 miles, or forty times as far away as the moon.

Mr. McBride traced the calculations of Halley, the astronomer, after the discovery of the new comet. He said that Halley, after studying all the comets about which he could get reliable information, learned that three followed the same orbit, moved in the same plane and came after periods of the same length. Then combining the calculations of Newton, the mathematician, with his own astronomical observations Halley determined that all comets followed orbits of their own, and that these three comets noted were the same comet reappearing at regular intervals. He therefore estimated the reappearance of this particular comet at a specific date, and his prediction was verified. Although Halley's death had occurred sixteen years before this date, he was given full credit for his observations and predictions.

The wonderful comet has visited the earth twenty-six times, Mr. McBride said, since 11 B. C. Describing its appearance in May, Mr. McBride said that it would not be visible on May 18 because it would be directly between th earth and the sun, but that as it passed away from the sun it would appear very luminous.

"While it will not be as wonderfully brilliant as it has been some years," he said, "I believe you can depend upon seeing a wonderful sight. Just when it will appear next time does not interest us; it may scientists but not us. Because in seventy-six years most of us will be where we are not interested in comets."

Mr. McBride in concluding his remarks spoke of many ludicrous superstitions which have arisen at each visitation of Halley's comet and which are preserved in historic records.

Distant Relations.

"Bliggins was referring to distant relations in a rather disapproving tone. I wonder whom he meant."

"I don't know," answered Miss Cayenne. Judging from their manner, I should say the most distant relations he knows anything about are his wife and her family."—Washington Star.

The Investment of Trust Funds is properly confirmed by law within certain well-defined limitations as to class and kind of Investments, etc.

The executor who invests the Trust fund in his business or who ventures into speculative fields hoping for larger returns, though he do so with the best of motives, may find himself compelled to make good losses incurred on individual investments of this class, even though his total administration shows a gain.

Where Investments are made outside of the legal field for Trust funds, it should be remembered that

Gains acrue to the Estate and must be left there—
Losses must be made up.

The temptation to make Speculative Investments is removed where a Trust Company is Executor. All Trust funds are constantly under State and Legal Supervision.

that saves fuel and dollars and will heat the whole of a house. In every great engine and under every big boiler you'll find a square fire box. Ever noticed it? Well—we have adapted that principle to our furnaces. A square pot gives a clean, hot, clinkerless fire without waste of fuel. It requires the least attention and responds instantly. BOYNTON furnaces only have square fire-pots. It is our patent. There are other improvements. A square ash pit that improves the draft and makes removal of ashes easier. A pure air supply—for health's sake. A dust flue that saves the rooms above.

Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town and talk it over.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

HERE AND THERE.

A new and rather unique brand of one-dollar bill has made its appearance in this section, and unless the public is wary the probability is the there will be cause for regret. The bill is printed on two separate sheets and then so cleverly put together as to almost defy detection. The engraving is almost perfect but the coloring appears to be a little more dead than that of the genuine, though not to such an extent as to attract attention. The texture of the paper, however, is rather soft.

One of the bills was taken in a day or two ago at the freight office of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Elizabeth. Its worthlessness was not detected until after it was deposited the other afternoon in the National State Bank, in Elizabeth, and the first that the railroad company learned of it was yesterday when it was returned by the bank bearing the word counterfeit stamped across its face. When subjected to a test made by the bank officials, the two parts which made up the bill, came apart, showing at once its worthlessness.

Although he is only 14 years old, John Maier, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maier, of Bound Brook, has erected a wireless station at his home, and according to experts, it is one of the most complete systems in this vicinity. The boy almost daily receives messages from Cape Hatteras and from the Atlantic City stations. He also sends messages to points in the east. The Maier boy is a pupil in the Bound Brook High School, and is considered one of the brightest boys in his class. For more than a year past he has ben studying wireless telegraphy. "When I am old enough," said the boy, "I want to be a wireless operator on a steamer, just like Jack Binns."

Misunderstanding a telephone message resulted last week in a mixup, in which an undertaker in Cranford was sent to the home of a man who did not need his services and the summoning of several members of his family to his bedside. It later developed that one of the relatives of Anton Fnitter called up his home on the telephone, inquring as to his condition. "He is in bed," relpied a daughter. Thinking the young woman had said "He is dead," Undertaker Sartor, of Westfield, was called. The funeral director was in New York at the time but a friend went to the house to make arrangements for the funeral. A daughter who lives in this city was also called to Cranford. It took over an hour to straighten the matter out.

THIS SEASON'S VEILS.

In the monthly expenditure of the average well-dressed woman the money for veils will be no small item.

Plain meshes are always acceptable, and every woman should number one or two of this variety in her outfit.

Made veils, decorated with ornate designs, are most expensive, but the finished style of these cannot be supplied to the waist.

Closely following the vogue for long chiffon scarfs comes the long net veil, which is tied at the back, the long ends falling to the waist.

In the plain chiffon veiling all of the pastel shades are still favored. Long lengths are used to drape over the hat brims and the ends are crossed in the back and then tied carelessly in front. The chiffon veils are seldom worn over the face except when motoring.

Some women have adopted the expensive Parisian veils, which have the fine background of mesh spotted with huge leaf forms or butterflies. They are daring in their design and require a face of unusual beauty to counteract the almost grotesque effect produced.

Soft-toned veils in colors to match the costume are much worn, and of course, black and white meshes are always in good taste.

Girl's Father to Renew Suit.

Patrick Collins, of Meath, Ireland, has written to the Newark authorities that he will bring back his daughter Dolly to that city and renew her suit for breach of promise against Robert Sutphen unless Sutphen agrees to provide for her maintenance. Dolly Collins is the girl whose deportation to Ireland six weeks ago led to a police investigation into the part that Detective Joseph Farrell played in it. The Police Commissioners exonerated Farrell, but the case was then put before the grand jury and has not yet been decided.

New Chapter in Oram Suit.

Another chapter in the Oram suit, in which Mrs. Laura Jane Oram, of Wharton, Morris county, is trying to establish her marriage to Thomas W. Oram, son of the late iron magnate, after whom Port Oram, now Wharton, was named, was written Saturday in an opinion given by Vice-Chancellor Emery, of Newark, directing Oram to furnish the petitioner with all funds necessary for the prosecution of the suit to establish her alleged rights.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Herrman, of this city, were registered at the week-end at the Hotel Breakers Palm Beach, Florida.

her voice broke, but she caught it again instantly and resumed her iron self-control.

"Then if one of us must stay, it shall be I."

"No," said the woman. "I have been in the world and you have not. You may go and learn what it holds for you. I have tried to prepare you, to give you lessons. Now, you may put them in practice."

"The island is mine," said the man. "I was here when you came. I shall be here when you return."

"We shall see," returned the woman looking boldly at him. The clash of wills almost struck fire within the eyes of the two who thus crossed swords. "Meanwhile," she turned to Langford, "if you will leave the island and go back to your ship, I shall be very glad. There is nothing you can do here. You have nothing to gain by remaining."

"Kate," he cried, "one last appeal."

"It is as unavailing as the first."

She looked at him steadily. He saw that within her face and bearing which convinced him that what she said was true.

"At least," he said, with the dignity of sorrow and disappointment, "if I have played the part of the fool, I have done my best to play the man."

He turned slowly away. In a step the woman was by his side.

"You have," she said. "Whoever else has failed me in this hour, it has not been you. I am sorry that I do not love you, that I never did love you and that I cannot love you." She reached her hand out. "Good-by."

"Good-by," he said, "if you think of me, remember that I did my best to make amends and if you ever change—"

"I shall not change," said the woman. "Good-by."

He moved off down the strand, called his sailors to him, got into his boat, shoved off and was rowed over the blue lagoon and through the opening in the barrier toward the yacht tossing slowly upon the long swells of the Pacific.

"As for you, sir," said the woman, after she had watched Langford a little while in silence, "will you go back and bring some officers ashore to hear my story?"

"At your wish, Miss Brenton," said the lieutenant-commander gravely.

The woman turned to her companion.

"Will you go with them?"

"And leave you here alone?" cried the man.

"I shall be here when you come back, I give you my word upon it. I do not break my word. You know whatever else you may have against me, I have always told you the truth. If you will remember, I said but yesterday that I was not worthy of you."

She smiled bitterly.

"And in that, madam," said Whittaker, "give me leave to say that you broke your record for veracity."

"'Tis good of you to say so," she returned. "Believe me I have taken more comfort from your words and actions in this dreadful hour than I had dreamed it possible for men to give. Now, if you will all go away and leave me and not come back until evening I shall be so glad and thankful."

"Come, sir," said the lieutenant-commander, not unkindly, touching the man upon the shoulder. "As a gentleman you cannot do less than accede to the lady's request."

Suffering himself thus to be persuaded, the man followed the officer into the boat, in which the whole party embarked and was rowed away from the island. His first touch with the world had separated him from the woman he loved and who loved him. Nay, his own frightful folly, his own blindness, his own criminal and heartless decision had done that. And the world upon which humanity loves to load the blame of its transgressions, and with which it would fain share the consequences of its own follies, had nothing whatever to do with it. In fact, it was because he was so ignorant of the world, so utterly unable to see things in their relative values—and in relation we ascertain truth—that he had taken the tone that he had used and entered upon the course which he had followed.

He could only see one thing, that this woman who he supposed belonged so completely and entirely and absolutely to him, who was as fresh and unspotted from the world as he was, who had been his own as he had belonged entirely and utterly and absolutely to her, was—different! That the difference was more in his own imagination than anywhere else brought him no comfort. He still loved her, he still wanted to marry her, but he loved her in spite of her shame. A greater, a wiser man would have loved her because of it. And some day this fact which he himself was inherently large enough to realize, or would be after a time, would cause him a grief so great that the anguish that he suffered now would be nothing.

Whittaker was a man of great tact and shrewdness and one with a wide knowledge of the world. He realized something of what was in the man's mind. He saw in some measure how the proposition presented itself to him and he felt a deep kindness and pity toward his unhappy fellow passenger.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Divided.

The best thing on earth for a man in the islander's position would have been isolation and a chance to think it over. The worst thing on earth for a woman in Katharine's position was isolation and a chance to think it over. If the man had been enabled by lack of outside interests to give free rein to his thoughts and let them draw him whither they would, he might have arrived at a different viewpoint, whence he could have enjoyed a sight of the affair in all its bearings and could have adjusted himself to them, but the opportunity he needed he did not get. He was immediately plunged into an atmosphere of such strangeness to him, filled with such compelling necessity for attention, that, although he loathed the necessity thus imposed upon him, he was constrained to take part in the life that flowed around him. His instinct—and he was almost a woman in his instinctive capacity—was to be alone, but it was impossible, and in spite of himself what he saw distracted him. The people he met did more.

Whittaker hustled him below, of course, as soon as possible and took him into his own cabin. Fortunately they were men of much the same height and build, although the islander was the more graceful, symmetric and strong, and he succeeded in getting him into a civilian suit of clothing for which he had no present use. There were both loss and gain in his appearance. There was no gain in the islander's feelings, at least, he thought not, in view of the irksome restraint of clothing, and yet there was a certain satisfaction to his soul in being no longer singled out from among his fellows by the strangeness of his apparel. As clothes the garments became him, and it all depended upon your point of view as to whether you preferred the handsome barbarian with a hint of civilization in his carriage, or the civilized gentleman with a suggestion of the barbaric in his bearing. Whittaker reasoned rightly that the sooner he became accustomed to these things the better, and that the time to begin was immediately.

He had had a hasty word or two with the captain before he took him below, and when he was dressed—and it required assistance from the lieutenant-commander ere the unfamiliar habiliments were properly adjusted—the two passed from the ward room to the cabin of the captain in the after part of the ship.

The few sentences in which Whittaker had made his brief report to his superior had in a measure prepared the captain for the more lengthy discourse that followed, and, feeling that the situation was one which required more than the simple authority of the master of a ship, he had summoned to conference the surgeon and the chaplain. It was to these three men, therefore, that Whittaker and the islander presented themselves.

The chaplain, like Whittaker, was a Virginian. He had not noted the islander's face when he came aboard in his semi-savage garb, but as his eye dwelt upon him standing clothed and in his right mind before him he gave a start of surprise, and so soon as the formal salutations had been exchanged, with a word to the captain for permission, he asked Whittaker a question.

"Is the Present Charnock Married?"

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Whittaker, but what is this gentleman's name?"

The word gentleman was used naturally and unconsciously, with an absolute sense of its fitness, as everyone in the cabin could perceive.

"It is not rightly known," said Whittaker, "but he is believed to be a Virginian of the—"

"I knew it," said the chaplain, impulsively; "he is one of the Charnocks of Nansemond county."

"Your recognition, chaplain," said the lieutenant-commander, eagerly, "will be of great value in determining this stranger's name and station. The evidence of it is circumstantial. I do not know how it will be regarded in a court of law."

"I have always understood that the Charnock estate was a vast one," said Capt. Ashby, "and since coal has been mined on the Virginia lands it has become very valuable."

"It is true," answered the chaplain.

"Who holds it now?" asked the surgeon.

"It is held by an old man, my friend of many years' standing, the brother of John Revell Charnock."

"I believe that to be my name," said the islander.

BASEBALL.

Hugo Wasserman, of the New Brunswick Baseball Club, tried to be a good fellow on Saturday night when he "blew" his players to a dinner at the Victoria Hotel. The New Brunswick manager, however, was nearly taken off his feet when the players retaliated by making a demand for more money. Mr. Wasserman said: "Nit, the club is going to be conducted on business principles this season." This blunt refusal did not appease the players, and now Dave Driscoll is threatening to take his pets to some other town.

The Melrose & Clayton sisters can both sing and dance. The pictures are one of the big attractions.

ELIZABETH UNITED LOST

Plainfield Association Won Interesting Game on the Clinton Ave. Grounds.

THE SCORE WAS SIX TO TWO.

Visitors Made First Point—Spalding's Great Shot—Hosie and Braidwood Did Good Work —The Lineups.

The Plainfield Association Football Club defeated the Elizabeth United on the Clinton avenue grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 2 in a fast and exciting game. The visitors in starting the game made a rush on the home goal and succeeded in taking the first point inside of six minutes from the start. The home team played easily for the first quarter of an hour, when they broke away and secured the equalizing point, from Braidwood. For the remainder of the first half the play was mainly around mid-field and half time was called with a score of one goal each.

On resuming the game the home team settled right down, and some fine football was witnessed. During a bombardment of the visitors' end, Bennett secured the second goal for the home team. This put some spirit in the Elizabeth eleven and they took the equalizing point again. The home team looked good to win at this point, for they simply surrounded the visitors' goal and had hard luck in scoring often.

A run down field by the Plainfield boys and a great cross shot from Spalding put the home boys one goal up and in less than five minutes Spalding took one more point, making four in all. The visitors now seemed all in, for in a few minutes a fine corner kick from Spalding was put through by Hosie. This made the score 5 against 2. The visitors made two more breaks to get away, but were brought up at mid-field and in a close scrimmage, Braidwood put in a shot like a cannon ball from the thirty yard mark, which made the sixth goal. No more scoring resulted and the game ended 6 to 2 in favor of Plainfield. The lineup:

The local athletes put up a speedy article of all and excelled the visitors in passing and shooting, especially in the second half. Aalholm starred for Plainfield, the local boy distinguishing himself by shooting nine superb goals from the field. Faust, Smith and Burnside carried off the honors for Belleville. Plainfield led the way at the end of the first half by a margin of three points the score being 20 to 17. TWO LOCAL ATHLETES IN Y. M. C. A. STATE MEET

John Payne and Russell Miller were the only local Y. M. C. A. athletes to compete in the State championships at Paterson on Saturday night despite the fact that Plainfield won the championship last year.

Payne maintained his reputation by finishing second in the twelve-pound shot putting contest, the winner of the event being C. Glaser, of Paterson, with a throw of 43 feet 2 inches.

Russell Miller distinguished himself by winning the quarter mile potato race in 1 minute 46 seconds.

Paterson won the championship with a total of 708 points; Elizabeth finished in second place and Montclair was third.

League Blows Up.

The New Jersey Baseball League did not meet at Perth Amboy yesterday as scheduled. The withdrawals of New Brunswick and Perth Amboy evidently put a damper on the enthusiasm of the promoters Men's Don't Want to Strike.

Despite the persistent efforts of a walking delegate, who visited this city on Saturday, a futule attempt was made to to get the local trolleymen to arrange for a strike. He met with a cool reception and the firm statement that all hands were satisfied. The delegate also visited Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Newark and Elizabeth, where, it is said, he got similar treatment.

Will Present "Silas Marner."

"Silas Marner," is the name of the play to be presented by the Plainfield High School at the auditorium on Saturday evening, March 19, at 8 o'clock. The cast will be announced tomorrow.

SELF-MASTERS ROMANCE

Founder and Attractive General Agent of the Institution Wedded Quietly.

DEVOTE LIVES TO CAUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Andress Floyd Consecrated to Saving Disheartened Men—Local Men Are Interested.

Announcement mas made today of the wedding of Miss Lillian B. Kline, formerly of Cleveland Ohio, and more recently of Rahway, to Andress S. Floyd, of Rahway The ceremony took place last Saturday at Newark and was performed by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, of that city. Mrs. Floyd has long been interested in Mr. Floyd's "family of self masters," an institution founded by Mr. Floyd at Rahway. The institution has the support of such men as Howard A. Colby, who has recently contributed $1,000 towards the expenses of the institution; and Charles H. Ingersoll of watch fame, both of whom are members of the advisory board.

The Family of Self Masters is now located at Union, Union county, and is doing a philanthropical work which has received the endorsement of many men of prominence. Among the trustees is found the name of William A. Clark, of the Borough National Bank, North Plainfield; Alexander C. Litterst, of the Metuchen National Bank, of Metuchen; Elston M. French and others.

In the prospectus recently issued by the managers of the institution an outline of the scope and intent of the work is given. Primarily the home or colony has been established for the following classes of men: Those unable to find immediate employment; the one in middle life who has lost his busines; the intemperate boy trying to control himself; the country boy stranded in a large city; the wayward rich man's son; the man discouraged through domestic troubles and the physically and mentally broken down man.

What has already been done by the promotors of this helpful home is creditable beyond anything of its kind yet established and the results in cases which have found refuge in the kindly environment of the home have spurred the workers in it to press on toward a higher attainment. Mrs. Floyd and her husband have given up all their time without hope of material recompense to this work of rehabilitating men and putting them on a firm footing for future usefulness. It is hoped that with the installation of modern machinery and tools in the home to make the place self supporting and with the ready response which has met the appeals of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd success is assured.

The prospectus says that "now that the work is no longer an experiment, but has proven that the proper method to reach the homeless man is through the affections to which he responds like other men, it is the earnest desire of the head workers to obtain a farm of 25 to 50 acres, with proper buildings for dormitories and work shops, located on a main automobile road, easily accessible to visitors, where the family may establish itself permanently and accomplish its great work for human betterment. A fund of $10,000 is also needed for establishing the rug industry on a proper basis, to purchase tools, machinery, seeds, fertilizers and stock to carry on a truck farm under the supervision of an experienced farmer. To equip a print shop for general printing and publishing of the Self-Master Magazine and other literature under a competent printer who is yet to be secured."

The work of this institution is nonsectarian and simply represents the man who has fallen making an appeal to the man who has won. The man who has made a mistake and who wants to re-establish himself by faithful services to others. The colony was started in nine rooms in Rahway October 22, 1908, and has succeeded admirably so far in its purposes.

Surprised O. P. Crane.

A surprise party was given to O. P. Crane, of Westervelt avenue, last night, by a number of friends. Euchre was the feature, while instrumental and vocal music was an added pleasure. There were six tables in play. Miss May Tier and Mrs. W. A. Cochran were awarded the honors for the women and P. H. Latourette and Michael Armstrong those for the men. Refreshments were served.

S. A. L. Basketball Games.

Two contests were decided last night in the Sunday School Athletic Basketball League. Grace deefated the First Baptist five by the score of 25 to 13 and the First Presbyterians trimphed over Crescent Avenue by the score of 44 to 15. Hope chapel forfeited to Trinity for non-appearance.

"JOE" PENROSE SKIPS TO FAR OFF TEXAS

Joseph Penrose, Jr., the New Market boy who, with Charles Boghe, was recently arrested on the charge of committing a number of robberies in that place and at Dunellen, which included several thefts of money from Clark T. Rogers, will probably escape punishment unless the Middlesex county authorities decide to take steps to have the boy extradited from Texas.

Penrose "skipped" the village about two weeks ago and during the past week his whereabouts was established by souvenir postal cards received by his friends, bearing the postmark of an interior town in the Lone Star State. Penrose, after making a confession before Justice Smith in South Plainfield, after being arrested, was taken to the New Brunswick jail, but was bailed out by his father, who also went surety for the Boghe boy.

Justice Rogers appeared before the grand jury at New Brunswick last week in the case. It was not generally known until then that young Penrose had jumped his bail. It is believed Boghe will be paroled.

DUNELLENITES CLAMOR NOW FOR NEW STATION

After reposing in a lethargic state for many moons Dunellen is awakening to the fact that it has a bright future ahead of it if the present progressive spirit among its citizens is continued. Since Mayor Sanford took his place in the mayorality chair, on January 1, the question of needed public improvements has been presented to the citizens. The newly organized Board of Trade is also proving a valuable ally to the borough government in its efforts to better the conditions in that municipality.

The latest projected public improvement which is under way is a proposed campaign for a new railroad station. The Board of Trade will take hold of the matter officially soon and present the matter to the officials of the Jersey Central for consideration. The Board of Trade will be ably backed by several real estate development companies that are now operating in the borough.

The present station is inadequate for the needs of the borough, and as a member of the Council stated last night to a Daily Press representative, "It is a blackeye to the town and should be replaced by a modern depot." He also declared that it is a detriment to the town and operates against prospective homeseekers locating in the borough.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL'S ATHLETIC GIRLS ARE WINNING HONORS AS BASKETBALL PLAYERS

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The Plainfield High School girls' basketball team is making a fine showing this season despite the fact that its schedule of games is small. They have been conceded the laurels for the beauty prize among the fair sex's fives, but seek those for the athletic girl. Their most recent victory was achieved on Friday night when they triumphed over the boasted team of the Morristown High School by a score of twenty-five to one. Now they are looking for fresh laurels and welcome games with girls' teams wherever they are to be found in this section of the State.

The Plainfield girls started the season by vanquishing the Westfield High School five. Although the odds were placed against them, the local team won by a score of twelve to four. After defeating a number of minor aggregations they met the strong five of the South Orange High School and returned with a victory, the score being seventeen to nine in favor of Principal Best's fair co-eds. A few weeks later, however, South Orange got revenge by winning a return game by a score of twenty-five to twenty-two. The fast team of the North Plainfield high school was defeated by a single point. In addition to these there have been a number of practise games in which Plainfield has found no difficulty in rolling up big scores against their opponents.

THREE YOUNG TRUANTS BEFORE JUDGE RUNYON

Truancy cases occupied the time of the city court this morning and Judge Runyon had to impose a fine on one woman who has been persistently negligent about sending her two daughters to school. Mrs. Melinda Brown, of Plainfield avenue, who works out days has been an old offender in regard to the observance of the law. She has two daughters, Violet and Victoria, both of whom have not only stayed away from their classes, but have been reprimanded time and again for insolence and other misdemeanors while in school. A fine of $5 was imposed in this case.

Master Frank Ross, recently of Scotch Plains, and who has only been a resident of this city for two weeks, has played hookey most of the time since he has been here. Through an elder brother word has been sent to the boy's father and correctional measures will be taken.

DUTCH MARKET FOLK ATTENDED DUTCH PARTY.

Miss Etta Raybert, of East Second street, entertained a company of twenty-five people at her home last night at what was called a "Dutch Party." The guests included those who have ben engaged in making tulips for the "Dutch Market" to be given at Trinity Reformed church on the evenings of March 31 and April 1. The women appeared in Dutch costume and presented an attractive sight, made more so by the Dutch decorations which were unique, and included everything that might convey the "Dutch" idea.

The evening was devoted to playing all kinds of games, and during an intermission Dutch refreshments were served by Miss Raybert and several young women who assisted. The women were privileged to invite their men friends and husbands and they enjoyed the affair greatly.

The "Dutch Market" will be given at Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Young Women's Mision Band of the church and promises to be a great success

Art Studio Opened.

Mrs. Franklin Newman, of 515 Grant avenue, opens her studio for class and private instruction on Saturday, March 19, preparatory to her class for summer outdoor work around Plainfield and other localities. ***

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. HANNAH M. SNYDER.

The funeral service of Mrs. Hannah M. Snyder was held at the late residence on West Front street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The obsequies were largely attended by relatives and friends including many from out-of-town. There were many beautiful floral tributes, comprising cut flowers and set pieces.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were chosen from among the nephews and grandchildren of Mrs. Snyder.

Miss Curry in Jerusalem.

Friends of Miss Sara Curry, of The Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 St. Marks place, New York, will be interested to know that she has arrived safely at Jerusalem and is enjoying a visit to places that have become interesting to her since childhood. Her health is much improved. Miss Curry left on the White Star Liner Arabic, January 20, for the Mediterranean and Orient and will return April 2.

COMMENCEMENT ORATOR A NOTED JOURNALIST

Talcott Williams, editor of the Philadelphia Press, famed as a speaker, as a journalist and as a man of letters, has informed the Board of Education in response to its request that he will make the address at the graduating exercises to be held at the First Baptist church in June. The announcement was made today by Dr. Henry M. Maxson superintendent of schools, and the board has been congratulated in securing such an able speaker for the occasion. Mr. Williams has a country-wide reputation in the newspaper field and is an entertaining and interesting talker.

The '10 class of P. H. S. will likely number more than fifty, the majority being young women. There are not more than a dozen young men in the class. As yet no selection has been made as to the valedictorian or salutatorian, but the announcement is expected within a short time.

Former Governor George H. Utter, of Rhode Island, a native of this city made the address last year and his remarks were much enjoyed.

W. C. T. U. LECTURER TO MAKE ADDRESS HERE.

Thursday evening Mrs. Ramsey Blair will have charge of the meeting of the W. C. T. U. at their rooms on Madison avenue. On Tuesday, March 22, Mrs. Cora Seaberry, National lecturer of the W. C. T. U., will speak in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, having for her subject "The Greatest Thing in the World."

Mrs. Seaberry is an accomplished elocutionist as well as a public speaker and is sure to interest her audience. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Newark to Have a Horse Show.

The New Jersey Horse Show Association, which has been organized for the purpose of holding an annual show at the Essex Troop's armory, Newark, has sent out announcements of the event. The first annual exhibition will be held May 12, 13 and 14, for which a large number of entries are expected from all parts of the State as well as New York. Former Governor Franklin Murphy is the president of the association. No doubt Plainfield will be represented at the show.

Mayor Fisk at Trenton.

Owing to the absence of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who is in Trenton today, the presentation of the trophies won by the different schools in the recent self-denial week contributions had to be postponed. It is expected that the Mayor will be able to present the cups and the banner tomorrow.

CASE MADE ELIGIBLE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Among the bills signed by Governor Fort yesterday was the one introduced by Assemblyman W. W. Smalley House No. 285, repealing the law passed in 1885 requiring that the judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Somerset county must be a counsellor-at-law for at least five years. The repealed law was a special act passed in the administration of Governor Abbett, and was brought to the attention of the public recently when Governor Fort appointed Clarence E. Case as a successor to Judge Schenck on the bench of the Somerset County Court.

As Mr. Case has only been a counsellor-at-law for three years, it was first thought that the 1885 law would prevent his accepting the office. The attorney-general, however, ruled that the law was not sufficient to prevent his confirmation by the Senate, and it was the conclusion of Governor Fort and others that the act was unconstitutional in the fact that it applied only to Somerset county. Mr. Smalley then introduced the repealer and it went through both Houses by unanimous vote.

CONDUCTOR MOBBED; NEAR RIOT ON A CAR

A near riot occurred this morning on a main line trolley car at Lincoln when the conductor who had had great difficulty in collecting his fares was threatened by a gang of Italians and narrowly missed being hit on the head with a bottle wielded by one of the trouble makers.

The fighting took place on the trolley car which leaves Bound Brook at 6:15 every morning There were ninety-seven passengers on board when the conductor attempted to collect the fares of two men who had boarded the car just west of the Lincoln station. These men demurred and in less than a minute the car was in an uproar. Loud cursing, pushing and threats were passed and the conductor was finally pushed up against one of the seats while one of the Italians attempted to hit him on the head with an uplifted bottle

The approach of the car to the Lincoln station frightened the incensed men as a crowd of other passengers were there waiting to board the car and they were for the most part workmen on their way to this city for the day. The Italians seeing them jumped hastily from the car and went back in the direction of Bound Brook stopping frequently to hurl anathemas at the plucky conductor. The car got into Plainfield ten minutes behind schedule time. More trouble is looked for tomorrow morning.

FOOTPADS ACTIVE AGAIN

Thomas B. Lawyer is Held Up on Rahway Road Near Oak Tree.

LOSES MONEY AND WATCH.

Two White Men and a Negro Overpower Farmer and Make Clean Getaway—Victim Hit on the Head.

Another hold up and one which cost Thomas B. Lawyer, who lives on the road from Oak Tree to Perth Amboy, thirty-five dollars in money and the only silver watch he ever owned, occurred last night at about 10 o'clock at the Lehigh Valley R. R. bridge at Oak Tree. Lawyer suffered two wounds on the head and is otherwise hurt.

While on the way home after delivering a ton of hay to a customer in Scotch Plains, Lawyer met a man on the road who asked for a ride. He was allowed to climb up on the wagon and interested Mr. Lawyer with stories of his long tramp from Jersey City to Oak Tree When the wagon had arrived at the bridge the stranger who was tall and athletic suddenly threw his arms around Lawyer pulling him back on the wagon at the same time shouting loudly "whoa, whoa." This was apparently a signal for in an instant two other men sprang from beside the bridge one going to the heads of the horses while the other, who was a colored man, rifled Lawyer's pockets.

After securing their booty the colored man struck the victim two or three times over the head rendering his unconscious. The trio then made off. Lawyer came to within a mile of his home, but was so dazed that he was unable to give a coherent account of all that had happened to him since leaving Plainfield.

Lawyer was able to give only a meagre description of his assailants remembering only that the man who rode on the wagon with him had on a slouch hat and was probably six feet tall. The colored man was small of stature and compactly built. The other white man got away without being seen. It was dark when the assault was made and it was so sudden that Mr. Lawyer was practically helpless. No clue has been found of the highway men and it is believed they jumped a Lehigh Valley freight and got away down the road.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

The funeral service of Franklin Dorthy was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The obsequies were attended by a large number of relatives and friends, including many former associates of the young man. There was an unusually large number of floral tributes.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, officiated, and spoke words of eulogy concerning the life of Mr. Dorthy. During the service Miss Grace Carroll, contralto soloist of the church, sang two selections.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Chas. Sebring Charles H. Russell, Peter C. Sweeny, Harry Sanderson, Joseph Dunham, of this city, and V. D. Johns, of Hackensack.

Favors Judicial Appointment.

House bill 285, offered by Assemblyman Smalley, yesterday, repealed Chapter 184 of the laws of 1885 relating to judicial proceedings in Somerset county, and removes the obstacles preventing Clarence E. Case from becoming a judge in the county on account of not having been a counselor-at-law for the prescribed period.

Antique Momento.

William A. Schorb has purchased an antique ornament which he highly prizes. It is a hand carved wooden basket which was presented to former President General U. S. Grant, by Switzerland admirers while the latter was on his tour around the world in 1877.

CAUSE OF ECZEMA EXPLAINED.

After years of debate medical authorities are now agreed that Eczema and other skin diseases are not seated in the blood, but are caused by myraids of microscopic animals gnawing the flesh just below the epidermis. The patient is perfectly healthy, it is only the skin that is diseased.

Hence, scientists are now agreed that you must cure the skin through the skin. The medicine must be in liquid form in order to penetrate properly. And we can say with confidence that we have the true remedy for Eczema in our store.

The instant you wash with this soothing liquid you will find the itch relieved. We positively assure you of this. Will you try a bottle (at only 25c), on our recommendation? Ask for D. D. D. Prescription.

Spring Opening

The Magic Wand of Spring

Has Transformed Our Millinery Department Into a Medley of Color and Beauty

You are cordially invited to attend the formal showing of original creations in smart styles designed for Spring Wearing on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

March the 15th, 16th and 17th

We have endeavored to gather from Fashion Centres, as well as originate in our own workrooms, the best millinery styles designed for this season; and, while it has been a difficult task to excel our past efforts—we believe we can consistently state that our Spring stocks are the best we have ever had the good fortune to offer you.

Here you find a picturesque model bedecked with a mass of bright hued flowers, there a handsome design of feathers and maline, there an exquisite creation of maline and flowers,—it is an interest-compelling, desire-creating exhibit of stylish headgear.

Now—a word about prices—it is NOT our policy to charge for style—if we did—our hats would cost a great deal more than the prices at which they are marked. This is well worth remembering.

We again bid you welcome to the store, its stocks, its attractions and its economies. COME.

SPORTS

News and Notes

By George E. Firstbrook

GAME OF BASEBALL A LESSON IN THEOLOGY

In a recent issue of the Jersey City Evening Journal, the Rev. William E. Barton, a noted divine, comments as follows on the national sport:

You go with a friend to the ball game, and the game is close. Toward the end of the game the score is nearly even. You expect at least that the man at the bat will make a base hit. All he does is to make a feeble attempt to get to first. Shortstop snaps the ball to first, and the man is out.

"What a shame!" you say.

But you notice that the other fans do not share your view. Your friend who understands the game better than you do say, "Didn't you notice that was a sacrifice hit and that the man on third got home?"

That is like theology. It is a part of the great lesson which God is teaching us in many ways, a part of the lesson of the cross.

Jesus made a sacrifice hit like that.

And I think there is no name that could well have been chosen to describe that kind of a thing in sport or in theology so good as the fine old name "sacrifice." It is one of the many evidences that the essential spirit of the gospel is making its way into the varied life of the world.

LOCAL ATHLETES ENTER HARLEM Y. M. C. A. MEET.

The local Y. M. C. A. will be represented by its string of star athletes at the meet of the Harlem Y. M. C. A. in New York on Saturday night. Physical Director Listman is now engaged in getting his team together and putting the members through the final practise stunts. Mr. Listman is sure that Plainfield will be well represented in the competition.

Among the local boys who will compete are John Payne, the ex-cop, and C. Vail, in the shot putting contest; F. Newell in the standing and broad jumps; John Fritts in the 60-yard dash and one mile run; George Linke in the 60 yard dash; Russell Miller in the 75-yard dasn and 220-yard run.

The final game on the Y. M. C. A. basketball schedule will be played on Saturday night when the crack Harlem Y. M. C. A. quintet will face the local five. Manager Listman is considering the advisability of arranging two or three more contests.

The Y. M. C. A. five has made a glorious record this season. In competition with some of the fastest teams in the east the record stands 18 victories and 5 defeats.

Basketball contests in the Sunday School Athletic League are carded for Friday night.

The Y. M. C. A. class gymnastics are down for Thursday night.

Swimming will be the king of sports all the week at the Y. M. C. A. when Professor George H. Corsan will be in charge of classes every afternoon and night.

With the end of the basketball season Physical Director Listman will get active in baseball. In two weeks a call will be issued for candidates for the Y. M. C. A. nine.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., March 15, 1910.

THE FORUM.

Replies to Mr. Woolston.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In reading the letter of Mr. L. B. Woolston under "The Forum" of The Daily Press, asking Mr. Mygatt when he attends the Board of Trade to answer some half dozen questions regarding the water proposition, it struck me that while the questions are things we all want to know and must know before we make any contracts, and are good questions to be discussed, at any time, and trust Mr. Mygatt will answer them as best he can at the next meeting of the Board of Trade. Of course his answers will have a question of doubt, until he and the rest of the Council have the power to investigate and make actual reports.

Therefore I think the questions are a little premature, but still all right as they bring us directly to the question at issue in the coming special eltecion of April 19, shall we vote to give the Council power to investigate, to conduct condemnation proceedings, etc., under the law of and Act approved April 21, 1876. As I am informed the giving to the Council this power does not in any way compel them to do anything, but gives them the right to conduct condemnation proceedings with the view of ascertaining values of present plant as a whole or any portion of it, with no compulsion on their part to take it. The power also gives them the right of investigating into the earnings, expense of operation, etc., of the water company, which the are not able now to do.

Then after such investigation, coupled with estimates for a new system, the Council will be in a position to consider and act intelligently and can call special public meetings to discuss with the people and to explain to them with facts and figures the exact situation. Then upon this information and from the expression of the people at these meetings, the Council can draw their deductions, whether in their best judgment it is best to own or renew the water company contract. Now the only question for us to settle is do we want the city's hands still tied so they can do only the one thing, make a contract with the water company at their figures, or to be put in a position to be able to dictate terms, build or buy.

In whom have you the most confidence, the water company, or your own Council and Mayor elected by you to represent you. This is the question you must settle on the 19 of April.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

DUNELLEN COUNCIL KIND TO 'PHONE CO.

The Dunellen Council expected to take up the trolley siding matter with representatives of the Public Service Corporation at an adjourned meeting last night but the trolley people failed to put in an appearance despite the fact that the meeting was adjourned as a matter of convenience for the company. Mayor Sanford, however, explained that their absence was due owing to the threatened trolley strike in Newark and the matter was laid over until the regular April meeting.

H. S. Van Fleet, a representative of the New York Telephone Co., was present at the session and made application to place a number of telephone attachments on poles belonging to the P. S. C. in various sections of the borough. The application was granted.

Mr. Hall, of the Hall Printing Press works, was present at the meeting and told the Council of the deplorable condition of North avenue in the vicinity of the factory. Mr. Hall declared that the company is willing to bear one-third of the expense if the borough will macadamize the thoroughfare. Councilman Churchill informed the Council that the cost would be about $1,200. A petition from Mrs. Elizabeth Mesherod was also received complaining of the condition of the thoroughfare. Walter G. Runyon also presented a similar petition.

Councilman Richards reported that a building ordinance is under consideration and that the matter will be reported on at the next meeting. Tax Collector Isaac Stites presented a list of delinquent and uncollectable taxes.

PHILADELPHIA STRIKER TELLS OF LABOR'S FIGHT

John Hagan, John Farrell and James Murphy, three car strikers from Philadelphia, have been visiting friends in this city for a few days. Mr. Hagan was seen by a reporter for The Daily Press today as he was on his way to the railroad station to take a train for home. His companions will remain here a few days longer.

Mr. Hagan said that the Philadelphia Traction Company is operating today about 600 out of 1,800 cars, and he declared that he had figures to prove his statement was true. He said that of the 6,000 men who went out about four weeks ago, not a single deserter had been reported and he did not believe there was a single one.

Speaking of the conditions attendant upon the strike, Mr. Hagan said that he did not believe there would ever be a similar trouble in the history of Philadelphia; that too much pressure would be brought to bear to prevent another such disturbance in the industrial world.

Mr. Hagan had been in the employ of the Quaker City trolley company for thirteen years, but he said that he would rather starve to death than surrender to the officials. He said that everyone of the 6,000 men were fighting for a principle and would win, although odds appeared to be against them. He said that all the men had to assist them was public sympathy and that was proving a strong factor in the present trouble.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Gordon Coulter, of Camden, has bought a tract of land on Broadway, near the New York Shipbuilding plant, on which he will erect 100 dwellings this spring.

Miss Helen Delate, daughter of Thomas J. Delate, of Trenton, has resigned as a teacher in the William G. Cook Public School, and will enter the convent of the Sisters of Charity at Madison, to become a nun.

Surveyors, supposed to be Pennsylvania Railroad men, have been making an examination of the river front at Gloucester, where, it is said a spur will be run to the new immigration station. The Reading road, it is understood, will also run a line to the station.

Robert Fioll, of 817 South Second street, Camden, was held up by three men near Third street and Joint alley on his way home early Sunday morning. Two of the highwaymen were frightened off, and one was arrested. None of Fioll's valuable or money were taken.

Foiled in an attempt at suicide by men, who cut him down after he had hanged himself to a rafter of a deserted shack on the meadows, Severn Collins, sixty years old, of Atlantic City, fought his rescuers until he was arrested. The man is locked in a padded cell in the city jail, and is believed to be insane.

Postoffice employes in five cities in the Sixth Congressional District met in Paterson Saturday night to take the first steps in organizing a branch of the Civil Service Retirement Fund Association. The organization was not perfected, but this will be done at a meeting to be called by John Fitzpatrick, temporary chairman. The cities represented were Paterson, Passaic, Hackensack, Rutherford and Ridgewood.

NO-LICENSE AUTO BILL MEETS WITH OPPOSITION.

Trenton, March 15.—State Senator Harry D. Leavitt, of this city, and State Road Commissioner Frederick Gilkyson Saturday declared themselves as opposed to the Edge bill, Assembly 25, permitting non-resident automobilists duly licensed in their States, to operate their cars in this State for three periods of five days each in any one year without registration here or the payment of any fee.

It has been learned that there is little likelihood of the measure passing the Senate where it is now pending after having gone through the House.

In an interview Saturday Senator Leavitt expressed himself as opposed to the measure on several grounds.

"In the first place," he said, "such a law would make the State lose a lot of revenue that it now receives and which is applied to the maintenance of the roads. Put the Edge bill on the statute books and very few non-resident motorists will take out regular licenses. I am told that the loss to the State would approximate $100,000 annually."

Senator Leavitt then declared that if non-resident automobilists desire to use the New Jersey roads they should be willing to pay their full share of the cost of keeping them in repair. He based his opposition to the provision of the bill that no registration shall be required in this State. On this point he said:

"In my opinion that is a dangerous proposition. It would mean that any motorist could come into this State for five days provided his car is licensed in his State. Then suppose he should run down some person or be mixed up in some accident. This State would have no way whatever under its own jurisdiction to trace them to bring them to account for damage done, even though the accident might have caused loss of life.

"Under the present law, in case of accident summons may be served on the secretary of State and a non-resident automobilist compelled to come to this State for trial. Nothing should be done to interfere with that protection."

Mr. Gilkyson is opposed to the bill, mainly on the ground that it would let into this State hundreds of automobilists who would damage our roads by their fast driving and would not contribute a cent toward their repair. He declared that the main highway between Camden and Atlantic City was resurfaced and put in good repair a year or two ago at a cost of $25,000, and now it will require at least $10,000 to put it in good condition again. He claims that as this road is used largely by the automobilists from outside the State it would be a poor policy to exempt those motorists entirely from any share of the burden of maintaining the road.

Commissioner Gilkyson also cited the Cheesequake and Keyport road, the main highway from South Amboy to the shore resorts of North Jersey, which is used by hundreds of New York motorists. This road is constantly kept torn up by the rapidly moving cars, and the wear on it is such that repairs cannot be completed on a section before further work is needed.

Farm Values for Census.

Washington, March 15.—Inquiries have been made of the census bureau whether farm products should be valued by farmers, in replying to census enumerators, at the general wholesale prices or at the actual prices obtained by the producer. It was pointed out by the inquiries that many farmers sell a proportion of their eggs for breeding, at much higher than the regular price. Others sell part or all of their milk, butter and cream at retail. Quite a number sell pure-bred live stock of various kinds at more or less fancy prices. The bureau's correspondents are of the opinion that if sales are quoted in this way in the census reports the results might be somewhat uncertain as a basis for the average market prices.

Local Contracts Filed.

These contracts were recorded last week at the office of County Registrar F. H. Smith: John E. Curtis with Voehl & Waldron, plumbing work new building, Carlton avenue, $950; Frederick J. Harris, with Ambrose Smalley, entire work new building, West Seventh street, $5,071.89.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

One of the most notable productions of the current season is undoubtedly Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree," which Henry B. Harris will present at the Plainfield theatre Friday evening. Mr. Klein, it will be remembered, is the author of "The Lion and the Mouse," a play of such dramatic strength that it attracted the attention of every theatre-goer in America, by reason of its attack on the financial and political methods employed by those high in the councils of state and speculative commerce. In "The Third Degree" Mr. Klein has taken for the subject of his play certain abuses of power by the police, together with conditions that exist among the elect of the highest social circles in New York City. The story deals with a young man who by reason of his marriage to a girl of the people, is disowned by his father, a member of the old Knickerbocker set. Through the death, under peculiar circumstances, of a man, suspicion is laid upon the boy by the police, who, challenged for their inefficiency and groping wildly for a possible suspect, use every effort in their power to fasten the chains of guilt upon him. His own father refuses to come to his aid. The girl, by force of character, woman's ingenuity and fearless courage, fights single handed against the powers that have sworn to make her husband a victim of misplaced justice. So virile and at the same time striking are the methods employed by Mr. Klein in dealing with the situations, that the intensity of "The Third Degree" has seldom been equalled in the annals of the stage. The faithfulness and fidelity with which a woman cleaves unto her husband is so convincingly illustrated that this play must invite the attention and indorsement of all classes of theatre-goers.

EMOTION IN CLUB AS THE PRESIDENT RESIGNS.

Rahway, March 15.—Reticence of illimitable width and untold depth has nettled down upon all the members of the Home Reading Club. Every member declares there is nothing to be given to the public concerning the happenings at Friday afternoon's meeting. It is said that this is one point at least on which the women members of the club are in harmony. If rumor is to be believed, there were "doings" at the meeting in which the liveliest public interest would be felt if only the full details could be given. For, it is said, the organization is in the throes of a factional fight that threatens its complete disruption. Affairs reached a climax Friday, it is understood, when the president, Mrs. George C. Ainsworth, announced her resignation from office and her withdrawal from the club

Much commotion followed the announcement. Through it all the president retained cold composure. "When I go from this meeting," she is reported as saying, "my resignation stays here."

One of the members, it is said, dropped on her knees and pleaded with the president not to resign. There was a ceritable babel for several minutes and there were cries of "no, no," and "we will not accept it."

"Ladies," said Mrs. Ainsworth, "I made you no pledges at my election, consequently I am breaking none now. There have been things said here that I cannot stand. I am not new to this club. Many have known me from childhood up. I have been the 'baby' of the club and you all know me. My withdrawal is positive and will not be reconsidered."

Just what caused the trouble is not known save to the members of the club. It is reported that certain statements were made by some of the members and that Mrs. Ainsworth took expection to them. It is understood that she considered it impossible to retain the presidency without making an unwarrantable sacrifice of her personal feelings.

D. R. PLANNING FOR ANNUAL SESSION AT ATLANTIC CITY.

The board of managers of the New Jersey State Society Daughters of the Revolution, is making arrangements for the annual convention of the General Society, which is to be held at Atlantic City during the week of May 8. An attractive program has been arranged for the convention, including as social features a banquet, an excursion to Valley Forge and a trip in motor launches in Egg Harbor. The hospitality committee comprises members of the seven chapters in the State.

The annual meeting of the State Society will be held Tuesday, April 5, at the residence of Mrs. Ward in Raymond avenue, South Orange, when an election for officers and four members of the board of managers will be held. Mrs. A. M. Burtis, of Orange, is chairman of the nominating committee. Continental Chapter, of this city, and Middlebrook Chapter, of Bound Brook, will be well represented at this meeting as well as at the meeting of the General Society.

Trade Board to Dine.

The Westfield Board of Trade will hold its March meeting Thursday evening, at which arrangements will be made for the annual banquet in April.

The Island of Regeneration

"I have little doubt of it," replied the chaplain, continuing. "The first John Revell Charnock was lost at sea. He and his wife and young child some 30 years ago set forth on a voyage around the world for her health. The ship, in which I believe he had some ownership, was called the Nansemond. Its course was traced as far as Valparaiso, thence it sailed for the Philippines and was never heard of again. I know the story," said the chaplain, turning toward the captain, "because John Revell Charnock was one of my best friends, as is his brother, Philip Norton Charnock, who now holds the estate."

"Is the present Charnock married?"

"No," returned the chaplain, "he is an old bachelor."

"That will make it easier for our friend here," said Mr. Whittaker, "provided the evidence is thought convincing."

"The best evidence that he could present," returned the chaplain, "is in his face. He is the living image of his father as I knew him, and he has family characteristics which I think would enable almost anyone to identify him without question."

"Sir," said the islander, addressing the chaplain, "did you know my mother?"

"That I did," returned the old man. "Her name was Mary Page Thornton, and she was one of the sweetest girls in Virginia."

"And will you tell me about her, and about my father and my people?"

"With the greatest pleasure," said the chaplain, kindly. "Meanwhile Capt. Ashby and these gentlemen will wish to hear your story."

"Take him to your cabin," said the captain promptly, "and tell him the things he wants to know. We can wait."

"No," returned the islander; "I can wait. I have waited all these years and a few hours more or less will make little difference. You have a right to know my story, and here it is."

Rapidly, concisely, with a fine dramatic touch, he told the story as he knew it of his life on the island. He was so entirely unconventional that he interwove the bare details of the strange relation which he gave them with personal touches. He made no secret of his love and worship for the girl, of the belief in her which he had cherished, of the reverence in which he had held her. He exhibited that strange commixture of feeling with which he regarded her as a human woman and as a demi-goddess. He showed that he was at once her master and her creature, yet through it all there ran such a thread of bitterness, of grief, of resentment, of shame, that his auditors, at first unpossessed of the key to his feelings, listened to him with amazement and could scarcely realize or comprehend. He told the story of the two lives up to the sighting of the ship upon the island, and then, his heart failing him, he turned to Whittaker and bade him take up the relation.

It was a delicate matter of which to speak, but the simplicity with which the first part of the tale had been presented gave the officer his cue. He was a man of retentive memory, of quick apprehensive power, and with a nice sense of discrimination, a rare man, indeed. And he told the rest of the tale with a subtle sympathy for the situation and the actors that enabled him so to present it to the interested little group of officers that he almost made them see it as it transpired.

"And what," asked the captain, when the final word had been said, "do you propose to do now, Mr. Charnock?"

It was the first time that he had been so addressed and the man started. He had heard Mr. Whittaker's words as one in a dream. He had been going over that dreadful scene on the sands. His heart was lacerated and torn again. He was blind to everything but the past. He saw her face dimly in the present. He could see nothing of happiness in the future.

"I don't know," he answered.

"But surely this has not made any difference in your feelings?"

"I can't tell. The difference is in her, not in me."

"She made a frightful mistake," said the captain, impressively, "but she has nobly atoned, and—"

"She's not what I thought she was," said the man, "and if I love her, I love her now not because, but in spite, of what she is, and there is a difference."

"Miss Brenton," interposed Whittaker at this juncture, "has settled the matter herself. She says that she will have no man's pity; no man's contempt, that no man shall marry her on suffrance, and that—"

"Right," said the surgeon, who was a man of very few words and generally good ones.

"My young friend," broke in the chaplain, "if I might advise—"

"But this," returned the islander, with fierceness, "is not a matter for advice. I don't know the world or its customs. I must appear strange to you men. But I take it that a man's choice of a wife, a man's settlement of his future is not a thing that he brooks counsel over. At any rate, I want none of it."

"Come with me," said the chaplain; "we will talk it over. I have lived in the world," he went on, gently. "Perhaps I can help you. Have we your permission to withdraw, Capt. Ashby?"

"Certainly," said the captain.

"Pardon me a moment, chaplain," interposed Whittaker; "but the young lady has asked that some of us go ashore to take her deposition as to the matters that have been alleged concerning our friend here. Capt. Ashby, will you?"

"Certainly, Mr. Whittaker, I will go. And if you will accompany me, doctor, and you, chaplain, I shall be glad. Mr. Whittaker, you are a notary public and can administer the necessary oaths."

"Very good, sir," returned Mr. Whittaker. The other gentlemen bowed their acquiescence. "The lady said she would like to be undisturbed until evening."

"At two bells in the second dog watch then have the cutter called away," returned the captain.

"Beg pardon, captain," said the surgeon, "but do you or any of you know this lady to be Miss Brenton?"

Strikers Busy With Organ.

Elizabeth, March 15.—A large body of strikers from Philadelphia were in this city Saturday most of them wearing uniforms. As a rough estimate there were about 200. They were walking around the streets. They had an organ enshrouded with an American flag, playing patriotic tunes, and drawn about the streets by five men. Collections were taken up all along the line and contributions were freely given. A number of the strangers are boarding in various parts of the city and evidently mean to stop here for several days.

WATCHUNG BOWLERS MARK UP NEW LOCAL RECORD

Watchung bowlers, of this city, did themselves proud at Elizabeth last night when they won the odd game from the county seaters in a New Jersey National tourney contest and incidentally smashed all hign team scores in the tourney by registering a 1,111 score in the second game.

In the red letter stunt Johnny Campbell was high man with a total of 265 pins. Johhny was also "ace high" in the other games with marks of 218 and 203, boosting his average of 228.2 for the series. In this notable conflict Chauncy Stout toppled the pins over for a 222 mark, Schaub for 221 and Mathews 208. Nash flirted with the double century mark also with a score of 195. In this battle the locals vanquished their opponents under a majority of 178 pins; in the first combat the Watchungs won out by a score of 960 to 902.

Plainfield's high rolling in the recording smashing battle evidently spurred the Elizabeth aggregation on to bigger things, as the Tuxedos ran up a 1,022 score to Plainfield's 949 in the final contest, thereby preventing a clean sweep.

The 1,111 tally made by the Watchungs is the highest score ever registered by a local team and stands second to the 1,137 mark made by Elizabeth in the Interstate League. The scores:

SWIMMING LESSONS AT Y.M.C.A. ARE POPULAR

Plainfield boys, who cannot swim, are in high glee over the opportunity presented to them to learn the aquatic art, by the local Y. M. C. A., in the free classes of instruction which were inaugurated yesterday afternoon under the supervision of Professor George H. Corsan.

A squad of 113 youths reported yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a dip in the Association's pool and 130 more are expected today. During the week close to 400 non-swimmers, of twelve years and older, will be instructed. This number, according to Secretary L. C. Parker, represents about 80 per cent. of the schoolboys, twelve years and older, in this city who cannot swim.

The classes yesterday started at 2:30 o'clock and were continued for three hours, at intervals of every half hour. From 5 o'clock on Professor Corsan devoted his attention to instructing and giving pointers to members of the association and during the evening the interest was so intense that the association rooms were packed to the limit.

Men who cannot swim will also be given an opportunity tonight at 8 o'clock. Already a score or more of adults have made application to join the classes.

The feature of the evening session was an exhibition conducted by Professor Corsan, in which he, Lewis P. Hansen, Plainfield crack amateur swimmer, and "Big Jim" Hurtt, of West Front street, the Asbury Park life saver, displayed their prowess.

Three lessons will be given to members of the boy's classes on every afternoon in the week, Saturday included. By that time Professor Corsan expects to have a brigade of classy swimmers as the result of his labors.

Professor Corsan in his instruction teaches his pupils the Australian crawl system. This system involves shoulder work which is essential to all expert swimmers.

The boys will have tryouts on Friday and Saturday afternoons and all learners who are able to swim the length of the pool will be presented with silver buttons. The Monday, Wednesday and Friday classes will have their tryouts on Friday afternoon, while the Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday classes will strive for their medals on Saturday afternoon.

Professor Corsan expressed himself as highly gratified over the interests and showing displayed by the local youths to a Daily Press representative this morning and declared that he has never came in contact with a cleaner set of chaps than those he met yesterday afternoon.

PARK BOWLERS TIED FOR LEAGUE LAURELS

Park Club bowlers completed their schedule in the Central New Jersey League last night by winning two games out of three from Elizabeth, thereby tieing Jersey City for first place. Had the local pinners captured the three games they would have won the championship. It is probable that a special series will be rolled to determine the title.

Mulford, of the Parks, distinguished himself during the season by his splendid rolling, and tops the individual list with an average of 182, while Long ranks third with 179.5. The record of the Parks and Jersey Citys are 24 games won and 12 defeats.

In the first game of the series the Parks lost by a scanty margin of two pins despite the 237 mark registered by Long, the score being 906 to 904; the second contest was also a hard battle which the locals won with three pins to spare, 873 to 870; in the final game the Parks rolled in superb form and snowed the Elizabethians under, 992 to 890. In this game Lyman shone brilliantly with a score of 244 and Ball registered a 202 mark. The scores:

MAYOR PRESENTS TROPHIES; ENTERTAINED AT ST. MARY'S

Many of the school children who were disappointed yesterday because Mayor Charles J. Fisk did not present the cups that the various classes had won in the recent self-denial week contest, but they were all relieved today when the Mayor, accompanied by a committee from the police department, went around the city distributing the trophies this morning.

At St. Mary's school special exercises marked the presentation of the banner and cup. As the Mayor, Chief Kiely and Patrolman Daniel McDonald entered the pupils arose and sang "Columbia," which was followed by a speech by one of the boy pupils. Mayor Fisk, Father B. M. Bogan and Chief Kiely all made short addresses, all of which were punctuated by songs by the children. After the entertaining program was over Mayor Fisk shook hands with the pupils and the Sisters of the convent. Fathers Hogan and Sciola were interested witnesses of the exercises.

At the other schools the principals were sought and the class entitled to the cup were given a short address by the Mayor. In every instance the Mayor was received with manifestations of pleasure and the winning pupils showed their pride in their achievements. The patrolmen came in for a large share of congratulation for their efforts to help the hospital.

TO EQUIP PLAYGROUNDS AT TWO LOCAL SCHOOLS

Joseph W. Gavett, representing the Playground Commission, met with the Councilmanic finance committee, last night, when the latter agreed to recommend to the Common Council that an appropriation of $1,000 be made to equip playgrounds at the Franklin and Bryant Schools. Of this amount the salary of an instructor will be made for the year.

Mr. Gavett explained to the councilmen the benefits that would be derived from having such playgrounds here and engaging an instructor who could direct the activities of the children. In the equipment it is proposed to purchase sand boxes, swing boards and other apparatus usually provided for such recreation places. If the plan is a success other school yards may be similarly equipped next year.

The appropriation will be asked for at the next meeting of the Common Council.

"SOCIAL UNION" FOR LOCAL METHODISTS

E. churches, and will be distinctly for the purpose of promoting sociability among the members of all three churches and a stronger fellowship.

At the meeting tomorrow night officers comprising a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer will be elected, and in addition an executive committee, comprising three representatives form each church.

After the organization is effected and the constitution is passed upon, plans of work will be discussed. One of the objects of the union will be to bring about more united effort in missionary work among the Methodists of the city and borough.

STATE CHARITIES FUND FOR ITS CENTRAL OFFICE

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, treasurer of the State Charities Aid Auxiliary Association, reported today that he had received about $1,900 toward a fund of $10,000 with which it is proposed to establish a central office for the co-operation of all State charities as outlined at a recent meeting held in Newark.

Former Governor Franklin Murphy, of Newark, is president of the association, and as soon as the $10,000 fund is raised steps will be taken immediately to open the central office. The plan, it is hoped, will eliminate much of the duplication of charity in the State as it will bring all the chairties under one head.

It is proposed also to keep on file in the office all necessary data concerning State charities for the information and benefit of all societies.

DAMAGE SUIT COMES NEXT

Harry Dreier's Action in Ejecting Mrs. M. Totten Decreed Unlawful.

WOMAN CLAIMED DAMAGES.

Supreme Court Decision Handed Down Monday—Mrs. Totten Now Dead—Daughter Will Sue.

An interesting sequel to the purchase of property at a sale by the city for unpaid taxes has had its penultimate decision at the hands of two justices of the Supreme Court, and the original suit for damages instituted by Mrs. Margaret Totten against Harry Dreier will be continued by her daughter with a possibility of success.

The suit began last year when in August Mrs. Totten began proceedings against Dreier for damages in the sum of $5,000 for ejectment and assault. Dreier bought the property of Frank M. Bacon, at the corner of New and Fifth streets. This is a double house and Mrs. Totten occupied one half of the house on an unexpired lease. When the new owner took charge of the property he refused admittance to Mrs. Totten even to allow her to remove her personal property. Her furniture was removed and stored and she was forcibly kept away from the premises.

During the trial of the original suit for the property Bacon was killed on the railroad, but this did not prevent Dreier from ejecting the Bacon family from the house After this there quickly followed the displacement of Mrs. Totten and the confiscation of her goods and chattels, which Dreier claimed he had a right to do as owner of the property and in spite of the lease held by Mrs. Totten.

The Supreme Court on Monday decided that the demurrer taken by Winfield S. Angleman, counsel for Mrs. Totten, was right and thus brings to the attention of owners of property that where a lease is held it is good until the expiration of its time limit.

Since the Supreme Court has had the case under advisement Mrs. Totten has died, but the suit for damages will be pressed by her daughter, Mrs. Terry, of North Plainfield.

ESTABLISHES PREGEDENT

Ruling of Vice-Chancellor Walker at Rahway New Interpretation of Law.

ALIMONY NOT ALLOWED HERE.

Woman Who Sued Husband While He Was Under Bonds Loses Case in Chancery Court.

A decision has just been handed down by Vice Chancellor Walker at Trenton which makes a precedent for the State of New Jersey and is one in which all overseers of the poor and women who seek alimony from recalcitrant husbands will be interested.

Lillian Roarke, of Ranway, who has not lived with her husband for the past two years, engaged counsel in a suit for maintenance for herself and child. Her lawyer, Charles T. Cowenhoven, at the same time asked that the Chancellor allow her temporary alimony and counsel fees. But Chancellor Walker not having any precedent to go on took the case under advisement, for this reason: Mrs. Roarke had in 1908 applied to Justice Alfred B. Cook, of Rahway, for support of herself and child, which was referred to the overseer of the poor. The latter had the husband, Alfred Roarke, put under bonds to pay his wife five dollars per week.

Mrs. Roarke accepted this settlement and on the expiration of one year the bond was renewed for the same weekly amount, and the date of the expiration of the bond is June 30, 1910. Mrs. Roarke engaged Judge Cowenhoven to bring suit for alimony and counsel fees while the bond of the husband was still in effect and Vice Chancellor Walker decides that Mrs. Roarke is precluded from receiving anything on her application while the orders of the police court justice are in force.

Winfield S. Angleman and his brother, H. A. Angleman, of Rahway, appeared for Mr. Roarke.

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell several parcels of real estate on Saturday. See adv. on page eight. 3 16 3

MRS. R. H. DEPEW IS DEAD

Wife of Prominent Man Passes Away After Four Months' Illness.

THE FUNERAL ON FRIDAY.

Active for Years in Local County Work—Leaves Husband, Three Brothers and Two Sons.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Drayton Depew, wife of Richard Henry Depew, died at her home, 1019 Hillside avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning very unexpectedly. She had been ill about four months, and while her condition was such as to cause anxiety, her death was sudden. Her husband is a New York insurance broker and is president of the Plainfield Protective Association.

Mrs. Depew was born in Jersey City and she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drayton, of that place. She removed to this city prior to her marriage and had liver here ever since. She was married to Mr. Depew in Grace church. She was very active in all departments of work in Grace church, and was also prominent in the Organized Aid Association, the City Union of The King's Daughters and other city charities. She possessed rare womanly qualities for which she was admired and beloved by a large circle of friends and acquaintances and her death is a great shock to them.

Beside a husband, there are two sons surviving, Richard Henry Depew, Jr., and John Drayton Depew; also three brothers, William H. Drayton and John Gilmore Drayton, of Middletown, Conn., and J. Wiswell Drayton, of this city.

The funeral service will be held at the late home Friday afternoon, the hour to be announced later, and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will officiate.

GREETS GRANDFATHER AFTER SEVENTEEN YEARS

Mrs. William J. Beer and son, William J. Beer, Jr., of Mansfield, Ohio, arrived in town yesterday to visit the former's grandfather, Henry Hess, of Somerset street. Mrs. Beer had not seen her grandfather in seventeen years and there was an effectionate greeting when the meeting took place.

Several months ago, as told exclusively in the Daily Press, Mrs. Beer's husband made efforts to locate Mr. Hess by writing a letter to Mayor Charles J. Fisk. It was the belief of Mr. Hess's relatives in Mansfield that the latter had died and left a big estate, but when a Daily Press reporter investigated the story, discovery was made that Mr. Hess was still living and enjoying the best of health. He is sexton of the Grace M. E. church and is also employed as a landscape gardener by a number of local families during the summer season.

Mrs. Beer and son are stopping at the Somerset hotel and will remain here for two weeks. Mr. Beer is a prosperous contractor in Mansfield and the son is a printer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton to Move.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, of East Sixth street, have purchased a farm at Flemington and will remove there April 1. Mr. Dayton will still continue to commute to business in New York for the present. Both are active workers in the Park Avenue Baptist church, Mr. Dayton being a deacon and Mrs. Dayton being a member of the various societies. They will be greatly missed in church work and by their many friends here.

HUGH A. TODD IS SUED ON STATUTORY GROUNDS

Suit has been entered before Vice Chancellor Howell at Trenton according to advices received from there this afternoon, by Mrs. Sarah Todd against her husband, Hugh A. Todd, general manager and a member of the firm of the Boice-Runyon Company, for absolute divorce on statutory grounds. Pending the trial of the case Vice Chancellor Howell has allowed Mrs. Todd thirty-one dollars per week for the maintenance of herself and her two boys and a sum for counsel fees.

The wife's complaint states that Mr. and Mrs. Todd were married by Rev. J. K. Folwell, pastor of the Westfield Baptist church, on September 28, 1886, and that they lived together in perfect harmony until there appeared on the scene a certain stenographer who, she alleges, has alienated her husband's affections. This began, it is alleged, in 1907 and since then there has been cause for complaint on the part of the wife. The couple have been separated for some time. Todd makes his abode in the Boice-Runyon building.

Mrs. Todd also states that she and her husband came to this city in 1901 and that they have lived here ever since.

HE PLEADS FOR ECONOMY

S. St. John McCutchen Gives Good Advice at Borough School Meeting.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN BUILDINGS.

Rev. George A. Warner, Allen B. Laing Are Elected and Dr. Cooley and Robt. Clark, Jr., Re-elected.

Samuel St. John McCutchen, a member of the State Board of Education, made a plea for economy in the expenditure of school moneys at the annual school meeting in the Somerset street school last night. He declared it was a crime for municipalities to expend extravagant sums for school buildings which is not unusual in these days. Mr. McCutchen's sentiments struck a popular chord with his hearers when he emphasized his remarks by declaring:

"That we can educate children just as well in a $25,000 schoolhouse, as in a structure that costs $100,000 or more. Let us have all the essentials that are necessary to educate, but let us be careful in the expense involved. It is not the outside of the school that counts in the education of children, but what goes on in the inside."

Mr. McCutchen made his address at the request of Councilman L. B. Woolston, who desired some information as to the matter employed in the distribution of the state school tax money. In explaining the method he presented some interesting statistics and figures. He said that the state school received about two and a quarter million dollars from the railroad last year. This sum, he said, was inadequate to pay the salaries of the teachers in the state, and other expense, which made it necessary for a local school tax. Out of that amount about $300,000 is appropriated to state education institutions.

In criticizing the extravagant policies of some school boards he cited two instances that came under his observation as a member of the State School Board during the past year. One borough, with a population of 1,050, voted to bond itself to the extent of $80,000 for a school building, and another municipality of about the same size bonded itself for the erection of a school to cost $50,000.

"It is a shame, and a crime," declared the speaker. "Men, when they get a big pile of money to handle become careless, and it is the same way with some school boards."

The meeting was attended by about fifty citizens and it was one of the most harmonious school elections ever conducted in the borough. There was only one ticket in the field. Dr. J. H. Cooley and Robert Clark, Jr., were re-elected to three year terms and Allan B. Laing was elected to succeed Charles L. Nichols for three years; Rev. George A. Warner was elected to the one year term Dr. Cooley and Mr. Clark received 42 votes; Mr. Laing, 39, and Mr. Warner, 34 votes. There were also a few scattering votes.

A surprise of the meeting was the re-election of Dr. Cooley after the latter's declaration that he would refuse a renomination. Dr. Cooley was placed in nomination by S. B. Joseph. Dr. Cooley, however, responded by saying that he believed that he had done his full duty as he had served twelve years, but that he would consent to being a candidate for the one year term. Despite Dr. Cooley's request he was named as a three-year candidate amid an outburst of applause.

Thomas E. Currin, F. O. Dunning and the Rev. George A. Warner were named for the one-year term. Mr. Warner, however, was given a clear field as Mr. Currin withdrew in favor of Mr. Dunning, and the latter retired in favor of Mr. Warner.

There was no opposition to the $20,000 budget which included $16,187 for current expenses; $1,900 for repairs, and $1,912.50 for manual training. The first two named appropriations received 47 votes and 42 votes were cast for manual training.

Dr. James R. Joy, the retiring president of the board, called the meeting to order and Mayor Newton B. Smalley was selected as permanent chairman. The Mayor in his opening remarks said in part:

"We all realize that our school matters are important and I am glad that we all feel alike this year on school matters. The finances of the borough are in a highly satisfactory condition and I hope any action tonight will be an evidence that they will so continue.

"Our taxes to some of our citizens appear to be heavy and there is a feeling that our governing bodies such as the Council and School Board should operate on economical

DUNELLEN FIRE DEPT. TO GET NEW HOSE SUPPLY

The fire committee, of which Councilman Bogardus is chairman, has been authorized to purchase 250 feet of hose for Defender Fire Company. This will bring the equipment up to 1,000 feet. At the recent fire at the Hall Printing Press Works plant nearly 300 feet of hose went bad, which makes the purchase necessary. Fire Chief Wyhuskey claims that inadequate facilities for drying is responsible for the poor condition of the hose. The fire committee will consider means for overcoming the difficulty by installing a drying apparatus similar to those used by the Plainfield companies and it is likely that the matter will be presented in definite form at the April meeting of the Council.

DUNELLEN NOTES.

The borough fathers are badly in need of money to execute needed improvements to the streets. It is probable that at the next meeting of the Council steps will be taken to negotiate a loan. It is understood that the initiative steps in the matter will be taken by the Board of Trade at its monthly meeting. According to Mayor Sanford the borough could easily expend $70,000 if that sum of money was available, $20,000 for a drainage system and improvements on the streets, while the other $50,000 will be required to connect with the proposed North Plainfield sewerage system.

The Christian Endeavor Society will elect officers at its next meeting. A slate is being prepared by the nominating committee, which is composed of Miss Mabel Whitford, Myria Dunn and Merle Randolph.

Business has taken a slack turn at the Levering & Garrigues Iron Works. During the past two days about forty employes have been laid off.

Robert Fairchirn, of Westfield, has taken possession of the farm formerly owned by B. DeWitt Giles.

The W. C. T. U. will meet in Junior O. U. A. M. Hall tomorrow night.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Public Service Corporation had beeter post their conductors and motormen on what their franchise calls for. Some of them have an idea that patrons are obliged to get on the car at Walpole's corner and refuse to stop on the other corner. The franchise calls for cars to stop on both sides of the street, failing to do so subjects the company to a fine if complaint is made before any justice of the peace.

SPORTS
News and Notes
By George E. Firstbrook

WHO ARE THE CHAMPS—PARKS OR WATCHUNGS?

The ten-pin sport has enjoyed a successful season on local alleys, and what would be better than to top it all off with a series for the local championship between Johnny Campbell's Watchungs and the Park Club's classy aggregation of pin smashers?

Both of these teams are just now in the "chesty class," and they deserve to be. Plainfield has been ably represented on the alleys by these two teams, the Parks in the New Jersey Central League, while the Watchungs made their initial appearance in the New Jersey National tourney.

The Parks distinguished themselves by finishing on even terms with Jersey City for the championship of their league;; while the Watchungs failed to finish near the top in the Jersey National.they displayed some real class by creating a 1,111 record score of the tourney against Elizabeth on Monday night

Local bowling enthusiasts would welcome a championship series between these teams. It would boom the game as well as settle numerous arguments as to the respective merits of both teams.

Captain Johnny Campbell, of the Watchungs, is willing to arrange a series. What has Captain F. O. Ball, of the Parks, to say on the subject?

"Knocks and boosts for the deserving" is the policy of this column.

A KNOCK AND A BOOST—In commenting on Jack Martin's batting ability the New Brunswick Home News sport critic prints:

"Martin ought to take a few lessons in the art of putting them where they a'int' himself, instead of giving pointers. Under Jesse Burkett, Martin improved wonderfully in more ways than one, but his batting on the New Brunswick team was noticeably weak, still Martin is an exceptionally fine fielder and sticks in a hit when most needed, sometimes, and we should like to have him back here."

South Plainfield is on deck with a team and soon the natives of the burg on the Lehigh will hear the smack of the ball and the crack of the bat in their midst. Patrick A. McDonough, manager of the S. P.'s writes as follows—"The South Plainfield B. B. C. has the following dates open for strong uniformed teams: May 15, 22 and 29, and June 5." Here's a chance for some local teams.

Norman Harney will shoot the pill over the rubber for Bound Brook this season. Harney is one of the best pitchers in this vicinity as local hitsmiths who have faced him will attest. Fred Nolan, of this city, will ornament the Bound Brook outfield.

Catcher Billy Poole who helped make Garwood as a baseball center a few yars ago is now rated one of the best backctops in the minor league ranks. Poole has signed to catch for Albany in the New York State League this season

7,378,108 FANS SAW 1909 LEAGUE CONTESTS.

In the course of a ball season numerous arguments are hatched by the fans as to which of the major leagues, the National and American, has the largest following. A glance at the official attendance records of 1909 is interesting and instructive. The "dope" shows that the American League played to 3,740,570 persons to 3,637,538 persons who passed through the turnstiles in National League parks. This figure gives the attendance majority for the American League as 103,032.

New York is the banner ball town in the country as well as in the National League. In 1909 just 783,700 fans of Manhattan Isle saw the Giants perform at the Polo grounds. Philadelphia leads the American League cities with a total attendance of 674,915. The average attendance at the Polo grounds was 12,439 per game, to 10,545 for Philadelphia. The attendance records in detail are:

The Plainfield Driving Association is anticipating a lively season. It is planned to hold three holiday meets, on Decoration Day, July 4 and on Labor Day. The matinee races which proved popular last season will be inaugurated in June.

Adam Blair expects big things of his game little Aaron B. this season. The horse has wintered well under its owner's watchful eyes, who declares that it is in the pink of condition.

Kindly put me wise to a good diet to put in shape one's wind powers for mountain climbing; also how many miles should I walk every day?
Weston Enthusiast.

Diet, Spaghetti and oatmeal for breakfast; distance, forty miles a day.

There are two claimants to the major league pennants up to date. Hughey Jennings, of course, picks Detroit to win another flag in the American League, and Frank Chance the leader of the Chicago Cubs, declares the Windy City brigade will show the way in the National League.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY CHURCH SOCIETIES

In connection with an all-day sewing meeting held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday, the three women's societies, the foreign and home missionary and Ladies' Aid, held business meetings in the afternoon for the presentation of reports and election of officers. The reports all showed a healthy condition spiritually and financially and there was renewed interest because of the anticipated arrival of the new pastor, Rev. Gabriel R. Maguire, who will assume his pastorate April 3.

The foreign missionary society held its business meeting first when these officers were chosen:

President, Mrs. David M. Runyon; vice president, Mrs. Charles Tennant; secretary, Miss Lillian Hardcastle; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Doane.

The membership of this society is about forty and during the past year there was raised $115.98, all of which was expended for missions.

The home missionary society, which has a membership of about fifty, reported total receipts, with last year's balance, of $154.20, all of which was expended for home missions. These officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Frank Vail; vice president, Mrs. A. D. Thompson; secretary, Mrs. Fred Moffett; treasurer, Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle. Mrs. Vail succeeds Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, who held the office of president for seven years. She retires because she and her husband will remove April 1 to Flemington, where they will reside on a farm.

The Ladies' Aid Society then held its meeting. This society has a membership of about fifty and during the year raised considerable over $100, a portion of which goes to church expenses. It will also assume part of the expense of putting the parsonage in condition for the new pastor, Mr. Maguire, and his family. These officers were elected:

President, Mrs. John H. Doane; first vice president, Mrs. B. F. Hadley; second vice president, Mrs. Lottie Udell; secretary, Mrs. Jasper Sims; treasurer, Mrs. Harry M. Moore.

lines. The harmony of the last few years leads me to believe that this policy will be pursued.

"It is gratifying to me that all strife and friction in school matters has been eliminated. It is important that men who are elected to public office should understand the makeup of our town, and I am confident that the men who are selected tonight will look after the people's intehests in a proper manner. All our governing bodies should be conservative in the matter of expenses."

President Joy, in surrendering the chair to Mayor Smalley, called the attention of the citizens to the fact that the budget is $2,600 less than last year. He said that the receipts from foreign tuition has increased during the past year and that he believed that this is a source for funds on which the borough can rely on in future years without incurring additional expense. Mr. Joy also said that the board during the past year had paid $2,000 on an old note, and added, that it was gratifying to him that he was enabled to retire from the board under such pleasing conditions.

In referring to the retirement of Mr. Joy, Mr. McCutchen said it was a great misfortune that the borough is to lose the former's service after years of loyalty and industry. On a motion offered by Mr. McCutchen a resolution was adopted thanking Mr. Joy for his services rendered the borough in the capacity of a member of the school board.

Mayor Smalley endorsed Mr. McCutchen's sentiments and said it was a source of regret on all sides that Mr. Joy had determined to retire.

District Clerk Albert Steiner presented his annual report which showed the receipts and disbursements of the board. It is as follows:

HOSPITAL GOVERNORS IN MONTHLY MEETING

Aside from the medical report for February, little business was transacted at the March meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, held at Mayor Fisk's office, Monday night.

The report showed 28 patients remaining in the hospital on February 1, and 63 admitted during the month, making a total of 91 patients treated. Of these, 42 were discharged cured, nine were reported improved and five died, leaving 35 patients in the hospital March 1. There were 65 operations during the month.

There were 102 daily visits to the dispensary and 54 dispensary patients treated. There have been four patients in the isolation ward during the month. In the tuberculosis pavilion which is managed at present by Muhlenberg Hospital, there are eight patients. The total number of hospital days reported by the medical board for February was 1,093.

Several matters of more or less importance were discussed, but no definite action taken with regard to them. They will come up at another meeting.

UTILITIES COMMISSION BILL PASSES TODAY.

The Wakelee-Pierce public utility commission bill, introduced yesterday and later made a Republican caucus measure, is scheduled by the Legislative leaders to be passed before today's sessions are over. Owing to conferences over the measure this morning it was after noon before either house was called to order.

The Assembly leaders agreed that the bill should be passed on second reading before recess for luncheon.

St. Patrick's Day Reception.

Mrs. Edward Goerz, of West Front street and Clinton avenue, gave a St. Patrick's Day reception at her home this afternoon. The home was elaborately decorated in green and the favors were green baskets filled with candy. The guests were Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. W. B. Sharp, Mrs. Benjamin Snyder, Mrs. Robert Dickerson, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. Fred Hand, Mrs. Carrie Hand, Mrs. Charles Lewis and Mrs. Lewis Thompson.

Aleck Ayres, Please Note.

A bill acted upon favorably by the Senate at Trenton yesterday was Mr. DeUnger's measure allowing second class cities to have an assistant overseer of the poor to be appointed by the overseer of the poor. This position, however, carries with it no salary, at least from the municipality.

—The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. Thomas R. Cone, 312 East Seventh street.

HOT SCHOOL ELECTION AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS

There was a battle royal at Berkeley Heights yesterday when the Circles on the Square and the Johnson-Bergmuller factions met in a contest for school committee. The erstwhile powerful combination met defeat at the hands of the new organization and William Jeffery, F. C. Shaffer, Simon Debbie and Charles Springsteen won hands down. Every effort was made by the Johnson-Bergmuller forces to rout the Circles and it is alleged that even threats of personal violence were made in an attempt to intimidate the voters, but victory perched upon the banner of reform.

At previous elections the normal vote has hovered around the grand total of twenty-five, but yesterday afternoon ninety-six votes were cast of which the reformers received fifty-nine. After the reading of the report of the district clerk a motion to lay the report on the table and proceed with the election was carried and the voting became an exciting incident of the day's proceedings. Had it not been for the presence of Justice of the Peace Roland DeY. Parker there is no telling what would have happened to some of the more enthusiastic workers. Mr. Parker had to threaten arrest to several before quiet was restored after an outbreak on the part of the Circles' opponents. At least so it was reported. One of the interested men said that the most unseemly and violent conduct characterized the methods of some of the more excited politicians.

Great work must have been done to have accomplished what was done yesterday for out of a total registration of 105 only nine voters failed to cast their votes and five of these were sick in bed. Interest in the election was at fever heat all the afternoon. From one source it was learned that, perhaps erroneously, that the election had passed off smoothly and without a sign of friction and that a motion by one of those opposed to the Circles to make the election unanimous was carried. No verification of this last item was had this morning.

PISCATAWAY VOTES $17,000 FOR SCHOOLS

Nearly one hundred citizens attended the annual school election of Piscataway township which was conducted last night at Harkin's Hotel at New Market. There was rumors of opposition to the regular ticket which had been prepared but it failed to materalize and the "slate' candidates went through with flying colors.

B. DeWitt Giles was re-elected a member of the board and the new members selected were F. O. Nelson and Edward Marshall, the two latter succeeding Arthur Tappen and A. J. Perrine. Friends of Mr. Tappen urged him to accept a renomination but he declined. The appropriation of $17,000 which was asked for was also carried.

F. Percy Vail presided at the meeting. Speeches were made by a number of citizens, including Charles Kelyy and the Rev. George H. Gardner. The latter protested against tickets being printed for future school elections. He declared that citizens should come to the annual school meeting with a feeling that they can vote for whoever they please. Under the "slate" arrangement he declared that they were unable to exercise that right.

The meeting at the Salvation Army tonight will be in charge of Captain S. A. Hewitt. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church will be held this evening. Officers will be elected and reports for the year presented.

Rev. Dr. Campbell will be prevented on account of other engagements from giving a weekly Lenten Bible talk at the Young Women's Christian Association parlors tomorrow, but expects to be present the following Thursday.

At the annual business meeting of the First Baptist church Wednesday night, March 23, a deacon will be elected to succeed F. W. Jones, whose terms expires. Mr. Jones will undoubtedly be re-elected. Reports for the year will be presented at the meeting.

Mr. Morris, a missionary returned from China on his first furlough, will address the Young People's Society of the Crescent Avenue church on Friday night. His lecture will be on China, and will be illustrated by very choice stereopticon views. A social hour will follow and refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Holmes, of West Sixth street, left today for Atlantic City, where they will remain a week or two.

SCOTCH PLAINS HAS QUIET SCHOOL ELECTION

The annual school meeting of Fanwood Township was held last night in the assembly room of school No 1. Little interest was manifested in the meeting by the taxpayers, less than twenty-five votes being cast.

The appropriation of $5,000 asked for by the Board was carried without opposition, while the three returning members of the Board, A. D. Beekon, William B. Noble and E. V. Goodman, were re-elected.

John Z. Hatfield was chairman of the meeting and District Clerk Thos. J. Nichol secretary.

The report of the Board as submitted by the clerk showed the school to be in a flourishing condition. Many changes were made during the year, an addition was built at a cost of $8,450. This was finished and ready for the several class rooms in January.

A law passed last year by the Legislature, admitted children of four years of age to the kindergarten department. This increased the attendance to such an extent that it was found necessary to divide the department and engage another teacher during the winter.

The Board at the suggestion of the county superintendent Savitz appointed Principal S. Dana Townsend supervising principal of the township schools and engaged a teacher for the eigth grade, so that Mr Townsend would be able to devote his entire time to supervising the work of the two schools. These changes made no increase in the expenses of the year as the school was in position to receive more of the State school money by making the changes. The enrollment showed an increase of 43 over last year.

DUNELLEN RE-ELECTED THREE SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The annual school meeting at Dunellen last night was devoid of any contests and all business was conducted at a harmonious clip. The meeting was called to order by District Clerk Hamley and J. Newton Apgar was selected as permanent chairman.

Thirty-four votes were cast, M. R. Dayton, A. J. Hamley and A. F. Todd being unanimously re-elected to serve terms of three years each. The tellers were C. H. Berkheisier and C. N. English.

District Clerk Hamley, in his annual report, showed that the total receipts was $18,273.02; expenditures, $15,013.41; balance $3,259.61. The matter of voting on the budget was put over until the May meeting.

The school system is in a prosperous condition. No changes will be made in the teaching staff for next year unless any of the teachers resign of their own accord.

CIRCLES ON SQUARE WON IN WARREN TWP.

Circles on the Square took a prominent part in the annual school meeting held in Warren township yesterday and succeeded in electing its candidates for membership on the school board. Fred Wiggin, I. V. Adams and Edmund E. Sage were elected for three years. There was a contest on the appropriation, but the Circles on the Square was successful in securing $2,400 for general expenses for the coming year.

The report of the old board was presented, but the meeting declined to approve it, referring it to the incoming members.

The opposition had three candidates, but, when they were told that they would be read out of the Circles if they persisted in running for office, they withdrew, leaving no opposition. It was learned that there was no apparent reason, and when the new board meets on Monday, April 4, for organization, this matter will be considered.

EDITOR HUGHES 'SQUIRE AND SCHOOL TRUSTEE

George W. Hughes, an editor of The New York Mail; Francis E. Bodin and John Fuchs were elected members of the school board in North Plainfield Township at the annual meeting yesterday, without opposition. They were all elected for three years. Mr. Hughes is also a justice of the peace in the township. The meeting was held at the school building in Watchung and a fair percentage of the voters turned out.

Herbert Cleaves was chairman of the meeting and Ephriam Ackor secretary. The sum of $2,000 was voted for general expenses for the coming year and in addition $1 500 was appropriated for an addtion to one of the schools. An organization meeting will be held Monday, April 4.

CASTS HER VOTE AT A SCHOOL ELECTION

Mrs. Champlain Riley, of Myrtle avenue, a prominent member of the Equal Suffrage League, well known locally for her activity in that cause, was the only woman in the borough to exercise her right to vote at the annual school election at the Somerset street school house last night.

Mrs. Riley was one of the first to arrive at the schoolhouse. She occupied a seat in the middle of the room, and from all appearances took a deep interest in the proceedings. When announcement was made that the ballot boxes were open Mrs. Riley took her place in line and in due time deposited her two tickets, one for the school board candidates, and the other for the appropriations.

"KIDS" HUNT KIDD'S GOLD AND JEWELS

Captain Kidd and his fabled treasure, believed by some to be buried on Staten Island, led to the undoing of Jimmy Able, a lad of ten, and a companion of the same age name unknown, early Monday at Elizabeth. The pair of youthful explorers wrenched a door from the old armory on South Broad street in that city, and using it as a raft, sailed down through the swells of the Elizabeth river, fully expecting to find the treasure trove within a few hours and to bring it back to Elizabeth before sundown.

Near the mouth of the river Johnnie Van Pelt, senior and junior, were busy in their shipyard when they saw the buccaneer boat wobbling downstream. The strange craft bumped into the Van Pelt dock, and its crew was asked its destination. They confided to the Van Pelts their hopes of bringing the raft back loaded with gold and jewels. The elder Van Pelt grasped the situation and plunged into a harrowing narrative and the terrors of the deep, particularly Staten Island Sound terrors.

The yarn had its calculated effect. The boys lost their nerve in hurry-upfashion and deserted their craft scurrying in the direction of home.

But in the meantime the police were notified that a strange expedition had started, and Chief Tenney gave orders to round up the explorers. Able's companion eluded the police, but Able fell into a trap with the result that Monday afternoon he stood before Judge Mahon in the Juvenile Court.

He wore a sober, almost frightened look as the court told of the fate of a certain physician-explorer and intimated that exploring is bad business—for little boys, at least. At the close of the lecture Jimmy said he would be glad to keep out of the Kidd treasure race for an indefinite period, and he was then restored to his parents.

HERE AND THERE.

A new game of chance and one which keeps alive the speculative instincts of the boys has become almost epidemic in town. It is amusing to watch them at it. The craze seems to be to discover who can win the greatest number of picture cards like those enclosed in cheap grades of cigarettes. The pictures are those of actresses, prominent baseball players and other athletes and to win them the game is similar to the old game of pitching pennies.

Any afternoon after school groups of boys may be seen on the streets playing for pictures. The first requisite for the play is a stock of the little pasteboard caricatures. A line is marked on the sidewalk and those engaged throw their cards toward the mark. The one who gets closest to the drawn line has the first chance of tossing them into the air. All the cards which come down face upwards go to the first thrower and so on down the line according to the nearness of their throw to the line. These performances last until dark, only to be resumed next day. It is an amusement now, but will it lead to something greater later on or will it be remembered as a pastime as marbles were to us when boys?

Just how many children skate to and from school these days would be hard to estimate, but the fact remains that this means of locomotion is gaining rapidly in favor every year. A little chap who was asked this morning why he skated to school said: "Well it saves me a lot of time and I don't have to start so early. That gives me a half hour every morning to go over my lessons. Besides it's great sport." A little Miss who had just bumped into a tree on East Front street, thought it was fun to learn to roller skate because her teacher told her it would help to make her strong. She didn't mind an occasional fall. In one school alone nearly a hundred pupils are using roller skates and very few accidents have ben recorded because of their use.

A happy family consisting of grandfather, grandmother, a mother and six children wondered what right the automobiles had of trying to put them out of existence, Monday a little red runabout approached North avenue from Watchung and was moving quite rapidly toward the corner when the happy family mentioned above attempted to cross the street. Grandpa was a trifle deaf and grandma not much better off, and they were in the lead. The children with their mother heard the toot of the horn, but the two old people did not. One of the little tots ran out to catch hold of grandpa's coat tails when the runabout arrived at the corner. Only the prompt setting of the brakes saved the three people from being knocked down and possibly injured. But "a miss is as good as a mile."

Maybe the dentists in Boston are so well fixed with wealthy patients that the latest philanthropical move will not feaze them, but there is no doubt that a donation of some two millions of dollars to provide free dental attendance for the poor will make some appreciable dent in some of their incomes. Thomas A. Forsyth, a wealthy resident of the Hub, has planned to give outright the sum named so that children of both sexes up to the age of sixteen years may have their teeth cared for without cost to them. A specially equipped building is to be erected with a part of the money and in it will be placed the most modern of dental appliances with men of the highest ability in charge. It will be the most unique institution of its kind in the country and the only one conducted on purely philanthropic principles. Only the bill petitioning the Legislature for the incorporation of the fund stands in the way of its immediate establishment. The only condition imposed on patients who apply at the infirmary for treatment is that they shall need it.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Plainfield.

Scores of Plainfield people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Robert Love, 44 Duer street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For eight or nine years I was a victim of kidney complaint. Every cold I contracted, settled in my kidneys and caused my back to ache severely. Any heavy lifting or much standing gave me additional pain. In the morning upon arising, my back was very lame and this did not disappear until I exercised for some time. I doctored and used several so called kidney cures, but it was only a waste of money. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the newspapers, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. When I had taken about half the contents of the box my condition was greatly improved and before long the pain left me entirely. I will always stand ready to speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Don't Wrestle With Furnace Clinkers

Clinkers just naturally pass right through the grate of the Boynton.

If they hesitate, the cutting bar smashes them. There is no chance of clogging. The intense and uniform heat of the reduces nearly everything to the finest ash. That's because a square pot develops more heat per unit of fuel than any other kind. That's economy.

The Boynton has some other exceptional features too—the fresh air supply—the dust flue—the square ash pit. Any BOYNTON dealer will be glad to explain how these points reduce the care and cost of up-keep.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

FIRST PROHIBITION BILL FOR NEW JERSEY

An out and out prohibition bill, the first, so far as can be learned, to make its appearance in a New Jersey Legislature, was introduced in the House Monday night by Assemblyman H. R. Tatem, of Camden. Mr. Tatem wrote on the bill in a firm hand so all might see, and underscored it, the words, "By request." The bill bears the title "County Prohibition Bill."

"George D. Haven, chairman of the State committee of the Prohibition party," said Mr. Tatem, when asked about the measure, "is a resident of Collingswood and a neighbor of mine. He asked me to introduce this bill, and as a courtesy to him I agreed to it."

The bill provides that upon application by one-fifth of the legal voters of any county to the Circuit Court, the judge shall set a date for a public hearing. At such hearing, argument may be heard as to the status of the signers of the petition. If it is established to the satisfaction of the court that the signers comprise the equivalent of one-fifth of the legal voters of the county at the last preceding election for members of the General Assembly, and no legal reason why there should not be an election is established, a call must be issued within twenty days after the hearing for a special election to pass upon the prohibition question.

The date for the election must be set, according to the bill, not more than six months after the time of issuance of the call and not less than three months. The election cannot be called for a date within sixty days of any general election.

If a majority of the voters casting ballots at such an election favor prohibiting the sale or manufacture of all spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, the bill provides that their will shall be final. If, on the other hand, a majority vote against prohibition, the issue may be raised again in two years.

The Anti-Saloon League and the Prohibitionists are not agred upon the method of trying to get prohibition. The Anti-Saloon League would put a local option law on the statute books while the bill introduced by Mr. Tatem represents the Prohibition party's ideas. The Tatem bill fixes a penalty of $500 minimum and $1,000 maximum fine, and imprisonment from six months to a year for violations should a county adopt prohibition.

FREEHOLDER IN SUIT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

Newton, March. 16—Freeholder John J. Van Sickle, of Layton, was served with a summons Monday by Under-Sheriff Albert T. Lyons, in a $5,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Eulah McManus, who claims that on or about May 1, 1909, Van Sickle promised to marry her.

Miss McManus is now at the home of her mother, the widow of Charles McManus at Hainesville. Last spring she was employed as a stenographer at Matamoras, Pa., and it is said that the freeholder visited her while there and made the alleged promise of marriage. Her mother, it is claimed, owed Van Sickle money. Van Sickle married Mrs. Abbie Van Benschoten, at Hoboken, on October 1, of last year. They are now living at Layton, several miles from the home of Miss McManus.

Coult & Dolan's law firm, of this town, are the attorneys of record. The defendant's case is in charge of Wilton Bennett, of Port Jervis, N. Y., who could not be seen today, being at Goshen attending to some legal matters. It will be listed for trial during the April term.

Van Sickle is probaly better known than any of the other members of the Board of Freeholders. He was elected as an economist and since that time he has objected to many accounts presented for payment to the board. Several times he has denounced the methods of doing business by his fellow-members, and once brought about an investigation of the road roller committee.

Mr. Van Sickle was at the Layton Hotel today and firmly denied ever making such a promise to Miss McManus, whom he acknowledges he is acquainted with.

BEEF TRUST MUST PRODUCE ITS BOOOKS.

The National Packing Company the Armour Company and the Morris Company will be required to produce before the Hudson county Grand Jury their books and minutes to enable the jury to follow up its investigation of the cold storage business of these companies in Jersey City.

Justice Swayze Monday filed an opinion in the Supreme Court saying that he would sign the order for production of the books, which order was applied for by Prosecutor Garvea who is investigating the high cost of living as affected by cold storage conditions.

New Ruching.

A narrow band of gold or silver braid and two folds of tulle or maline form one of the many novelties in ruching. The touch of gold or silver comes next to the collar of the frock and the folds of tulle lie against the skin.

The Island of Regeneration

"No," said the captain, "I don't know her. Do you, Mr. Whittaker, or you, chaplain?"

"Well, then," said the surgeon, as both the officers shook their heads, "it will be necessary to have some one ashore who does know her in order to swear to her identity to make her deposition worth anything."

"There is Langford," said Whittaker, "he knows her."

"Very good," said the captain; "send a boat over to the yacht and present my compliments to Mr. Langford. Ask him if he will meet us ashore at quarter after five o'clock. Say to him also that I should be glad to have him dine with me to-night at seven. Chaplin, will you and Mr. Charnock take luncheon with me later?"

Now, to go back to the island. The woman stood on the strand proudly, resolutely, sternly erect, without a sign of unbending until the boats reached the sides of the two ships. Even then she kept herself in the bonds of a control of steel. She turned slowly, walked up the beach, entered the grove of palms, mechanically found the path and plodded along it, still erect and unbending, until the windings of the trail and the thickening of the grove hid her from any chance watchers on the ship.

Then came the moment of yielding. As if the tension had been suddenly released, she reeled, staggered; her heart almost stopped. Her instinct was to throw herself prone upon the grass, but she recovered herself in time and, with the natural inclination of the troubled toward the place, however rude and humble it may be, that is called home, she summoned her strength and dragged herself on through the trees over the hill—whence a backward glance would have given her a sight of the ships, but she never took it—down the other slope across the beach and to the cave which had been her haven for these three years.

Then, and not until then, did she give way completely. She threw herself down upon the sand in the cool shadow of the great rocks in what to her had suddenly become a weary land, and outstretched her arms as if to clasp the earth to her breast in default of the man she had dreamed of and trusted, she had loved and lived for, and lay there a silent, shuddering, wretched figure.

Her crushing disappointment at his failure to rise to the measure of her ideal of him, the total end of her dream of happiness, the breaking of all her hopes, the closing of all her ambitions, the tearing asunder of her heartstrings whelmed her in agony. She had thought that never could humanity experience more than the pain superinduced by the horror of her position upon the ship, but that pain to the present was like a caress. For to all that old horror was added a new sense of loss, of disappoinment and despair. She had not loved before; now she did, and the sorrow and anguish were measured by the depth and power of her passion. The period on the yacht had been an episode. This was life, eternal life or death, she thought. And it shows the power of the episode that it had colored and would color—was it darkly?—all the future.

That Christian philosophy which she had fondly believed she had acquired, and in which—O fatal error!—she had somehow taken pride, fell from her like every other quality, good or bad, that is developed alone. It had lacked exercise. She, too, had submitted to no tests since she had come to the island. She had surmounted no temptations. She had fought no battles. She had not become a veteran by conquest. She had not perfected her offensive and defensive weapons by a series of smaller conflicts which would give her confidence and courage to fight the great and final battle. Like Elijah of old, dismayed, disheartened, broken, she prayed that she might die there on the sands.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Man's Failure.

At five o'clock a boat put off from the big white cruiser, conveying the islander, the captain, the other officers and Langford to the shore. The woman met them on the sand. She had discarded her woven tunic and was dressed in the faded blue blouse and skirt which she had worn when she had left the yacht and which she had ever since preserved with such scrupulous care for an emergency like this. Well was it for her that the garments were loose and easy-fitting, else she could not have put them on, so splendidly had she developed in waist and chest and limb. She wore stockings and shoes, and, save for a certain natural elegance and freedom in her bearing, she looked much as any other woman, except that few women were as beautiful as she.

Her face, always colorless, was paler than ever. Something of the anguish that she had gone through was seen there by the keen eyes of Whittaker, at least, and even the others could notice the strong constraint she put upon herself and the evidences of self-restraint were painfully apparent.

After a momentary hesitation and a glance at the islander, who, after his first swift, comprehending survey of the woman, stood with averted head—she, conscious painfully of his every gesture and movement—the lieutenant commander performed the necessary introductions. This ceremony over, it was the woman who spoke.

"I sent for you, gentlemen," she began, "in order that a necessary deposition might be made to enable, if possible, my"—she paused and bowed formally toward the islander—"this gentleman, to establish his identity, upon which, as I learn from Mr. Whittaker, much seems to depend. I have here—"

"But could you not do this more conveniently later on the ship, Miss Brenton?" interposed the captain. He had been told that she intended to stay on the island, but he could not believe it. "We shall be very glad indeed to offer you passage home. The ship is fitted for a flag and the admiral's quarters are yours to command. We are sailing direct to the United States, with a stop at Honolulu, and will be glad to restore you to your friends."

"Sir," said the woman, "I have no friends who care enough about me to welcome me or whom I care enough about to wish to see. My mind is made up. I shall stay on the island, at least for the present."

"But, my dear young lady," began the officer.

"Capt. Ashby," said the woman, "you are the commander of that ship?"

"I am."

"To you is committed the ordering of her course?"

"To me alone, Miss Brenton."

"You decide all questions connected with her on your own responsibility?"

"I do, certainly, but—"

"Sir, this is my ship, this island. If I choose to stay here, I cannot think you will endeavor to take me hence by force."

Every Newspaper Has a Telephone

NEWSPAPERS stand for progress. The widespread dissemination of news and knowledge through the press is largely responsible for the high degree of civilization in this country.

As a means of collecting and distributing news the telephone, too, has come to play a most important part. Every newspaper has a telephone. In every department of a paper, editorial, business, circulation, telephone service is invaluable.

The telephone is equally valuable in every other line of business. It is just as valuable, too, in the home.

Remember also that every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance station.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The farmers' instruction train, which ran through South Jersey last week, will be continued on the Belvidere Division next Tuesday.

While attempting to start the engine in an automobile, Harry McCoy, of Beverly, sustained a broken leg, the crank suddenly reversing.

Falling on the floor of his home yesterday, Philip Harris, seventeen months old, of 435 Kaighn avenue, Camden, fractured a rib and was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

Trying to ride on the rear of a wagon yesterday, Percy Taylor, twelve years old, of 322 State street, Camden, sustained a badly injured leg. He was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

Thirteen babies were brought forward for baptism by Rev. William Blatchford in Atlantic City Sunday, when the rector celebrated the thirteenth anniversary both of the foundation of St. James' Episcopal church and of his rectorage. A big crowd attended the services.

Otto Herzog, of 63 Market street, Paterson, who is employed as a switchman on the Erie Railroad at Jersey City, was struck on the head by falling machinery Sunday last, and sustained cuts and contusions about the head which made necessary his removal to St. Francis' Hospital.

Daniel Horner, the veteran mail-carrier of Beverly, celebrated his eighty-second birthday yesterday by putting in a good day's work. "Uncle Dan," as he is familiarly known, is on the job from 6:30 in the morning until 7:40 in the evening. He has held the position for fifteen years and makes nine rounds a day, covering eight miles. In all he walked enough miles to make a circumference and a half of the globe. For this work Uncle Sam pays him only $235 per annum.

Vice-Chancellor Leaming in Camden yesterday granted a rule to show cause why an injunction should not be allowed restraining Atlantic City from building a wood stave forty-eight-inch pipe line in front of the property of Doughty Somers. Declaring that he owns about 2,200 feet along the boulevard from Pleasantville to Atlantic City, the plaintiff alleges that the city or the contractor never acquired the right of way from him to lay the pipe. The rule was made returnable next Monday.

PROMINENT SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS TO BE IN NEWARK.

The World's Sunday school convention is to be held at Washington, May 19-24, and for the purpose of arousing the Sunday school workers of the country and stimulating their interest in the Sunday school cause, some of the leaders in the work, including such well known men as Rev. F. B. Meyer, of London, president of the World's Sunday School Association; Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the International Sunday School Association; Bishop J. C. Hartzell, of Africa; Rev. Richard Roberts, of London, and Prof. E. O. Excell, of Chicago, will visit eighteen of the prominent cities of the country.

One of these meetings will be held in the First Presbyterian church, Newark, May 4-5, at which the Sunday school workers will have the privilege of hearing these world famous experts in Sunday school work. Plans are being made to have the local Sunday schools largely represented at Newark and Washington.

PLAINFIELD ELKS WIND UP LEAGUE SCHEDULE

Plainfield Elks completed their schedule in the Elks League at Hoboken last night where they won two out of three games from the antlers of "Little Germany." The result makes the local team sure of sixth place, while Johnny Campbell carries off the high individual honors with an average of 195.11. In the thirty-six games Campbell totaled 7,031 pins, which is going some.

The locals were victorious in the first contest, 868 to 840; Hoboken came back strong in the second game and won easily by the score of 947 to 806; the final contest was a hummer, the locals winning by a score of 967 to 948.

Stout and Kiely were the only local experts to pass the double century mark, the former registering 215 and the latter 202. Both of these scores were tallied in the last game. The scores:

Plainfield.
Kiely	177	156	202
Laing	170	146	181

GOLF.

The Western Golf Association has practically decided to hold its open championship this year along different lines than usual. Instead of the customary seventy-two holes of medal play, the plan is to have an eighteen-hole qualifying round, with the best sixteen earning the right to continue at the match game. Professionals at match play in championship competition would be a welcome innovation here in the East.

It is claimed by those who have studied the question that the fad for golf courses of great length is vanishing. Where the playing length is unnecessarily long there is less likelihood of meeting with those interesting situations found on the links of 6,000 yards or thereabouts.

With a view to having the players in general become better acquainted with the rules, J. G. Anderson, the former Massachusetts champion, suggests that an excellent plan would be to have on each tee box and other places a placard which would have written on it certain rules. With rules staring them in the face all the way round the players would be bound to become more or less better acquainted with the contents of that little red book.

In a recent article, Leighton Calkins of Plainfield, places Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, in a class by himself when it comes to bringing off the apparently impossible shots. Calkins expresses doubt as to whether there is a player here or abroad, amateur or professional, who has made more spectacularly wonderful shots of different kinds than this young American boy.

Women golfers of Canada hope to be strongly represented at the national championship at Homewood this year. Miss Dorothy Campbell, the champion, now in Canada, has decided herself as anxious to have the country across the border represented by a team.

RUSHMORE QUINTETS DOWNS THE SHAMROCKS.

The Rushmore Dynamo bowling team took the odd game in an exciting series with the Shamrocks on Campbell's alleys last night. The Shamrocks captured the initial game by the score of 769 to 755 and the Rushmore were victorious in the other contests by scores of 842 to 747 and 781 to 739. The scores:

Rushmores.
Miller	166	159	143

In selecting Councilman Lewis Churchhill as manager of its ball team for this season, the Dunellen A. C. has to all appearances made a wise move. Mr. Churchill knows the game, knows how to handle players, and Dunellen is sure to be heard from. Mr. Churchill was in town last night and expressed himself in favor of uniting with three other clubs in a trolley league. He is one who thinks it will go.

Ackerman's Bill Passes.

Senator Ackerman's bill, No. 195, which creates a board for the purchasing of all State supplies was passed by the Upper House at Trenton yesterday. This measure has been suggested by Governor Fort in each of his messages and is considered one of the chief executive's pet measures. He maintains that great saving will be effected by this policy of one board purchasing all of the supplies for the State institutions.

Conferred Master Mason Degree.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 2?, F. and A. M., at a regular communication conferred the master mason degree on five candidates last night. The work was performed by the past masters of the lodge and was highly complimented upon by those present. After the work all adjourned to the banquet hall, where refreshments were served. There were a number of visitors at the communication.

"Third Degree" Coming.

"The Third Degree," from the pen of Charles Klein, and considered one of his best efforts, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre Friday night by a notable cast in the same identical manner which characterized its long run in New York city. The play has a strong plot which holds the attention from start to finish and is sure to attract a capacity audience.

PASTOR SAW NO BEER IN OLD MILWAUKEE

Rev. Dr. W. T. Dorward, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Stelton Baptist church, and is going to Milwaukee on April 1, in an article in last week's issue of the Scottish American, makes the amazing statement that he found no beer while there, nor did he see a drunken person on the street during his stay in the beer city. A portion of Mr. Dorward's article is herewith given:

"When I told my twelve-and-a-half-year old boy that I was going to Milwaukee, Wis., he said—"Pa, isn't that where they make beer?" I was startled at the question coming from him. When I wrote to a dear friend in Illinois that I might run down and see him after my visit to the above-named city he wrote, in humor—"I am somewhat acquainted with that which has made Milwaukee famous." I understood the joke.

"After my return home to New Jersey when the report had gone out of a possibility of my going to Milwaukee to live and labor, a local newspaper editor wrote in his editorial columns: 'We are sure the Rev. W. T. Dorward will forgive us if we say it seems that to take Scotch to Milwaukee is almost as bad as taking coal to Newcastle.' Of course we forgive him. He also said other beautiful and personal things which I will not quote, as I am modest to some extent.

"Now I must confess that I did not find beer in Milwaukee for the same reason that the hunter said he did not see any converts in Africa, or the missionary who found no tigers there. Men often find what they go in search of, that is if they keep up the quest long enough. I did not even smell beer while in the beautiful city of Lake Michigan.

"Indeed if a brewery had been pointed out to me in the distance I might have taken it for a Scottish castle!

"Not only so, but during my stay in that city, for nearly two weeks, I failed to see a single person the worse of liquor. I confess the only time I saw beer during my trip was when three single gentlemen seemed to enjoy it during their noon day meal. But that was east of Pittsburg, on the dining car of the Pullman."

ACKERMAN'S BILL WILL END GRADE CROSSINGS.

Senator Ackerman, of Union, yesterday afternoon introduced a bill at Trenton to settle for all time the question of the elimination of grade crossings. It is provided by the measure that hereafter if a municipality desires to abolish railroad crossings over its thoroughfares, and no agreement can be reached with the railroad company, an appeal may be made to the State Railroad Commission by either the municipality governing body or the railroad.

The bill is favorably thought of by former Senator Thomas J. Hillery, now a member of the State Railroad Commission, and he is using his best endeavors to secure the passage of the measure.

TELEPHONE REGULATIONS MR. KENNY PROPOSES.

Assemblyman Kenny, of Hudson, yesterday at Trenton introduced a bill proposing to fix telephone rates as follows: Within a radius of 10 miles from the place of call not more than 03c per call; within a radius of 25 miles not more than 5c; within a radius of 150 miles, 10c.

Under the bill telephone companies are required to furnish individual wires for all customers, and if the act is not obeyed th officers and each director of the company shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Defeat Election Amendment.

By a vote of 20 to 37 the House at Trenton last night defeated Mr. Moore's bill permitting judges to sit on election day to allow voters to have their names placed on the registry list, the privilege to be enjoyed only by those who are entitled to vote but whose names have inadvertently not been registered.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MISS MAY STRYKER HELD

The funeral service of Miss May Stryker was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home of her cousin, Harvey Van Pelt on Morris street. Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Sperling, of Somerville, had charge of the service. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends.

There were many floral tributes, including a large set piece from the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, being a maltese cross surrounded with eighteen roses, emblematic of the young woman's age. The burial was at Somerville, and Rev. Mr. Sperling officiated at the grave. The pall-bearers, all cousins of Miss Stryker, were Van Stryker, of New Brunswick; Abram Hall, of Somerville; George Gabriel of Belle Mead; William Stryker, Louis Hall and Harvey Van Pelt, of this city.

Sergeant and Mrs. George L. Apgar, of East Front street, are parents of a boy, born to them yesterday morning. Mr. Apgar, who is a popular member of Co. K, is also an employe of Uncle Sam, being an efficient letter-carrier.

NATIONAL TUBERCULOSIS SUNDAY FALLS ON APR. 24

Announcement of a national tuberculosis Sunday to be held on April 24 in 215,000 churches of the United States was made yesterday by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The day will be observed in the local churches. Efforts are being made to establish a permanent tuberculosis Sunday, on which it is hoped that everyone of the 33,000,000 church-goers in the United States will hear the gospel of health.

The plan is to enlist the support and sympathy of anti-tuberculosis organizations, labor unions, fraternal organizations and other bodies together with the churches in the movement. The aid of leading churchmen in many of the principal denominations has already been offered. On Sunday, April 24, it is planned that sermons shall be preached in all of the churches of the country. Clergymen who desire to obtain additional information in regard to tuberculosis will be able to secure literature from State and local anti-tuberculosis associations and boards of health, as well as from the National Association.

Gather Tomorrow to Urge Establishment of White Plague Sanatorium.

WANT ONE IN UNION COUNTY.

Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society to Push War—One Hundred and Fifty Afflicted Persons In This City.

Anti-tuberculosis workers of this city and from all sections of Union county will gather at the Courthouse, Elizabeth, tomorrow afternoon for the public hearing to be given on the proposed Union County Tuberculosis-Sanatorium. The meeting will be held under the auspices of a special committee of the Freeholders, of which J. Hervey Doane, of this city, is chairman.

Invitations have been extended to all board of healths, clergymen and civic societies to be present. The delegates of the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League who will attend the meeting are Dr. B. vanD. Hedges, Dr. William H. Murray, William Dutcher, Leighton Calkins and former Councilman William S. Tyler.

The local society urges all its members and citizens to co-operate in the movement to have a sanatorium established in Union county. There will be a number of addresses at the hearing and it is probable that a resolution will be adopted urging the public health committee, in the Legislature, to push Assemblyman Smalley's measure, which was recently introduced.

Mr. Doane stated today that the sentiment in the board favors the establishment of a home, but before expending public money, the Freeholders are desirous of ascertaining public sentiment on the subject, hence the local society is anxious to have a large representation at tomorrow's hearing.

According to health records there are now 150 cases of advanced tuberculosis in this city and double that number in Elizabeth.

FRIENDLY SONS BANQUET AT COUNTY SEAT TONIGHT.

Many notable men will attend the banquet of the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick at the Y. M. C. L. hall in Elizabeth tonight. Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, will be the toastmaster.

Among the guests will be former Governor Edward C. Stokes and General Murray, from Trenton. The toasts will be responded to by Hon. Thomas A. Davis, Rev. Joseph L. Kirlin, Peter A. O'Boyle, William J. Crossley and Joseph M. Noonan.

Among the guests from this city besides Father Bogan will be Amos Andrews, W. L. Hetfield, Jr., Harry W. Marshall, E. C. Westcott, Chief P. S. Kiely, John Campbell, George Johnson, L. B. Woolston and Martin B. Stutsman.

BETHEL CHAPEL'S FAIR GETS AUSPICIOUS START.

A three nights' fair and bazar was successfully inaugurated at Bethel chapel last night under the auspices of the Circle of Ernest Workers of the congregation. There was a large attendance and the committee is highly gratified over the promising outlook.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a concert which was given by the children of the Sunday-school. Fancy articles, candy, cakes and refreshments were dispensed from attractively decorated booths. The committee in charge is Mrs. Sarah Preor, Mrs. F. D. Tildon Mrs. George Blake and A. W. Brown.

"GET-TOGETHER CLUB'S" ST. PATRICK'S DAY DINNER.

Assemblyman James Baker, of Hudson county, will be the chief speaker at the Get-Together Club's St. Patrick's day banquet at the Hotel Waldorf tonight. Judge William N. Runyon will be the toastmaster. The forty members with forty friends will enjoy the feast prepared by Henry Windham.

The other speakers will be Andrew McCardell, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, George J. Tobin, James E. Martine, former Mayor James F. Buckle and Judge William Newcorn.

Arrested as Vagrant.

James Sorenson, a youth of eighteen, who was arrested for vagrancy by the local police last night was allowed to go when he explained that he lived in Perth Amboy with his parents and was here looking for employment. Sorensen was carried beyond his station and had to walk back from Bound Brook to Plainfield, so he said, and that caused him to be here late at night and without the friend with whom he came here.

FARMER'S WAGON AND BEAN POLES STOLEN

Henry Kennedy, a Stirling farmer, encountered a piece of real hard luck yesterday which resulted in the theft of a wagon and about 2,000 cedar beanpoles.

Mr. Kennedy left Stirling early yesterday morning with the cargo of beanpoles for delivery to a Piscataway farm. While coming down the Stirling hill Mr. Kennedy's wagon struck a soft patch of ground with the result that two wheels of the vehicle sunk into the ground to a depth of two feet. Mr. Kennedy, although assisted by a number of farmhands in the vicinity, was unable to extricate the wagon from the mudhole and started back to his farm to secure another wagon.

When he returned to the Stirling hill he was surprised to see that the wagon and beanpoles had been removed. Kennedy was quick to realize that his property had been stolen and hastened to borough police headquarters and notified Chief Weiss. The borough sleuth is now investigating the case.

LEGISLATURE ATTACKED BY ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

The savage attack of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League upon members of the Legislature and Governor Fort with reference to the local option bills that are pending, lost considerable force by reason of the fact that the day before the charges were circulated Senator Ackerman, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had reported the Gebhardt bill in the Senate. Mr. Ackerman stated yesterday afternoon that the Gebhardt bill, which is the same as the local option bill introduced in the House by Assemblyman Ridgway, was not entirely satisfactory to the Judiciary Committee, but that in order to satisfy the Anti-Saloon League the measure was reported without recommendations from the committee.

Mr. Ackerman declined to discuss the charges made by the local optionists. He was one of the six Senators who last year voted for the Plummer local option bill and has repeatedly declared that he is heartily in favor of the local option idea.

DR. P. W. HARRISON SENDS A MESSAGE FROM NAPLES.

Dr. Paul Wilberforce Harrison, the missionary of Trinity Reformed church to Arabia, writes from Naples to Rev. J. Y. Broek, that he has begun the study of the Arabic language, which he will continue from now on. He says that he has had a pleasant voyage thus far and has not been seasick.

At the present time he is crossing the Indian ocean, but at the time of writing could not tell what port would be touched in Arabia. When he lands he will be met by a company of missionaries and it will then be decided where Dr. Harrison is to make his home for the present.

Meat Dealers Counterclaims.

Julius Vergilnisky recovered a judgment in the District Court this morning from Charles Musser, a meat dealer, for $60.82 balance due on a note dated April 14, 1909. There was a mass of coflicting testimony in the case and it was a desperate one to untangle, but Vergilnisky proved to the satisfaction of Judge Newcorn that the balance due on the note had not been paid, although the value of a wagon for which Musser put in a counter claim, was supposed to have offset the amount. Francis J. Blatz for the complainant and J. Henry Crane for Musser argued the case.

St. Patrick's Day Supper.

"St. Patrick's Day in the morning" found the young women of the Missionary Society of the First Baptist church busy as bees in their preparations for the supper to be given this evening in the church lecture room in aid of missions. They confidently hope that St. Patrick's Day in the evening will find a goodly number of their friends and friends of missions, who will partake of the supper they will serve from 6 to 8 o'clock. It is a case of help yourself and at the same time help others.

Will Discuss Church Addition.

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church will meet Monday night, at the home of Elder George L. VanEmburgh, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of building an addition to the rear of the church edifice to accommodate the primary department of the Sunday-school.

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell several parcels of real estate on Saturday. See adv. on page eight. 3 16 3

DR. COOLEY MENTIONED FOR BOARD PRESIDENT

The re-election of Dr. Justus H. Cooley as a member of the North Plainfield Board of Education makes is exteremely possible that he will be the candidate of the board to succeed Dr. James R. Joy as president. The new board will be organized on Monday night, March 27.

Dr. Cooley is the dean of the board having served twelve years as a member of the body. During the greater part of the time Dr. Cooley has been a member of the building and grounds committee and his labors in that department are being commended on all sides.

In reversing his decision not to retire Dr. Cooley made a popular move and as is only natural that sentiment mong the members and citizens generally is that he be honored by being elected presiding officer of the board.

YAMA YAMA'S DANCE A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

The Yama-Yama Social Club gave its first ball last night in Saengerbund hall, in the borough, and it was largely attended, some 600 guests being present when the grand march led by President Jacob Schlick began. The spacious hall never was more handsomely decorated and reflected great credit on John Schropp, who arranged the color scheme.

The original flag and bunting adornments of the hall were added to by liberal applications of green streamers and festoons of flowers making a most pleasing and satisfying combination.

The music was by Suhr's orchestra, which played upon a stage illuminated with Japanese lanterns and amid a bewildering array of green and red.

The success of last night has encouraged the club members to plan a summer excursion and President Schlick said that a ball would be an annual fixture. Dancing continued until 3 o'clock this morning. The officers of the new club are: President, Jacob Schlick; vice-president, Percy Haberle; secretary, George Egel; treasurer, Charles E. Pagliuca. The floor manager last night was John Caulfield.

BOYS' CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL SUPPER

The Junor Boys' Club of Hope chapel held a supper at the chapel, last night, with thirty-five of the thirty-six members present. An excellent menu was enjoyed after which the boys listened to interesting talks and addresses by John Leal, Rev. L. R. Howard, G. Herbert Condict, James Penney, William Doig and Charles G. August, guests and honorary members of the club.

The talks were a feature of an unusually pleasant evening. John Heron, president, was toastmaster and his introductory remarks were full of wit. The committee in charge comprised Arthur Walls, chairman; George Leighs, John Heron, William Marsh, Thomas Heron and Guy Snyder.

Under the leadership of Charles G. August the club is showing renewed interest. Basketball, bowling and other indoor games have furnished good sport for the boys on Wednesday night when they meet at the chapel. Any boy in the Sunday school over fourteen years old or over is eligible to membership.

HOPE MEN'S CLUB ELECTED NEW OFFICERS.

The Men's Club of Hope chapel took a new lease of life at its annual meeting Tuesday night. New officers were elected and an increased interest is anticipated. Those chosen were President, James Penney; vice-president, James Cullinan; secretary, Frank Rimmer; financial secretary, William Barker; treasurer, Walter Firstbrook. Donald McInnes was elected a member.

The club has decided to meet the third Tuesday of each month in the chapel, instead of twice a month as has been the custom. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

STRIKERS COLLECT FUNDS

Mayor Gives Delegation of Phila. Carmen Permission to Solicit Money.

WANT PLAINFIELD'S HELP.

Quaker City Labor Union Men Will Play a Hurdy-gurdy in the Streets and Appeal for Financial Aid.

A delegation from the 6,700 trolley strikers in Philadelphia arrived here last night with a hurdy-gurdy which they have received permission to play in the streets of this city in order to get funds to carry on their warfare against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

The spokesman of the party, William Koeneman, and his partner, W. Pusey, sought and obtained the Mayor's permission for their work here and will start to gather in what money they can from the public and the sympathizers of the men in their strike. There are three other men in the squad, B. M. Smith, James McConnell and Philip Strain.

In speaking of the recent troubles in the City of Brotherly Love this morning Mr. Koeneman told tales of police brutality which were hardly believable. He said that innocent women had been kicked by the police, women carrying children were forced from their own doorsteps into their house and clubbed when they did not move quickly enough.

Mr. Koeneman denied the story that the police were in cahoots with the strikers. He emphasized the fact that the guardians of the peace were hand in glove with the railroad people and that they do not expect any sympathy from the blue coats.

As to their prospects for winning the fight now going on he was noncommittal, but he hoped the people of this city would lend their aid in the cause for what the men deem their right to live and earn a living.

R. MARSH, SR., PLANTED HIS POTATOES TODAY

A white St. Patrick's day did not prevent Randolph Marsh, Sr., of Plainfield avenue, from carrying out his time honored custom of planting potatoes today, and if everything goes along well, he expects to have new potatoes of his own raising for his dinner on July 4.

For the past forty years Mr. Marsh has claimed the distinction of raising the first crop of potatoes among local gardners. As no one disputed the claim it looks as if Mr. Marsh is the local potato raising champion.

LEGISLATURE PASSES PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL

The Wakelee-Pierce bill creating a public utility commission out of the present railroad commission passed both Houses of the Legislature at Trenton last night and was sent to Governor Fort today, and it is expected that the latter will approve of it without delay.

The bill received the solid support of the Republicans in both the Senate and the Assembly. In the House the Democratic minority lined up against it throughout the discussion and on final roll-call. In the Senate only two Democrats voted for it, Cornish, of Warren, and Price, of Sussex. The Democrats carried out their opposition to it on the ground that the bill was not an adequate or effective one.

Bicycle Thief Busy Again.

A new Pierce bicycle owned by the young son of Ernest T. Hand, of 134 North avenue, was stolen yesterday afternoon from the yard at the Stillman School, while the boy was in school, and about the same time another wheel owned by another boy was taken from the same place. Mr. Hand today offers a reward of $10 for the recovery of his son's wheel.

Borough Court.

Renaldo Coon was arrested last night for raising a disturbance at Saengerbund Hall where a dance was in progress. John Jackson, who was arrested for disorderly conduct on Monday night escaped with a suspended sentence.

Pastors to Exchange.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will exchange on Sunday, morning and evewith Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, pastor of the Second Reformed church, Somerville.

DEATH OF PIONEER PLAINFIELD RESIDENT

Andrew J. Ryno died at his home at South Plainfield, yesterday, with gangrene, following an illness of six weeks. He was in his seventy-second year and was a native of this city where he resided all his life, up to one year ago, when he removed to South Plainfield.

Mr. Ryno conducted a wheelright business at the latter place until illness overtook him. For forty years he conducted a similar business at Lambert's Mills. He was born at the old homestead on Terrill road, and was a charter pupil of the old Jackson school house. Surviving him are a wife and five sons, Jesse, Kaiser, Joseph, Henry and Peter, all of whom reside in this city.

The funeral service will be held at South Plainfield tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be made at Scotch Plains.

JAMES E. MARTINE SPEAKS AT NEW DEMOCRATIC CLUB

James E. Martine addressed the newly organized Tioga Democratic Club, of Jersey City, in their rooms, corner of Hillside avenue and William street, in that city last night, and met with the usual ovation. Perhaps it might better be said that Mr. Martine received an exceptionally hearty demonstration of affection from his confreres of the new club, as he received round after round of cheers for his enlightening arraignment of the Republican legislators and politicians.

The burden of Mr. Martine's talk had to do with the topics of the day and he laid great stress on the iniquitous tariff and the processes of present day legislation. Mr. Martine characterized the Public Utilities bill as passed at Trenton yesterday as "an insult to the intelligence of the people of the State of New Jersey."

Among the other speakers were Police Commissioner Patrick Gleason and Assemblyman James Baker, of Hudson county. After the entertainment furnished by professional talent and a band of music the members and invited guests sat down to a fine repast. Incidental speeches and toasts kept the gathering in good humor until 1 o'clock this morning.

YOUNG SWIMMER HELD TIGHT TO HIS WATCH

A unique way to protect one's watch from being lost or stolen while in swimming was unfolded by Jimmy Williams, a twelve-year-old boy in Professor Corsan's swimming class at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

During the instruction Professor Corsan observed that young Williams insisted on swimming with his right hand closed. The instructor told the boy several times to swim with his hand open, but the pupil persisted in keeping the right fist clinched.

"Why do you insist on keeping your hand closed," inquired the Professor.

Young Williams opened his hand and displayed a timepiece and replied: "It's like this, Professor, you see I don't want to lose or have me watch stolen. My dad gave it to me for Christmas."

Y. W. H. A. ORGANIZED AS AUXILIARY TO Y. M. H. A.

The Young Women's Hebrew Association was organized in the Y. M. H. A. Hall on Grove street, last night, with nine members, and these officers were elected: President, Miss Anna Rosenson; vice-president, Miss Flora Levine; secretary, Miss Esther Wolfe; treasurer, Miss Sadie Goldstein.

The new association will be an auxiliary to the Y. M. H. A. and the prospects for a large and successful organization are promising. It will aid in raising fund with which to pay the teachers in the Sabbath-school, and later the two associations will give a ball.

Defer Local Option Bill.

The Gebhardt local option bill came up for final passage in the Senate at Trenton last night, but on the motion of the introducer it was laid over nutil next week. Mr. Gebhardt said that the bill would probably be taken up Tuesday.

Among the guests registered this week at the Kirkwood Hotel, Camden, S. C., are Mrs. S. A. Ginna, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ginna and Miss C. W. Ginna, of Watchung avenue.

MRS. TODD HAS NOT SUED FOR A DIVORCE

The article published yesterday in The Daily Press in regard to the suit brought by Mrs. Sarah Todd against her husband, Hugh A. Todd, general manager and a member of the firm of the Boice-Runyon Company, was erroneous in stating that the suit was for absolute divorce on statutory grounds. The suit is brought simply for separate maintenance under the statute, and the alimony granted was temporary alimony pending a trial of the case. There have been no proceedings instituted for divorce against Mr. Todd on any ground.

The statement as published yesterday was received through the usual and regular news channels, and this paper greatly regrets that there was any mistake made in its transmission and publication.

This statement is made voluntarily as soon as the error was discovered in justice to Mr. Todd and to ourselves.

In his answer to his wife's bill, Mr. Todd denies the accusations made by his wife, except that he admits that they have not recently lived together, but this he claims was the wife's fault.

HELLER & CO., OF NEW YORK WIN FROM CHAS. ROGOFF

Judge William Newcorn handed down a decision in the District Court this morning in the case of Heller & Co., of New York, against Charles Rogoff, of West Second street, giving the New York concern a judgment for $82.76 and costs.

The plaintiffs claimed that Mr. Rogoff had not returned certain goods which he claimed to have sent in and which were a part of a consignment of cloth delivered in September last year. Miss Jennie Levy, bookkeeper for Heller & Co., who testified to the non-receipt of the goods in question was corroborated by one of the firm, which made the burden of proof fall upon Rogoff. The latter could not prove by any direct evidence that the goods were returned to Heller & Co and Judge Newcorn gave them a judgment for the amount stated above with costs. Harry C. Runyon appeared for Heller & Co. and Francis J. Blatz for Rogoff.

GODWIN BEARD SUCCEEDS SEC'Y A. RUSSELL BOND.

At the teachers' meeting of the First Presbyterian Sunday school held in the Sunday school rooms of the church last night all the officers for the ensuing year were re-elected with the exception of the secretary. A. Russell Bond, who has served in this capacity for so long, was forced to resign because of lack of time to devote to the duties. Mr. Bond was succeeded by Godwin Beard.

The other officers are: L. H. Gates, superintendent; A. V. Searing, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Williams, assistant superintendents; Jesse Lounsberry, treasurer, and Warren Townley, librarian. Rev. Lewis Bond was re-elected superintendent of the home department.

The reports of the school for the year show it to be in a most flourishing condition. One of the unusual and unique features of this Sunday school is that the collections of one Sunday in the month are sufficient for the school's expenses, the money collected on the other three Sundays being devoted to missions. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring feels proud of this fact and believes his school stands alone in this respect.

Anti-Bucket Shop Law.

Acting for President of the Senate Frelinghuysen, Senator Ackerman yesterday afternoon at Trenton introduced a bill to prohibit bucket-shops. The provisions of the bill are that it shall be a misdemeanor and a fine of $5,000 shall be imposed on corporations engaged in business and a fine of $1,000 or three years imprisonment, or both, on individuals who similarly violate the provisions of the law.

Lecture on China.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Dr. Boice Morris, a missionary to China, will give an illustrated talk on China. He is now home on his first furlough. He recently gave his talk at Morristown where it was favorably received His stereopticon views are said to be very fine. The public is invited. The meeting will be held in the Sunday-school room.

Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, of Elizabeth, will preach morning and evening on Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church. He is a talented preacher and doubtless he will attract large congregations.

HAD LIST TO STARBOARD

Capt. Houtaling and His Spouse Almost Wrecked in Sight of Crowd.

SURVIVED THE LONG VOYAGE.

Rescued by Chief Kiely With Landlubbers' Help—They Return to the Louise G.

When the stout barge, Louise G., tied up at the Wayne dock in Elizabethport after a tempestuous voyage from the Delaware capes yesterday, Captain William Houtaling and his good wife Sarah, determined to stretch their shore limbs with a tour of Newark and nearby towns.

The sea trip was a lengthy one and on board the Louise G. only the usual provender incidental to a short voyage was to be had. So, acting upon the principle that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," meaning that these chances are to be taken advantage of, the gallant captain and his mate sallied forth to sample on the way some of the good things of which they had been deprived for a month. Their first halting place was a wanderers' retreat in Newark, where liquid refreshments enough to fill their starboard scuppers were taken abroad and when Newark was left behind and the intervening towns between there and this city had all been seen and likewise visited all the bunkers were filled and flowing over.

The happy mariner and his spouse arrived in Plainfield along about 5 o'clock with a distinct list to port and navigating under great difficulty. Although the chief officer of the expedition had an anchor to windward the ship continually dragged and was soon upon the shoals of Watchung avenue and Fifth street, where she came up suddenly hard and fast. The signal for a pilot was set and likewise distress signals. The latter were answered as soon as Chief Kiely hove in sight and after a strenuous period the craft was again launched and with the assistance of a pair of landlubbers the happy twain finally anchored in police headquarters.

Judge Runyon heard the story of the shipwreck this morning and had pity on the storm tossed pair and allowed them to seek their berths on the Louise G.

STEINBERG CASE REOPENED BY JUDGE NEWCORN.

Because a judgment was entered against him for $166.25 on March 9 last Jacob Steinberg has entered a protest in the shape of an affidavit which was presented to Judge William Newcorn this morning in which he says he was not apprised of the action in time to present his defence and claims also that he had been told that the case had been adjourned until today.

Mr. Steinberg declares that he is not interested as a member of the firm which is being sued as he is not in business with his son and is not responsible for the contracts made by his son.

Upon motion of Francis J. Blatz, counsel for Steinberg, the case was reopened and set for a hearing on March 24. Steinberg claims to have a perfect defense.

SUPERB TALENT FOR ST. STEPHEN'S CONCERT.

Under the auspices of St. Stephen's church, a concert of more than usual interest will be given at the Hartridge School auditorium on Thursday evening, April 7, at 8:15 o'clock. The affair has been arranged by Joseph McIntyre and the program will be under his personal direction. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church. The tickets are now on sale.

The Board of Education does not know whether the lack of attendance of the voters at the annual school meeting is to be taken as confidence in the Board of Education or a lack of interest in the school question.

If the local fans are to have a baseball team this year it is about time something was done towards starting the game a-going.

WESTFIELD.

An investigation is to be made to ascertain why townpeople do not patronize local stores to a greater extent.

BACK TO THE GAME FOR JOHN HARKINS

The famous Jim O'Rourke played ball until he reached the sixty year mark, Arlie Latham at fifty years is stealing bases in exhibition games played by the Giants at Marlin, Tex., and now, John Harkins, of New Market, is trying to emulate this pair of venerable Methusalehs of the diamond, by getting his erstwhile iron wing in shape in anticipation of returning to the diamond this season.

John will never be forgotten by local fans because of his former connections with Somerville in ye Old Crescent days when he was the curve Goliah in these regions. John is crowding the half century mark, and is the father of eight strapping youngsters, yet he has hopes of getting back in the game again this season. His last appearance in a uniform was about seven years ago when he covered first base for New Brunswick against St. Mary's on the old Fourth street diamond.

John is now in the preliminary stages of training. He is walking ten miles a day to reduce his avordupois and is throwing the ball against a cushioned backstop which he has arranged in his wagon shed adjoining his New Market hosterly. In speaking of his determination to re-enter the game for more laurels, John said yesterday:

"I feel as good as I ever did. My arm is strong and as hard as a brick. I'm a bit stiff in my traveling pins, but I believe that my daily walks will eradicate the kinks there. My eye is just as good as ever and I see no reason why I shouldn't return and hold my end up with the stars of the rising generation. I intend to show these young fellows something. Just keep your eyes on me."

Harkin's game spirit should encourage Bogert Conklin, John McLaughlin, J. Hervey Doane, Billy Lee, and some of the other old timers to make efforts to get back in the grand old game.

Never before in the history of American college baseball has a son of Japan been honored by an election to the assistant managership, which will eventually mean managership. Yone Alai is the Harvard Japanese student who has thus been singled out. He is a bright, active young man with a thoroughuly Americanized air and is thoroughly familiar with the American National game. He has played ball himself, though he was not proficient enough to make the Harvard 'varsity. His fellow students recently honored him with the election to assistant managership, which in his junior year will make him manager of the team.

Barney Joy, the Hawaiian pitcher, who was obtained by the Boston Nationals from the San Francisco club three years ago, has signed a contract for the season of 1910, after holding out for two years against joining the Boston club. Joy is a southpaw and a veritable giant in stature, weighing 225 in condition, and is now 26 years old.

It is announced by physicians attending James J. Hogan, the former Yale football captain, ill with kidney trouble, that his condition is somewhat improved and that there is a chance for his recovery.

While there never has been any doubt that Hans Wagner would play with the Pittsburg team, a sigh of relief went up from the fans when it was announced that the big shortstop had agreed to terms and would sign his contract Friday. Wagner will not go to West Baden with the team, but will join them at St. Louis for the southern trip.

Fifty years old and still stealing bases is the proud record of Arlie Latham, the veteran infielder, who is with the Giants in the official capacity of coach. Even now Arlie displays more "pep" than most of the youngsters.

No doubt the best cure for pessimism is Robinson Crusoe's device of making a list of all one's blessings and another of all one's troubles, and then comparing the two. A simpler calculation was that of the youth in the following story, taken from the Kansas City Journal:

"Every rain-storm," complained the pessimistic boy, "means a postponed game."

"And every postponed game," answered the optimistic boy, "means a double-header."

Who played first base for the New York Nationals in 1889?

The New Jersey tennis clubs are arranging for an active season, and in addition to the Middle States' championship and the State championship meetings, which will probably be held at Orange on the Montrose courts and at Morristown, there will be an unusual large number of open and club tournaments in this State. Among the other clubs to hold such matches this summer are the Plainfield Country Club, South Orange Field Club, the Castle Point Tennis Club, the Edgewood Tennis Club, the Englewood Field Club, the Essex County Country Club, the Montclair Athletic Club, the Morristown Field Club, the Ramapo Field Club, the Seabright Tennis Club, the Princeton University Club, the New Brunswick Tennis Club, the Rutgers Tennis Club, the Stevens Institute Tennis Club and the Bay Head Yacht Club.

GOLF.

The handicap committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association is having its usual difficulty in getting responses from the various clubs. Thus far twenty-six clubs have failed to send in lists. They are as follows:

Baltusrol, Bedford, Briarcliff, Canoe Brook, Century, Crescent Athletic Club, Deal, Dunwoodie, Essex County, Greenwich, Flushing, Hollywood, Knollwood, Mahopac, Ocean Country, Plainfield, Richmond County, Saegkill, Scottish-American, Seabright, Somerset Hills, South Orange Field, St. Andrews, Tuxedo, Westbrook and Westfield.

The Montclair Golf Club was the first to respond, and altogether thirty-one clubs have turned in lists.

Jack Campbell has been engaged as professional at the Forest Hill Field Club for the coming season. This well known Scot, who has been identified for five years with the Overbrook Golf Club, near Philadelphia, is a brother of Alec ("Nipper") Campbell, of the Country Club of Brookline.

Isaac Mackie of the Fix Hills Golf Club, John Pearson, formerly of the Richmond County Country Club, who now has a green near Chicago, and Melwood, assistant to Barker at Garden City, came back from Scotland on Saturday. Aleck Smith of the Wykagyl Country Club, reported yesterday.

The Senate at Trenton Tuesday defeated the bill introduced by Assemblyman Swartz, of Union, and which would authorize raising the salaries of two of the subordinate officers of the Rahway Reformatory. HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA.

Does it not seem strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema?

A 25-cent bottle of a simple wash stops the itch and will surely convince any patient.

This wash is composed of mild and soothing oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol and glycerine, etc., and known as D. D. D. Prescription. We do not know how long the D. D. D. Labortories will continue the 25c offer, as the remedy is regularly sold only in $1.00 bottles and has never before been put on the market on any special offers.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It may be an interesting news item to many of your readers to know the historical connections of the land that the U. S. Government has decided to buy for a postoffice site in this place. The original "Plainfield Quaker Meeting House" was built in the woods of Short Hills between here and Rahway, 1731. After an interval of twenty-nine years, a proposition was made to remove the little house, 24 feet square, to this place. The question of removal engaged the continued attention of the Friends nearly every year from this date (1760) for another long period. Finally a definite and favorable conclusion was reached, November 15, 1787. A large committee was appointed by the society to consider the proposition of buying a properly located site and erecting a new meeting house thereon. These men composed the committee: John Webster, David Vail, Isaiah Shotwell, John Vail, John Webster (3d), Isaac Laing, Samuel Pound, Jacob Laing, Josiah Dunham, John Haydock, Benj. Shotwell, Joseph Stackhouse, Joseph Shotwell, William Smith, Ambrose Copland, Samuel Marsh and Hartshorn Fitz Randolph.

This large committee attended to their duties and reported that they had agreed upon a suitable lot of three acres near the dwelling of John Webster, the third, and proposed that the meeting house should be built 34x48 feet. This report was approved by the society and the following building committee was appointed: William Shotwell, Edward F. Randolph, William Webster, Edward Moore, David Vail, Ambrose Copeland and Hugh Webster.

The frame structure as it is seen in 1910 is the identical meeting house erected by the Quakers and first occupied by them on the 20th of 8th mo., 1788.

The expense of the lot and its fencing was 47 pounds, 14 shillings, 3 pence, and the cost of the building 474 pounds, 7 shillings, 10 pence, all subscribed for and paid in by the 4th mo. 21st, 1790. The three acres bought by the Quakers about a century and a quarter ago from the Webster farm, included the land where the meeting house now stands, the graveyard in the rear and the site of the proposed United States postoffice.

ACCUSED THE WRONG MAN OF BIGAMY.

Because he happened to have the same name as an alleged bigamist, John Masker, a contractor, twenty-three years old, of John street, Belleville, spent several hours in a cell at the police station of the township Tuesday. Masker was arrested by Police Chief Flynn late in the afternoon, upon a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Agnes Heller Masker, of 141 Maple avenue, Irvington. She believed him to be her husband until saw him taken from a cell. The Irvington woman was seeking the husband upon a charge of failing to support her. She claims that she is his fifth wife. According to her story, one of the other wives is dead, another got a divroce and two are living.

When Mrs. Masker, who is about forty-seven years old, found out that the prisoner was not her husband she thought he might be the son of the man sought. Careful questioning by her and by the magistrate, however, convinced both that the man held was no relative of the man sought. He was then released and the complainant, at the suggestion of the justice, started for his home to "square" matters with his wife. Shortly after they had gone, the wife of the arrested man, appeared at the police station to convince the judge that she was his only wife.

Masker's arrest came about through the publication of a newspaper account about a glandered horse owned by him. The Irvingon woman saw this and suspected that he was her husband, who, she says, deserted her in 1906. She went to Belleville and questioned Health Inspector W. Brand Smith, who had been to the Belleville man's stable, about him. She learned that the contractor had a wife and became convinced after Smith had described this woman, that she was No. 6, about whom she had heard. The woman went to Police Justice L. Faucherie and had the warrant issued for the Belleville man. There was no question, she thought, as to his identity.

Flynn, who had no description of the alleged bigamist, found Masker at work about his house, which is in the western end of the township, near the Bloomfield line. The contractor was dumbfounded when placed under arrest. He walked with the chief to the jail, about two miles away.

The Irvington woman appeared with a daughter at the jail at 7 o'clock last night. When she saw the prisoner, she drew back and exclaimed:

"Oh, that's not my husband. The man I'm after is about fifty years old, and this fellow is not much more than a boy."

Explanations followed and the woman apologized for the trouble she caused him.

"Well, it's never too late to mend," replied Masker, whereupon the magistrate suggested that the woman go back home with the released man and tell his spouse that she had no rival.

The Irvington woman says she was married to Masker at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, this city, in August, 1905. She was a widow and lived in the same house with him and his mother at 678 Bergen street. Seven months later, she declared, he left her. She traced him several times, she added, and had him arrested in this city, but he always managed to get free. The First Precinct police, she declares, now have a warrant for him sworn to by her.

"OLD MARTINA" DEAD; THOUGHT TO BE 107.

Township Physician Herbert B. Vail, of Belleville, was notified Tuesday of the death at the Home for incurables, Ridgewood, on Monday, of Miss Martina White, a township charge, who was said to be 107 years old. The body will be taken to Belleville for burial.

Miss White, who was a French-Canadian, went to the Ridgewood institution from St. Barnabas' Hospital, Newark, several weeks ago. She spent more than a month in the institution and was helpless as the result of dislocation of the hip, sustained by a fall in Belleville.

Miss White came to Belleville from Canada about thirty years ago. Her sister, Mrs. George Washington Caldwell, of Ralph street, with whom she lived, says that she does not know what her exact age was, but is sure that she was beyond the century mark. She thinks that 107 was about the right age.

Miss White's nearest relative, excepting Mrs. Caldwell, is a niece who is said to live some place in Newark.

Miss White gained a livelihood in Belleville by doing housework. Of late years, however, weakness, due to age, prevented her from attending such duties, and she devoted her time to raising chickens and selling eggs. With a basket in one hand and a walking-stick in another she might have been seen in all kinds of weather. She was known as "Old Martina."

The fall that eventually caused her death was due to her efforts to get out of the way of a frightened horse. She was crossing Main street when a horse began to prance. She jumped to one side to prevent herself from being trampled upon and slipped.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Glover, will remove April 1 from 720 Watchung avenue to East Seventh street.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

For the purpose of advertising Dunellen, the publicity committee of the Board of Trade, of that town, of which John R. The idea has struck a popular chord among the merchants and storekeepers of the town and from now on Dunellen will be extensively advertised through the mail by this method. The publicity committee also has plans to advertise the borough by issuing and sending through the mails 50,000 postal cards during the coming summer.

NEW D. A. R. OFFICERS NAMED.

Trenton, March 17.—New officers were nominated at the annual meeting Tuesday of the regents, delegates and officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution of the State of New Jersey. The meeting was held at the old barracks. The officers nominated are: Mrs. William Libbey, of Princeton, as State regent; Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, of East Orange, as vice State regent; Miss E. Mecum, vice-president-general of the national society, and Mrs. J. D. Bedle, of Newark, as honorary vice-president-general of the New Jersey society.

Mrs. Libbey, as State regent, presided at Tuesday's meeting and introduced Mrs. Walter Howe, of Princeton, the new State treasurer. Matters pertaining to the D. A. R. congress, to be held in Washington, D. C., on April 19, were considered.

A generous collection, which will entirely cover the cost of the Augusta Wood armchair, was given by the various chapters. The chair will be presented to the White House at the opening of the congress, and will be accepted by President Taft. Miss Matlack, chairman of the committee of New Jersey to attend the congress, gave an interesting talk and showed a number of designs of iron fixtures which she brought from Europe, some of which will be decided upon for the iron furnishings in the New Jersey room in Continental Hall. The iron to be used as well as the chair which is to be presented, was a part of the British war vessel Augusta Wood, which was sunk in the Delaware River at the battle of Red Bank.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon was served by arrangement of Mrs. George B. Yard, regent of the General George Washington Chapter.

At the afternoon session reports of the work done by the various chapters were given by their regents. Mrs. Sherrard, of the Haddonfield Chapter, extended an invitation for the spring meeting of the State D. A. R., which is to be held in Haddonfield in May.

HOPE CHAPEL LADIES' AID ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel was held yesterday afternoon. It was largely attended and considerable interest was shown in the reports presented for the past year. They showed great activity in the chapel work. The reports touched all phases of the work done at the chapel.

Mrs. L. R. Howard, treasurer, reported that $350.20 had been raised during the year and all but $15 had been expended in church work, while $150 went to the church fund.

These officers were elected for the year:

President, Mrs. Robert Hangliter; vice-president, Mrs. James Heron, succeeding Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, who held the office for four years; treasurer, Mrs. L. R. Howard; secretary, Mrs. Willard H. Cook, succeeding Mrs. M. W. Clark.

It was regretted that Mrs. Rittenhouse and Mrs. Clark felt compelled to resign their positions. Both have served efficiently in their respective offices. Following the business meeting refreshments were served in the dining-room.

A Philadelphia brewer has notified a Millville club that he has shipped it a carload of beer in crates to be drawn by the steward of the club as desired, as the strike will make it impossible to fill smaller orders.

Angry because he was told to leave the home of George Denvar, where he boarded, Edwin Kirlin is alleged to have struck Denvar a terrific blow in the face and he was held in $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Baldwin in Camden Tuesday. Denvar's home is at Blackwood. In making the complaint Denvar said: "I told him to get out because I thought he was too fresh with my wife."

Accused of attacking Ethel Harris, seventeen years old, in her home, 700 Federal street Joseph Sutton, of Fourth and Arch streets, Camden, was committed to jail in default of $800 bail from the police court Tuesday. The complaint was made by the girl's mother, who alleges that while she was in jail on a charge of keeping a disorderly house on Sutton's complaint, he visited her home in the night and frightened her daughter almost into hysterics.

Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania, held a hearing Tuesday at Harrisburg in the contest of the requisition of Governor Fort, of New Jersey, for the surrender to the authorities of Cape May county of J. W. Bayard, accused of converting property to his own use. The allegation was made that Bayard, who is a resident of Pittsburg, visited his former wife, from whom he was divorced some time ago, and upon leaving is accused of taking her automobile. Governor Stuart Tuesday night granted the requisition papers.

HERE AND THERE.

The oldest Elm tree in Caldwell, which was planted by Rev. Stephen Grover, the first pastor of the First Presbyterian church in that town, was felled Tuesday. The tree was on the lawn of the Grover house and for years had been the pride of the town. Under it ex-President Cleveland spent many a pleasant day when a boy. The old tree had been decaying for the past two years and what age had failed to do the elm beetle finished.

One of the half dollars struck by the Confederates in 1861 when the mint in that city feel their hands has been unearthel in Elizabeth and is the property of Fred Diehl, of that city. Mr. Diehl purchasel the coin many years ago in a New York curio shop, paying a trifling sum for the relic. On Monday of last week a similar coin was sold in New York at an auction sale for $3,750. Mr. Diehl is now in line for a customer for his coin. There were only four of the half dollars struck at the time and numismatists all over this country have been hunting for them for years. Mr. Diehl lives at 161 Spring street and since he has learned the value of his coin has had it transferred to a safe deposit vault where it will remain until sold to some collector who can afford to pay the market value of the coin. One other coin was traced to Jefferson Davis, who had it on his person when captured, but it has since been lost track of. The fourth coin has never been located.

If a man who gambles can be called square then the sobriquet of "Honest Phil" rightly belonged to Phil Daly who recently "cashed in" in New York. Daly began life in the country, but when he launched himself against Fate in the big city his grit and determination soon showed him to be the master of nerves. He established the Pennsylvania Club, the greatest gambling resort ever brought to the notice of the sports of New York, and there amassed a fortune and it has been said time and again that the game in Daly's place was always on the "square." He was so far trusted by the habitues of the place that they would bank their money with him.

The "Self-Master," a magazine published by the Andress S. Floyd fund, a story of which was published in The Daily Press yesterday, is a bright, newsy periodical brimfull of good things to read and literature well calculated to help the man or woman who reads it to have a fellow feeling for the unfortunates which this fund is reaching.

The devotion which has marked the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd since they took up the study of ways and means for reaching those outcasts, who hopeless from continual reverses, fear to seek the better things of life, is shown in the creed up to which they live and which is printed in the magazine. It is as follows:

"We believe that the body of man is the sacred temple of the soul, to be cherished with care and affection not defiled by neglect and hatred, to be strengthened by self-control, not weakened by unbridled desires and excesses, to be fed properly, not surfeited with luxury nor starved by the stress of poverty and asceticism.

"We believe that the mind faculty is God-like. God thinks; and the universe is the flower of His thought. Man thinks, and the conditions of his life conform to his will. For evil or for good, man's mind must move in thought, even as God must express Himself in the creation or destruction of worlds.

"We believe that the spirit of the Divine dwells in the soul of man, changeless and fearless in life and death; that while sorrow follows the footsteps of evil happiness in the footsteps of good, every soul draws in the spirit life from God, perfects itself more and more in the Divine likeness and grows secure in its immortality. And that the search for self-mastery awakens a spirituality which recognizes the One in all and the All in One, the Brotherhood of Humanity."

LIGHTED MATCH IGNITED DRESS

A match which Mrs. Cecelia Brennan, of 24 Prince street, Orange supposed she had extinguished, set fire to her apron or dress Tuesday afternoon, and she died of the burns in the Orange Memorial Hospital last night. Her sister, Mrs. Matthew Maxwell, of 28 Prince street, burned her hands badly while beating out the flames. Mrs. Brennan was the widow of Martin A. Brennan, at one time an alderman in Orange.

Mrs. Brennan was ironing in the kitchen of her home, and at 2:30 she lighted a gas stove for the purpose of heating an iron. The match she threw away, supposing she had distinguished it, but in a few seconds later her light house dress was in flames. She was alone in the house and she ran screaming to the home of her sister, next door. Mrs. Maxwell strove to beat out the flames with her hands, at the same time crying for help. Some of the neighbors heard her and ran to her assistance.

Dr. Thomas W. Harvey was summoned and advised that the woman be removed to the Orange Memorial Hospital, after he had done what he could to alleviate her suffering. At 8:30 o'clock she succumbed to her burns. An investigation was made by Roundsman Brown, of Orange and a burial permit was granted by Deputy County Physician M. Herbert Simmons.

Mrs. Brennan was born in Orange fifty years ago. She was the daughter of the late James McCrickard, who was one of the oldest residents of Orange. In 1878 she was married to former Alderman Brennan, who died ten years ago. She was a member of St. John's church. She is survived by four sons, Edward C., Martin A., Eugene J. and Herbert J. Brennan, who lived with their mother, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Morrell, of Yonkers, and Mrs. Henry J. Ball, of South Orange.

by no means.

"Nor have I any more fondness for having my decisions discussed than you would have for hearing your orders argued or questioned."

"It is my island," cried the man, roughly, "and if you stay, I stay."

"We lose time," said the woman, shortly. "I am here to give my testimony; you are prepared to take it?"

"I am," said the lieutenant-commander, stepping forward, notebook in hand.

"Captain, will you conduct the necessary inquiry?"

"Certainly," said the captain. "Mr. Langford, do you identify this lady?"

"I do, sir," answered Langford. "She is Miss Katherine Brenton of San Francisco."

"You say this of your own personal knowledge?"

"Yes, sir."

"You will make affidavit to that fact?"

"With pleasure."

"I wondered," said the woman, bitterly, "why you came back."

"It was at my wish, madam," returned Capt Ashby, formally.

He was not greatly prepossessed with the imperative manner and demeanor of this young woman, but he did not see exactly how he could resent it, or force any improvement in it. "Will you proceed now with your story," he continued. "Will you speak slowly so that Mr. Whittaker, who does not write shorthand, can take it down?"

Thereupon the woman told that portion of her tale which related to the evidence which she exhibited, the piece of the boat with the name of the ship upon it, the dog collar, the silver box, the Bible, the two rings. These were marked, set down and sworn to. The affidavit to which she subscribed her name, and to which she took oath on the very Bible of the island, was brief, though comprehensive, and the little ceremony was soon over. Mr. Whittaker assumed charge of all the exhibits. The tale having been completed and all the little formalities got through with, the little party stood around in awkward silence wondering what was next to come.

"Miss Brenton," said the captain at last, breaking the pause, "it seems a shame. For God's sake, reconsider your decision and come off to the ship!"

"No," returned the woman, quietly; "my mind is made up."

"Katharine!" exclaimed Langford, extending his hand in one final appeal.

"Not with you, either," said the woman.

"My dear young lady," began the old chaplain, "think what it is you do. Has any human being with such powers as you possess a right to bury herself in this lonely island? Is there no call—?"

"Sir," the woman interposed, "your plea might move me if anything could, but indeed 'tis useless as the rest."

"Hear mine, then," said the man, abruptly, even harshly.

The woman turned and faced him as unrelenting and as determined as she had faced the others. What could he say? There was but one plea that could move her. Was he about to make that?

"We have loved each other," he went on, brokenly. "It was my dearest wish, my most settled determination, to make you my wife. That wish I still entertain, that determination has not departed from me. You have refused to marry that man—"

"And would you have me do so?" asked the woman.

"No, a thousand times, no. I am sorrier every moment that I look at him that I did not kill him. But having refused him, there is nothing now that you can do but marry me. And as you have refused him, it makes it the more incumbent upon me to marry you and to take you away. Your honor demands it."

"My honor!" flamed out the woman, indignantly.

"I have said it," returned the man, doggedly.

"Gentlemen, you will forgive our frankness," said the woman, turning to the little group who waited, all except Langford, who had walked away out of earshot and who resolutely kept his back toward the party, "but this thing has to be settled. Now," said the woman, "here is no question of honor, but of love. I ask you, Man, do you love me as you did last night?"

"I—" he began, falteringly.

"You have never told me a lie," she continued. "You have never known anything but the truth."

"Until I learned from you," cried the man, "what you had concealed."

The woman smiled bitterly, waving aside this cruel stab.

"Tell me the truth. Do you love me as you did last night?"

"If you will have it, no," said the man, rushing to his doom.

Men have taken a bullet in the breast, a shot in the heart, and for a moment have maintained their erect position. The woman knew in that moment how such things could be

She Resolutely Set Herself to Wade Into the Deeper Sea.

"But I love you still," said the man. "And I still want you for my wife."

"Last night," went on the woman, as if in a dream, "I seemed to you the embodiment of every excellence that humanity can possess short of the divine."

"Yes," said the man, "I loved you as—"

"Do I still possess those qualities in your eyes?"

He hesitated. He strove to speak.

"The truth! The truth!" whispered the woman. "Nothing else, so help you God!"

"No," said the man, "but I love you still, and you ought to marry me, you must. Can't you understand?"

"Listen," said the woman, fiercely. "I did not go to that man yonder, although he offered me everything that honor could dictate and that true affection could suggest, I do believe, because I did not love him, although I have since come to respect him, after I have thought it over. It is not duty, but love, which is the compelling motive in this matter. And I won't take you; I would not take an angel from heaven unless he thought me in every particular all that a woman should be to a man, unless he loved me with his whole heart and soul absolutely, unfeignedly, completely. You don't. I don't even think that I love you now. You have been tried and tested, and you have failed. Gentlemen, will you take him away?"

"I stay here," said the man, bluntly, drawing apart from the others, "and I will kill with my own hands the man who lays a finger upon me."

"Sir," said the captain, "this land, I take it, is the United States. As the ranking officer present, I represent its law. It is under my rule. As to your choice, I have nothing to say, but as far as regards other things, you will have to obey me here as any other citizen of our country."

"And I know nothing of the United States or its laws," answered the man, proudly. "I am a law unto myself."

MAJOR W. B. MARTIN AMONG COMPETITORS

Among those who will try for a place on the American team, if the American accepts the challenge made by Canada for an international shoot to be held at Sea Girt in September, will be Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, military champion of the United States, and formerly captain of Co. K of this city.

The Canadian challenge comes from the Association of American International Riflemen, which is limited to those who have represented America in international contests, such as the Palma trophy and the Olympic games, and includes a number of the foremost military shots of the country. Brigadier-General Spencer, of New Jersey, for so many years president of the National Rifle Association of America, has given a handsome trophy for perpetual competition between Canada and the United States, the match to be called "The North American Match."

By the terms of the challenge, the match is to be shot alternately, first at Sea Girt and then at Ottawa, between September 1 and November 1 each year. The teams are limited to six principals and two alternates, all members to be citizens of the country they represent. They are to use the military arm of their respective countries, with any ammunition and sights. It will be the longest range international match so far as known, including 15 record shots at 200, 600, 900 and 1,200 yds. At 200 yards the targets of the N. R. A. of Great Britian will be used, and also at 900 yards; at 600 yards and 1,200 the targets of the N. R. A. of the United States will be used. Another novel feature of the match is that all shooting will be done in a prone position at all ranges.

Major Martin said yesterday that he would certainly try for a place on the American team.

GOVERNOR FORT NOW FOR "LOCAL OPTION."

Governor Fort Tuesday afternoon at Trenton declared that he believed that local option is the best solution of the saloon problem.

The Governor's unequivocal approval of the principle of a local option law was not accompanied by an opinion that the time is ripe for the enactment of such legislation in New Jersey. He did say, however, that he thought some parts of the state were ready for a local option law, but other sections were not.

BASKETBALL.

The P. H. S. basketball team defeated the Rahway High School five yesterday afternoon at the local five's gym. It was rather a one-sided game all the way through and P. H. S. had an easy time. The High School was defeated by Rahway before because the second team was sent down and the Rahway boys came here expecting to win.

The first half was close up to the last five minutes, but the score stood 32 to 12 when time was called.

In the second half P. H. S. took their time and easily ran the score up to 58 to 23 by the time the half was up. Doane and Morris starred for P. H. S. Manley played a good game at center and Lidgate came in in the last part of the game and did fine work. Overton was very strong at guard. K. Richie played a fast game for Rahway while his brother, W. Richie, played fast at guard. Clarke starred at forward. The line-up:

P. H. S.—Forwards, Morris, Clarke; center, Manley; guards, Doane, Overton, Lidgate.

Rahway—Forwards, Ayers, Austin; center, W. Richie; guards, K. Richie, Miller.

Goals from field, Morris, 7; Clarke, 3; Manely, 6; Doane, 8; Overton, 1; Lidgate, 5; Ayers, 1; Austin, 2; W. Richie, 3; K. Richie, 3; Miller, 1 foul goal. Referee, Collier; timer, Carty; time of halves, 15 minutes.

Toronto Wants Keeler Bad.

President McCafferty, of the Toronto Eastern League club, is in New York for the purpose of signing Wee Willie Keeler. President McCafferty declared yesterday that Toronto is willing to pay Keeler $5,000 a year if he will sign a two-year contract. The chances are that Keeler will accept the offer of the Canuck magnate.

TRADE BOARD MEETING

Resolutions Adopted Against Increased Sewerage Facilities.

TELEPHONES IN R. R. STATIONS.

Telegraph Offices Open on Sundays—Other Important Work Is Contemplated.

In spite of the many counter attractions in and about the city last night the meeting of the Board of Trade was well attended and thirty-four new members were added to the roll. Three resolutions of importance were introuced and passed and the committee, of which George Christian is chairman, reported favorable action by the two telegraph companies and the Central Railroad in regard to extra hours on Sunda, for the telegraph offices and the installation of telephone pay stations on both sides of the track.

It was the opinion of the board after some discussion that the twenty-year limited franchise for public utilities is a humbug and ought never to have become a law. It does not allow the capitalists whose money is invested in the various enterprises to get their money back.

The Postal and Western Union Telegraph companies have agreed to open their offices for extra hours on Sunday and they will be as follows: 9 to 10 in the morning and 5 to 6 and 8 to 9 in the evening.

The Central Railroad will allow the telephone company to install a pay station in both local stations for the convenience of the public, and it will take but a few days after the contracts are received by the local manager to place them.

The three resolutions introduced and passed were as follows: That, until the board shall have received such information that will lead it to believe that a new sewerage disposal plant is necessary it is their opinion that no further burden for a new plant be imposed upon the taxpayers of the city at this time. The present plant with some slight extension can be made to suffice for ten years more.

That, in order to secure an expression from the largest number of voters possible on April 19 next in the matter of the acquiring of a municipal water plant, the board suggests the outspoken expression on the subject from the banks, large business interests, prominent taxpayers and the newspapers, so that a decisive vote may be had; and

That, the board favors the establishing of a tuberculosis camp somewhere in or near the county. Messrs. Jeffery and Herman Schwed met with the Board of Freeholders in the county courthouse, Elizabeth, this afternoon to further this project.

It developed also at this meeting that Donald McGuinness, who had been subpoenaed to appear before the board, had no grievance against Mr. Burke on the cesspool matter, but did have a grievance against the city. He declared that he did not see why the people of the West End should pay sewerage assessments when they had no sewers.

At the next meting of the board the question of the public schools will be taken up and it is expected that the two county superintendents and the principals of the various schools will be present to discuss the problems which the board wants light on.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS IS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. STORR.

The Sunday school class, No. 2, of Trinity Reformed church, of which Philip A. Vroom is the teacher, was entertained at a St. Patrick's Day social at the home of one of the members, Mrs. Frank P. Storr, of West Front street, last night. There were twenty-nine members of the class present.

The evening was spent playing all kinds of games, while piano selections by Harold Storr added to the enjoyment. Frank P. Storr also entertained the company with several humorous stories. The home was appropriately decorated for the occasion, green being the prevailing color. During the evening refreshments were served.

Must Light Hallways.

First Chief T. O. Doane has instructed all owners of apartment houses in the city that they must keep the main hallways well lighted all night, as a means to aid escape in case of fire. Some of the owners have neglected to do this in the past. In numerous cases the halls are so dark that there would be serious results in case of fire or accident.

SOCIAL UNION FORMED BY LOCAL METHODISTS

Representatives of local Methodist churches met at Grace M. E. church last night and completed the organization of the Social Union of the Methodist Episcopal church of Plainfield, North Plainfield and vicinity. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected:

PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S CLUB PLANS FOR RE-ORGANIZATION.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church, met last night and discussed plans for re-organization. It is the desire of the men that the club be conducted along more practical lines in the future and a decision will be reached at the annual church meeting, Tuesday, April 12.

Heretofore, the club has simply held monthly meetings and given one or two banquets during the season, but something more practical is sought, whereby the men of the church will have a definite aim to work for and increase the membership.

GET-TOGETHERS' BANQUET

Most Enjoyable Affair in History of Organization Honors Saint Patrick.

"IF WALLS COULD BUT SPEAK."

Mr. Martine Electrifies His Hearers With Reference to "Room Overhead"—Other Speakers Heard.

Saint Patrick's Day was celebrated last night by the "Get-Together" Club in a fashion which none of those who enjoyed it will forget. A banquet, one of Henry Windham's best, the menu for which was prepared by the inimitable George F. Tobin, was discussed by eighty members of the club and their guests. Singing and speechmaking in which the patron Saint of Ireland was eulogized furnished entertainment, and some oratorical fireworks were let off in which only remote references were made to politics. Songs were contributed by Elmer Cutting, Judge William N. Runyon, Freeholder Sam P. T. Wilbur, Charles Ward, Tax Collector William R. Townsend, H. G. Cook, of Roselle; the Craig Brothers, of Dunellen, and Fred Haines and William L. Clifton.

The speakers were Assemblyman James Baker, of Hudson county, James E. Martine, the irrepresible farmer-orator; "State House" George J. Tobin, Inspector Andrew McCardell, former Mayor James F. Buckle, of "round the world" fame; Judge William Newcorn and Samuel P. T. Wilbur. All of the songs and speeches included touching references to the "day we celebrate" and many humorous stories told about the origin and nationality of St. Patrick.

Mr. Tobin made a happy speech of welcome to the guests and promised that St. Patrick's Day feasts would be a fixture on the calendar of the club. Judge Runyon, before introducing the speakers called for a standing toast to "St. Patrick, the patron Saint of Ireland," which was drunk amid cheers. James E. Martine, the first speaker, spoke on "what I think of you pirates," and said that another little prefix would cover the meaning more fully, but that he knew that he was among some of his most cherished friends notwithstanding their opposite opinions in politics. "Socially, convivially and religiously," he said, "I know of no other gang that I would better like to join, but politically, God help you!"

Mr. Martine paid a tribute to the Irish as a class. He said they were

FATHER B. M. BOGAN THE TOASTMASTER IN ELIZABETH

Many prominent officials, business men and other citizens of Elizabeth and other cities attended the banquet of the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick in Y. M. C. L. A. hall in Elizabeth last night. Altogether there were just a hundred diners, who under the witty and gracious guidance of the toastmaster, Rev. B. M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's, listened to some of the best speeches that have been heard in that city for many a day.

Father Bogan's introductory remarks preceding the introduction of Hon. Thomas A. Davis, of Orange, set everyone at ease and paved the way for one of the most enjoyable evenings of entertainment ever provided by this association.

Following Mr. Davis' speech, which had for its topic, "America, Our Country," Peter A. O'Boyle, of Wilkes Barre Pa., spoke of the "Influence of Irish Character on National Destiny," and was greeted with thunderous applause at the conclusion of his address. Others who spoke were Rev. Joseph L. J. Kirlin, of Philadelphia, on "The Day We Celebrate;" Col. Charles W. Fuller, of Bayonne, whose subject was "New Jersey," and Rev. Otis A. G. Glazebrook, of Elizabeth, who spoke on "Friendly Sons."

Many Plainfielders were present at the banquet and from all reports it was one of the occasions in life which are worth looking forward to and to hold in dear retrospection.

CODDINGTON SENTENCES POSTPONED TO MONDAY

The sentences which were to have been imposed this morning on Horace and Joel Coddington by Judge Schenck in the Somerset county court were postponed until Monday. Alvah A. Clark, counsel for Horace Coddington asked for a new trial for his client on the ground that one of the jurors who sat on the case had expressed an opinion to Frank Ballantine, a resident of Bernardsville, before the conclusion of the trial.

Prosecutor Reger opposed the granting of a new trial on the ground that the mere expression of an opinion of a juror could not have had any weight with the other members of the jury inasmuch as the opinion was not heard by them. Furthermore the expressing of such an opinion, declared Mr. Reger, does not disqualify a juror or render invalid his vote in the jury chamber.

Judge Schenck advised Mr. Clark, who made a strong plea for leniency for Coddington, that on Monday morning if no further evidence of the innocence of his client could be adduced he would impose sentence

DIVORCE FOR G. M. CLARK

J. E. Flannery, Named as Co-respondent, Must Pay Costs and Counsel Fee.

CHANCERY COURT DECIDES.

Woman Blamed by Co-respondent, and Vice Versa—Flannery Put in Defence—Spicy Evidence in the Case.

Vice-Chancellor Howell yesterday signed a decree granting to George W. Clark an absolute divorce from his wife, Maggie A. Clark. John E. Flannery, the co-respondent, who, at his own request, became a party to the suit, is required to pay not only the cost of the trial, but also the counsel fees of the aggrieved husband. The several amounts will be named at the time of the settlement of the decree.

The conclusions of the decree show that Mr. and Mrs. Clark were married on April 30, 1885. For many years they and John E. Flannery, the co-respondent, boarded with Mrs. Mary Fisher, the petitioner's sister on East Second street. The defendant was charged with illegal cohabitation with Flannery on May 15 and June 25, 1909. Flannery applied under the statute to be admitted as a defendant to the suit; he filed an answer in which he denied the charge made against him. He appeared at the final hearing by counsel who were heard on his behalf.

The vice-chancellor says that he does not find it necessary to decide whether the charge against the defendants is true or not, but that if committed at that time it was subsequently condoned, and whatever cause of action the petitioner is entitled to arising out of the circumstances which are in evidence as to the actions of the defendants on that day is lost because the petitioner received his wife again and continued to live with her until June 25 of the same year.

The decree is based on the real charge, which the vice-chancellor says he thinks is sustained by the evidence. The decree cites the evidence given by several witnesses, including that of the petitioner and the defendants, tending to prove the defendants guilty. He says that the testimony of all the witnesses practically agree.

Vice-Chancellor Howell says further, referring to the defendants: "They appeared to me to be persons who were half admitting and half denying the guilt of which they were inwardly conscious." He then says that he will therefore advise a decree in favor of the petitioner. Furthermore, he says "that this also establishes the guilt of the co-respondent, who has caused himself to be made a party to the litigation; and it likewise renders him liable for all the husband's costs and counsel fees in the proceeding."

Judge William A. Coddington was counsel for the petitioner; George W. Moy for the defendant, Maggie A. Clark; Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Judge William N. Runyon for the defendant, John E. Flannery.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS BOHRER ANNOUNCED AT PARTY.

The engagement of Miss Alice Bohrer, of West Second street, to Percy G. Allen, of Park avenue, was announced last night at a surprise party tendered the couple at the home of Miss Bohrer, by her parents. As a surprise the party was a complete success, neither of the young people concerned having an inkling of what was coming until they were surrounded by some thirty of their friends who marched into their home in a body.

A very happy evening was spent by the little company and the announcement of the engagement added to the enjoyment of those who came to surprise and were in turn taken aback themselves. There has been no date set for the wedding.

CITY NATIONAL BANK

HERE AND THERE.

It may be a good thing for the banks, but what about the poor husbands? This query is prompted by the statement recently made, that a certain banking institution in Rutherford has advised the women of that town to go through their husbands pockets after they are asleep and gather in the loose shekels which they find in more or less profusion. This bank, it is claimed, has profited much by this hint of how to steal without being caught and it is said the officials of the institution openly brag that during the month of February and a part of March they have increased their deposits in the savings department by several thousand dollars and have had more than five hundred new accounts opened by their women friends. It is a sad commentary on the great and good commonwealth which will permit such methods of accumulating wealth, but then the courts won't interfere where the "change so abstracted" is not enough to make any one husband more than passing angry at his spouse. But, then there is the moral side to the question which sooner or later must come to the knowledge of the children of such couples. What will they think of their mothers? If mamma can take money from papa when he sleeps why can't I take it whenever I want to whether the person I take it from is asleep or awake?

Selenium, a by-product of sulphuric acid, and an element which hitherto has not been given a prominent place among chemicals, has found at last its sphere of usefulness and will become a great factor in future naval and other battles according to Professor F. J. Hammer, a consulting engineer of New York city. Professor Hammer has studied the action of the chemical in various stages and has at last perfected an apparatus which when properly connected will fire a gun in the direction from which a ray of light may come from a hostile battleship at night. Professor Hammer said recently in a lecture before the students at Stevens Institute in Hoboken that Selenium becomes an excellent insulator in the dark, but also has the property of becoming a fine conductor for an electric current when exposed to light. As a protection against burglars using a light nothing has ever been discovered or invented which can compete with the heretofore neglected Selenium, for the reason that the instant the light from the burglar's lantern, candle or searchlight caught the Selenium with which the safe is charged it would, if properly equipped sound an alarm where it would do the most good for the protection of the premises.

25-MILE "BIKE" RACE FOR DECORATION DAY

The race commitee of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, of which Jack Horner is chairman, is planning for an active season. Races will be conducted on Decoration Day and Labor Day and also on the civic holiday which will be established by the Merchants' Association.

The stellar event on the program is the Plainfield Cycle Derby—a twenty-five mile road race—which is carded for Decoration Day. Mr. Horner today received a sanction from the N. C. A. for this race and also for a two-mile race for boys between 10 and 14 years of age to be held on the same day.

It is the plan of the race committee to conduct the Derby on the North Plainfield-Mountainside course which was used last year. The committee will seek permission to use the thoroughfare from Mayor Newton B. Smalley and the Somerset County Board of Freeholders. D. M. Adee, president of the N. C. A., will act as referee.

The entry list last year consisted of seventy-five riders, but this year Mr. Horner is confident that more than one hundred of crack riders in the East will participate in the race.

The Plainfield Cycle Derby, which is the new name for the Decoration Day contest, succeeds the time honored Irvington-Milburn contest, as the classic cycle event in the East. Last year the Irvington-Milburn management decided to step down and out and thus the field was left clear for Plainfield.

The Labor Day meet should also attract the cream of riders in the East. The program includes a 10-mile road race; one-mile county championship; one-mile city championship and a 2-mile race for boys.

On Tuesday, April 12, the members of the clubs will be entertained at dinner by Sherman Haberle and George Adams, the two Plainfield boys who have planned to travel on their bicycles to San Francisco from this city. The riders expect to start on their long journey early in May.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Local basketball fans should see an exciting contest on the local court tomorrow night when Plainfield will have as its opponent the crack Harlem Y. M. C. A. quintet of New York. The game is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock.

While the local basketball team is engaged the athletic squad will be in New York contesting in the annual indoor athletic meet of the Harlem Association.

Soccer enthusiasts are looking forward to a keen battle tomorrow afternoon on the South Second street gridiron when the Plainfield aggregation will play the Oceanic steamship eleven. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

PICKS "MATTY" AS THE CLEVEREST PITCHER.

"Doc" Whelan, manager of the Plainfield Water Company, is a thirty-third degree baseball fan in winter and summer. "Doc" follows the game in the newspapers during the off season, and in the summer season is a regular rooter at the Polo grounds. "Doc" is a former magnate, also, being the manager of the Elizabeth team in the Central New Jersey League in the early 90's.

Mr. Whelan is an enthusiastic admirer of Christy Mathewson, the star flinger of the Giants. "Doc" was asked to give his opinion as to the best pitcher of the present era.

"Matty," said Doc, without hesitation. "I believe he is the best twirler the game ever produced. He has a cool head, is consistent in his work, and then he has the curves to baffle the best of batters.

"I don't believe Matty ever had an equal with all respect to the ability of old time stars," continued Doc. "I believe Matty is faster than Rusie and Keefe were in their palmy days. Matty's performances for the Giants against the Athletics in the 1905 World's series was never equalled."

As a matter of fact "Doc" does not stand alone in his opinion. Thousands of fans and experts agree that Matty is the "one best bet" in the pitching line. But, there are others to be considered—Mordecai Brown, of the Cubs, and Ed Walsh of the White Sox, for instance.

"The New Brunswick press box is to be enlarged."—News item—Good news. Local scribes who "covered" games in that city last season declare that it was hardly big enough to accommodate the score book used by the Brunswick official scorer last season.

Baseball fans, of Boothwyn, Pa., have a new way for raising money for its ball club. The other night a big crowd of the enthusiasts got together and some one suggested that they eat pie and drink milk, the proceeds of which was to go to the baseball fund. In a short time $28 was realized.

Of course there are lemons in the baseball profession. Indianapolis has a catcher who bears the name of Lemon.

Our friend Lew Wiltse has signed a contract to pitch for Syracuse again this season. Lew has the reputation of being one of the most effective twirlers in the New York State League.

Dope coming over the wires from Princeton indicate that the Tigers will be invincible in collegiate games this season.

Stanley Ketchell's next battle of importance is scheduled with Jimmy Howard, the undefeated southern middleweight. It is billed for April 6 at Memphis.

Both New York teams, the Yankees and Giants, are displaying fast form at their training camps. Chief Stallings is expected to make the Highland brigade a one-two-three combination this season.

Charles McMurray, of Chicago, set a new scholastic pole vault record in the interclass meet at Phillips-Andover this week, reaching a distance of 10 feet 8 inches, an inch higher than the old mark.

GOLF.

Former Judge Morgan J. O'Brien presided at the annual meeting of the Oakland Golf Club Wednesday in Delmonico's, New York. The five governors elected for the two-year term were John B. McDonald, R. A. C. Smith, C. G. Arnold and the present secretary and treasurer, M. M. Graham and G. L. Shearer. After some discussion it was voted to raise the limit of membership from 300 to 350. The club owns its grounds and buildings at Bay Side, L. I., and is very prosperous. Raising the membership limit will about wipe out the waiting list, but it is not proposed to raise it again, for the course although a roomy one of eighteen holes is now congested on week ends. As a stand off to the increase the guest privileges are to be curtailed. There were 1,800 at Oakland last year, which means over forty each week. Th initiation fee remains unchanged at $100 and the annual dues at $75. Officers for 1910 will be elected at the first meeting of the governors.

Frank J. Connell, the president, was in the chair at the spring meeting of the Owl Golf Club Wednesday in the Kaiserhof. There was a committee appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws, to enlist new members and to make arrangements for permanent quarters in the golf hotel at Van Cortlandt Park. A series of tournaments will be held over the public course during the season and a cup has been donated for a handicap to be played about April 15.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED. THINKS HE'S A BIGAMIST.

Arrested, on complaint of his wife, with a woman who, he says, is his housekeeper, John Schultz, twenty-four years old, was held in $1,000 bail in the First Precinct Court in Newark, yesterday morning for an examination tomorrow. Detectives Kuhn and Quinn, who took the pair in custody, are making an investigation in New York to ascertain if Schultz is a bigamist. The woman who was arrested with Schultz on the same complaint gives her name as Lottie Tenbrook, twenty years old. She denied that she was married to Schultz.

Mrs. Louise Schultz, of 20 Cherry street, Morristown, is the complainant. When she went to the First Precinct Court yesterday she said she desired to charge her husband with bigamy. The wife had been to the home of her husband at 20 Orleans street, Newark, where he and the Tenbrook woman reside, and, she said, she had seen a marriage certificate on the wall. Mrs. Schultz declared that the certificate bore the signature of "Alderman Patrick O'Reilly," of Brooklyn, as the one who performed the ceremony uniting Schultz to a Miss Tenbrook. The date of the alleged marriage, the wife said, was in February, 1909.

Both defendants admitted that there had been such a marriage certificate as Mrs. Schultz described, but they said they had no idea who wrote it, where it came from, nor what had since happened to it.

If the alleged bigamous marriage was performed, the offense was committed in Brooklyn, the complaint would have to be made in that city. Schultz said in court that his wife left his home in Newark three years ago.

Several candidates will be initiated at the meeting of Somerset Council, No. 102, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet Tuesday night to further discuss matters pertaining to the observance of Memorial Day.

William Newmann, of Spooner avenue, has returned from Madison, Wisconsin, where he visited friends for five weeks.

WARREN'S MEN CLUB IS HOST TO SOCIETIES

The Men's Club of Warren chapel entertained the various societies of the chapel at a dinner last night which was attended by more than one hundred workers and members of the congregation. The societies that were the guests of the club were the Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society, the Christian Endeavor Society and the members of the chapel choir.

The dining room was elaborately decorated for the affair under the direction of Alfred Everett and during the dining period music was rendered by Whitney Frazee's orchestra.

During the evening a delightful program was rendered. It included recitations by Miss Pauline Gates; vocal selections by Miss Nora Schenck, and cornet solos by Whitney Frazee. Remarks, appropriate to the occasion, were made by the pastor, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan.

The club is in a prosperous condition, the officers who were recently elected and installed being as follows: President, George M. Hoagland; first vice-president, Alexander Dresseldt; second vice-president, Theodore Martin; recording secretary, C. D. Wheeler; financial secretary and treasurer, W. Edwin Bacon. The committee was ably assisted by Joseph W. Gavett.

TRIANGLE CLUB READY FOR FIRST PERFORMANCE.

Princeton, March 18.—The faculty of Princeton University and invited guests will witness tonight at the Casino here the first performance of "His Honor, the Sultan." This is the original musical comedy to be presented by the Triangle Club on a trip that will include Pittsburg, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago, as well as Washington, D. C., Newark and New York city. The "first night" of Triangle Club plays is always awaited with considerable eagerness, not only by the student actors themselves who have been busy learning feminine roles, tambourine dances and a number of other stage "hits," but by every one interested in Princeton affairs.

This year's production will require a company of seventy-five undergraduates. They will travel in private Pullman cars and sometimes by special train. Alumni associations will entertain them. They will be away from Princeton just a week—the period of the Easter recess—giving performances almost every day.

POVERTY SOCIAL HELD AT NETHERWOOD CHAPEL

The "Poverty Social," held at the Netherwood Reformed church, last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild, was a great success and largely attended. Claud Gonod mae an excellent judge in imposing fines on all unnecessary articles of wearing apparel, an he presented each with a shamrock.

During the evening the Boys' Club presented a sketch entitled "The Removal." Clarence Berry took the part of "Squire," Miss Gertrude Berry that of the "Squire's Daughter," and Valentine Steeson that of a colored waiter. James Allison and John Steeson appeared as blacksmiths, and caused much merriment.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor made a short address of welcome, which all enjoyed very much. After the entertainment refreshments were served. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion, green being the prevailing color.

Those in charge of the affair were Miss Maud L. Berry, president; Mrs. Richard Barwise, secretary; Mrs. P. H. Wood, treasurer, and Mrs. Amos Andrews. The exact amount netted from the affair will be announced soon.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED ON A SLEEPING CAR.

Jersey City, March 18.—Charles L. Hill, forty years old, of Lancaster, Pa., after having a cut on his head dressed at the Central Railroad terminal, Jersey City, informed the police that while asleep in his berth on a Philadelphia express, and after the train had passed Bound Brook, bound for Jersey City, he had been assaulted and robbed. He said he was struck on the head with a club or other weapon, and when he regained consciousness the train was nearing the Jersey City Station. He discovered that he had been robbed of $60 and a gold watch and fob.

Hill had a long cut over the right eye. After having it dressed by the ambulance surgeon he went back to his berth in the sleeper to rest before continuing his journey to New York. The police are investigating.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF VETERAN BAGGAGEMASTER.

The funeral services of Alonzo Longstreet, who for over forty years was in the service of the New Jersey Central, will be held from his late residence in Jersey City, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Longstreet died at his home yesterday. For a great many years he was a baggagemaster on the main line of the New Jersey Central. For twenty years he was baggagemaster on the train of which Augustus P. Hetfield, of this city, is conductor. He was a man of rare ability in his line, always faithful to his duties and second to none in the employ of the company. He will be greatly missed by his many friends.

Big Demand for Babies.

New Orleans, March 18.—The demand for babies here has reached such a proportion that it is feared there will be a serious shortage in the supply. A carload of babies from the New York Foundling and Orphan Asylum was given away here last week.

Many women clamored for babies in vain and so numerous are the applications that the institution has decided to send another carload of infants to New Orleans.

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

leaders in warfare, science, art and the love of liberty and that they had found in this magnificent country a place where full scope could be given to their aspirations. He related a fact which was news to many, that this 134th anniversary of St. Patrick's Day in this republic commemorated the raising of $513,000 by the Irish for the use of George Washington and the Continental Army when they stood in greatest need of help in their fight for freedom.

"During my forty years of interest in the politics of the State and nation," said the speaker, "I have had a most unique experience and I do not doubt that if the walls of the room upstairs could talk they would tell a tale of 'do him' unparalleled in history. For this I give them credit for their diplomacy, but believe they were somewhat shortsighted. When I was a member of the Common Council of this city, in 1872, I was the only member of that august body who had the nerve to accept the invitation of Rev. Father Morris to attend a St. Patrick's celebration." Mr. Martine ended by reciting one of his favorite poems and sat down amid the cheers of the diners.

Assemblyman James Baker, of Hudson county, arrived in the banquetting room at midnight and spoke at the conclusion of Mr. Martine's speech. In telling how he came to be present Mr. Baker said that Mr. Tobin having failed in getting the Governor and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court had to take the next best man which was himself. (Baker.) As he had spoken once before last night Mr. Baker hoped he would be understood as he knew for a fact that but two of the diners at the other banquet had been able to follow him and they were both from Rahway. He said the Legislature ought to pass an act defining the limits of a toast, so as to put a stop to the circulation of the wonderful supply of hot air with which after dinner speakers are filled. Let us have song instead of speech for our post-prandial exercises. The recent acts of the Legislature have simply been to empower the Supreme Court to find out what are their functions. Osteopathy is actually a trust in restraint of the trade of the average lawyer in that they devote their lives to pulling your legs. As for Sunday baseball maybe some day he will vote for it but the time has not yet come. Mr. Baker's speech was an oratorical gem and full of strong epigrams. He was loudly cheered at its conclusion.

Mr. Buckle told some of his experiences of the recent trip around the world. He declared he was the last of Mark Twain's original "Innocents" to go abroad. He referred to the "medicine chest" which his friends insisted that he should take along on the trip and he said he had followed their injunctions implicitly. The box with its contents, he said, answered the purpose fully.

Judge William Newcorn and S. P. T. Wilbur spoke briefly and humorously and the banquet ended in a cheer for the guests, the club and Henry Windham, who provided the excellent feast.

The speakers of the evening were introduced as follows by Toastmaster "Fog Horn Bill," alias Judge William N. Runyon; Some Thoughts for Sober Men, On-the-Job-Jim (alias Assemblyman James Baker); What I Think of You Pirates, The Farmer Orator (alias James E. Martine); When You Get Chesty, Just Listen to Me, State House George (alias George J. Tobin); Me and The Sphinx, Handy Andy (alias Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell); The Same the World Over, Human Nature Jim (alias former Mayor J. F. Buckle); Our Patron Saint, Blackstone Bill (alias Judge Wm. Newcorn); Salting "Gold" Nuggets, Priscilla (alias Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur).

In addition to the above Chief MacDuff, entertained the diners with some very braw remarks and the whole company joined in complimenting Alexander Ayres, the master of ceremonies, for his efficient work in the arrangement of the tables and other etceteras.

The following up-to-the-minute suggestions appeared on the menus:

It is requested that Mr. James Stewart refrain from singing Scottish ballads.

It is requested that Chief MacDuff drink to the memory of St. Patrick.

It is requested that Mr. Robert Craig bottle up that laugh of his.

It is requested that Mr. Joseph Harrigan spill a bottle of mucilage on his chair before he takes his seat at the table.

It is requested that no one ask Mr. James E. Martine to tell the story of his life during the festivities.

The handsome decorations of the dining room of the Waldorf reflected credit on both Mr. Windham and Mr. Tobin, the latter chairman of the banquet committee. An added source of favorable comment was the appropriate and neat costumes of the waitresses and the alacrity of the service. But after all is said there remains one or two things which deserve special mention—The neckwear of green silk worn by the members of the club was the gift of Hyman Adelberg, who was attired in sombre black, and the souvenir menu cards furnished by the Daily Press, a customary contribution, and the assurance given by Mr. Cook, of Roselle Park, that within a short time the citizens of that bustling town would have a "get-together" aggregation which would some time rival, or attempt to rival, the Plainfield organization.

So far as comment on the banquet and its attending incidents are concerned it was the general opinion that no greater nor more pleasant function had ever taken place in this city.

FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF MRS. R. HENRY DEPEW.

The funeral service of Mrs. R. Henry Depew was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the late home on Hillside avenue and was largely attended by relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes, including several from the various church societies, King's Daughters and Organized Aid Association.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which Mrs. Depew was a communicant for many years, conducted the service. The burial was in Hillside Cemetery and the pall bearers were chosen from among members of the family.

CORK DUST PILLOWS.

One need not necessarily use the old reliable feathers or down in pillows, for there are many substitutes which have proved somewhat satisfactory.

For instance, the cork dust used in packing fruit will make a fairly good pillow, and may be bought at most any grocer's or fruit dealer's. When the dust with water and spread it out in the sun to dry thoroughly before using.

Some of you no doubt have heard of and perhaps possess a cushion filled with balsam pine needles. Pillows of this kinw are known to be healthful and the pungent odor will frequently relieve headaches.

Old letters cut into small pieces take the place of feathers, and again the pillow stuffed with rose leaves is a very desirable one for those who prefer the roses to pine. Dry the rose leaves in the air, but not in the sun. Scatter orris powder over them and sprinkle with oil of roses. Allow the petals to remain in an open box for several days before filling the pillow.

DAINTY DESSERTS.

Boil some rice until it has become soft, then add the pulp of oranges, some thin slices of banana and a few canned cherries. Put in a mold to harden. When turned out, cover with powdered macaroons and serve with whipped cream or soft custard as a sauce. If desired, sugar to taste may be added to the rice with the fruit.

A ring of crumbled macaroons on dessert plates; fill the centre with whipped cream or ice cream and arrange some kind of preserved fruit or maraschino cherries on the top just before serving.

Fill half a canned peach with a macaroon and cover both with a thick custard; or, if you prefer, fill the peach with the custard or whipped cream and crumble macaroons over the top. This is sure to prove palatable.

Entertained at Euchre.

Miss Emma Bonwell, of Madison avenue, gave a euchre party at her home last night in honor of Miss Alice Bonwell and William Emmons. There were twenty-eight present. After the play, honors were awarded to Miss Emma Line, Mrs. James Andrews and Mrs. Arthur E. Smith for the women and to William Emmons, Charles Fogarty and Arthur E. Smith for the men. Refreshments and music were also enjoyed.

The Misses King Entertain.

The Misses Clara and Florence King, of Duer street, entertained the W. F. D. Club at their home, last night. In the games which were played honors were awarded to Miss Florence King and William Cubberley. The home was tastefully decorated in green. The favors were claypipes and shamrocks in honor of the day. Green refreshments were served.

The Doctor's Fault.

Judge—I am led to understand you stole the watch of the doctor who had just written a prescription for you at the free dispensary. What have you to say to this charge?

"Well, your honor, I found myself in a desperate quandary. His prescription said 'a spoonful every hour,' and I had no timepiece."

FIRST BAPTISTS' SUPPER ON ST. PATRICK'S NIGHT

Under the auspices of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, a St. Patrick's Day supper was given at the church last night. It was by far the most successful affair of the kind held at the church in a long time and liberal patronage was accorded. The spirit of the occasion was carried out in the decorations, green being the prevailing color.

Each one of the eight tables was garnished with pretty favors, including Irish potatoes from which the favorite shamrock was growing, while the menu cards were emblematic of the day. About the room there was a profusion of ferns and other green decorations. The waitresses all wore green aprons, with a spray of shamrock in the coiffure. The decorations were in charge of Miss Pauline Denton.

During the evening there was an informal program of piano selections, by Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, Miss Evelyn Hillman, Miss Alice Drake and Egbert Fountain, which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The eight tables were presided over by these women: Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Mrs. Calvin Boice, Mrs. Charles Conover, Mrs. George A. Chapman, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. George H. Batchelor, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Arthur M. Harris, Miss Ella Serrell, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, Mrs. Morris Zook, Mrs. W. G. Hamilton, Miss Ida Yerkes, Mrs. Walter McGee, Mrs. George White, Mrs. George Robins.

Miss May Serrell was the head waitress and these young women served under her direction:

The Misses Florence Manning, Bertha Manning, Hazel Grant, Gladys Leland, Leonia Billian, Violet Cronce, Lillian Fountain, Emeline Manning, Evelyn Hillman, Violet VanWinkle, Beulah VanWinkle, Corinne Tennyson, Gladys Marsh, Ruth Day, Helen Pearce, Minnie Serrell, Elizabeth Winn, Florence Neal, Katherine Day, Delia French, Evelyn Manley, Donna Campbell, Marie Fountain and Dorothy Randall.

Mrs. Albert Kennelley was chairman of the supper committee, and she was ably assisted by these women:

Mrs. John G. MacLaughlin, Mrs. Frank W. Jones, Mrs. Robert W. Barnes, Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, Mrs. Frank Bach, Mrs. Francis K. Anderson, Mrs. F. S. Thompson, Mrs. J. B. Probasco, Miss Amy Conant, Miss Dagmar, Miss Marguerite Lee, Miss Alice Drake, Miss Marguerite Dodge.

Mrs. Allan Vanderhoef and Mrs. B. W. Vail were in charge of the apron table and Miss Amy Conant and Mrs. Raymond Smith were in charge of the candy table.

The officers of the society, who also worked hard for the success of the affair are as follows:

President, Miss Helen Armstrong; vice-president, Miss May Shreve; recording secretary, Miss Pauline Denton; corresponding secretary, Miss Amy Conant; acting treasurer, Miss Carrie Coombs.

Why "Potter's Field" for Beggars.

It is not because the beggar fails to make money that he finally lands in the potter's field. "Any good, industrious beggar," says Mr. Forbes, "can and does made a great deal more money than the average workingman." But the trend of the beggar is downward, and in the end he is pretty sure to become a hopeless wreck and a derelict.

Ancient Superstition.

Of domestic superstitions one of the most curious is that a recalcitrant grate fire may be made to burn by placing a poker, point upward, upon it. The usual explanation given is that, in some mysterious manner, "it draws the fire up." The custom originated in the fact that the poker with the fire bars forms a cross, and the use of this cross was to exorcise the evil spirits who were preventing the fire from burning.

Automatic Doctors.

Amsterdam now boasts of automatic doctors. The machine represents a man and in the region of each organ is a slot designed to receive a 15-centime piece—3 cents. The patient suffering drops his coin into the slot and without delay a prescription is shot out bearing the address of an apothecary, whither he takes his card and receives his medicine.

The lamp is provided with two receptacles in which the plastic material is placed and this is fed through tubes to form the two electrodes of the arc. Successful Furnace Fires makes tending the furnace easy, but best of all it makes a joyous fire. Round fire pots burn strongly through the center with a rim of half dead clinkers at the edge and when you shake the fire the middle drops out. You've noticed it. Fires built in BOYNTON Square Pots are all live coals. A shake down is an even shake. The whole fire settles. There is no waste. The fuel being equal, a square pot will develop almost twice the heat, or the same heat for about half. The square pot is our patent and can be had only in the BOYNTON furnaces. We have a dealer in your town. He will be glad to show you.

PATENTED

The BOYNTON Square Fire Pot

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR GIFT PLANTS.

According to the florists more foliage plants were distributed last Christmas than ever before. Now many are asking just what these plants require to keep them in a healthy condition. To have them in the shape they were in when delivered has taxed the florists' capabilities to the utmost for months past; the plants have been grown in specially arranged houses with temperature and soil just right.

The azaleas have required great care to bring them to such a state of perfection. To keep them so also requires daily care. The most important point of all is that the plants must have their roots soaked (not dampened) and if in a hot steam-heated room, twice daily will not be too much. Then they require all the light possible, and should be taken out of the living room at night to a cooler place, returning to the window again after a soaking in the morning. With this treatment they will last beautifully until the last bud and flower has fully developed and faded.

The Chinese and Japanese primroses will grow with as little care as the geranium. The main thing is to place them close to the window, sprinkle the foliage occasionally and keep the roots moist.

Palms and ornamental foliage plants are fast becoming a necessity in interior decoration. Palms, aspandistras, dracaenas and all the harder foliage plants should be always kept moist at the roots. They also require daily spraying. Of course, this spraying, with large plants especially, becomes quite a difficult matter in the home but as a necessary substitution we would recommend frequent washings with soapsuds and a soft sponge. The plants really require this cleansing and the oftener it is done the more the plants will flourish and grow. Besides, washing adds to the attractiveness of the plants.

The many beautiful varieties of ferns are very popular. Their foliage is such that they cannot be washed liked the others. Keep them moist at all times, and take them daily to the bathroom for a general sprinkling. Follow this up day by day, and you will be more than gratified, as they will keep beautifully even in the dry atmosphere of the average house.

THE EMBARRASSED GIRL.

If you are so shy that it is painful instead of trying to brazen it out or retiring into your shell, go in for cultivating self-forgetfulness.

It is misery to be conscious of embarrassment. No one knows this better tnan the victim; yet often she sees no way to conquer her feelings.

Sometimes she makes the attempt by fighting her failings. Generally she errs in overdoing and appears pert, rude or aggressive, when in reality she is working hard to feel at ease.

Too often she doesn't put up any fight. Because she is shy she shuns everyone and every place where she will feel uncomfortable, and too soon is hopelessly submerged by her unfortunate self-consciousness.

The only certain cure for embarrassment is self-forgetfulness. There is an old saying that the one sure way to make friends is to be a friend. This may be paraphrased to read that the one way not to think too much of yourself is to fill up your thoughts with some one else.

The next time you dread going into society try to recall some one of your acquaintances who is shyer and more awkward than you are. Determine to make her enjoy herself for one time at least. If your efforts are honest, you will be surprised to find that you have been so busy in good times giving that you have forgotten to be embarrassed.

The next time you are caught by your failing, hunt up another buffer for your embarrassment and before long not only will your shyness be in laesh, but you will find you have become popular where before you were pitied or shunned.

NOTICE TO FAT WOMEN

Presumably you know, ladies, that the proper caper nowadays is lines. Curves are passed. You have got to take off your fat. This must be done in one of three ways. By dieting, by exercise, or by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. The two former will keep you busy for months and punish you pretty severely, the latter will cost you 75 cents at the druggist's. The tablets will not make any alteration in your diet necessary, and yet in all probability, before you have used up one case, you will be losing from 12 to 16 ounces of fat a day. Which method do you like the best?

If you fancy this pleasant method of getting off the fat, see your druggist instantly, or else write the Marmola Co., 988 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., to send you a case by mail. These cases contain so generous a quantity of tablets that the treatment is very economical. It is, also, quite harmless, for the tablets are made exactly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

December 28, 1871.

We notice the arrival in town from Chicago, of J. Frank Hubbard, Esq., Mr. 16, who is one of the firm of Potter & Co., press builders, N. Y City, reports that the demand for the presses in Chicago is great. They have already twenty of them running there since the fire, and have a large number of orders on hand, which they are filling as rapidly as they can complete the presses.

Dobbins, the cigar man, corner of Cherry and Second streets, presented his customers who called on him Christmas Day with mammoth cigars, six inches long.

January 4, 1872.

The Old Year expired amid drizzling tear drops and murky fog clouds. The new opening with golden brightness around the gates of morn. May we not accept it as an auspicious omen.

The members of Plainfield Hose Co., No. 2, held a sociable in their engine house on Monday evening last. The occasion was one of enjoyment, and dancing was kept up until a late hour.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company has thus far expended $250,000 on their new works in Elizabeth, which are so nearly finished that 350 of their employes have been placed in the works. They will finally have room for fifteen hundred workmen.

January 25, 1872.

We learn that Messrs. Codington & Co., of Bound Brook, contemplates starting a new coal and lumber yard on the corner of Madison avenue and Third street, in this city, about the 1st of April next. They will offer to the public a splendid stock of dry and seasoned lumber.

We want a fire alarm.—(Plainfield Constitutionalist). We will sell you ours, cheap.—(Elizabeth Herald). We want a town clock.—(Plainfield Constitutionalist). We understand that the one in the First Presbyterian Church can be bought at "a sacrifice."—(Elizabeth Herald).

SON "SIZES UP" ROOSEVELT.

New York, March 18.—An interesting characterization of former President Roosevelt by his son, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is given in an interview with the young man published here yesterday.

"My dad likes to see the wheels go round," says Theodore, Jr. "He wants to have something doing all the time.

"I wish he were here to take all this publicity over my engagement off my shoulders. I thought that sort of thing was all over when I resigned from Governor Lilly's staff."

Young Mr. Roosevelt confirmed the reports that he will go West after his marriage in June, but said that it had not yet been definitely decided whether he would be in Cleveland, San Francisco or some other city.

Must Explain Where Stolen Son Is.

Jersey City, March 18.—Vice-Chancellor Garrison yesterday signed an order returnable Monday, calling on Dr. Joseph M. Rector to explain why he should not give his wife, Emily P., the custody of Joseph Rector, Jr., five years old. The boy has been in the custody of its mother since she filed her petition for limited divorce. The mother claims that Dr. Rector yesterday took the boy from a kindergarten he was attending; that she does not know where the boy now is.

Schoolboys Alleged Gambler's Patron

Trenton, March 18.—As the result of investigations of Miss Nellie M. Wallace, principal of the Cooper Street School here, Snyder Moser, a small candy dealer, is under arrest charged with conducting a gambling establishment for school children in the central part of the city. Miss Wallace declares that the boys gamble there with the stakes as high as fifty cents and that this is the cause of the many cases of petty thievery which exist in the city.

OLD AND NEW DAYS

By HENRY F. COPE
Chicago

For the former things are passed away. —Rev. 21:4.

The old is but the soil from which the new springs into life. To-day must not lie buried in yesterday, nor to-morrow in to-day. The former things must not remain in their old places; they have passed away; on them we stand only to build the fairer edifices of the future. The old year must not be carried into the new as a burden, but as an inspiration.

The new has its roots in the old, but its fruits are farther on. The use of yesterday is to see it as yesterday; that which has been passed is gone in fact, is cherished in memory only for what it has done for us. It holds our guiding lights not to beckon us back but to guide us on. It may be fair with memory's pictures, but they are only promises of what is to be.

Some feel oppressed by the passing of the years. To them each one seems as the knell of a bell that counts itself toward the end. Years spell only age. But the greatest blessing of time is this passing of the days that some of the pages of life may be turned and new ones begun, that such a thought is possible as this of the past with its complement, the future.

The passing days remind us of the possibilities of new beginnings. They teach us to live the forward looking life, to cherish hope, to know that, though we may have failed, though yesterday's page be dark with stains and blotted over with tears, yesterday is not all; there remains the new day and this we may essay with a noble courage, with a chance at a cleaner, brighter page.

In the failures of the last year may have been the discipline that trains for success the coming year. Our old days are not to be simply ignored; they are to be woven up into the structure of the new. They are to be like the lessons we painfully wrought out on our slates at school, forgotten in the sense that they have been carried forward into the enriching, the skill, and power of higher grades.

Here is this new year; what does it mean to us? He must be a dull hind indeed to whom it has no significance of new beginnings; who looks not forward to its first days with expectation, hope and some determination for its enriching. Life is full of such occasions, anniversaries that serve as marks along the way, times when we can stop and ask whether we move forward or go back.

This is a good time for high resolves, a time to shake ourselves free from any burdens of the past and to face the days that are to be with heart nerved for nobler living, nobler service, higher attainments. This is the time to seek for larger meanings in life for ourselves and richer living for others.

Once men talked about a new birth as taking place once for all in life. How eagerly hearts that counted life as a failure, or saw it as sin stained and sorrow burdened, looked forward to such a new beginning. How much better it is to see each new day as a possible new birth, each as a new beginning, each as a chance to do better, to move forward, to recover from the past and to remedy the old mistakes.

A worthy faith will never see man slipping back into the dust; it will feel him ever climbing toward God. A worthy faith will not mourn over the tracks marked in the yesterdays; it will trace with confidence the way that goes before; it will see that way leading into a clearer knowledge of truth; a closer, keener joy in doing the will of the Most High, and a joyous fellowship with all the great family of earth and heaven.

True faith will say, as the new days approach: Here in each of these is just the chance to find out what life means, to make real some of my best and fairest dreams, to do some of the things I have been learning to do and longing to do in the past, to make some life as fair as I know all lives ought to be, to wipe the tears from some eyes, just another chance to love and so to find life.

God's Purpose in All.

While the masses are drifting into materialism because of the failure of the religious teachers of the age to proclaim God's whole truth in its full simplicity, we know that his eternal purpose moves unceasingly on, and, as shocking as may be the assertion to some really good people, out of this materialism will come a clearer perception of the truth, and relieved of the nightmare of superstition and supernaturalism which has hampered the religion of the past, humanity will move on to grander and better things through a just appreciation of the wonderful revelation which Jesus brought.—New York Herald.

New Standards in Life.

This is an age when new standards are entering into our business and commercial life, when we are measuring our efficiency not only by the product in goods and the profits in dollars, but by the effects on the lives of the workers and by the value of the product to society as a whole. In other words, we are really setting up religious tests in business.

A mother never lives so little in the present moment as when she rocks the cradle.

News and Notes

"WARRY" M'LAUGHLIN TO TWIRL FOR PLAINFIELD

"Warry" McLaughlin, who has seen service in the National and Connecticut leagues, and who is a favorite with local ball cranks, is slated to twirl for Plainfield this season. This is the best piece of dope yet untapped by Manager Ernest Dorflinger and the news will no doubt be welcomed in local fandom.

"Warry" wore a Scotch Plains uniform last season and he pitched a fine article of ball for the 'Plainers. He would have probably signed with the up-country club for this season, but the indications are that the old ball burg will not have a team this year.

This is due to the fact that all of the paraphernalia of the clubs was destroyed by fire several weeks ago. Another reason is that it is generally understood that the township committee would taboo Sunday ball playing this season owing to the opposition of the church people of that place. Games were conducted there last season, on an orderly basis, but there is a strong sentiment against the sport being continued on the Sabbath.

MEADOWVIEW DOGS STILL WINNING PRIZES.

After winning at the New York, Boston, Buffalo and Erie bench shows during the last few weeks, the Meadowview Kennels, yesterday won all the specials for English setters at the big Pittsburg show, Meadowview Yale and Wyoming May Belle getting premier honors.

Yale was first open, winners and best dog; Lady Allister first open and reserve winners; May Belle first limit, winners, best bitch and best English setter in show.

Next week the Meadowview dogs will be shown at the Mississippi Valley show at St. Louis, where they will compete with the cream of the western field and bench dogs.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB TO HOLD HUNT TOMORROW.

The Watchung Hunt Club will hold its first hunt of the season since fall, tomorrow afternoon starting at 2:15 o'clock from the Netherwood "Tower." It is expected that a large number of riders will be out for the sport, including C. W. Holland, who has just purchased from Hugh Gormley a black hunter.

This horse won the six foot siv class at Philadelphia and the five foot six class in Pittsburg, last season, and it is believed by many that the horse can now distance Harry Baylor. Mr. Gormley owned the horse about four months.

The club has sold a number of the old hounds, unfit for further use, and Fred Bull has purchased for the club six couples of young hounds to be worked out in the hunts this season, the idea being to strengthen the pack. An active season is planned and details for the annual steeplechase meet the last of May are working out in a satisfactory manner.

P. H. S. NOTES.

At the Friday afternoon entertainment at the High School this afternoon, two sketches were presented Mr. Hardwicke, Kan, Carpenter, Thompson and Miss Newall presented one called "Her Last Theft," and Messrs. Riffert and Doane presented "In Old Dutch." The rest of the afternoon was spent in dancing.

The dress rehearsal took place yesterday afternoon of "Silas Mamer" at the High School. It came off with great success. Mr. Hanrahan and Mr. Matlack acted splendidly and Miss Margaret Loizeaux was certainly a star.

H. J. Cochrane, of this city, gave an interesting talk to the. High School pupils this morning on the subject of the distribution of gas rebates in New York city. He referred to the Consolidated Gas Company, of that city, which concern returned eleven million dollars to its customers, as a result of orders from the court. He spoke of the stupendous work which made it necessary to employ 10,000 clerks in different parts of the city to perform the work.

TROLLEY TO METUCHEN

Old Local Company to Petition Legislature for Renewal of Its Charter.

READY TO BEGIN OPERATIONS.

Plan of Company to Build Belt Line to Include Plainfield, Warrenville, Dunellen, So. Plainfield, Oak Tree and Metuchen.

The following advertisement which which appears in today's issue of The Daily Press, is evidence that the Plainfield Horse Car Company, if the Legislature will extend its charter five years, will take steps this year to establish a belt trolley line to extend from Metuchen to Plainfield, to North Plainfield, to Warrenville, to Dunellen, to South Plainfield to Oak Tree, thence to Metuchen.

To Whom it May Concern: Take notice that application will be made to the present (1910) session of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, for the passage of an Act of the Legislature to extend the time of the "Plainfield Horse Car Railroad Company, to complete all or at least two miles of tis railway, from the time stated in the Act of the Legislature granting said company its charter (P. L. 1871, P. 1861), or in any other Act, general or special, by which such time has been extended, to the first day of July, One Thousand, nine hundred and fifteen, and, if said charter has expired by reason of failure to complete said railway as specified in said incorporating act, or other acts general or special extending such time, to revive such charter.

(Signed) MARY. W. BOARD.
Dated March 17, 1910.

Among the directors of the company are J. Fred MacDonald, John W. Murray, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of this city; Peter McDonough, William Hamilton, of South Plainfield, and others. The measure to extend the limitation of the charter of the company to 1915 will probably be introduced by Assemblyman Schwartz within the next two weeks.

Mr. Vanderhoef stated to a Daily Press representative today that if the extension is granted ground will be broken this spring to lay tracks between this city and Metuchen. "We have promise of ample financial backing to carry the project through," said Mr. Vanderhoef, "and there is a public clamor for the linking of Plainfield with these municipalities. It will mean a big thing for merchants in the way of business and then it would place Plainfield in direct communication with New Brunswick, Metuchen, Perth Amboy and the shore."

Mr. Vanderhoef is confident that the Legislature will grant the desired extension to the charter in view of the recent passage of the Lee measure amending the limited franchise law, which was passed in 1906, from twenty to fifty years. The vote on the measure was 34 to 23. Mr. Vanderhoef is confident that it will also have an easy road in the Senate.

The Board of Trade at its meeting last night went on record as being in favor of the Legislature in extending the charter. The Merchants' Association is expected to take similar action at its meeting next Monday night.

When the measure is presented for a public hearing at Trenton it is the plan to send a big delegation of citizens to Trenton to urge its passage. This will include representatives from the Board of Trade, Merchants' Association, and other local civic societies, the Dunellen and Metuchen Boards of Trade and the Good Government Club of South Plainfield.

HOLY CROSS NOTES.

A business-like venture is being made by a number of women of Holy Cross church under the leadership of the chairman of the Altar Chapter. All day today three cooks of established reputation have been busy in the church kitchen making home-made cakes and dainties. Mounds of sugar, baskets of eggs, butter, oranges, chocolate, spices and a profusion of delectable things have been quickly sorted, properly mixed, whisked into the oven and tomorrow morning the real home-made article will be on sale at 11 o'clock in the parish house. Government inspection is nothing to the rigid system under which every article is passed upon and properly labelled. This is open shop work and no union laborers need apply.

New Uniforms Pleasing.

The corps of efficient and polite ushers including the ticket taker at Proctor's theatre and the porter have blossomed out in their brand new uniforms, and it must be said in justice to the designer of the new suits that the color scheme, ecru and valenciennes braid of dark brown, form a pleasant-to-the-eye combination.

Miss Jessica Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hill, of Westervelt avenue, was operated upon last night for appendicitis. The operation was performed by a New York specialist.

PRISONER'S LEGACY OF $10 IS PAID TO HIM

William Perrine, of this city, who was convicted on a charge of assault on Lee Young, also of this city, and who is now serving a sentence in the county jail at Elizabeth, received a legacy of $10 today under the will of his uncle John McGinley, who died in December, 1907. The will was probated some time ago, but the provisions are now being followed out. Surrogate Parrot paid the money this morning.

Mr. McGinley, who lived on East Third street, was one of the oldest citizens, and when he died he left quite an estate, the bulk of which went to the immediate family. Some minor bequests included a small sum of money to the Catholic Protectory at Arlington; $50 to be divided among five relatives, one of whom is William Perrine, and the proceeds from the sale of a gold watch for St. Mary's church.

RESIGNS TO ACCEPT A CALL TO THIS CITY

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, the pastor-elect of the Park Avenue Baptist church, presented his resignation to the Calvary Baptist church, of Cleveland, Ohio, of which he is now pastor, on Sunday morning, February 29. The resignation was in the nature of a surprise. It takes effect April 1.

The Cleveland Enterprise of March 1, contains the following interesting account about Mr. Maguire:

"At first the general feeling and exclamation was 'We will not accept it!' But after the members were assured that the resignation was final, expressions of sorrow and the tears shed proved in what esteem and love the pastor was held, many remaining behind to weep.

"Rev. Maguire goes to Plainfield, N. J. During the years in which he has taken charge of the Calvary church a remarkable growth has been apparent along all lines of work. The church stands first in the Cleveland association for the largest proportionate increase in membership and the Bible school also leads in a like manner. Contributions to outside and foreign mission work have largely increased.

"The auditorium, which was enlarged and beautifully decorated nearly two years ago, has been well filled each Sunday evening, and the remark has gone abroad that "Calvary church has the largest evening congregation in the city of Cleveland.' The prayer meeting room has been filled almost to overflowing at the Friday evening prayer meeting. These meetings have been an inspiration under the magnetic leadership of Pastor Maguire and they will long be remembered as the strengthning and soul-inspiring features of the church life. The brotherhood work, organized during the past year, is enlarging its boundaries, and men have been practically aided and greatly encouraged by the hand clasp of fraternal love on the part of Pastor Mrguire and the men of the church. The reorganization of the various church societies has resulted in a new interest and increased spiritual vitality and harmony.

"Pastor Maguire is a man of broad views, of intense zeal and spiritual power; a man with a tenacity of purpose marked only by his determination to carry out that purpose.

"The call to the East brings increased joy in the fact that nearly all his and Mrs. Maguire's relatives live in that section of the country, and in going to Plainfield they will be near their own people.

"The church and community he has ministered to bid him Godspeed in his new field, and congratulates the Park Avenue church and the city of Plainfield on securing a man of such excellent ability and unusual power."

Under the auspices of St. Stephen's church a concert will be given at the Hartridge School auditorium April 7. The affair will be under the direction of Lewis J. Geary, from whom tickets may be secured.

Coloring Billiard Balls Red.

It often happens that red billiard balls more or less completely lose their color and then present a disagreeable appearance, but nothing is easier than to restore their original color. To do this dissolve some dried sorrel, after having powdered and sifted it to assure success, in a small quantity of water placed in a porcelain capsule large enough to take a billiard ball. Heat this liquid but it is tepid only and add as a moderant about ten drops of sulphuric acid. Put the ball to be colored in the capsule and leave it there about three-quarters of an hour on the corner of a stove, the temperature not being allowed to exceed from 40 degrees to 50 degrees C. At the end of that time take it away from the fire and let it cool.

The operation is complete in from two to three hours. Care must be taken to turn the billiard ball from time to time, so that it may be colored all over, for the coloring matter is deposited, and the part of the ball at the bottom would be too deeply colored.

When the ball is withdrawn from the liquid it only requires wiping and then rubbing strongly with a woolen rag to make it brilliant again. It may be further polished by means of chamois leather impregnated with colcothar.—Vulgarisation Scientifique.

Bread and Gloves.

"Did you ever notice that the man who brings bread to this place always wears heavy gloves?" asked the regular boarder at the hashery in addressing his guest.

"No; I don't get here often enough to notice it," answered his friend.

"Well, you see him now. He always wears gloves, especially in handling rye bread."

"Yes?"

"It's a fact. Maybe you would not believe me if I told you that he is more apt to get his hands torn and cut than I am working at machinery all day."

"Really?"

"I never have learned the real cause, but the bread seems to have rough edges which scratch and cut the hands if it is handled in large quantities. Of course one or two loaves would not have any bad effect, but hundreds of loaves a day passing through a man's hands seem almost as dangerous as sandpapered brick would be."—St. Joseph Gazette.

The Small Boy's Revenge.

A family whose means were limited was expecting company for dinner, and the thoughtful mother instructed her small son how to behave at the table and also told him there was one thing on the table he was not to ask for.

The appointed time came, and things looked very tempting, especially to the small boy, who suddenly said, "Say, ma, I want some of that," pointing to a plate of cheese.

The mother cast reproving glances upon him, but the child continued, "You going to give me some of that?" The mother again tried to attract the boy's attention to his error by stepping upon his toes, but it was of no use, for he continued, "Give me some of that or I'll tell." Beginning to count, he said: "One, you going to give me some? Two, you going to give me some? Three, my pants are made of the old window shades."

Baked Men.

Workers in porcelain factories are literally baked, but by some miracle they remain sufficiently underdone to live. At least if they are not quite baked they endure a stronger heat than that which browns the Sunday sirloin. The furnaces wherein porcelain is finished are kept at the fiercest heat used in any industry. A chain of workmen, their heads and bodies swathed in fireproof garments, take the finished pieces from the fire one at a time and pass them to the cooling room. The man at the head of this chain—he who stands nearest the furnace—can only work in five minute shifts. In his interims of rest he lies on a mattress drinking glass after glass of ice water from the hands of a small boy. At lunchtime all about the chain of men steaks grill.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Why Joyner Left Home.

"Are you ready to receive the obligations?" asked the most upright supreme hocus pocus of the Order of Hoot Owls.

"I am," said the candidate firmly.

"Then take a sip of this prussic acid, place your right hand in this pot of boiling lead, rest your left hand upon this revolving buzzsaw, close your eyes and repeat after me"—

Early next morning shreds of Joyner's clothing were found upon the bushes and trees all along the road to Pottsville, thirty miles distant, and at Scrabbletown, sixty miles away. He was reported still headed west.—Judge's Library.

Easy Method.

"Henry," said Mrs. Gloonip at dinner, looking down at her watch, but speaking to Mr. Gloonip on the other side of the table, "my watch hasn't varied a second in a week."

"Remarkable!" said Mr. Gloonip. "How did you get it to vary so little?"

"I broke the mainspring."

Tanning.

Johnny—Don't they use bark to tan hides with, pa? Father—Yes, my son, but if you ask any more questions this evening you'll find that a slipper does just as well.

A SCOTTISH LEGEND.

The Story of the Knight With the White Feather.

TWO COURAGEOUS WARRIORS.

Heroic Alexander Hume and His Still More Heroic Fellow Soldier and Protector—The Sad Sequel to the Battle That Was Lost.

The heraldic arms of the Scotch town of Selkirk show a woman seated on a tomb, on which is also placed the Scottish lion. The legend told about the arms is this: King James IV. of Scotland, who was about to invade England, needed recruits for his enterprise. The town clerk of Selkirk, William Brydone, tried his best to aid his king by persuading his fellow countrymen to enlist in the royal cause. So earnest was he that he is said to have moved over a hundred lusty Scots to join his standard. Among these was one of the name of Alexander Hume. This man was a shoemaker of the town of Selkirk. He was strong, stalwart, bold and an excellent workman. Brydone was very glad to welcome him, as he reckoned him quite the best man of the hundred, and his comrades, who were also brave men and true, cheered him as he appeared among them, such confidence had they in his wisdom, prudence, valor and strength.

Hume's wife, Margaret, was a fine young woman and very fond and proud of her brave, strong husband. Now, Margaret did not at all like this proposed invasion of England. She felt that it would mean great trouble to the Scotch people, who would certainly be vanquished by their strong enemy, and the thought came to her that her own brave husband might perhaps lose his life in the struggle. She therefore used all her best efforts to keep him at home. She pleaded in vain. Alexander was firm. At last she held up to his face their little five-months-old daughter and asked who would look after the child if he should die and who would keep her from misery and misfortune.

Hume loved his wife and child, and these appeals brought the tears to his eyes, but they did not break down his resolution, which he had girt about him as armor. Nothing could move him to become untrue to his king and country.

Finding that no entreaties could move him, Margaret at last gave way to anger and told him that his eager desire to be thought the bravest man of Selkirk would not supply the child he was bound to work for with a bite of bread. She said even more than this. Her tones grew higher, and one word led to another, as you know it will, until the couple parted in anger, he to the field of battle and she to remain at home.

Alexander had not gone far before it flashed across the mind of his wife that perhaps she might never see him alive again. Unable to control herself, she flung the child into its crib and rushed out of the house. She must see her husband again and get from him one parting glance or word of reconciliation. She hurried through the town, she sought everywhere for him, but he was nowhere to be seen. He had gone off with his comrades. The poor wife wept bitterly. Her grief was deep.

Hume and his fellows were soon engaged in battle. He displayed the greatest bravery. Wherever he went numbers of the enemy fell. In every direction upon the field of battle he was seen. His companions kept well up to him, and in particular one man who had lately joined the party. This man fought with a courage equal to that of Hume himself, keeping continually beside him and defending him in many perils. Once when an Englishman from behind drew very near to the Scot this soldier struck the cowardly fellow to the earth just as he was thrusting his spear between the clasps of Hume's armor. Hume called to the brave fellow and demanded his name, even in the midst of the fight, but the stranger said that that was no matter.

This generous soldier wore a leather jacket and an iron helmet, in which there was placed a small white feather. Wherever Hume fought on the battlefield there might be seen beside him the iron helmet and the white feather.

At last the battle ended in defeat for the Scotch, who scattered in all directions. Hume, who, with other soldiers, was obliged to lie concealed in the forest for some time, took the first opportunity of inquiring after his faithful attendant. But all his inquiries were without avail. He could not trace him. Nothing could he learn of him but that he had disappeared when the fight was over.

Alexander Hume hurried to his cottage. He was anxious to see again his beloved wife and bestow upon her the kiss of reconciliation. When he reached it he listened at the door, and his heart beat fast. He had kind words to say to her from whom he had parted in anger, and his deep wounds needed dressing. He lifted the latch and walked in. All was still. No wife came to meet him; no child's cry met his ear. On looking round the room he saw seated in an armchair the knight who had fought so bravely beside him in the battle, wearing the same leather jacket, iron helmet and white feather. That person was Margaret Hume. She was dead and clasped in her dead arms the little child.

Be conciliatory and considerate if you hope to win conciliation and consideration.—Ward.

Happiness and Progress.

Happiness is the only possible good and all that tends to the happiness of man is right, and is of value. All that tends to develop the bodies and minds of men; all that gives us better houses, better clothes, better food, better pictures, grander music, better heads, better hearts, all that renders us more intellectual and more loving, nearer just; that makes us better husbands and wives, better children, better citizens—all these things combined produce what I call progress.—Col. Robert G. Ingersoll.

Cure for Snake Bites.

In Devonshire, England, any person bitten by a viper is advised to kill the creature at once and rub the wound with its fat. This practice has, to some extent, survived in this country, where the flesh of the rattlesnake is accounted to be the best cure for its own bite, but as a rule the leading superstition in the United States is of the efficacy of numerous potions of whisky as an antidote for snake bite.

Pineapples.

People in the north don't know what pineapples are, because to be shipped to this market they must be picked when they are green and an unripe pineapple is just wood, to be handled with a knife, a hatchet or a saw. Taken off the tree when it is ready, the inside fruit is flowing honey, to be dipped out and eaten, as the natives of pineapple countries do, with a spoon.—New York Press.

A Man of Nerve.

Debtor (to shop girl)—It's an outrage for your employer to have you present this bill here at the railroad station in the presence of all these people! Tell him I'll attend to the matter as soon as I get home—and now give me a kiss, so the people will think that you are a relative and have come to bid me goodby!—Fligende Blaetter.

For Liver Complaint.

Liver complaint is a name used to designate a number of disagreeable conditions characterized by disturbance of appetite, digestion and accompanied by pain and heaviness. Plenty of exercise and an avoidance of overloading the stomach will help to relieve this difficulty.

The Ant-Hill Epoch.

The age of great men is going; the epoch of the ant hill, of life in multiplicity, is beginning. The century of individualism, if abstract equality triumphs, runs a great risk of seeing no more true individuals. By continual leveling and division of labor society will become everything and man nothing.—Amiel's Journal.

Show Others the Right Way.

Be a pattern to others and then all will go well; for as a whole city is affected by the licentious passions and vices of great men, so it is likewise reformed by their moderation.—Cicero.

Bad Good Seller.

"I'm writing a novel that is a little bit off in moral tone and it ought to sell big on that account." "One of the six worst sellers, eh?"

Big Difference.

"More deserving fellows would be holding good jobs," says the Philosopher of Folly, "if 'ethics' was as long a word as 'politics.' "

Give Woman a Chance.

Just because this is a land of free speech, do not imagine you should devote all your time to taking advantage of that liberty.—Atchison Globe.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 20, 1910.

Topic.—Money a curse or a blessing.—Luke xii, 13-21; Matt. vi, 19-21. Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Everything that God has made in this world is good if properly used. But unfortunately since sin came into the world it is possible for man to make good or evil out of that which if sin had not come would only have been used in a right and proper way. Moreover, weak and sinfully inclined, man has not always the power or the inclination to use the good things of the world and not to abuse them. What a valuable organ in life is the tongue, and yet, as James says: "Therewith bless we God, * * * and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God. Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing." Alcohol as a medicine has been a great blessing to the human race, yet this same liquid used as a beverage, used to excess where it is not needed, has been and is one of the greatest curses of mankind. So money may be a blessing or a curse, according to the use to which it is put. Used aright, it is a means of great blessing; used wrongfully, there is scarcely a crime for which it may not be responsible and, indeed, has not been responsible. In the hands of men without consciences, who care for nothing but their own will, it has been an awful power for evil. It has debauched the purity of womanhood, bribed lawmakers and the executors of the law, debauched the ballot box, inspired murders, and the desire for it has wrecked the lives of thousands of men in all classes of society. For it Judas Iscariot sold his Master, the Saviour of the world; Francis Bacon, the great jurist, despoiled his high office, and Benedict Arnold became a traitor to his country. On the other hand, money in the possession of men of right principles has been of incalculable value to the world. The thousands of charitable institutions throughout the world, built to care for the poor, the sick, the feeble minded and insane, the parentless children, the Christian churches of the world and the support of this great worldwide work, all go to testify in favor of the value of money, whether given by rich or the comparatively poor. The wholesale denunciation of wealth and its possessors therefore is absolutely unwarranted. Whether they deserve condemnation or not depends upon the disposition made of wealth by those who possess it.

When, however, a broad view is taken of the subject, it must be admitted that the temptations of money are great and that men are to be urged to use it right and not disabuse its possession. No man, whether he be rich or poor, should love money to the extent that it dwarfs his soul or shuts out of him the spirit of mercy and compassion toward his fellow man. This is clearly the attitude of the teaching of Christ and the Scriptures toward money. It does not condemn riches so much as it warns the rich man against its dangers and especially the danger of putting all trust in it, even to the extent of forgetting to make sure the salvation of the soul. "What shall it profit a man," says Christ, "if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" The immense fortunes of today do not approach the value of the world, and if for the whole world we would make a bad bargain, if it cost us the loss of our souls, how much less would it pay us to lose our souls for the infinitely small part of the world that the richest man in it possesses? Money that loses the soul is the greatest of curses; money that leads the soul closer to God in Christ Jesus is one of life's greatest blessings. Worldly riches are not equivalent to heavenly treasures, which the soul alone can enjoy. The soul cannot be fed upon gold, as the man in the parable of Christ seemed to think when he said, "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years." Many years? Why, that night his soul was required of him, and the next day others possessed his goods. What more uncertain than life? What more uncertain than earthly riches? With what reason, therefore, Christ says, "Lay up treasure in heaven, where moth doth not rust nor thieves do not break in and steal." Why should we eat our souls and hearts out struggling for that which is so uncertain, which may leave us in a moment's time or from which we may be called? Let us all, therefore, both rich and nonrich, above all see to it that we lay up treasure in heaven by faith in Christ and the performance of good deeds based upon this Christian faith. Such treasures will never leave us, and we shall never be separated from them. It's eternal wealth against temporal wealth. Which shall we choose?

Advice For a Junior Superintendent.

Here are some good suggestions for the junior superintendent that were brought out at the Christian Endeavor conferences at St. Paul:

Be always on time at the meeting.

Begin promptly.

Greet each junior with a hearty handshake.

Be kind, but always firm.

After the meeting has opened, always have a reverent manner.

Speak in a decided but quiet manner.

Have the juniors enter and leave the room quietly.

Use the greatest care in selecting hymns.

Avoid loud and boisterous singing.

"The first lesson that the world will teach you, sir," returned the captain, pointedly, "is that that position cannot be maintained; that the whole fabric of civilization depends upon concession by individuals of natural rights and upon the enforcement of these concessions by other individuals to whom has been delegated that power."

"I don't wish to learn it, and that is why I will not leave this island," persisted the man.

It was the woman who intervened. She stepped close to the man and laid her hand upon his arm.

"You said that in some fashion you loved me," she urged.

"In some fashion I do," he replied.

"It grows late. Captain, can your ship lie by the island until morning?"

"If you wish, certainly," returned the captain.

"Very well. Man, will you then go aboard the ship with these gentlemen and leave me alone here for the night?"

"Alone, madam!" excaimed the captain.

"Certainly, sir," returned the woman. "There is not a harmful thing upon the island. You can come back in the morning and we will discuss then what is best to be done. Really, gentlemen," she went on, with a piteous tremble of her lip, for one moment losing her control, "I have been tried beyond the strength of woman to-day. If I can have a quiet rest, if in the morning—"

"That is reasonable," said the surgeon. "The lady is in no state for this discussion, nor, indeed, are you, sir," he continued, looking hard at the man.

"Very well," said the captain. "Come, Mr. Charnock, you cannot refuse that request; gentlemen. Madam, good night."

He turned away, followed by the others. Charnock for the moment hesitated.

"I give you one more chance," whispered the woman in his ear. "I think myself fit for the wife of any man, do you think so? Do you love me? Do you care for me as you did last night? Can you think of me as all that is sweet and lovely and noble and pure, and worthy of any man's affection?"

She bent closer toward him in the intensity of her feelings. The words rushed from her. The man passed his hand over his forehead.

"I can only say what I said before, that I love you still, that I will marry you, and that you ought to be—"

"That is enough," interrupted the woman. "Good-by."

She drew instantly apart from him.

"Mr. Charnock," rang the captain's voice, imperatively.

Slowly the islander turned and made his way to the sea after the others.

The woman, thus left alone upon the island, was face to face with a crisis which could only be met in two ways. Either she must go away with the man, or they must both remain on the island. It was possible that the captain might be induced to use force to take the man away, but that was not likely, and if it were attempted, she believed, with much foundation for her belief, that the man who had never been coerced by a human being except her would fight until he died. She could not go away with him; she could not live with him on the island. A future opened before him. She had learned that afternoon on the sand that if his identity could be established he would be a man of great wealth, a power, a factor in the world's affairs. She had had her experience in life, her taste of power. It did not matter about her. It mattered greatly about him.

She had given him a final chance. He did not love her as she would be loved. He could not love her. It was evident to her that he never would. She had nothing to live for, nothing to hope for, nothing to dream about. There was one way of cutting the Gordian knot; she could die. And yet, somehow, the instinct of life was strong in her heart.

She crossed the island to her side, where she was hidden from the ship, and went down to the edge of the water. She even slipped off the garments of civilization and stood forth a primitive Eve and waded out a little way into the lagoon. The night had fallen and she was calm in the screen of the darkness. She could easily swim out to the barrier reef, clamber upon it, and then plunge into the blue Pacific and swim on and on, and fight and fight until the last vestige of her strength was gone, and then sink down, leaving him free and settling the question. And yet the waters lapping about her feet held her back, drove her back, retarded her in her advance.

Could she do it? Should she do it? At least she would not give up the idea for want of trying. She resolutely set herself to wade into the deeper sea. That she waded was evidence of her indecision. Under other circumstances, or had she been clear in her mind as to her course, a quick run, a spring, a splash, and she would have been in the midst of the lagoon. She went slowly, and as the water grew deeper, she went more slowly. It was warm and pleasant in the lagoon. The slight difference of temperature between the water and the air ordinarily was only stimulating. And yet the sea had never seemed so cold to her as it was in that hour.

She was young, strong, splendidly dowered with health and bodily vigor. The mere animal clinging to life was intense in her. It does not minimize her heartbreak or her resolution to settle the question that she found it hard to go on. By and by she stopped, the waters now up to her breast. The wind blew gently toward the land, and the waves struck her softly and beat her back. She stopped dead still and thought and thought, wrestling with her problem, full of passionate disappointment, vain regret, despair, conscious that life held nothing for her, and yet clinging to it, unknowing what would be the outcome of the Titanic struggle raging in her breast between primal passions, love of life and love of man!

CHAPTER XX.

The Repentance That Came Too Late.

For the first time in his life the man of the island played the coward. He was afraid to be alone. The others, the officers of the ship, that is, not Langford—he had gone back to his own yacht, declining the captain's invitation to dinner—would have respected the islander's mood and have left him to himself, but it was evident that he craved their society. Whittaker and the old chaplain suspected how it would be with him, but they knew that sooner or later he would have to retire to rest, and sooner or later he would be alone.

And then his grief was so obvious, that in accordance with a natural and commendable tendency they strove to cheer him up. They encouraged him to ask questions. They told him many things in reply that the woman could not have told him; that he had half dimly suspected, but had not known. They cleared up to him many things which had seemed mysterious and strange to him.

And on their part they marveled at the things he did know, at the thoroughness with which he had been taught, and at the wonderful acuteness of perception which he displayed. The woman had marveled at it, too, but she had become used to it in three years of intimacy. They saw it immediately with greater surprise.

In such engrossing conversation the long hours passed until the striking couplets of the bell forward tolled eight and it was midnight. No one had any desire to sleep in view of the unusual and stimulating experience which both parties to the interchange of thought in the play of question and answer were enjoying. But it was the captain, hard-headed and practical, who gave the signal for retiring. The men were not accustomed to disregard even the suggestions of the autocrat of the ship.

A spare cabin in the wardroom had been arranged for the islander, and there provided with the unwonted luxury of night wear after a hearty "Good-night" from the lieutenant commander and a fervent "God bless you" from the old chaplain, he was left to his own devices. The strangeness of his situation, the soft bed, the snowy linen, the silk pajamas, the confining area of the cabin, the sudden touch with luxuries of civilization would in itself have kept him awake had he been as heart whole and as care free as when the woman had landed upon the island. But, indeed, the strangeness of these things aroused no emotions in his mind at all, for the moment he was alone his thoughts, which he had been fighting desperately to keep upon other things, reverted to her. What was she doing for the first time alone upon that island? What was she thinking? He realized that no more than he could she be sleeping.

These were the first moments that he could give to reflection, the first quiet hours that he could spend in considering the situation and in getting back his rudely disturbed balance. There had been method in his training, and he had been taught the value of considering a series of events logically in all their lights and bearings. Lying in the comfortable berth he reviewed at length and deliberately the history of his life from the day that he had been born when he first bent over her sleeping upon the sand until that great glad hour when, the earthquake enlightening him, he tore the rocks asunder, clasped her in his arms and pressed the first kiss that he had ever given any one upon her lips.

Unflinchingly he reviewed with what calmness he could muster the scenes of the morning and the day. He forced himself to consider in all its lights and bearings the information that had been given to him. He tortured himself by the deliberate slow recalling of every detail, and then, quivering as if under the stimulus of some blow upon a raw wound, he reviewed his own conduct. Enlightenment came to him in that dark and silent hour. He discovered first of all that he loved her; that the check and counter-check and variation and alteration in his emotions had been swept away in a great development of a more transcending feeling. If she should ask him that question on the morrow as to whether he loved her as he had on that never-to-be-forgotten night, he would still answer no, because he loved her more.

And then he discovered that he wanted her more than he had ever desired her before; that she was more necessary to him than ever he had dreamed she would be; that here was no question of honor or duty, indeed but of love, overwhelming, obsessing. And then he admitted that she was purity, even holiness itself; that he had behaved to her like a cur; that he had been neither grateful, nor kind, nor tender, nor loving. He began to wonder fearfully if, after having failed so egregiously and terribly, there was any possible chance that she could ever care for him again. Fate had brought her into intimate contact, he realized, with two men. One had treated her outrageously in the beginning and had nobly made amends.

Lying Upon the Sands.

He hated Langford, and yet his sense of justice forced him to admit that he had played the man at last, while he, the islander, had treated her outrageously and in the end had played the fool. Was there a chance that she would forgive him?

The man was in many respects still a child. His heart in those sad and dreary hours yearned toward her as the weaned baby turns toward its mother. And yet there was nothing weak or childish in his feeling. He recognized his own powers, his own capacities. He knew then that she had taught him more things than are learned in books. She had taught him manhood as she had tried to teach him honor and dignity, and if he had failed once, if he had derogated from her high standard, he remembered that it was through failure that men achieved. He tried to comfort himself with these thoughts, but with little success.

But by and by all these considerations faded away or merged in a great longing for her. He had never disturbed her in the still watches of the night, although he had often been tempted to do so. But now the desire to see her, to plead with her, to beg her forgiveness—not a low desire or a base one, he thanked God—was so great that he could no longer sustain it. He rose to his feet and looked out of the open port hole. The dawn was graying the east. Attired as he was in the loose shirt and trousers in which he had lain down, which were not unlike the tunic that he habitually wore, save that they were of soft, luxurious silk, he opened the door of the cabin, stepped out through the silent wardroom—he had the natural savage art of treading without a sound—ran lightly up the companion ladder and stepped upon the deck. The officer of the watch and his midshipman did not notice him. Their eyes were elsewhere. He ran swiftly across the deck and stopped at the gangway. A marine stood there and started forward as he approached.

"That's my island," said the man. "I'm going to swim off to it, and I don't wish to be followed."

"It's a long swim, sir," ventured the marine, scarcely knowing what to do.

He stepped fairly in the gangway as if to bar the exit.

"It is nothing to me," said the man. "Stand aside."

"Mr. Hopkins!" called the marine, turning toward the officer of the deck.

"Aye, aye," came from Mr. Hopkins as he turned and started forward to the gangway.

The next moment the man had seized the marine in a grip which left him helpless, lifted him gently out of the gangway, dropped him carelessly upon the deck and had flashed through the air into the water.

By the time Mr. Hopkins reached the gangway the half-dazed marine had risen to his feet.

"What is it?"

"Why, it's the castaway, sir, the wild man that we brought ashore to-day."

"Well."

"He said he wanted to swim to the shore and did not want to be followed."

"Why didn't you stop him?"

"I did try, sir, but he picked me up as if I had been a baby and threw me aside and went overboard."

The officer was in a quandary. He had received no orders to prevent the man from going out of the ship. He was not quite sure what his duty was. At any rate, he turned to the boatswain's mate and bade him call away a crew for the cutter swinging astern. He directed the coxswain to bring the boat to the gangway and then sent the midshipman of the watch below to report the matter to the captain and ask his orders.

Capt. Ashby, as it happened, was awake. He came on deck immediately in his pajamas and received confirmation of the midshipman's extraordinary story from the watch officer. It was light enough now for the waters and the shore clearly to be seen. The captain stared over the side. He could make out the man's head swimming through the opening in the barrier. He could see the splash that he made in his rapid progress through the quiet seas.

"Mr. Hopkins," he said, after a moment's thought, "tell Mr. Cady—the midshipman of the watch—to take the boat and follow after. If the man gets safely to the shore, they are not to disturb him but to come back and report to me. If, on the contrary, he needs help, they are to take him aboard and bring him back to the ship."

So much time was lost in these various maneuvers, however, that when the order was carried out the boat had scarcely reached the entrance to the barrier when they saw the islander stepping through the shallow waters to the beach. There was, therefore, nothing for Mr. Cady to do but come back and report the matter to the captain. When he reached the deck of the cruiser he found the executive officer with the chaplain and the surgeon who had been summoned from their berths in consultation with the captain. By Mr. Whittaker's advice, he and the chaplain were immediately sent ashore to see what had happened and what was to be done.

There was considerable anxiety in the minds of the quartet who had been dealing with the affair heretofore as to what conditions might be. They did not know the man. They did not know what he might be doing, or to what danger the woman, whom they all pitied most profoundly, might be exposed. Of all with whom he had come in contact, the lieutenant commander and the chaplain were those who would have the most influence over the man of the island, hence they were dispatched to the island.

Another boat crew was therefore called away and the two gentlemen were rowed ashore. It was not yet sunrise but still sufficiently light to enable them to proceed. They were at a loss at first what to do, for they had not yet had opportunity for exploring the island. They had learned that the cave in which the woman dwelt was upon the other side and that hills rose between the landing place and her abode. They knew, of course, that they could get to it by following the shores of the island, but they had a reasonably accurate idea of its size and they knew that that would take a great deal of time. Time was precious. They were becoming more and more fearful with every moment.

They decided, therefore, to chance a direct march over the hill and across the island. By great good fortune they stumbled into the path which was now sufficiently defined in the growing light to enable them to follow it. They climbed the hill as rapidly as was consistent with the strength of the chaplain, who was a rather old man, and then having reached the top went down the other side almost at a run.

As they broke out from under the palm trees, they saw a dark object in the gray dawn lying upon the sands at the water's edge. It was a human being undoubtedly. As they ran toward it with quickening heart beats they recognized it as the man. He was lying motionless as if he had been struck dead. In a brief space they reached him. The lieutenant-commander knelt down by his side and turned him over upon his back. He was as senseless as if he had been smitten with a thunder bolt.

"Is he alive?" asked the chaplain, bending over him.

Mr. Whittaker's hand searched his heart.

"It beats feebly," he said. "He seems to have fainted, collapsed in some strange way. I wish we had brought the surgeon. I wonder what can be the cause of it?"

"Look!" said the chaplain.

He pointed to a little heap of something dark on the sands a foot or two away.

"What is it?" asked the officer.

The chaplain stepped over to it.

"It is the clothes of the woman," he said in an awe-struck voice, "and that Bible we were to take away with us with the other things but which she said she would give us in the morning."

"Great heaven," exclaimed Mr. Whittaker, "you don't think—"

At the same instant the same thought had come to both men.

"It looks like it," said the chaplain with bated breath. "Poor woman, may God help her!"

"That is what is the matter with him," returned the lieutenant-commander. "He has sought her in her cave and has not found her. He has discovered these things and he knows that she is gone. The shock has almost killed him."

"What is to be done now?"

Here the man of action interposed.

"Do you watch by him, chaplain," said the lieutenant-commander, rising. "I will go back to the landing upon the other side and send for the doctor. Then we will bring a party ashore and search every foot of the island. It is a bad business. To think of that woman offering herself to this man in vain. The fool!"

"Don't," said the chaplain. "He is not much more than a child in spite of all that he has learned. We must make allowances for him. He did love her, evidently. Look to what her loss has brought him. Perhaps stricken by the hand of God his soul has gone out to meet hers."

"Well, we must fight for his life anyway. Do you stay here. I will be back in a short time."

Lobster Served in Shell.

Broiled live lobster is always served in the shell. Either a whole lobster or half is passed to each person. With it is eaten drawn butter or Hollandaise sauce. Lobster farci is also served in improvised shells made by joining the back and tail. They are served on an oblong platter, garnished with lemon and parsley, and each guest helps herself to a portion from the shell.

Knew It Was a Canal.

Some of these youngsters who are studying physiology have as hard a time as their parents figuring out the terms used in that profoundly interesting subject. One little girl, according to her mentor, was asked the other day to name the three openings into the throat. For the benefit of the gentle reader who may not have studied his physiology recently it may be stated that the openings are the epiglottis, the esophagus and the alimentary canal.

The little girl had tried awfully hard to remember those names because she had a hunch that the teacher would ask her to give them. She started bravely.

"The epiglottis," she began and hesitated.

"Right you are," encouraged the teacher. "What then?"

"The—um—ab—sarcophagus?" she inquired a little dubiously.

"You mean esophagus, my dear," suggested the teacher. "And the third?"

"The Erie canal!" announced the little girl confidently and triumphantly.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Bucket Shop.

"Bucket shops"—a name now used to denote small "outside" stockbrokers or financiers not in membership with the Stock Exchange—were so called because when they first started in Chicago the only commodity dealt in by small speculators to any extent was wheat. The legitimate dealers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and then a lot of places sprung up where men of limited capital could speculate with very small sums, and these men were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucketful; hence shops where a small business was conducted in grain on a margin came to be known as bucket shops. The term was finally extended to cover all brokerage offices where small lots of either grain or stock were bought and sold, and it was applied particularly to those places where both seller and buyer did not more than "gamble" on the rise and fall of stocks.

Bows on Men's Hats.

Why is it that a man's hat has a band, and why is it this band has a bow invariably on the left side?

The answer is that there was a time when a piece of cloth adjusted to the head and tied with a band of other material served for a headpiece. The reason the bow was always placed on the left side had its origin in the fact that in wielding a sword—an accomplishment possessed by nearly every one of consequence at one period of the world's history—the bow or rosette if placed on the right side would have been in the way. Its present day utility is that it keeps most men from wearing their hats hind side before, and, although with most hats that would not matter, with most heads it does.—Chicago Record-Herald.

On the Moon.

The question "Could a man live on the moon?" has been put to an eminent astronomer, who replied: "I am afraid not. A man transplanted to the moon would find himself the lone inhabitant of a perfectly lifeless orb in which eternal silence reigns. He would have to manage without air, water or fire. He would not need to put windows in his house, for there is no wind, no rain, no dust, upon the moon. It has been truly and practically observed that the moon is apparently abandoned to death, nourishing no inhabitants, producing nothing resembling trees, flowers or beautiful things of any kind—useless, in short, except as a mass of extinct volcanic rubbish, which drags the sea into tides and reflects the sunbeams in moonlight."

The Dean's Retort.

One Sunday morning at Caunton church Dean Hole noticed a tipsy man in the congregation. He bore his presence until it was no longer possible and then came to a halt with the question, "Are you fit to remain in God's house?"

The man got up unsteadily and was helped to the door.

"James," said Hole after the service was over, "what did you do with him?"

The useful parishioner replied, "I put him on a tombstone, sir."

The indignant vicar's retort was, "Couldn't you have put him under it?"—London Mail.

Names In Politics.

"I want to make a name for myself in politics," said the ambitious youth.

The Man Who Accepts

the appointment as Executor or Trustee of an Estate, without full realization of the duties or responsibilities of such an office, may find that he has many difficult and disturbing moments ahead of him.

The sensible man, who wants to avoid all unnecessary worry and desires to concentrate all his energies upon the prosecution of his own business affairs, will urge the selection of a Trust Company of High Standing and Long Experience to act in such capacities in place of the individual, on the general proposition that, since it costs no more, and, in fact, sometimes less, the very best facilities and experience are none too good to bring to the handling of Estate matters.

Fidelity Trust Co., Newark, N. J.,

in its Trust Department, makes a specialty of the care and administration of estates. Its selection is commended from the standpoints of economy and efficiency.

To Vacate Byron Place.

Whereas, Byron Place, between East Second Street and Midway, as shown on map entitled "Map of property owned by R. D. Benedict, City of Plainfield, N. J., F. A. Dunham, C. E., August, 1892," filed in the Register's Office in the County of Union, and also shown on "Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, East Section, 1899," on file in the office of the Collector of Taxes, is a dedicated street, but has not been opened to public use since the said street was dedicated to public use, and has never been accepted by the public; and Going Into a Safer Business.

It was Cassidy's first morning as newspaper carrier. From side to side of the avenue he hurried, dropping the moist sheets in vestibules and running them in the space between the door and sill. Finally he came to a house that was separated from the sidewalk by an urn studded yard. Cassidy opened the iron gate and walked up the stone path. He knelt in the vestibule and started running the paper under the door. An upper window was raised, and a woman's voice called:

"Is that you, Harry? You are awful late. I hear the milk carts rattling."

Cassidy thought it best to remain quiet. The voice continued:

"You needn't think I'm coming down at such an hour! The idea of you, a married man, coming home at such a time! Lost your key, as usual? Well, catch this one."

A heavy piece of brass shot two stories. There was a heavy fall, and the vestibule resembled a press room.

Some one found Cassidy smoking his pipe in the "accident ward."

"Going back to the carrier route?" they asked.

"Niver once more," responded Cassidy. "Of'm goin' back to wur-ruk in th' quarry. Thor's no fallin' kaes thor, only dynomited rocks."—Chicago News.

As Expanded.

A diminutive specimen of juvenile femininity yclept Miss Muffet had placed herself in a sitting posture upon an article of household furniture ordinarily termed an ottoman or hassock, ministering to the gratification of her gustatory organs by ingurgitating the coagulated portion of bovine lacteal fluid mingled with the watery serum of the same which remains after the coagulated portion has been segregated and withdrawn.

Happening to glance downward, she observed that a specimen of the genus araneida, class arachnida, remarkable for its ability to produce filaments of extraordinary tenuity from its own interior, had taken a position upon the ottoman or hassock in immediate proximity to her.

Which totally unexpected incident aroused her apprehension to such an extent that she immediately, not to say precipitately, arose from her sitting posture and departed from the locality, leaving the intruder in undisputed possession of the apartment.—Chicago Tribune.

An Easy Job.

In antebellum days Colonel Moore of Kentucky owned a large number of slaves. One day one of the field hands, named Jupe, was guilty of some negligence and was sent to the woods at once to cut down and split up a black gum tree, practically an impossible task. Jupe cut down the tree and labored hard to split the tough wood, but in vain. In the meantime a thunderstorm came up, and Jupe sought refuge under a brush heap. Directly the lightning struck a large poplar near by, splitting it into kindling wood. After the storm had passed Jupe crawled out from his place of security and after taking a careful look at the remains of the poplar tree, which were scattered all over the woods, said: "Mr. Lightnin', I wish you had just tried yo' han' on dis black gum. Any blame fool can split a poplar!"—Cleveland Leader.

How Welshwomen Carry Their Babies.

The quaint old Welsh way in which Swansea women carry their babies attracts every one's notice when visiting that town for the first time. A big shawl over the right shoulder is drawn down to the left hip, where the two ends of the shawl are met and held together, forming a sort of pouch or pocket, in which the baby snuggles cozily and safely. Its weight is so supported by the hip and distributed by the shawl over the whole upper part of the body that there is no strain at all nor any tiring of the arms. This probably accounts for the upright carriage of the Welsh mother. Moreover, the method is comfortable for the child and so safe that in Swansea small boys swathed in their mothers' shawls are seen carrying the family's latest baby.—London Chronicle.

Dean Swift's Complaint.

It is no new thing, this complaint which one hears of the high cost of living. Writing to Stella from London in the year 1710, Dean Swift remarks: "I lodge in Bury street, St. James, where I removed a week ago. I have the first floor, the dining room and bedchamber at 8 shillings a week; plaguy deep, but I spend nothing for eating, never go to a tavern and very seldom in a coach, yet, after all, it will be expensive."

DUTCH ARMS BANQUET

Eloquent Speakers at Trinity's Club Entertain Men and Women.

COLABORATION THEIR THEME

Plea for Local Option by S. S. Swackhamer—Mr. Martine's Opinion of Woman Suffrage.

If laughter is any criterion then the company of members and guests of the Dutch Arms which gathered in the Sunday school rooms of Trinity Reformed church last night were care free and happy. The spontaneous bursts of laughter which followed the witty sallies of such jokesmiths as Robert Clark, Jr., Rev. I. W. Gowen, Samuel S. Swackhamer Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl and Rev. John Y. Broek. The occasion was the banquet of the club at which the women, wives and friends of the members were entertained and naturally the speeches which followed the feast were directed toward the feminine element in social, religious and domestic life.

Toastmaster Clark was introduced by the president of the club, Fred S. Cutter, in a few appropriate words and from the opening sentence of Mr. Clark's introductory speech to the last continual bursts of merriment interrupted him. Mr. Clark had a fund of humorous stories which seemed inexhaustible. He paid in a serious moment, a high tribute to the mothers of the land and to the daughters of Trinity in particular.

Rev. I. W. Gowen, pastor of Grove Reformed church, of Weehawken, was the first speaker and referred to Mr. Clark, who had told a story of a preacher carrying a hot sample of the infernal regions, as being worse than the fellow who lives in Plainfield and is forced to do business in Newark, "he goes from Paradise to hell every day." Dr. Gowen paid humorous attention to the other speakers, including Farmer "Jim" Martine, who later was induced to to say a few words. Dr. Gowen also referred reverently to the Irish whose day was celebrated on Thursday and said that there was a people who had the best conception of happiness and the value of fellowship and knew how to show it. He applied the Irish attitude toward mankind to the necessity for similar cohesion among members of the church for in this fellowship and colaboration were to be found the sure foundation for persistent and successful work for the Master whom all should serve. He said it was getting to be a close race between the women of the church and the men as to which of the sexes was doing the most work for the Master in this twentieth century, but this is an indication of the awakening which the church has long been looking for. It is a man's job as much as a woman's the speaker said, to keep the holiest and highest principles ever before them and strive for the ultimate good of all mankind.

Miss S. Etta Raybert sang a solo and encore after Dr. Gowen's speech, and then followed Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, of Somerville, who told a good story about Mr. Broek's ancestors, requesting Trinity's pastor to close his ears to avoid blushing.

Dr. Pfanstiehl took a text upon which to elaborate the duties of the men of today. "Ye that are men now serve Him." His talk was filled with the meaning of the words and asked the men of the club to prove their attitude toward their fellow men with a sincereity of purpose and earnestness of heart that would show that in their hearts as well as in their actions they were the true sons of the Master, and that now or never was the time to do it.

Mr. Swackhamer followed Dr. Pfanstiehl who as usual relieved his system of some of his well developed humor, but in a peroration marked by strong sincereity he appealed to the men of the club and their friends and to every member of a church in the city to send delegates to Trenton to urge the passage of the local option measure which has been under consideration by the Legislature. James E. Martine followed Mr. Swackhamer and paid his respects to woman suffrage in unmistakable terms. He denounced the movement as being unfeminine and hardly worthy of the support of women with sense. "Why should women," he asked, loiter around the polls on election day when they should be at home attending to their babies and other household duties. May woman's suffrage never come to pass in Plainfield."

Rev. Mr. Broek in a few choice words answered to the toast: "Is it a good thing for one bird to flock alone," propounded by Toastmaster Clark and when he was through no-

ANOTHER JEWEL IN MARY RILEY'S CROWN

Good Mary Riley, of Lincoln place, who has spent a good many years of her life in aiding the unfortunate, has earned another star for her heavenly crown. When the good steamship Baltic started from New York on her trip across the Atlantic this morning she carried as one of her passengers, Bridget Carrick, a girl of twenty-three, who has been ill for some time. Bridget for a time after her arrival in this country, almost three years ago, came to this city, where she was employed as a family domestic. Her home is at Mt. Bellay, County Galway, Ireland.

The attention of Mrs. Riley, who is known as the "Good Samaritan" in St. Joseph's parish, was called to the sad plight and hopeless condition of the poor girl. She interested herself in Bridget's behalf by visiting borough homes soliciting subscriptions to enable the purchase of transportation for the girl to the home of her parents in Ireland, and a few days ago she succeeded in collecting a total of $48 necessary. In addition to money many of the people who donated to the fund furnished a quantity of clothing and other supplies to brighten the homeward journey of Miss Carrick.

CITY HIGH'S TEAM DEFEATS THE BEARCATS

The Plainfield High School basketball team defeated the "Bearcats" yesterday at the Plainfield High School gym by the score of 33 to 31. The Bearcats put up a fast fight but P. H. S. proved too much for them. The first half was close, the score being 16 to 15.

T. Ricketts played the star game for the Bearcats while Thompson starred on P. H. S. During the second half it looked for a while that the Bearcats would win but P. H. S. finished with two points ahead.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE BANDS GIVE ENTERTAINMENT AT HOPE.

The boys and girls church attendance bands of Hope chapel held an entertainment at the chapel last night. Over fifty members were present to enjoy the good things provided by the committee, which comprised George Leighs, Allen Snyder, Miss M. Clara Hunter, Miss Agnes Leighs and Mrs. M. W. Clark.

G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of the Sunday school, introduced Dr. Charles G. Davis, who proved to be a capital entertainer for the young people. Games were also enjoyed. Rev. L. R. Howard was also a guest of the society, and the Boys' Club, which was holding a meeting at the chapel, was also invited to join in the festivities.

Sacred Cantata on Monday.

A sacred cantata by Will C. Macfarlane entitled "The Message from the Cross," will be sung by the choir of Grace Episcopal church on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock. The soloists will be William Tallamy, tenor; Bert Tallamy, baritone; Vincent Minor, baritone; Master Raymond Manley, alto; and Masters Arthur Martin, Benjamin Cooley and Carlyle Wright, sopranos. The chorus will consist of thirty-five men and boys under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster.

Will Appeal to Higher Court.

The decision of Vice-Chancellor Howell, in which George W. Clark, of this city, was granted an absolute divorce from his wife Maggie Clark, and J. E. Flannery, the corespondent, was ordered to pay all counsel fees and costs of the trial, was unsatisfactory to the defendants in the action, and George W. V. Moy, attorney for Mrs. Clark, announced this morning that the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals.

National Staff Band Concerts.

Col. W. A. McIntyre, Brigadier Kimball and the National Staff Band of the Salvation Army will visit Plainfield Saturday and Sunday April 2-3. Saturday afternoon, April 2, at 4 o'clock the first service will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church and in the evening the band will give a concert at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

BOROUGH COUNCIL CONTRACTS FOR STONE

The North Plainfield Council had a short and tame session last night. The principal item of business was the seating of George T. Rogers, who was appointed and confirmed at the last meeting of the Council to fill the unexpired term of Charles L. Nichols, resigned. Mr. Rogers will take Mr. Nichol's place on the various committees of which the latter was a member, including the chairmanship of the finance committee.

John Y. Wilson was awarded the contract for furnishing stone to the borough for street repairs during the year. Mr. Wilson's rates are as follows: screenings, $1.20 per ton; fine stone, $1.20 per ton; 1½ inch stone, $1.15 per ton; 2½ inch stone, $1.00 per ton. Joseph Manhattan's bid on crosswalks was referred to the street committee.

The Council adjourned until next Friday when a discussion will be held on the sewer matter.

UPPER WATCHUNG AVENUE IS TO BE OPENED UP

Preliminary steps have been taken by the Borough Council which will result in the development of the northeastern section of that municipality. Mayor N. B. Smalley, at the session of the Council last night, suggested that the street committee authorize Street Commissioner John Y. Barrett to make preparations for the opening of Watchung avenue above Coddington avenue to Johnson's drive.

When this work is accomplished a way will be paved for the opening of several streets running from that section of Watchung avenue to Somerset street. Mayor Smalley in making the suggestion said that the section is a desirable spot for houseseekers to locate when the proposed sewerage system is installed.

PINERO COMEDY BENEFIT

Talented Amateurs to Produce "Trelawny of the Wells" for the Hospital.

WM. L. SAUNDERS IN CHARGE.

Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Miss Louise Saunders, W. R. Cock, Wm. N. Runyon and C. H. Lyman Among the Cast.

Pinero's popular comedy, "Trelawny of the Wells," will be given here for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital early in May, a decision having been reached at a meeting held last night at the home of William L. Saunders, on Rockview avenue. The play will be given by local talent. Last night's meeting was the result of a request from the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital to Mr. Saunders and he kindly consented to undertake the proposition.

Among those who will appear in the cast are Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Miss Louise Saunders, William R. Cock, Mr. and Mrs. Alston M. Abbott, Judge William N. Runyon, William Pettigrew, W. T. Pelletier, William L. Saunders, Charles H. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Laurens, M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. White, Hugh S. Jarvis and Miss Curtis.

Judge Runyon will take an important part, and the cast is so unusual in its make-up that an exceptional performance is expected. Rose Trelawney, the part in which Mary Mannering made such a great hit, is to be taken by Miss Louise Saunders. Mrs. Serrell has been seen on the amateur stage in Plainfield for several years, and the many friends of "Col." Cock will welcome his presence before the footlights again.

Henry C. White, president of the Comedy Club, takes the stage management, and owing to the popularity of the hospital, the members of the club have decided to abandon their usual winter performance and assist Mr. Saunders in this production.

W. R. George to Speak Here.

William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republic Association at Freeville, N. Y., will address the Men's Club and their friends at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Tuesday night, March 22, at 8 o'clock. EAST END'S RESIDENTS TO PETITION RAILROAD

The residents of the Netherwood section of the city desirous of securing lighting facilities at the Netherwood Station, have prepared a petition which has already been signed by forty people, and it is the intention of sending it to W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central. It is also desired that the station be kept open in the evening from 7 to 11 o'clock to accommodate the large number of people arriving and departing between those hours.

The station park is dark at night, making it unsafe for patrons, especially women, and it is the opinion that the railroad company should be willing to afford proper lighting facilities. And the fact that the station is closed during the evening makes it a source of great inconvenience and annoyance to the traveling public. The petition was started by Joseph Harrigan, of South avenue, and persons wishing to sign it are invited to call at his office.

Mrs. Matthews was a communicant of the Holy Cross church for many years. The couple were married fifty-one years ago. They had resided here for at least three decades and were prominent in society.

Surviving Mrs. Matthews are the husband, a daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Arrowsmith Hegeman, and a son, Peter B. Matthews.

MRS. BRANDT VS. KERWIN IN THE CITY COURT

Lawrence Kerwin, of Rock avenue, and Mrs. Annie Brandt, of the same street, were in court this morning to have their troubles adjusted by Judge Runyon, who was assisted by William G. DeMeza, for Mrs. Brandt and Francis J. Blatz for Mr. Kerwin.

Mrs. Brandt caused the appearance of Mr. Kerwin upon a charge of disorderly conduct in which she alleged that Kerwin used indecent and profane language to her at the corner of West Front street and Rock avenue last Tuesday about noon. Kerwin denied the charge and brought Applegate & Baker, painters, to prove that he was not in the vicinity at the time of the alleged misconduct.

Mrs. Brandt's six-year-old daughter, Dorothy, who is scarcely able to know the serious meaning of an oath told enough of the alleged meeting and the fact that Kerwin had spoken to her mother that the Judge was probably convinced that there was some truth in the allegations of Mrs. Brandt. Judge Runyon suspended sentence reserving his decision subject to future happenings in the turbulent district where encounters of the character indicated are frequent.

RETURNED MISSIONARY TELLS OF HIS WORK IN CHINA.

Palm Sunday will be observed in the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches tomorrow with appropriate services.

Dudley Morris, a returned missionary from China, home on his first furlough, gave an interesting illustrated lecture on China at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night under the auspices of the Young People's Society. There was a large attendance of young people.

The views shown by Mr. Morris were exceptionally fine and gave all a clear conception of the country in which Mr. Morris is working, together with what has been accomplished and the prospects for the future. Mr. Morris is a missionary under the direction of the Presbyterian Board and has been successful. After the talk there was a social hour and refreshments were served.

WANT PHTHISIS PAVILION

Boards of Trade and other Organizations Favor White Plague Camp.

PLAINFIELD IS INTERESTED.

Clergy, Professional and Business Men Indorse Project—Freeholders Receive Many Letters Favoring Plan.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. F. E. DuBois, Dr. B. vanD. Hedges and Dr. F. J. Hughes, and William Jeffery, William Dutcher, William S. Tyler and Miss Mabelle Phillips, were the local representatives at the hearing on the county tuberculosis pavilion question yesterday afternoon in the Circuit Court room, Elizabeth. The hearing was arranged by the committee from the Board of Freeholders, of which J. Hervey Doane is chairman, at the request of the county anti-tuberculosis organization. The meeting was largely attended and considerable interest was shown in the proposition.

Representatives were present from the Boards of Trade, of the various municipalities in the county, as well as all organization with allied interests. The concensus of opinion was that the pavilion would prove a profitable investment for the county, and that the expense to maintain it would be more than offset by what it costs to care for indigent consumptives and their surviving families.

Interesting remarks were made by Mayor Fisk and the local physicians present, and they promised their support in the movement. Statements were made by some of the speakers that a combination could be effected with one or two adjoining counties, but this plan was opposed strongly.

On motion of Dr. Norton L. Wilson, a resolution was ordered sent to Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and Assemblyman Schwartz, Pierce, and Thompson, asking their support in the passage of House bill 362, introduced by Assemblyman Smalley, of Bound Brook, and which gives boards of freeholders the right to appropriate money for tuberculosis sanitoriums.

Rev. Dr. Eben B. Cobb, of Elizabeth, suggested that prisoners in the county jail be employed to cultivate farms at the proposed sanatorium so as to raise fresh vegetables for the inmates. This was frowned upon, it being the opinion that the inmates would benefit more by working themselves.

Dr. E. B. Grier, of Elizabeth, opened the meeting, addressing briefly the audience of more than 100 prominent men and women on the object of the gathering which, he said, was to get the sentiment of the matter, so that the freeholders would know whether or not such an institution is really demanded by the taxpayers.

Letters were read from clubs and individuals endorsing the movement, and included one from the Plainfield Board of Trade. Mr. Jeffery was among those who spoke in favor of the project. Mr. Fisk said that there are 150 Plainfielders who should be in such an institution. There was not a dissenting voice against the proposition when Chairman Doane asked for remarks from the "opposition."

The committee from the freeholders will report the result of the meeting at the April meeting of the board, when the probable cost of such an institution and other details as to location, etc., will be discussed.

Lawson on "Abraham Lincoln," and the other by Dr. G. F. Watts on "Stephen A. Douglass."

PLAINFIELD YOUTHS LEARNING THE ART OF SWIMMING AT THE Y.M.C.A. NATATORIUM

The week of swimming instruction at the Young Men's Christian Association under the direction of George A. Corsan, will come to an end this evening. The leading feature of yesterday's proceedings was the tryout of the Monday, Wednesday and Friday classes. Forty-two out of the 134 members qualified by swimming the length of the pool and will be presented with buttons for accomplishing the feat.

These are furnished by the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association and will be presented to the boys on Friday afternoon, March 25. A meeting for boys is being planned for this date when Charles R. Scott, of Newark, the boy's State secretary will address them on "camp life" and will exhibit a display of stereopticon views. The list of swimmers who earned medals in tryouts yesterday are as follows: Harold Seals, Maurice Fitzgerald, Fred McLain, Philip Schuyler, Mike Cala Velard, George Angebauer, John Hobe, Elwood Waller, Loren E. Giddes, Roy Stewart George W. Gray, Walter Bell, John Calder, Victor Atlee, Orville James, Thomas Duffey, Benjamin Cooley, Ernest Higgins, William Fuller, Thomas Gleason, Edward Rollerson, Edward Schemff, John Dawe, Joseph Wherry, Martin McDonald, Seymour Day, Lesley Dailey, William Warneck, Robert Hebert, Jack Heber, Edward Waldron, James Malluck, Clinton Westervelt, Morris Bender, Harold F. Bach, Bertie McDonald, Mark Waldron, Frederick VanNorden, Francis Barry, George Barry, Albert Martin, C. Ward Birch.

A total of 421 men and boys received instruction during the week. Two hundred and eighty-three different boys were non-members and came on alternate days three times during the week. Ninety different boys who are members of the association received instruction three days. Forty-eight different men who could not swim were glad to get the suggestions that Mr. Corsan had to give. There were only 24 boys out of 307 non-members who made application who failed to appear or who gave up after the first lesson.

Water wings were used in teaching the fellows and in helping them to get the stroke but the test on the last day was to have each fellow try to swim the length of the pool without the use of wings.

The week has been a gala season for at least the 283 of the boys of the city who are not members of the association for aside from the pleasure they had in the swimming pool, the games in the social rooms in the boys department were kept busy for the entire afternoon every day in the week.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Gerson's Tinytown Company composed of 50 midgets from the Royaume de Lilliput, Paris, France, have been added as a circus feature to the big triple show at the Hippodrome. The Midgets give a complete three ring circus in miniature, without the aid of any full sized performer. They number amongst themselves trained equilibrists, equestrians, acrobats, clowns, tight rope walkers, jugglers, strong men and even rapid fire cartoonists. They will be seen in the first of the three spectacles, "A Trip to Japan," and will be retained as a permanent feature. These wee performers created something of a furore at their first apeparance this afternoon. The house was packed with children as well as grown ups, for the little folks especially delight in watching the clever manner in which these tiny folk disport themselves. Doubtless the crowds at the New York Hippodrome will be greater than ever from now on until the close of the season.

NEWSPAPERS stand for progress. The widespread dissemination of news and knowledge through the press is largely responsible for the high degree of civilization in this country.

As a means of collecting and distributing news the telephone, too, has come to play a most important part. Every newspaper has a telephone. In every department of a paper, editorial, business, circulation, telephone service is invaluable.

The telephone is equally valuable in every other line of business. It is just as valuable, too, in the home.

PLAINFIELD ATHLETES IN BIG HARLEM MEET

Seven local athletes will disport the colors of the Y. M. C. A. at the annual meet of the Harlem Y. M. C. A. in New York tonight. In the different events are entered some of the classiest athletes in the Y. M. C. A. ranks, in the East, including a number of collegiate stars. The local team will be accompanied by Physical Director George L. Listman, Assistant Director Charles H. Line, and a delegation of association members.

In the Plainfield combination will be "Jack" Payne, who will compete in the shot putting competition. Payne finished second in the Paterson Y. M. C. A. meet last Saturday night and he declares he is in fine fettle for tonight's fray. "They will all have to do some tall hustling to beat me tonight" was Jack's last words when the train rolled out for New York this afternoon.

Our ex-cop has been doing some big stunts since he allied himself with the local Y. M. C. A. Last year he finished second in the Elizabeth and Orange meets and took third prize in the State meet at Paterson. This year he carried off first honors again at Troy and finished second in the 1910 State meet at Paterson last Saturday night.

Plainfield will also be represented in the shot putting competition by Clifford Vail, who is also coming rapidly to the front as a hurler of the twelve-pound weight. Vail has been training faithfully in the local gymnasium and he expects to shine tonight.

Johnny Fritts, the sterling athlete from the West End, and who is the leader in the all around Y. M. C. A. championships, is entered for the 60-yard dash and one-mile run. Under the guidance of Physical Director Listman Fritts has developed into a crackerjack runner. He has displayed fine form in his practise and there is no reason to believe but that he will acquit himself creditably tonight.

George Linke, rated as one of the best speed merchants on his pins, in the local field, will also figure in the 60-yard dash; in the 50-yard sprint the local entries are N. Coyle and Russell Miller. Miller is also carded for the 220-yard run and H. Kinney is entered in the 250-yard event.

In the jumps, Plainfield will be represented by J. Newell, who will compete in the standing broad and running high events.

Local haberdashers report a falling off in the demand for green ties; now a boom is expected in green parasols.

To settle a bet what team won the American League championship last year? G. RUGGLES.

Detroit.

FROM THE SOUTH.

From the South the news is wafted.
Matty's throwing arm is great,
"Wild Bill" Donovan is lobbing
Snaky curves across the plate.
Every bush league youth ambitious
In the sporting writer's mind,
Is a homerun hitter surely,
And a find.

From the park in sunny Texas
They are sending back the word
That the kid is doing wonders
In the neighborhood of third.
That his work will fire the bleachers
And enthuse the summer mobs.
And they have unearthed a dozen
Tyrus Cobbs.

From the South the scribes are sending
News to scare us into fits,
There's a minor making bingles
Just like Sammy Crawford's hits
They've a dozen unknown pitchers
Who are bound to win renown.
Everyone of them's a second
Mordy Brown.

But the spring days soon will leave us
And the summer days return.
And you'll find Sammy Crawford batting
When a run we have to earn;
And you'll see Cobb stealing bases.
With the same old reckless rushes,
And the minors will have wandered
To the bushes.

—Detroit Free Press.

Manager Ernest Dorflinger announced today that he is going to Elizabeth for the purpose of getting Catcher Seery in line. This is a fine move and it is to be hoped the Elizabeth boy will be seen behind the bat in a Plainfield uniform again.

Hats off to Hugh Sweeney. He has attracted the attention of Dunellen newspapers reporters during the past week from all accounts. The Dunellen Call had the following to say on Hughey:

"Mr. Hugh Sweeney, field representative of the Plainfield Business College, well known in this borough, made his appearance here this week in a fine new Maxwell automobile."

This should prove interesting to local disciples of Izaak Walton: Willie Danz while fishing in the New Market pond Thursday night hooked a sucker which weighed two and a half pounds. Catches of good sized suckers in the lake have been numerous during the past two weeks.

By what scores did Plainfield defeat Scotch Plains last season?

FAN.

Scores of 6 to 3 and 3 to 1.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will entertain the Harlem aggregation tonight on the local courts. The New Yorkers are rated as one of the fastest combinations in the metropolis and an exciting contest is expected.

GOLF.

Although no chance was offered to see the American professionals in serious competition abroad on their recent visit, foreign experts have seen fit to criticise unfavorably the play of the visitors just the same. It will be remembered that the representatives of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association recently played at Walton Heath; also that no opportunity was afforded the visitors of measuring strength and skill singlehanded against the home talent for the reason that only friendly foursomes were indulged in. However, "Golf Illustrated" comments on the Americans as follows:

Some of the play was really very good, and as the matches were looked upon as a pleasant saunter they were entirely free from the nerve-racking feeling that prevails when more serious golf is attempted. Among the American professionals there are several fine players, but it was easily noticed that as scientific stylists they fall far behind the standard set by the present British professors. There was a curious absence of that crisp, clear smack from the wrists that one is so accustomed to see in our leading professionals. With the exception of Alec Smith, every player seemed to heave and lunge at the ball, with the result that the ball flew away heavily and invariably with a curl to the left. Most of the men used the independent grip with the right hand well under. This, although conductive to length, looks far from pretty and makes straightness hard to obtain.

Their short game was distinctly good; their putting especially so. There was no hesitation at striking at the ball; if they hit the ball they hit it firmly. There was no nervous dribbling into the hole; the back was the object and they went for it hard. Most of the men used the run-up shot to perfection; and this, at Walton Heath in a wind, is the shot. In a summary the comparison can be condensed to a few words. The American professionals lack to a great extent the easy, graceful style of their British confreres, but they almost make up for it with their determination and wholeheartedness of play.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

John Hoffman will erect a $10,000 ice plant at Paulsboro.

The small child of Thomas Bettit was badly bitten by a dog at Millville.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has purchased the estate of Joel Lutz, in the centre of Glassboro, and will erect a new freight station.

While Joel Robinson was working at the glass plant of T. C. Wheaton Company a huge bottle burst and cut a long, deep gash in his forehead.

Henry Rennebaum, of Williamstown, died Thursday of blood poisoning. A scratch became poisoned while he was killing hogs. He was ill less than three days.

A large oil painting, the property of the late William G. Binney, of Burlington, was shipped by express Thursday to his daughter, the Princess de Camporeali, of Rome. The painting, with its crating, weighed over 400 pounds.

Street Supervisor Leeds and Contractor Bader, of Atlantic City, chanced death Thursday afternoon, when, to prevent running over a child, Leeds drove his automobile onto the sidewalk and into a marble post in front of the First National Bank. The machine was smashed and both men were thrown out, but not seriously hurt. Leeds saw the youngster run out into the street too late to stop the machine.

Unable to procure yarn and other raw materials for the manufacture of their product from Philadelphia firms, whose plants have been closed by the sympathetic strike, the Backman Braid Company of Burlington was compelled to shut down its factory on East Pearl street Thursday. For months the plant has been operating night and day shifts, and has advance orders sufficient to keep the looms busy for many more months.

Frank Lewis, who sought lodging in a boarding-house in the lower section of Atlantic City Wednesday night, was given a shock when he found Charles Ripslagher dead in a bed in the room to which he had been assigned. Ripslagher, who was well known here, came from New York. County Physician Souder decided that the man had died from heart failure and gave his permission to have the body buried. Ripslagher has a brother in his home city, for whom the police are now looking.

The official board of the Union M. E. church, Camden, in a session said to have been full of ginger, and which lasted till early Thursday morning, signed a protest to District Superintendent Nichols on the failure of the bishop to return their pastor, Rev. U. G. Hagaman, for another year. Mr. Hagaman was sent to the First church, Atlantic City, and Rev. T. S. Hammond, of Vineland, was transferred to Union church. The officers claimed to have had assurances that Mr. Hagaman would come back, and they were sorely disappointed and perplexed. They have no objection to Mr. Hammond, but they did want their pastor for another year.

The Senior Council, O. U. A. M., met Wednesday night and adopted a constitution and by-laws and received several applications for membership.

LARGEST YIELD IN NEW JERSEY CROPS

Trenton, March 19.—According to the reports received here the New Jersey farmers experienced their most successful year in that last passed. The farmers in South Jersey were unusually successful, the distribution of their crops amounting to more than $7,500,000 over the Middle West, or Canada, or New England.

The produce which was sent from South Jersey was made up of the following commodities: Apples, 43 cars; asparagus, 61; berries, 660; cabbage, 4; cranberries, 158; eggs, 41; egg plants, 16; fish, 573; grapes, 6; ice, 25; meats, 13; melons, 188; milk, 23; mixed carloads, 3,163; oysters and clams, 3,401; peaches and pears, 75; peppers, 418; pumpkins, 12; poultry, 496; potatoes, 8,002; rhubarb and onions, 35; and tomatoes, 1,478.

The railroads made special inducements to the farmer in the handling of produce. Never before in the history of the railroads were so many cars sent to South Jersey. A total of 18,891 cars, which if placed end to end, would extend nearly 178 miles, were used in handling the produce.

For the first time the railroads last year ran special freight trains in order that farmers could get their produce to market in the shortest possible time. This resulted in the market being greatly widened. Instead of being confined to neighboring markets as formerly the South Jersey farmers are now in touch with markets almost the country over.

Further arrangements for the quick handling of produce will, it is expected, be made this year. The Pennsylvania Railroad has, it is understood, several plans under way for facilitating the handling of farm produce.

According to the reports of farmers the gain over the year previous is about 34 per cent.

GOOD DAY TO BE NATURALIZED.

Elizabeth, March 19.—Michael McGuinness, sixty-three years old, who came to this county from Ireland forty years ago, and has lived in Elizabeth for twenty-five years, celebrated St. Patrick's Day Thursday by appearing before Judge Edward S. Atwater, in the Naturalization Court and swearing allegiance to the United States.

"Why do you apply today for citizenship papers?" McGuinness was asked.

The aged man answered:

"I was born in Ireland, and want to sever my ties with Great Britain on the Irishman's great holiday, and swear allegiance to the United States. I am living under the Stars and Stripes, and I want to die an American."

Cross Memorial of Dead Chorister.

Rahway, March 19.—Palm Sunday morning the choir of St. Paul's church will use the new processional cross, presented by the choir to the church in honor of the late Reuben Tharp, the soloist of that body. The cross, of brass, is to be mounted on a dark mahogany staff, six feet long. The crucifers, each one of whom carries the cross a certain length of time and then passes it to the next in number, are Fred Squier, Everett Martin and Cuthbert Haases. The memento, when in the church during service, will rest in the chancel over the seat formerly occupied by Mr. Tharp as chorister.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

As between athletics physical and mental we must of course give first place to the former if at all. Everybody who is anybody has gone frantic with delight over the great achievement, greatest in the world, in the Madison Square Garden last week. A man named Gusta Ljungstrom won the 20 mile championship footrace in one hour, 50 minutes, 58 and three-fifths of a second, "smashing every known record, amateur or professional." The marvel is that his feet did not get tangled up in his surname. Madison Square Garden is no more a square than the square is a garden, but what of that? The great thing is the race, a greater thing is the victory, but the greatest of all is the diet that won the prize. Ljungstrom is a vegetarian!

He has eaten no fleshmeats in seven months. The writer of this ate no fleshmeats and tasted no juicy gravy for a whole year, walked no fewer than ten miles every day, all weathers, and a twenty or thirty mile tramp at least once a week and then broke his fast on an endless chain of sausages for which his soul had longed. He has had friends and acquaintances in various callings from learned university professors, clergymen, and women and men of high refinement and wealth, to workers in coal mines, business men and women, and one postman who walked fifteen miles six days a week, who were strict vegetarians, some of them for forty years. All hale and hearty in body and mind. The champion long distance runner or walker two or three years ago in Europe, covering some hundred or two miles along the country roads, was also an abstainer from flesh foods. The present writer ate fewer vegetables and fruits in that long and recent shorter experiments than in his ordinary meat diet. If people generally would shake free from the meat superstition they would bring down high prices with a rattle and without whining in the newspapers for Government relief. Flesh foods are a very nice luxury but not a necessary food.

A German circus man threw a double back somersault in Kansas City a week or two ago. The feat was proclaimed a novelty, the greatest in the world. This means a double turn without touching the ground. I have seen this done twice but it is a wonderfully rare feat. A few days after this two youths performed it in the gymnasium of Columbia University. One is Albert Quinn, age 18, from Jersey City High School, 5 feet tall, or short, and weighs 135 pounds. He will prove tough eating if they roast him on April fool day. The other is Edmund Mills, of Pratt Institute, same age, weight and height not given. Both made use of belt and ropes and springboard. If they had lived on the light and airy non-meat diet they might not have needed the ropes and board—perhaps.

Howard University has issued an official statement, based on the records of its law school, which should set our young fellows a-thinking right hard. The idea prevails among college men, it says, that though they may loaf as undergrads, or go in ding dong for sports, they are sure to become hard workers when they enter the professional schools. The twelve years' record show to the contrary. The figures prove that the man who wins honours in the Law school without having won them in college, is rare, and that the "sport" of low standing in college who achieves distinction in Law school is almost a myth. One's own observation ever since the athletic craze set in leads to the general conclusion that a moderate indulgence in school sports is good for the body that owns a sound mind, but excessive attention given to play is sure, sooner or later, to weaken or damage the mind, and very often the body too, neither of which hindrances to world-success are worth what the silly victim has to pay.

Other indulgences, besides manly sports play the mischief with our alleged intelects. Playing poet, for instance. An Irish poet of minor degree steps forward to scare our rising home manufacturers into honester labours. He tells of the twelve "brilliant" littery chaps who formed themselves into the Rhymesters' Club in London a few years ago. Great genuises as they were, which goes without saying, a couple have since died of drink—which was not the nectar of the gods evidently; a third committed self murder, and two others have "lost" their reason. Had they ever really found and hoarded it? But what are inveterate (the pen was actually spelling it invertebrate) rhymesters but weaklings from birth. Here's a baker's dozen of them, counting the historian in, couldn't stand alone, but must hold each other up like a bundle of sticks that have lost their rope. When an otherwise manly fellow catches the itch for club life he is in danger of bidding good bye to the very quality most needed in the battlefield of life—the stamina to stand alone, to see clearly, to keep calm, and the strength to endure to the end.

(This is from the Sun.)

The importation of English styles, which is increasing constantly in this country, has not stopped at mere clothes and manners. The use of the monocle is becoming more and more common every day in New York.

"Just watch some bright afternoon along Fifth avenue," remarked a close observer. "You will see dozens of men wearing monocles. In the big hotels at tea time they are especially common. I have noticed that a good many of the young chaps who have taken up the fad do not appear to be wholly at ease with the single glass."

OUR EXPORTS DWINDLE.

Big Drop in Eight Months from Total in Same Period Last Year.

Washington, March 14.—The United States seems to be losing ground rapidly as an exporting Nation, judging by a report issued today by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. This shows that during the eight months ended with February last the excess of exports over imports was $189,125,415, a decrease of $152,524,136 as compared with last year. The February imports were greater by $11,232,474 than those of February, 1909, while the exports showed a decrease of more than half a million dollars.

While the imports for the first eight months of the present fiscal year were greater by more than $200,000,000 than those of the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year, the exports increased by only a little more than $50,000,000.

UNTARNISHED GOLD.

It is all very well for girls to be told that their $10 a yard gold trimming is stylish when it is tarnished; they don't like blackened metal and they never will. A slight look of age, a barely perceptible rust look is not objectionable, but the trouble is that moisture blackens metal. And the dust from the floors and in our atmosphere blackens all the gold and silver used on skirts. Costly as this age of metal is, it is not durable. The highest prices paid for these trimmings cannot guarantee them against that blighting touch.

Therefore a more acceptable kind of gold and silver trimming is offered. The designer find it more satisfactory to their customers. All the metal is laid on or painted on glass. It is the same process used with Christmas tree ornaments and is not more expensive than the other kind. It is especially pretty in the drop crystals which are covered with gold and silver. When a good deal of it is used, a woman must be careful not to "break" her gown.

NEW COLOR CHART.

A glimpse at the new color chart, which reveals the colorist's art in its highest perfection, shows to us the new neutral tones in a brilliancy and purity which is most impressive. Different manufacturers differ in regard to the most fashionable shades, but there are several which are evidently struggling for supremacy. Gray in cloth is especially strong, a lovely soft, pinkish gray which is not so hard as the blue-gray and richer and more full of color than formerly. Blues are, as usual, very good the navy and Holland blue in foulards and the cornflower blue in shantungs. In the lavender tones there is the new iris, which has a suggestion of blue in its make-up, and the old favorite, amethyst, and the deeper, glorious grape. Artichoke and the resda tints are highly favored in the grays, and the mustard and leather tones shading from apricot must not be forgotten. A deep raspberry tone reddish shade, has already become popular.

Pipings Coming in Vogue.

Pipings— and wide ones, too—will be seen as the trimming on many gowns this spring and summer. When these pipings are made over a cord at least an inch in thickness they are decidedly in evidence.

TO SWEEP A ROOM.

To sweep a room is little—but to get it ready for sweeping takes some time.

Each upholstered piece of furniture should be carefully brushed and plain polished surfaces wiped with a slightly damp cloth, then rubbed with a dry one and moved out of the room.

A paint brush is excellent to remove the dust that will lodge in carved parts, or if in crevices a very tiny brush or a wooden skewer can be used. If there are moldings at the top of the wall, use a long-handled brush if it is perfectly clean. If it isn't, tie a duster over it. Brush the ceiling and walls in the same way.

Do not open the windows till the actual sweeping is finished, or the current of air will scatter the dirt over the room again.

Sprinkle salt or tea leaves on the floor and work from the corners to the centre of the room. The stroke should be long, the broom always on the floor pushing the dirt before it, not setting it in motion by swinging it around.

WHEN IRONING.

The backs of old kid gloves, sewn together and used as an interlining to kitchen kettle or laundry iron-holders are invaluable as a means of giving protecetion to the hands without adding materially to the bulk of the holder. A piece of felt, flannel, blanketing, serve or even velveteen may be used as the outer covering.

When heating flatirons it is always best to lift them and wipe after being on the gas stove a few seconds, as the moisture found on the irons turns rusty when fully heated. This will also save labor in cleaning while ironing.

Instead of having an iron stand on which to rest your irons, use an ordinary brick for the purpose. The brick being a good non-conductor, the irons will retain their heat longer than if placed on an open stand.

NEW DESSERT.

Take one pound of best prunes; wash them thoroughly in hot water, then cover well with cold water and cook until they are tender, but not quite done. Remove them from the stove and drain them until only a cupful of the water remains in the pan. To this add a half a cupful of sugar and cook slowly. Cream a heaping tablespoonful of butter with a level tablespoonful of flour and add this to the prunes, stirring constantly. Then add a liberal half-cupful of English walnuts cut into large pieces and two teaspoonfuls of grape juice. Stir until the sauce thickens, then serve. If desired, the prunes may be seeded immediately after their hot-water bath.

FOR DINNER.

Carrots in Turnip Cups—Cut a cupful of diced carrots, and cook slowly in boiling salted water till tender. Peel half a dozen small turnips. Cut a slice off the stem end and scoop out the centre so as to make each turnip into a cup. Cook the cups and covers in boiling water till tender. Mix the cooked carrots with a well seasoned cream sauce, fill the turnip cups with the mixture and put on the covers, garnishing each with parsley.

FOR LUNCHEON OR SUPPER.

Cheese Souffle—Take two cupfuls of boiled rice and mix it with half a cupful of rich cream sauce and half a cupful of grated cheese. Season with a little salt. Fold in the yolks of three eggs beaten hard and then the beaten whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for thirty-five or forty minutes, according to the heat of the oven. The souffle should be served as soon as it is puffed high and is nicely browned. Serve in ramekins, this makes a delicious entree. Of course, when baked in small dishes, it takes much less time to cook it.

FOR BREAKFAST.

Smelts—Remove the head, split each fish, dip in melted butter, and then in seasoned flour. Put in a buttered baking dish, bake for ten minutes, sprinkle with lemon juice and serve.

Moonshine Jelly.

Three whites of eggs, three-quarters of a pound of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of red currant jelly. Whip up the whites of eggs until stiff, then add the sugar and continue whipping until the mixture again becomes stiff and will stand in peaks. Have the red currant jelly dissolved with a tablespoonful of water and let it get cold, though still liquid. Pour this liquid into the stiffly beaten whites, keeping stirring all the time. Fill into custard cups and put in a cold place to set. Serve with cream. These jellies should not be made long before they are served.

The New Russian Collars.

Anything Russian seems to be in style. The new Russian collars are of white linen, hand embroidered or of a fancy white pique, piped with a color to match the gown.

DUTCH ARMS BANQUENT

body was any the wiser as to whether Mr. Broek felt it incumbent upon himself to enlighten the company as to his opinion on the subject or not. Mr. Broek, in a digression said that he believed in these banquets as they served to bring the congregation closer together and they ought to be encouraged. The company was dismissed with the benediction after a verse of "Auld Lang Syne" had been sung.

The banquet initself was a dainty and tastefully arranged menu, satisfying without being burdensome, and it was served with unusual smoothness while violin and piano music entertained the diners. The attendance was greater than had been expected, but all who came were cared for. The rooms were handsomely decorated with flags and bunting with streamers of green and white intertwined between the pillars and arches. The speakers' table had other green emblems including a harp which sat immediately in front of Toastmaster Clark. This harp formed the means of a joke by the paster in which he intimated that it might be the only one upon which Mr. Clark would have a chance to play.

Make a map of your floor for intricate places that suggest difficulties in the cutting and possible failure in the fitting of your new linoleum. The map may be a perfectly fitted size and shape, done in newspaper or even heavier manilla paper. The paste pot comes in just here. The first trial won't be perfect, but every little chink may be fitted in by a pasting process until you have got the exact facsimile, and then for the final cutting of the new oilcloth. The forethought and trial paper will be of just the same use as is the perfect paper pattern in garment-making Try it and you will be convinced. The map is useful, whether the floor covering be carpet, oilcloth, felt, denim or matting.

Last Hope.

The eminent physicians are in solemn consultation, while the patient lies in an utterly weak, almost lifeless condition.

"His nervous ssytem seems completely collapsed," decides the most eminent consultant.

"An operation will be of no avail" observes the next most eminent.

"No," says the third. "The only hope for him is a sudden and terrific shock. That's the only thing that will restore him."

"Then let us present our bills to him right away," suggests the youngest of the physicians.'—Chicago Post.

A Knitted Costume.

A new costume for walking is a skirt and jacket f hand-knitted wool. It is of a soft cinnamon brown and fits the figure snugly. A high collar buttons as the side, from which the long jacket is fastened in a straight line by bone buttons. A wide leather belt below the waist gives a Norfolk effect. To complete this costume, which Paris has accepted, a tiny woolen muff edged with fur is carried. It is in direct opposition to the huge bolsters, but its recommendation lies in its lack of weight, a very important consideration for walking tours.

Arrowroot Preferable to Cornstarch.

Arrowroot will be found more satisfactory than cornstarch for thickening fruit sauces or juices to be used for sauces. It does not change the color of the liquid nor does it cloud it at all

To Serve with Ice Cream.

For a novelty in sandwiches run orange peel, dates and preserved ginger through the meat chopper and spead between lady fingers. They are delicious. Serve with ice cream.

Brightening Tinware.

Tinware that has become stained may frequently be wonderfully brightened by being rubbed with common baking soda and then being washed thoroughly.

Apples With Pork.

When cooking a spare rib, peel sour apples, core and cut in half. Bake these with the pork, they will be found a delicious accompaniment to the meat.

The Useful Apron Pocket.

In making aprons, especially those to be used when doing housework, do not forget a large pocket. A pocket will save many steps in dusting and picking up.

Stencelling on Aprons.

Chafing dish aprons with artistic stenceled designes are among the novelties. They are made, for the most part, of Persian lawn.

To Have Celery Crisp.

Celery will not only be crisp, but when cut in small pieces it will curl nicely if laid several hours in iced water before using.

When Frying Corn Meal Mush.

If corn meal does not brown nicely when it is fried, try brushing over each slice with white of an egg before frying.

For Cleaning Zinc.

Kerosene is excellent as a cleaning medium for the kitchen zinc.

Is Church of God a Beggar?

By REV. ALEX. W. BEALER, D. D.
Atlanta, Ga.

On account of the lukewarmness of those who profess to love God, his church on earth is made to stand before the world in the attitude of a beggar.

If some disinterested spectator from the planet of Mars could drop down to visit us and could mingle freely among our people it would not be more than a month before he would come to the conclusion that the institution which is called the church of God was the great beggar of the globe. He could not reach any other conclusion if he was a man with a reasoning mind.

On the Sabbath day he would see preachers standing in their pulpits begging for money to keep the church from getting so deep in debt that it could never more be extricated. And this plea would be made to men and women who profess to love the church and who were willing to do anything in the world for it if it did not cost them too much money, too much time, or too much pleasure.

He would see men who belong to the different churches going out begging money from the other members to be used in paying the preachers so that they could manage to live. And these men and women who had to be begged for money for this purpose profess to love the preachers and to be vitally interested in their welfare.

And this visitor would see other men and women going out to beg money to be used in carrying on the work of the church, money designated as mission money. The people who belong to the churches would profess to believe that God wanted them to carry on this work and yet they would have to be begged for the money needed for this purpose.

And when the summer time was approaching the visitor from the other planet would see the poorer classes starting up little places in which ice cream was dispensed at five cents a plate, and a scanty plate at that. And he would be told that this was characteristic of those who had a very small capital and who wanted to make money without too much work. And his surprise would grow when he would see great companies of women, when the building of the church they loved needed repairing, opening up these ice cream resorts on some private lawn to dispense the cooling stuff for money to be used in the work they had in view.

The members of these churches forget that they ought to give cheerfully to the support of the church which stands in the place of God, and when they rob the church they are robbing God. Every member of the church should give to its support, both the rich and the poor. Poverty is no more of an excuse for not giving than it is an excuse for not reading the Bible, not attending church services, and not praying. It is a part of man's worship and it should be done, for he commands it, and since money is needed to carry on the business of the world it is needed in carrying on God's business in the world. When a man who claims to be redeemed by the blood of Jesus Christ fails to give something he is robbing God and cheating himself out of a blessing.

Suppose some foreigner should come to any of our communities and should desire to invest a large sum of money in real estate and the real estate dealer who was negotiating with him should desire to prove to him that the people were in a prosperous condition? Do you suppose he would carry him to the treasurer of any of the churches and say to him: "Look at these books, our people give as the Lord has prospered them?" The stranger would reach the conclusion that the country was in a poverty-stricken condition and that the people were on the verge of starvation.

The Christian steward who lives under this dispensation of the grace of God may know that the scale of liberality in this enlightened and electric age is not less than it was under the old Mosaic dispensation when the people were enjoying but a shadow of the blessings we are receiving to-day. The man who gives to the support of the church to which he belongs in a scanty manner is robbing not only the church, and making it appear as a beggar, he is also robbing the God he professes to love.

If the people who belong to the churches would only wake up to their privileges they would give liberally, and thus prove God who has promised to bless those who are liberal givers to the support of his cause. "Prove me now," he says. "Give me a tenth, and see if I will not open the windows of heaven and pour you out such a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it." He has always blessed the man who gives liberally. Few of us dare to prove God. I preached along this line the other day and at the conclusion of the sermon a brother, with tears in his eyes, came to me and said: "I have just found out why I have been poor all my life. I have been stealing from God and I am going to quit it."

The Presbyterian church has full away in Scotland and North Ireland, but it is comparatively small in England, having only 350 pastors. However, it is growing in that country and maintains Westminster college, Cambridge.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW.

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Plainfield Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains come from sick kidneys,

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Plainfield people endorse this:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "About three years ago I was suffering severely from kidney trouble. There were dull, heavy pains in my back and in the top of my head. I also had dizzy spells and I was subject to chills. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Randolph's Pharmacy and I began their use. They promptly drove away my trouble and I have had no symptom of a return since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

YOUR DULL Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Kidneys, Free
Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.
Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eye; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swoolen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps, unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K1239 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering powers.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home

LITERARY DISAPPEARANCES.

Where are the scribblers, the tireless scribblers,
Who dealt in historical lore
And ended things right
With a hair-raising fight,
In which villainy settled its score?

Where are the fakers, the dear nature fakers,
Who turned out the animal dope?
We miss their weird tales
Of wolves, badgers and whales,
And will keep right on missing, we hope.

Where are the plotters, the old-fashioned plotters,
Who cooked up a highly-spiced mess,
With pirates galore
On a lone island shore
After manner of one R. L. S.

Where are the farmers, the book-writing farmers,
Who Harumized early and late?
The b'gosh tale is dead,
With its royalties fled,
And there's crape on the old farmhouse gate.

GUILTY FEAR.

"Do you find your flat comfortable this winter?"

"No. We have been nearly frozen to death."

"Why don't you complain to the landlord?"

"We're afraid he may come around to investigate and find out that we have a baby."

These Interruptions.

I never started on a pome
That promised fame and wealth galore,
But some book agent came and pushed
His face right through my sanctum door.

A Query.

"Pop?"

"What is it, son?"

"Is an osteopath an end man in a minstrel show?"

"Gracious, no, child! What put such an idea into your head?"

"Well, they told me at school he was a specialist in bones."

As a Reminder.

His Wife—John, do you remember what took place just three years ago to-day?

Her Husband—What! Is this our wedding anniversary?

His Wife—N-no. Three years ago to-day you bought me a new hat.

Oh!

"He says you never fail to scatter sunshine."

"Sure enough? Isn't he a dear!"

"Yes, he says that no matter how much sunshine a person may be basking in when you appear on the scene you scatter it."

As Corrected.

"Tommy," said the teacher to a bright grammar-class pupil, "correct the sentence 'I kissed Jennie two times.'"

"'I kissed Jennie three times,'" replied Tommy proudly.

A Matter of Necessity.

"Papa, why don't you close your store on Christmas?"

"Why, child, mine's a cigar store. People have got to have their smokes on Christmas, same as any other day."

POSITIVE.

Lizzie—Are you sure the ice will hold?

Bobby—'Course I am. I was skatin' all around on it last year.

The Dreamer.

The dreamer, happy though not rich,
Cares not what fate o'ertakes him—
But hunger's the alarm clock which Relentlessly awakes him.

Comparisons.

"I have to work like a slave," protested the first office boy.

"Huh! That's nothing," rejoined office boy No. 2. "I have to work like a farmer's wife."

Perhaps.

"I see where a Frenchman has offered to marry Madame Steinheil."

"Perhaps he belongs to a suicide club."

An Agricultural Puzzle.

"Can you tell me why a good housewife is like a bad husbandman?"

"I suppose, because she is always sewing tears."

Not So Long.

"Senator Beveridge says the time is come when you can't fool anybody."

"How long has he been married?"

The Island of Regeneration

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

(Copyright in Great Britain.)

The lieutenant-commander rose to his feet and started back across the island without another word.

The chaplain composed the members of the stricken man, putting him in a comfortable position on the warm sand, then knelt down and began to pray. It seemed a long time to the waiting priest before his shipmate returned, and yet but a short time had elapsed. He came up panting from the violence of his exertions.

"I have sent the cutter back for the surgeon. I told the men to row for their lives. I gave the midshipman in charge an account of what we had found and begged the captain to send parties ashore to search the island. What of the man?"

"He breathes still," said the chaplain. "I should think he was in some kind of syncope. His heart evidently was affected. He has had no preparation for such violent strains. The things which are usual and ordinary with us and which, I take it, indurate us to the greater things of life have been conspicuous by their absence in his case and he has not been able to bear up under the sudden shock."

"Those clothes, have you examined them?"

"No," said the chaplain, "it has been too dark in the first place, and—"

"I will look at them," said Mr. Whittaker. "Perhaps we may find some new clew in them."

The lieutenant-commander stooped over the pathetic little heap of worn garments. There were the blouse, the skirt, the stockings, and the worn and torn white shoes. The Bible lay upon them as if to weigh them down, and they had been placed well above the reach of the highest tide. The tide was then just coming in to the island. The Bible had been opened and laid face downward on the clothes. Mr. Whittaker lifted it up reverently. He observed as he did so that his own pencil, which he had left, he now remembered, with the woman, lay beneath the open book. On the blank leaves between the Old and New testaments something was written. No mention of any writing had been made in the affidavit of the night before. He lifted it, turned his back toward the east where the sun was just on the verge of rising, and studied it out.

"Do you find anything?" asked the chaplain.

"There is writing on this page," said the younger man. "I can just make it out."

"Man," he read slowly, studying each word in the dim light, "I loved you. In one sense, in your sense, I was unworthy of you, perhaps, but not in mine. You alone had my heart. The past was a frightful mistake for which I should not be blamed, but for which I must suffer. I tried you with the world by your side. The world was kind, but you were not. You broke my soul and killed something within me which I had thought dead, but which you had revived. No power could revive it again. I cannot marry Langford, for I do not love him. I will not marry you, for you do not love me. I will not go back to the world now. I have no desire to do so and I cannot live alone with you upon the island. You will not go without me, and so I will go first by myself alone. You will think of me, I know, in the great world. Perhaps you will judge yourself harshly, but I do not judge you at all. You did not know, you did not understand. It came too suddenly upon you. You cannot forget me, but do not repine over me and remember to the very last that I loved you. Good-by. May God bless you, and may he pity me!"

Underneath she had written the impersonal name which he had loved to call her, "Woman."

So characteristic was the letter that that superscription was supererogatory thought Mr. Whittaker. Only a woman could have written it. She had gone out of his life, because with her in it there was no solution of it for him, because—how pitiful it sounded there in the gray of that morning in that lone island to those two men!—because he did not love her. And she had gone out of it with excuses for him on her lips and love for him in her heart. No wonder that, divining this which he had not seen, realizing only that she was gone, he had been stricken as he was.

The doctor arrived presently. He ordered the man, still unconscious, to be taken back to the ship where he would do what he could toward reviving him and pulling him through this great and terrible crisis that had come upon him. The chaplain went with him, conceiving his duty to be in attendance upon the living rather than searching for the dead.

The captain, with the other officers, brought 100 men to the shore. The island was systematically searched. It was all open. There was no place of concealment, but not a foot of it was left unvisited. Again and again the men traversed the island. They found nothing, absolutely nothing. The woman had vanished and left no trace except the grass-tonic in her cave, the remains of her toilet articles, her scissors, knife, watch and Bible and the little heap of clothing on the sand. All these they carefully gathered up and took back to the cruiser for the man.

In the search, and made quite frantic by the necessity of it, Langford joined. Indeed, he would not be persuaded that the woman he had treated so badly, whom he had hunted so determinedly, whom he had loved so truly, who had rejected him finally, was dead, but even he gave up at last.

Taking with them the evidence to substantiate the woman's affidavit and to establish, if so be it were possible, the man's claim, and taking with them also the bones of his mother, not forgetting what remained of the faithful dog, which the captain caused to be exhumed from the ruined boat, as night fell the Cheyenne steamed away to the northeast, followed not long after by the Southern Cross. The two vessels went slowly, as if the souls that animated them were reluctant to leave the gemlike island where they had chanced upon so much that was idyllic, so much that was romantic; and where they had seen so great a tragedy of misfortune and despair.

Below in the cabin, under the care of the surgeon and chaplain, lay the islander in the frightful throes of a racking fever of the brain. He babbled of the woman and knew not where he was or whither he was being borne.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Resurrection.

The little island lay quiet and still under the rising sun. No footfall pressed its bosky glades, beneath the shadows of its spreading palms, no human being sought shelter from the sun's fierce rays, no words were echoed back from its jutting crags, no figures flashed across its shining sands. Soundless it lay save for the cry of the bird and the rustle of the gentle wind across its hills. For well-nigh 30 years it had not been so abandoned. Two days past it had resounded with the cries of men scaling its heights, crashing through its coppices, calling a name, beseeching an answer. Two days before great ships had drifted idly under its lee. It had been the center and focus of great events. Now it lay desolate, alone.

On that morning the tide which had drawn away from it through the long night had turned and was coming back. The force of the water spent itself upon the barrier. Within the lagoon it lay placid, rising gently inch by inch in mighty overflow. A watcher, had there been one, would have seen at sunrise the still water of the lagoon broken by a ripple, a keen eye might have noticed at the base of the cliff where it ran sheer down into the blue, a dark object moving beneath the surface. The eye could scarcely have become aware of its presence before the waters parted. A little splash and a head rose dark crowned, white faced. There was a sidewise wave and shake of the head and a pair of eyes opened. The blue of the water was lightened by flashes of white arms. As the body rose higher under the impetus of strokes, vigorous yet graceful, it could be seen that it was that of a woman.

With ease and grace the figure swam along the base of the cliff until it was joined by a jutting spit of sand which widened and widened into a great strip of beach that ran around the island. Upon this sand presently the shallowing of the water gave the swimmer a foothold. Progress ceased. With eyes haggard, yet keenly alert, the sea, the shore, the beach, the cliffs, the trees were eagerly searched. The long glances revealed nothing. Then the head was turned and the ear listened for sounds and heard nothing. The look of apprehension faded into one of dull relief.

Walking now, the woman in the water made her way toward the sand. Very white she gleamed in the full warm light streaming from the risen sun against the background of the dark black rock. The water dripping from her exquisitely graceful limbs, she looked a very nymph of the sea as she stepped out at last above the high tide line and stood poised as if for flight upon the hard and solid shore. Again she threw about her that quick, apprehensive look. Again she paused to listen. Reassured in that she heard and saw nothing but the bird's song, the wind's sigh, the wave's splash, she ran swiftly toward a blacker opening in the dark rock. She gleamed whiter still in the entrance for a moment and then disappeared. She came forth presently still unclothed, a look of disappointment on her face.

She had many things to do, much to occupy her mind, but the first duty that lay to her hand and the first instinct which she followed was that her nakedness should be covered.

Still warily watchful, still keenly alert, still fearful apparently of interruption or observation, she ran across the beach, her movement as free, as graceful, as rapid as she had been Atalanta herself, and disappeared under the trees. The whirr of birds disturbed might have marked her passage.

After some time she appeared on the top of the high bare hill that crowned the island. She had improvised for herself a covering out of three or four great fern leaves, soft and pliable, which she fastened with palm fibers from shoulder to knee on either side, her bare shoulders rising from the rich greenness like white corolla from its verdant calyx. She went more assuredly, now, partly because of the fact that she was clothed and partly because her first rapid survey of the horizon revealed the fact that the ships were gone. She was glad that this was so, and yet when the realization came upon her, she flung herself down on the grassy crest and gave way to voiceless agony. Sometimes there is nothing so terrible, she realized, as prayer granted, as desire accomplished, as undertaking brought to conclusion. The awfulness of success was upon her in that hour. Her ruse had worked. Her object had been attained, yet the achievement gave her no pleasure.

Her own acts had parted her irrevocably forever from the world and the one man in it who was the world for her. He was gone. She who had made him had sent him forth among his fellows. She had sacrificed herself, buried herself alive for him. She felt as a mother might who experiences birth pangs and knows that with every throb of tearing anguish her own life ebbs away, passes into the new life which she ushers into the world and gives to men.

She had long hours for thought in those two days in that cave whose mouth the waters hid. She had schooled herself to face light and life without him when she emerged from her cunning hiding place. She had waited the long period in order to make absolutely certain that they would be gone. And yet, despite herself, a little gleam of hope, a bare possibility that he might be there still, had lingered in her soul and leavened the awfulness of her grief. Now it was gone. It had sunk beneath the horizon even as the ships had disappeared. She had been bitter against him. Her soul had revolted because he had failed. She had told herself that he was not worthy of her. She forgot these things in that profound and desolate moment. She knew only that she loved him. When she could think of other things than he, the mere bodily presence of the man, the look of him, the sound of his voice, the pressure of his lips, the clasp of his arms, she began to realize that as he grew older, unless she was so absolutely mistaken in him as to make all estimate of him mockery, he would realize the falsity of his view, the littleness of his action, and if he were in truth the man whom she could rightly love, his years would be one long regret that he had failed. What would happen when he realized that, when he came to the knowledge that she was indeed all that she had seemed and that he had been nothing that he should? She knew, as she had written, that the man would never, could never, forget her; that wherever he went and whatever he did, she would be present with him; that she had stamped herself too indelibly upon his heart for any attrition with humanity, however close and persistent, to erase the image. He would come back perhaps.

"O God!" she knelt down and stretched out her arms, "bring him back," she prayed—a few short, broken words, lacking the eloquence of long and studied petition, the appeal of the heart every throb of which is a prayer—"bring him back to me!"

She thought that she would have had him back on any terms. She said that she had been mad, a fool, not to have taken him, not to have gone to him, not to have married him in any way, with any conditions, under any circumstances. All her thoughts were merged in one great passionate longing to be with him.

For the first time in her life the pangs of jealousy tore her breast. She thought of him in the world with other men, with other women, young, handsome, a perfect godlike form and face of man, rich, the wildest romance with its charm and mystery to attract. His story could not be hid, neither could hers. The man would be courted, sought after, made much over, beloved. It would be enough to turn the head of a saint. How would he stand it? Would the recollection of her make him strong? Would that God in whom he and she both had trusted until the crisis came, lead him in the straight path? Would her purity, her sweetness—stop! would he think her thus dowered and possessed? Not now, certainly, but every hour that took him farther from her would add to his knowledge and would tell him the truth and these would help him.

Another thought came into her mind. His story would be known and hers as well. The world was filled with adventurous men. Would not some of them come in search of her island? The officers of those two ships could determine accurately the situation of that island. It would be as easy for a navigator to find it as for a denizen of a city to go to any given street corner. People would come back to that island, not to seek her, for the world would believe her dead, but simply to see the place. Idle yachtsmen might find that an object for long cruising and she would have to hide and hide. But would she hide? Would she go back to that world? Never, she said, unless he came to fetch her.

And then her thoughts turned again. Why had he gone away? Had she been he they could as soon have uprooted the island itself as torn her from it under similar circumstances. Had he been gone, she would have lingered and died on the spots that were sacred where he had walked. If she had known that at that moment her lover lay fighting for life and reason in the cabin of the swift moving ship, she would have understood better his absence. That he should be stricken never occurred to her.

She pictured him, not happy away from her, overwhelmed by her death, surely, saddened beyond present comfort it must be, yet so occupied that insensibly his grief would be lightened by the only thing after all that makes life bearable in certain contingencies, and that is work. Work! She, too, had work to do.

She rose to her feet doggedly as she thought of that and considered what she could do. Her eyes fell upon the ashes of the signal fire. She contemplated it as the specter of some Hindu woman whose body had been burned upon such an affair might look upon her pyre. It was she who had lighted the beacon. Her hand had called the world to her side. She thought how he had begged her not to do so, how he had declared himself content and happy to live with her alone—the world forgetting, by the world forgot! For the first time she broke down completely. She buried her face in her hands, her body reeled and shook with sobs, the tears trickled through her fingers.

She must make another beacon, she thought. And then it came to her that they had taken away the flint and steel. She had no means of lighting it. That realization developed other thoughts. Her Bible was gone; her clothes were gone; her toilet articles, her scissors, her watch, her knife. They had taken everything. They had left her nothing, absolutely nothing. What did it matter? She could dress herself with fern leaves and make shifts to bind them about her with cords that she could plait of the grass which should tear with her sweet strong hands. And what did it matter what she wore? There was no one there to see. But for the long habit of modesty, she would have torn away and thrown aside the make-shifts that fell from her shoulders.

CHAPTER XXII.

Unavailing Appeal.

She slept late the next morning. In the first place being upon the western side of the island, there was no flooding burst of sunlight through the open door to disturb her quiet slumber. In the second place she was so worn out and exhausted, she had had so little sleep in the past three days that imperative nature forced her into rest. She might have slept longer indeed, but that she was awakened by a great cry, a human voice calling her name. She opened her eyes and saw within the dimness of the cave a human figure, vaguely white in the darkness. For one fleeting instant she imagined that it might be he, but that hope was dispelled as quickly as it had been born. She recognized the voice. It was Langford's.

"Kate," he said approaching her more nearly and bending over her, "are you alive then?"

He reached down and touched her hand where it lay across the fern leaves on her breast. His touch summoned her bewildered faculties to action. Brushing his hand aside, she sat up.

"It is I," she said.

"You are alive and well?"

"Yes," she answered.

"Thank God!" cried the man. "We thought you dead. We searched the island. Where had you hidden? Why have you done it?"

She rose slowly to her feet and confronted him.

"You!" she said bitterly. "Why have you come back?"

"I don't know," answered Langford. "I can't tell what moved me. I was here on the island with the others. I searched with the rest. I know that no foot of it was left unvisited. Every crag and cranny, every thicket and coppice, every tree, every cave and rift in the rocks was examined over and over again. We knew that you were gone and yet I could not believe it. Yesterday afternoon I parted from the cruiser. I did not bear away for this island until it was too dark and they were too far away to see what I would be about, and then I came back here at full speed."

"Why did you come?"

"I don't know. I was not satisfied. It seemed to me that I must come back and search again. I could not believe it possible that you were dead, really dead. Something in my heart, at any rate, brought me back once more to see the place where you had lived if no more than that. We made the island early in the morning. The yacht lies yonder. I came ashore a moment since and some kind Providence led me first of all to this spot. I entered the cave. I saw you lying there in the cool darkness. I thought you dead at first. Then I cried to you and you moved. And then I touched your hand. O Kate, thank God I have found you!"

"Where is he!" said the woman. "Why didn't he come back?"

It was a cruel thing to say, but she could no more have helped it than she could have helped her breathing. Not to have said it would have killed her, for if Langford's love could turn him back, what should be said then of Charnock's. Langford was pale and haggard. He, too, had suffered. He was paying for his sins. He was expiating them and feeling it, although the expiation was not helping her.

Y.M.C.A. BASKETBALL TEAMS FINE RECORD

There will be no basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. tonight between the locals and Harlem Y. M. C. A. aggregation as announced. Physical Director Listman received a telegram from the Harlem management this morning in which the New Yorkers called the game off owing to the annual athletic meet of the association in Gotham tonight.

The Harlem game was the last attraction on the local schedule, but as the interest in the sport is at a high ebb among the association members, it is possible that Mr. Listman will decide to prolong the season.

The local aggregation is to be congratulated on its splendid showing this season. Twenty-one games were played and the record is sixteen victories and five defeats. In the 21 games the locals tallied 864 points to 587 points scored by opposing teams.

The five teams to lower the colors of the locals were the crack Eastern District team, of Brooklyn; Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., Williamsbridge, and Orange. Plainfield, however, evened matters up by registering victories over the last three named teams. The record of games played is as follows:

Team.	Score.
Busines Men	67—12
Second Team	70—28
Millburn	57—40

Orange Sunbeams	56—18

With a four-man team, the Congregationals defeated Trinity in a Sunday-school Athletic League basketball contest last night by the score of 34 to 8. The Congregationls excelled the Trinitys in all departments and had little trouble in registering a victory. The teams lined up as follows: Congregational—Wyckoff, forward; Fritts, center; Bingeman, Smith, guards. Trinity—Hodge, Van Zandt, forwards; Caleen, centre; Doeringer, Kinney, guards.

There were two forfeited games, which is evidence of "cold feet" among some of the youthful athletes. Grace forfeited to the First Presbyterians and Crescent avenue handed over a complimentary to Scotch Plains.

Alan M. Storke, who played first base for Pittsburg in the early part of last season and who was signed by Cincinnati for the coming season, died suddenly at Newton, Mass., yesterday. Storke was a popular player and his death is universally regretted in baseball circles. He was a graduate of Amherst College and for the last three winters he had been attending Harvard Law School. Storke played with Providence in 1907 and graduated into major league company in the fall of that year.

Decides Against Lodge.

The Supreme Court, Chief Justice Gummere writing the opinion, has dismissed a demurrer interposed by the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order United Workmen of New Jersey to a suit instituted by Mrs. Mary E. Johnson to recover upon a death certificate issued by the organization to her late husband, Austin P. Johnson. The lodge set up in its demurrer that Johnson had been in arrears in paying an assessment. The testimony showed that it was paid before death.

Arson Suspected at Mt. Holly.

Mt. Holly, March 19.—The third mysterious fire within a week called the department out Thursday night, the seat of trouble being at the home of Miss Annie Winters, on Mt. Holly avenue, a woodshed being partly destroyed. Citizens are somewhat disturbed because of the fact that kerosense oil was used in each of these cases. The belief prevails that a firebug is at work, and the authorities are planning to effect his capture.

Brothers Secretly Married.

Trenton, March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bastian were surprised Thursday when they learned that their two sons had married recently. The parents did not even suspect anything until after the ceremonies. Herman Bastian, the younger of the brothers, married Miss Ada J. Burroughs last Sunday evening, and Robert Bastian, the older brother, married Miss Lucile W. Huston, of Philadelphia, Thursday.

PALM SUNDAY SERVICES

Episcopalians and Roman Catholics Observe the Offices of the Church.

THE PALMS ARE DISTRIBUTED.

Appropriate Sermons Delivered by the Rectors on Christ's Entry Into Jerusalem—Special Music at Grace.

Large congregations were the rule in all the churches yesterday morning particularly in the Episcopal and Catholic. At Grace P. E. one of the largest of the year attended the services in celebration of Palm Sunday, and were well repaid for it. The rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, preached a strong sermon having for its subject the triumph of the Savior over the world and His triumphant entry into Jerusalem. Preceding the sermon the rector admonished his congregation that Good Friday should be observed not as a holiday for pleasure but a day in which the full significance of its meaning should reach the heart of those Christians who in truth are servants of the Lord.

Speaking of the worldly side of observing church holy days Mr. Stevenson said that the world is growing more and more to think of them as days upon which the time may be given over to pleasure. He asked both the men and women of the congregation to consider the serious advisability of avoiding anything that will give the world a chance to criticise. "Let us be strong enough in our loyalty to the Master to show the world that we are trying to live up to the standard of Jesus Christ," he said.

In his sermon Mr. Stevenson showed the superficiality of human passions and impressions by their very changeability from one day to another. He drew a word picture of the triumphant entry of Jesus into Jerusalem and showed how He was first acclaimed and afterward slain. However, he said, Christ entered that day into the very arena of triumph and throughout the days of sorrow and suffering which followed He saw better than His disciples the ultimate glory and His victory over death.

He advised the people to take worldly applause for what it is worth, but cautioned them to remember that it makes a very poor foundation upon which to build. He said that in the day when we are brought face to face with God our consciences will set in judgment upon us so that we shall know whether eternal life is to be our portion.

The choir under the direction of S. Frederick Smith sang for the offertory "Hosanna in the Highest" from the sacred cantata "Olivet to Calvary" and it may be said that the choir sang splendidly, showing careful training and practise. The organ recital in the afternoon was another treat by Mr. Smith. All four selections being played with sense of a fitness for he hemes. Faure's "The Palms" was a magnificent rendering.

Large congregations also marked the observance of Palm Sunday in the local Catholic church yesterday morning. At the celebration of the high mass at St. Mary's church, Father Bogan delivered an appropriate sermon on Christ's entry into Jerusalem. Father Miller, at St. Joseph's church, also preached an appropriate sermon. Palms were distributed at all the services in both churches.

At St. Mary's church in the evening the various societies of the congregation attended a vesper service which was conducted by Father Bogan. At St. Joseph's church in the morning, the children participated in a palm procession.

At the Congregational church last night Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, the pastor, read the scripture account of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem and the subsequent events leading up the the crucifixion. The reading was accompanied with stereopticon views illustrating the scripture. Owing, no doubt to the stromy weather, the attendance was not very large, but those who were there were greatly impressed by what they saw.

From the blessing of the infants and healing of the sick to the final scene at the tomb the portrayal of Christ's suffering and passion were vividly portrayed.

Easter Sunday there will be a sunrise prayer meeting at 7:30 o'clock at Trinity Reformed church, to be conducted by Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. There will be special musical program at the regular morning service and Easter exercises by the Sunday school in the evening.

The Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed church Sunday school will hold a social this evening at the

YOUNGSTERS RAISE $332 FOR CHILDREN'S WARD

Under the auspices of the Hartridge School, a children's fair was held at the school auditorium, Saturday afternoon for the purpose of starting a fund with which to establish a children's ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. This morning Miss Hartridge turned over to the hospital authorities $332 as the profits of the affair. The children entered into the spirit of the affair with enthusiasm and it was a great success.

The whole thing was conducted along simple lines, the tables being divided among the various departments as follows: Elementary—first grade, marbles, kites, etc.; second, Dutch articles; third, fruits and nuts; fourth and fifth, toys; sixth and seventh, useful articles; elementary, boys, grab bag, candy, wood-work, etc.; academic—first grade, dolls; second, candy and flowers; third, tea, coffee and sandwiches; fourth and fifth, fancy articles.

All the tables were liberally patronized. At one table where nothing but ten cent articles were sold the proceeds were $32. The children hope that the fair will prove an incentive for others to do something toward increasing the fund. Miss Hartridge had general supervision of the affair and was assisted by her corps of teachers.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PRESENT A PLAY

The presentation of the play "Silas Marner" by high school pupils, in the auditorium on Saturday night was a distinct success. The success of the play was in a large measure due to the efforts of Miss Gilbert, the sophomore English teacher, who dramatized the sketch and coached the youthful thespians. The entertainment was given for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, and a substantial sum was realized.

There were nine scenes in the production and the part of Silas Marner, was ably filled by Edward Hanrahan. He portrayed the part of the old man with marked ability. Mr. Hanrahan's little sister, Koronia, took the part of "Eppie" and won considerable applause.

Fred Fenno, as a realistic villian in the past of Godfrey Cass and Burnett Doane acquitted himself creditably as Winston Cass. In the second part Louis Mattack took the part of Marner and the scene between "Eppie" and "Silas" was very touching. Miss Margaret Loizeaux also starred in the part of "Eppie." Stephen Haff played a number of Schumann's selections and Fred Loizeaux was stage manager. Those in the cast were:

Fred Fenno, Burnett Doane, Ted Hanrahan, Louis Mattack, Louis Strong, Fred Conlin, Raymond Manley, Gardner Bristol, Sam Kroney, Margaret Brownlee, Gladys Chase, Jennette Neighbour, Margaret Loizeaux, Jack Todd, John Uhler, Ruth Douglas, James Dunwell, Frank Cullen, Elmer Hunting, Jack Zeraga, Miss Webster, Miss Viola Zarda, Theo Champlin. Miss Helen Ryder gave the prologue.

REV. A. A. PFANSTIEHL AT TRINITY YESTERDAY.

Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, of the Somerville Second Reformed church, occupied the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church yesterday, morning and evening, in exchange with Pastor Broek, and delivered two masterly sermons. His morning discourse was appropriate to Palm Sunday, his text being Zachariah 9: 9, which refers to Christ's triumphial entry into Jerusalem. He treated the theme in a way that held the close attention of everyone present.

Mr. Pfanstiehl delivered his sermons from manuscript, but his manner was such as to make his utterances most effective, and showed that careful preparation had been made.

Council Meeting Tonight.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting this evening, when it is expected that some action will be taken regarding Mayor Fisk's suggestion that the city employes be paid every two weeks, instead of once a month as at present. Several other matters left over from the regular meeting will also be discussed.

DREIER'S SIDE OF SUIT; EXPLANATORY LETTER

Harry Dreir has received from his counsel, Frank E. Bradner, a reply to an article published in this paper on March 16, in which Mr. Bradner takes exception to the published statements of the suit brought by Mrs. Totten before her death. Mr. Bradner says he has written to Mr. Angleman calling his attention to the statements and continues and says:

"The basis of the right of action of Mrs. Totten, as claimed in the newspaper, is that you bought the property from Bacon, and turned her out. This statement is, of course, absolutely false.

"Bacon trespassed on your land, and neither he nor his tenants, nor his agents, can successfully maintain any action against you for putting them off the land, especially when you did so through legal proceedings.

"The point that has been decided in the Supreme Court is a mere matter of pleading, and does not effect the merits of the case in the least respect.

"You may show this letter to the newspapers, and ask them to correct the account.

"The statement at the head of this article, that your action in ejecting Mrs. Totten, was decreed unlawful, is absolutely false. There has been no decision upon the merits, and no decision that any action of yours is unlawful. As I said before, the court has merely decided that your pleas are insufficient, but you of course, have leave to file new pleadings, and the case must be tried before a jury, who will decide it upon the merits."

This version is published in the belief that it will remove any misconception which may have arisen in the minds of those who read the article in question which was published in entire good faith and without prejudice or feeling for or against the parties interested.

GLEASON HAS A LONG RECORD.

Palmer Clubbed for Breaking Window—Case Adjourned to Next Monday.

Several delelicts were up before Judge William N. Runyon this morning in the city court and varying sentences meted out to them. Michael Gleason who has a long record of appearances in court for being drunk and disorderly, was fined five dollars. In connection with this case Judge Runyon has made up his mind that the custom of buying liquor for those against whom an order has been issued to the saloon keepers must stop. Gleason is one of those to whom the saloon men are prohibited selling liquor, but Gleason has been enabled to procure the stuff through the efforts of his cronies. It was this circumstance that caused his intoxication Saturday night. Orders will be issued against the men who act as messengers and they will in future be unable to buy the stuff as fast as they are found out. One man will have the source of supply cut off today.

John Boyle, of Dunellen, got more of a load than he could conveniently carry on Saturday night, but as he was quiet about it he was allowed to go with a reprimand this morning.

Harry Palmer, a colored man, and Elvin Marsh got into trouble with Joseph Meyers, a lunch wagon keeper, of East Second street, with the result that all three were up before Judge Runyon this morning. Marsh was fined five dollars for being drunk and disorderly and the case of Palmer an Meyers was adjourned until next Monday when witnesses will be on hand to enlighten the judge as to exactly what took place.

Palmer claimed that he went into the wagon to buy a sandwich and that in going out he slammed the door so hard that the glass was broken. Meyers, he claimed, became angry at this and followed him as far as Watchung avenue with a club which he applied to Palmer's head in an endeavor to collect the value of the broken window. Palmer paid the damages amounting to one dollar, when Patrolman Tobias Nolan hearing some loud and vigorous talk in the neighborhood investigated and arrested both Marsh and Palmer, the former, however, not being directly connected with the window smashing episode. The affair is so complicated that Judge Runyon wants the witnesses to the affair to elucidate and he will also make strict inquiries into the matter of clubs for collecting bills.

STRUCK BY MOTORCYCLE; MISS GLAENTZER INJURED

Miss Edith Glaentzer, daughter of Charles F. Glaentzer, of 736 West Front street, was run down and severely injured by Clarence M. Drake, on a motorcycle Saturday afternoon at 5:25 o'clock on West Front street just after she had alighted from a main line trolley car. Drake lives at 745 West Third street and it was claimed that he was riding at a furious clip and disregarded the law which compels the slowing up of motor vehicles while passing a stopped trolley car.

Miss Glaentzer's injuries were attended by Dr. Norman W. Currie, who found that no bones were broken. She is suffering from bruises and shock. Drake was thrown from his wheel and received a cut on the chin.

The case was postponed this morning by Judge Runyon to next Monday in order that the trolley crew may be summoned to court to give testimony in the case. They are C. H. Northup, conductor, and R. H Coriell, motorman, both of Elizabeth. Their testimony will be needed to give the eact occurrence as none of the policemen were eye witnesses. Young Drake is a former station agent at Grant avenue.

PRISON FOR CODINGTONS

Court Sentences Joel to One Year and Brother Horace to Year and Half.

TRYING DUTY FOR COURT.

Judge Schenck Tells Prisoners He Punishes Them to Deter Others—Horace Seeks a Writ of Error.

Joel Codington, the treasurer, and Horace Codington, clerk of Warren township, were arraigned before Judge Schenck in the Somerset county court this morning for sentence on a charge of misappropriating funds of the township. The sentence was postponed from Friday on request of counsel for the defendants. Today Joel Codington was sentenced to twelve months, and Horace Codington was given eighteen months in State prison.

There is no appeal in the case of Joel Codington, he having entered a plea of non-vult, but Horace Codington, through his counsel, W. V. Steele, gave notice of appeal on a writ of error. Both men were turned over to Sheriff Ross. Joel Codington will be taken to Trenton soon, while Horace Codington may secure bail pending a decision on appeal. The writ of error was allowed later in the day and is now on its way from Trenton to Somerville.

When the Codingtons were arraigned for the imposition of sentence, Judge Schenck began by saying that it was the most trying ordeal in his whole career on the bench, that of sentencing two personal friends. He said that he was one of five men who signed the application of Horace Codington for admission to the bar. However, he realized that he had a duty to perform and he hoped that the conviction and sentence would deter other officials from misappropriating trust funds.

Judge Schenck then stated that the maximum penalty in the cases before him was seven years in State prison or a $2,000 fine or both. He then pronounced sentence as stated above.

Prior to the announcement of sentence, W. V. Steele called John B. Dunster, of Bernardsville, a witness in the trial, to prove that Thomas Holmes, a juror, made a remark to Dunster, the night after the first day of the trial, showing that he, the juror was prejudiced. The conversation, it is said, was to the effect that all the evidence was against Codington. The conversation was alleged to have taken place at the Bernardsville Inn, in the presence of Fred Valentine. When the latter was called he declared that he never heard such a conversation and refuted the statement by Dunster.

Numerous technicalties were raised by counsel for the defendant, Horace Codington, but all were dismissed by Judge Schenck. Just before sentence was pronounced, earnest pleas for clemency were made by Alvah A. Clark, A. M. Beekman, Daniel H. Beekman and W. V. Steele.

The sentences are considered light. The words of Judge Schenck in pronouncing sentence were generally considered fair.

Borough Court Cases.

The Italian colony on Chatham street became involved in an all round quarrel on Saturday which resulted in Amadeo Cacici swearing out a warrant for the arrest of James Pina. After hearing a number of witnesses Recorder Dolliver let Pina go on the latter's promise to keep away from the Cacici domicle in the future. F. X. Moore and William Handford, who were arrested for drunkenness, were fined five and two dollars, respectively.

Women's New Spring Dresses and Millinery in an Assemblage of Fashionable Models

Freshly unpacked cases—received daily—reveal many attractive ideas in Spring apparel, as well as numerous designs in the new Spring hats.

These new arrivals are keeping us as busy as bees placing the goods in their proper departments. Each day's arrivals adds to the attractiveness of our stocks. It has been freely expressed by Plainfield women that if you want to get a real pretty, stylish suit for the least outlay "You Must Go to Teppers."

The models on display in our ladies' ready-to-wear department depict the authoritative designs approved for Spring. They make the suit and costume section one of the most interesting spots in the store.

As interesting as the suit department is the millinery department—new and becoming models find their way from our workrooms to our tastefully arranged Millinery Department.

Beautifully trimmed hats are on display in hundreds upon hundreds of styles and each hat presents some new becoming feature. One model you'll find trimmed with flowers and maline while right along side of it you'll find a smaller shape oddly arranged with feathers and a touch of velvet.

A woman can buy her Easter hat here and feel assured of getting a style positively correct—just as much so as if she had paid three times its cost.

Our preparations for Spring business are wide in scope—and while we have assembled the most complete stock we have gathered in years our prices are a conspicuous example of our moderate, pricing principle. Visit the store today—each day adds some new attractive feature to our superb stock.

The Ocean City Water Company is doubling the capacity of its pumping plant.

Allen Corson, a Millville boy, who was struck by an automobile a week ago, is in a serious condition.

A barge with over 400 tons of fertilizer sprung a leak while tied up at Salem wharf, and nearly all the stock was ruined.

Edmund Ossin, cook on the steamship Amerika, of the Hamburg-American line, was arrested in Hoboken Friday for smuggling cigars into this country.

When George Goslin, of the Woodbury piano factory, sawed off a thumb Friday Dr. Campbell sewed it on again, and it is believed it soon will be all right.

Salem County postmasters have received requests from the Department of Commerce and Labor for the names of farmers in need of help of any kind the coming season.

Joseph Swiderski, of 306 Henderson street, Jersey City, has started suit in the United States Circuit Court against the Erie Railroad for $25,000 for injuries to his nine-year-old daughter, of Anastasia.

Mrs. Seth Richardson, wife of a well-known farmer at Toms River, has on exhibition ripe tomatoes grown in the window of her sitting-room. Early in the winter she planted tomato seed and the vines grew and bore.

While attending service in the Congregation Baker Cholin Synagogue, in Second street, Passaic, Friday, Samuel Varochi, of 87 Second street, fell unconscious. It took two hours to revive him. He was taken home in a critical condition.

While cleaning house Saturday Mrs. Maggie Horn, of Delanco, took some old boxes and paper out to burn them in an alley. While stirring the fire a gun shell that was in the rubbish exploded, the brass part of it cutting her right arm quite seriously.

The Pitman Episcopal church has been presented with the baptismal font, the silver communion set and the silver alms basins which have been in use in Zion Episcopal church of Philadelphia, for over fifty years. The gifts came through Rev. J. Bentham Walker, the rector.

Vice-Chancellor Garrison decided Friday afternoon that the children of Oswald Mehnert, of Washington street, Hoboken, whose custody the father seeks, shall remain with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schlicting, of 1014 Washington street, Hoboken, for the present, and that the father shall have the right to visit them on Sundays.

Despondent over losing several hundred dollars, Albert T. Asking, thirty years old, of Seventh and Chestnut streets, Camden, made an effort to end his life on the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Friday. He was found stretched across the tracks and hustled to a sidewalk by Policeman Apply a few minutes before the arrival of a train. He told the policeman he was tired of life, but did not explain how he lost the money.

William, the four-year-old son of William Draper, of Jefferson street, Paulsboro, was nearly burned to death Friday. The child was carrying a lighted lamp downstairs and dropped it, the oil igniting and splashing on his clothing. Mrs. Draper, the mother, was so overcome that she could do little, but the child's screams brought Wm. Huff, a neighbor, who wrapped a piece of carpet about the little fellow. The floor caught fire, but not until the child was safe did Huff attempt to put out the flames, which were making rapid headway up the stairs. Dr. Black did what he could to relieve the suffering child, who is expected to recover.

Agents of Philadelphia business houses doing business in Atlantic City are interested in a suit instituted Friday by Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, of Philadelphia, to test the right of the city to impose a special tax upon solicitors for supply firms. Mrs. Clark was arrested last summer and confined in the city prison until she paid a fine of $15 for taking orders for corsets without procuring a city license. In papers filed Friday by Charles Doming, of Philadelphia, her counsel, her arrest is declared to have been an outrage and $2,500 compensation is demanded. Many prominent women who placed orders for high-priced stays with the plaintiff are alarmed over the prospect that they may be called as witnesses.

Two men wanted by the Atlantic City police for crimes alleged to have been committed in Atlantic City and under arrest in Western cities, may escape because the cost of bringing them back would be more than the sums which they are accused of having stolen. Edward Donnelly is under arrest in California, charged with having stolen $115 from the proprietor of the Hotel Herman, but the cost of sending a detective after him and bringing him back would total over $450. C. E. Pollock is in jail in Colorado charged with having cashed a worthless check on a beach-front hotel for $100. The estimated cost of bringing him to Atlantic City is $275. The police officials are likely to decide to order their release.

SPORTS
NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

BOWLING.

A meeting of the local bowlers, who intend rolling in the N. B. A. tourney in April, will be held at Campbell's alleys, tomorrow night at 7:30.

The Athletic League bowling team of the Elizabeth A. C., will be seen in action at the local alleys on Friday evening, April 1, in a friendly match with the local Elks' five.

The Elizabeth quintet look like the coming champions of the Athletic League, which is looked upon as the foremost competition of its kind in the east.

The two-man tourney which opened at Campbell's alley last week, is proving a magnet for local fans to enthuse over.

The schedule for this week is as follows: Tuesday, Matthews and W. Meyer, Burscher and Schaub, A. Stout and Prassert; Wednesday, O'Keefe and Taylor, Terry and Conklin, Mullin and C. Ortleb; Friday, Kiely and C. Stout, Nash and Causbrook, Laing and Blatz.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Those fans who think that a ball player's life during the training trip is a bed of roses should study over the routine they have to follow. Here it is:

7:30 a. m.—Called. Bathe and dress.

8:15—Breakfast.

9—Undress, put on uniform and walk to park.

9:30-11—Practice and walk back to hotel. Take o uniform, bathe and dress for luncheon.

12—Lncheon.

2 p. m.—Undress, put on uniform and walk to park.

2:30-4:30—Practice, walk back to hotel. Take off uniform, bathe dress.

6—Dinner.

11:30—Taps, undress and retire.

Ten times during the day must the players dress and undress. Certainly nothing very interesting in that. They have to bathe twice a day and most of them do it three times. Then they must walk eight miles every day in the broiling sun.

As most training camps are situated in a small town, there is very little for them to do at night, and moving picture shows are usually their best entertainment.

"Rube" Waddell is the coach of a woman's basketball team. That is the latest stunt of the eccentric St. Louis pitcher. "Addie" Joss of the Naps says "Rube" spends all his spar time in Hot Springs coaching a ladies' five. "Rube" is quite a nifty basketball player himself, and according to "Addie," is a good coach.

If this is not a lucky season for pitcher "Sam" Griffith of the Cleveland Club, it will not be his fault. The Smoky City recruit is strong on the lucky stuff. He carries a rabbit's foot in the hip pocket of his uniform trousers all the time and has a fourleaf clover pinned up on the inside of his hat. Besides all this he has a horseshoe hanging up over his bed in the hotel. He has a fourleaf clover sketched in ink on his glove, and there is a horseshoe scratched on the end of his bat.

Clark Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati club of the National League, thinks so well of Hot Springs, Ark., as a spring training camp that August Herrmann has purchased a permanent home for his team at a cost, it is said, of $10,000. A diamond will be laid out and comfortable quarters built.

James R. McAleer, the new manager of the Washington club of the American League, is not promising to win a pennant this season, but he is quoted as saying:

"Baseball is chuckful of luck, and if we get a fair share of the horseshoe variety I will promise the Washington 'fans' some good games of baseball. I am confident the players will do their best for me, and if this best is not satisfactory we will have to go gunning for others. Good ball will not do for me—I want winning ball."

HERE AND THERE.

There is no possible doubt that Plainfield harbors a great number of globe trotters and the proof of the fact lies in the statement that the majority are health seekers and notwithstanding the air they go in search of they still cling to their own peculiar brand of medicine. There is a druggist in town who has filled prescriptions and forwarded them by mail and express to many parts of the old world to Plainfielders traveling abroad. From Russia, France, Egypt, Spain and even more distant lands come constant demands for this or that particular dose recommended and prescribed by some local physician. The question naturally arises why cannot the sea air and ozone of different climes accomplish the desired results without the aid of medicine? In conversation the other day a druggist said that no matter where they are some people are never satisfied unless their special dope is at hand. But this he characterized as mere habit and profitable for him and further proves the truth about habits being hard to break.

Is it a mania with owners of new automobiles to try out their cars at top speed always? It would seem to be that no satisfactory performance can be obtained from one of the high powered cars unless the insane desire for speeding is satisfied. A new car of a well known make recently took East Front street for a speedway and twice within a few moments passed up and down part of the lenth of that thoroughfare just before dusk at a speed hard to calculate. It went so fast between Sandford avenue and Richmond street that the number could not be read by a couple of men who were interested in the performance. Only one horse was frightened enough to rear on its hind legs, but its driver let out a few choice epithets which voiced his opinion of the devil wagons in general. But what's the use

Anti Matrimony Club.

Bayonne, March 21.—To discourage marriages among the members, a Bachelors' and Spinsters' Club has been organized by persons connected with the Neighborhood Club of the Bergen Point Baptist church. The members under twenty-five years of age will be fined $25, and those over twenty-five years will be fined $50 if they marry.

Confirms Executor's Account.

Newton, March 21.—Sitting in the Sussex Orphan's Court Friday, Judge Henry C. Hunt confirmed the final account of Pierre F. Cook, executor and trustee of the estate of Matilda A. S. Vandoren. It showed an estate valued at over $50,000, with disbursements of less than $10,000.

Dragged by a Train.

Rahway, March 21.—Elsworth Munday, of Rahway, a young man who attempted to board a rapidly moving train Friday morning, was dragged 100 feet before he could gain a foothold on the steps. He was pulled on board by a brakeman.

AGAINST AUTO BILLS PENDING IN LEGISLATURE

Automobilists from all parts of New Jersey are stirred up over the complex situation resulting from the stand taken by the Legislature of this State in the question of automobiling. The defeat of the Edge bill last week and the introduction of two others, aimed at the automobilists, was the signal to the automobile men for the call to arms.

The Edge bill, which suffered defeat, was to allow motorists registered in other States to tour New Jersey without further formality. The bill was expected to become a law, but it did not meet with the approval of Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, President of the Senate, whose influence was sufficient to beat it.

One of the two bills which subsequently were introduced provides for an increase in the license fees of automobiles, as follows: $3 for 10 h. p. or less; $5 10 h. p. to 15 h. p.; $10 for 16 to 20 h. p.; $15 for 21 to 24 h. p.; $20 for 25 to 39 h. p., and $25 for 40 h. p. or over, all of which are in addition to the drivers' licenses, and contains a joker which will do away with the present limited tourist privilege permitting non-resident motorists registered in their home States to tour New Jersey for eight days in any one year upon the payment of $1.

The second bill allows the State of New Jersey to pay one-half of the cost of the proposed new ocean boulevard, instead of the quarter of the expense of the construction of new roads, which the State usually bears, and also permits the funds in the State Treasury accrued from the licensing of automobiles to be applied to the maintenance of the boulevard, instead of dividing such funds pro rata among the counties.

Both bills, which are favored by Senator Frelinghuysen, are strongly opposed by the automobile interests of the State.

Resolutions attacking both measures have been passed by the leading automobile organizations of the State, the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club of Newark, N. J., which has a membership of more than 2,000; the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey; a federation of the clubs in New Jersey; the Automobile Club of Hudson county, with headquarters in Jersey City, and the North Jersey Automobile Club of Paterson, N. J.

The North Jersey Automobile Club held a special meeting yesterday and passed a resolution against the bill. The members of the club also pledged themselves to work against any candidate for public office who votes for either of the two bills or any other bill imposing added taxation on automobiles.

During the course of his remarks in the morning he gave the congregation some excellent advice appropos to the coming of the new pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. He said that if the members expected that Mr. Maguire was going to do everything, they would be greatly disappointed. He urged everyone to give the new pastor full co-operation and help him advance the interest of the Kingdom of God.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Search for Trade Secrets.

Ever since Dévol stole an English loom one piece at a time, taking the fragments to France and afterward bringing them to Fall River, Mass., where the reassembled parts formed the basis of the chief industry of that city, manufacturers all over the world have been trying to get at the trade secrets of their rivals or to prevent their rivals from discovering their own special processes. Many another great industry has a similar basis of a stolen trade secret.

Strange Diet Advocated.

Some years ago in Albany, N. Y., a member of a distinguished family gave a rat luncheon. The rats had been fattened in a granary; or was it a malt house? Then there is the entomologist in France, the enthusiast who has published a cook book containing only recipes for preparing insects for the table. He recommends especially a cockroach soup.

Morality of Nature.

The great charm of scenery and the country life is the moral feeling that seems to pervade it. This has prevailed through all English literature from Chaucer to Wordsworth and down to our own times. It has cast its spell over almost all of our Canadian poets, who have woed nature in her most secret haunts and studied her minute caprices.

To Color Meerschaum.

An old time smoker who has colored many meerschaums says: "Take a piece of buckskin and sew it around the bowl to within half an inch of the top. Use good tobacco, smoke slowly about three times a day, keep the pipe clean with a brush and in about three months the pipe will be colored brown."

Finnan Haddies.

Finnan haddocks, also called Finnan haddies, derive their name from the village of Findon or Finnan, on the coast six miles north of Aberdeen, Scotland. The fish is cured by the smoke of green branches of the fir tree, which imparts a bright yellow color and an agreeable flavor.

Idea by No Means New.

As early as 1786 the French government granted a sum of money to establish a balloon service between Paris and Marseilles, with what were known as the Montgolfier air balloons, though the project never became more than a project.

Feminine Bravery.

There is one important quality in which men are much more deficient than women—moral courage. A woman sticks at nothing if she imagines she is in the right, and is much less afraid of being told to mind her own business.—Black and White.

Nervousness due to hurry and high pressure is one of the most active promoters of indigestion. A few minutes' relaxation before eating will help to cure this difficulty.

BRIGHT DAYS AND DARK

By REV. DONALD SAGE MACKAY D. D., LL.D.

But where sin abounded, grace did much more abound.—Rom. 5:20.

How much the counterbalance plays its part in the activities of human life! Our bright days are counterbalanced by dark days. Our times of prosperity are offset by times of adversity. For every sorrow there is in the divine providence, a corresponding gain, and at the heart of every defeat there is for the man of faith the prophecy of new victory. Go where we will in the great universe of love and we find everywhere the working of this divine law of counterpoise—the divine love compensating of every earthly loss. "Where sin abounds grace doth much more abound." Where death walks with insolent feet life triumphs in exultant song. When earthly joys wither heavenly hope blooms in eternal beauty. When time wears out its venture into threadbare decay eternity robes herself in immortal splendor.

We want to realize, of course, that these bright days and dark in life which alternate in such swift succession are all part of a divine plan. These fleeting changes of prosperity and adversity, joy and sorrow, life and death, are not haphazard. They are not the chance happenings of a cruel and heedless fate. Nor are they ebullitions fickleness in God, or forgetfulness of his children. Not to tantalize and tease the soul, not that we may take our joys with trembling and our sorrows with cringing does our Heavenly Father set the dark days over against the bright days in life. God sends these seasons for the growth of what is worthless and best within us. The dark days and the bright days are as necessary to the poise of your character as the counterbalance is necessary to the equilibrium of the wheel. It needs no profound thinking to realize what a grinding monotony life would be if there were no shadows to offset its sunlight. What an insipid thing joy would become—a surfeit in the banquet of life—if there were no bitters to cleanse the palate of the soul.

These bright days and dark days in life as they come and go, sometimes in rhythmic cadence and sometimes in bewildering confusion, are also part of a divine revelation. They are days of revealing as well as days of discipline. God sends these alternating seasons into your life to reveal certain qualities within you, to call into play certain capacities, to make vital certain possibilities in your nature which the monotony of an unbroken experience could never bring. The changing days of life unmask the reserves of character. It is, of course, a truism that a man never knows how much he can endure until the day of adversity comes. It has been pointed out that Walter Scott became great as a man and realized the highest expression of his genius not until the wave of adversity swept over his life. A writer has pointed out the commonplace character of Scott's personal journal up to the time before the failure of his publishers took place. But after that failure a new note became vocal in the great writer's journal, a new personality emerged. One remembers in this connection the letter which upon the day succeeding the news of the disaster Scott wrote to an intimate friend: "I have walked for the last time in these halls which I have built, looked for the last time in all probability at the domain which I have planted, but death would have taken these things from me if misfortune had not." The letter concludes with the words. "Adversity is to me a tonic and a bracer." "Look at that manuscript," says Ruskin, referring to Scott's novel of "Woodstock" which was in course of writing at the time, "written in the very maelstrom of that adversity and not by the quiver of a hair stroke, not by the suggestion of a single tremor in the hand, not by an erasure or change, not by any falling off in the creative interest of the story could any one detect that when Scott wrote the second part of that novel he did so under a cloud of bitter adversity."

And biography is full of such unmaskings of the pressure of the dark days succeeding the bright days in life. Milton's personality became a far more potent influence after blindness had stricken him. The loss of physical sight intensified the keenness of spiritual vision. Had Bunyan never lain in Bedford jail he had never dreamed the "Pilgrim's Progress." Had Tom Hood never known for himself the bitterness of want and the ache of pain he had never sung the "Song of the Shirt" or sobbed out his immortal dirge. "The Bridge of Sighs." Had David never fallen as he did the world would never have felt the passion of pentience and aspiration of heart which breathed through some such psalm as the fifty-first. Had John never been banished to the island of Patmos we should never have had the revelation of heaven as he has unfolded its glories in the last book of Scripture. In a sense, most solemn of all, had Christ never passed through the darkness of Calvary and tasted the bitterness of death. He had never been exalted as the Saviour of the world. It is a blessed experience surely if for any one of us from whom the sunlight of prosperity had been withdrawn for a season the light of a new purpose and the beckoning of a hand of divine strength are made manifest.

reverses the usual order of furnace facts. It requires the least amount of fuel and the least amount of care. In return it gives the biggest, hottest fire you ever knew; a clean, clinkerless fire. It burns all the coal and when you shake it all the dust goes up the chimney. BOYNTON furnaces are clean. They give the maximum of heat for a minimum of expense. We will gladly give you the name of the nearest BOYNTON dealer, so that you may investigate.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

SOUNDED QUEER.

The editor called the new special writer up to his desk.

"Young man," he said, severely, "we don't mind a few exaggerations, but you have been going a little too strong."

"In what way, sir?" asked the surprised pen pusher.

"Why, in your article on Col. Roosevelt in the jungle you state that immediately after dispatching the ferocious lion he called for a taxi. Now, any greenhorn would know that there are no taxicabs in Africa."

"I didn't allude to a taxicab, sir."

"You didn't?"

"No, I meant a taxidermist."

Surprised Her.

She had refused to listen to his suit while the big car tore along at a 50-mile clip and he was desperate.

"Suppose," he shouted above the roar, "you should see me under these wheels, would you be surprised?"

"I certainly would," responded the haughty beauty with great coolness. "I didn't know the machine needed repairing."

Just the Thing.

"Got anything that's good for corns?"

"Take this home and try it."

"Is it good for corns?"

"I've used it on mine for the last five years and I've got the healthiest corns you ever saw."

Possible Explanation.

Roderick.—"The astronomers report that there is a great disturbance at the pole on the planet Mars. Wonder what caused it?"

Van Albert.—"H'm! Maybe two explorers discovered it at the same time."

Not Modern.

"You say that he is a modern philanthropist?"

"I said a 'modest' philanthropist."

"Oh; I was going to say that I had not seen any of his deeds of philanthropy advertised."

A SOFT LANDING.

Friend Inside—A little to the left, Bill! The pile of soft coal's over there!

The Difference.

When a fighter strikes a hard blow
He grows bold as seven whales;
When a sailor strikes a hard blow
He gets scared and reefs his sails.

Appropriate.

"He has invented a new drink."

"What does he call it?"

"Love."

"Why?"

"Because it makes the world go round."

Most Men Are.

"He's perfectly at ease in any situation."

"I'll bet he isn't. I'm willing to wager right now that he'd be embarrassed if some one should ask him to say grace at a dinner party."

Too Much.

"The trouble with me is that I am eating too much."

"Why, I took dinner at your house to-day and you only ate one biscuit and a piece of pie."

"I know, but my wife made them."

An Honest Confession.

Bilkins.—"Hello, old man! What do you know"

Wilkins.—"Well, I believe a good many things, but as a matter of fact I don't know anything."

The Right Term.

"I wonder that dentists call their offices dental parlors."

"Why shouldn't they?"

"A more appropriate term would be drawing-rooms."

Out of Natural Order.

"Papa, dogs always chase cats on land, don't they?"

"They do everywhere, my son."

"But, papa, do ocean greyhounds chase a sea puss?"

Too High.

"Are you going to take any stock in this aerial trust?"

"No; I never cared to invest in inflated securities."

A Good Idea.

"Maud has lots of new things on hand, just now, I understand."

"Yes, including an engagement ring."

To Be Expected.

"I wonder why that arctic play was a failure?"

"Could you expect it to be anything but a frost?"

"What of him?" she asked insistently.

"What matters about him?" he said bitterly. "He had his chance. He failed to grasp it. He's gone."

The man did not tell her that Charnock had been carried away a senseless log, bereft of power to think or speak, or move, or feel, by the shock of her departure.

"Once," said the woman, "you had your chance in the cabin of that very yacht out yonder and you failed to grasp it and we separated."

"Yes," said the man, "I know that, I realize that now, and I came back. I have come back to take my chance again."

"And so he may come back," said the woman. "You sank lower than he."

"And I rose higher the other day upon the sand."

"You did, but not high enough. I believe in him. He will realize it, too," she went on, all the confidence of her hopes springing into life again and giving force and power to her voice and bearing.

"And you condemn me for that one mistake?" said the man.

"No," returned the woman, "neither will I condemn him for that one mistake."

"But he's gone, I tell you."

"And he will come back, I know."

"He thinks you dead."

"So did you."

"But I came back, not he."

"You were your own master," said the woman swiftly. "You could go where you pleased. He was subject to the decision of others. I trust him still."

"And you don't trust me?"

"I trust you enough, but I don't love you."

"O Kate, think! There must be something in what I feel for you to move you. I did not know what it was. I did not realize it. I came back in the first place as much because I had been a blackguard and a coward and wanted to set myself right in your eyes as because I cared for you, but every hour of search made me know my own heart, and since I have seen you, since I see you now, there is nothing I would not do for you. There isn't any expiation or amendment or anything now, but because I am a man, and love you, I want you. I want to make you happy. And I am the one man in the world that ought to want you and want to make you happy. It is for that I have come back to you."

"How terrible are the arrangements of blind fate," said the woman. "I must believe what you say. You awaken my pity, my tenderness, my consideration, but these are all. He is not by to hear and therefore I will say, for you deserve the truth, that just as you say you love me, nay, then, just as you do and more a thousand times, I love that man. It would be a crime, a sin, a bodily profanation, a mental and spiritual degradation to which the other"—he knew to what she alluded as she paused—"were nothing, if I should come to you with my whole heart and soul given to the man," she threw her hand out in a great sweeping gesture, "yonder out at sea."

"But he doesn't love you."

"O yes, he does. Not as I would be loved, I admit, not as, please God, I shall be loved by him. He doesn't know; he doesn't understand. Wisdom will come to him and he will come back."

"It might be so," said the man. "I came back. But he believes you dead."

"And didn't you when you searched for me during those three years?"

"No," answered Langford, "I had a confident hope that somewhere you were alive."

"And will he not have that hope, too?"

"I cannot believe it."

There was a long, frightful pause. The woman sighed deeply.

"It may be as you say. It may be that we are separated forever. It may be that I shall never look upon him again, nor he upon me, but that makes no difference. I do not love you. I cannot love you. If he is dead, I shall love his memory until I meet him, if so be I may be found worthy of that, and I will keep myself for him. No other man shall have what belongs to him."

They had stepped nearer the entrance of the cave, which was a spacious one, as they spoke. The beauty of the woman in that soft light was so intense that it cast over Langford a spell. He heard the sound of her voice, but did not heed what she said. Suddenly he caught her in his arms.

"Kate," he cried, "we are alone here and I am master. That is my ship yonder. I can have you bound hand and foot and take you aboard of her. I will say that you are mad, that I am taking you back to the United States to your friends. You must come back with me. I can't let you go."

"Valentine," said the woman, quietly, "if you do not instantly release me, I will kill you where you stand. You don't realize how strong I am.

"Kate!" Said the Man, Impulsively, "See!"

With a quick, sudden movement she caught his arms with her free hands and literally tore them apart. To her lithe and vigorous body she added spirit and determination which made her indeed more than a match for the slender, somewhat broken man before her.

"You see," she cried. She stood between him and the doorway, one hand outstretched, the fingers open. "I could kill you before you left this cave. You told me that you had sent your men back to the ship and that you were alone upon the island, and I could hide where I hid before and they would find your dead body here upon the sands. That would be all."

"Kill me if you wish," said the man recklessly. "I don't care. Perhaps that would be the better way."

"No," said the woman, "I respect you too much for that."

"Respect me?"

"Yes. You have shown me what you are by what you have done, all but this mad action of a moment since, and I can understand that, my friend, for I too love, and it seems to me that I would brook anything, everything, for one moment like that you fain would have enjoyed. But we are not children, neither are we savages to act like beasts of prey. I forgive you, I trust you." She came close to him and laid her hand upon his arm. "I respect you, I admire you!"

"Everything," said the man, "but love me."

"Everything but that," assented the woman quietly.

"I shan't offend again," returned the man. "Neither by force nor persuasion can I effect anything. Kate," he said after another pause, "come back to the United States or to some civilized land. The world is before you. I will land you where you please and give you or lend you money enough to enable you to get where you like. You shall be on the yacht to me as my sister."

"It can't be," said the woman. "Don't you see that I can accept no favors from you?"

"But no one need ever know; I will discharge the crew of the yacht in some South American port. They will scatter—"

"God would know and I would know and when I see him again, I would have to tell him. It would make it harder for me. And I don't want to go back. I will wait here for him."

"Kate," said the man impulsively, "it was ungenerous of me not to have told you before. They took him away from the islands senseless, raving with brain fever. He collapsed stricken as if dead on the sand by that little heap of clothes and the Bible which bore your message. He thought you dead. He left the ship in the early morning to seek you. The shock was too much for him."

"He loved me, then," said the woman.

"Yes," said Langford, wringing the admission from his lips, "he loved you enough almost to die for you."

"But he is not dead. He was not when you left the cruiser?"

"No, they signaled me at noontime in answer to my inquiry that the doctor thought he would finally pull through, although it would be a long, terrible siege; but if he dies, Kate, if I got back and found that he is dead and come here—"

"Don't come back," said the woman. "Don't tell anyone that I am here. Let no one ever come back unless the promptings of his heart and the leading of God should bring him to me."

"Is this your final, absolute decision?"

"My final and absolute decision. Nothing can alter it, nothing, absolutely nothing."

"O Kate!"

"Don't," said the woman. "It is useless and only breaks your heart and wrings mine. Now, you must go. No one has seen you from the yacht. This cave is sheltered from where she lies. No one need know that you have found me. Indeed I want you to give me your word of honor, to swear it by all that you hold sacred that you will never tell anyone, much less him, that you came back and found me alive."

"You set me a hard task," faltered the man.

"But I am sure," continued the woman, "it is not too hard for you to accomplish. Come, you have said you wanted to make amends. That is all past now, forgotten and forgiven, but if you really would make me happy, you will promise what I say."

"And what is that again?"

"On your word of honor as a gentleman, by all that you hold sacred, you will never mention to a human soul that you found me here alive."

As a rule Newark women do not go into ecstasies over a millinery display unless there is some pretty good reason for so doing. We can truthfully say that our present collection of Easter Millinery at $5.00, $7.50 and $9.50 is the best ever shown in this vicinity, and we can also say that no previous display has ever received such cordial and unqualified praise. Every hat is a perfect beauty—a gem of exclusiveness—and every hat was designed with a view to practicability. Decide upon your Easter hat tomorrow and look here before you buy. Our workrooms are busy day and night turning out pretty things and our department is a perfect bower of springtime beauty. We direct especial attention to our trimmed hats at

OCEANICS ARE DEFEATED

Plainfield Aggregation Triumphs Over Steamship's Eleven.

THE SCORE FIVE TO FOUR.

Oceanics Make First Goal—Enthusiastic Crowd Cheers Local Team—The Brooklyn F. C. Next Saturday.

The Plainfield Association Football Club won a great victory Saturday afternoon, when it defeated the crack S. S. Oceanic F. C., on the Clinton avenue grounds, by a score of 5 to 4. The contest was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season. The local boys were continually cheered for their fine work.

The Oceanics took a hold of the ball immediately on the start of the game and made a rush on the home goal. Cassells secured the first point for the visitors within two minutes of play. They returned to the attack again, but the time defence succeeded in clearing nicely.

In the next ten minutes of play the visitors again made a rush on the Plainfield end, and Longman, took one more point for them. The visitors up to this time, had been making rings around the home team, but the local boys now got down to business, and in a nice run down field, Spalding put in a dandy shot, which made the first goal for Plainfield.

This point was challenged, but the referee decided in favor of the Plainfield team. The locals again took the ball up field, when Heaume managed to take one more point. Shortly before half time, Heaume again scored amid loud applause and this gave Plainfield a lead of three to two, which they succeeded in holding until half time was called. The visitors up to this point had the best of the play, but were unlucky at goal.

On resuming play in the second half, the home team settled down to a fine steady game, and before long had added one more goal to the score from a scrimmage, making it four to two. Although the visitors were playing nice ball now, the home team held them easily and they seldom got over mid-field, while the locals were peppering their opponents' goal, which was well defended by Painter, who was making some dandy saves.

A big kick out to centre was quickly taken up by the Oceanics, and followed by a fast run down field, when Smith succeeded in beating Hosie, making one more point for the visitors. On resuming the home team rushed on the visitors' goal when a corner was awarded them, and being nicely centred by Spalding, Heaume succeeded in adding the fifth point for Plainfield.

With about five minutes to go the visitors started pressing and soon har secured one more from Fagan, who put in a fine shot which sailed through. The lineup:

EQUAL SUFFRAGE PLEAS

State Association President Makes Argument Before Local League.

MEN ARE MADE MEMBERS.

Mrs. Clara Laddey Tells of the Growth of the Movement for Votes for Women—O. H. G. Leigh Speaks.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield met last evening at the home of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, 212 East Seventh street, where there was a large attendance of women and some men. Mrs. Clara Laddey, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association was the speaker of the evening and had for her subject "Best Means of Forwarding the Cause."

Mrs. Laddey said that the New Jersey Association has been in existence for forty years and its work is still progressing. On February 2 an Equal Suffrage club was organized in Jersey City with thirty members, some of them men. Great interest has also developed in Passaic and a club will no doubt be organized there. These clubs are connected with the State organization and the State organization is an auxiliary to the National American Woman Suffrage Association, which in its turn is associated with the International organization, which represents twenty-three countries.

Why do women want the ballot? Because the ballot is a tool to meet our responsibilities—we cannot do our best now. As to means of forwarding the cause Mrs. Laddey spoke of the propriety of women taking an interest in civic improvement. The child—at school, at play, at work, in the juvenile courts, are women's concerns and women should be represented wherever women and children are concerned. Women should be on the school boards, they should be on the Board of Health. Women should be probation officers, truant officers and factory inspectors. Mrs. Laddey's daughter is probation officer in Essex county.

Mrs. Laddey told of the forming of college leagues. Two years ago the first league was formed and now there are forty-three such leagues. She also talked about the "equal pay" for women, saying that in Newark the woman truant officer receives $600 while the man gets $900. Mrs. Laddey recommended parents' organizations for schools and approved of the self government plan in them, where boys and girls vote and hold office, thus preparing themselves for future good citizenship.

Referring to the English suffragette Mrs. Laddey said: "We cannot imitate them, but we can emulate their spirit." In concluding her address she said that the American idea of government is wrong if Woman Suffrage is wrong—if all are not free and equal in the sight of the law.

Following Mrs. Laddey, Mr. Champlain L. Riley read a notice to the effect that next week in Newark the men of New Jersey are going to organize a league to promote Woman Suffrage.

Oliver H. G. Leigh, a former resident of Mancester, England, gave an exceedingly delightful account of the beginning of the movement for Women's Rights in the English city. He mentioned among other prominent women Frances Power Cobb, the poetess, Emily Faithful, Lydia Becker and down a long list to John Stuart Hill, the great literary exponent of the movement. He told how Mr. Pankhurst, the husband of the now famous suffragette leader, was the first man to get heartily to work to not only write, but to fight for the cause. This fight for justice he undertook when a young man and before his marriage. The speakers were all liberally applauded and the next meeting promises to be as nteresting as this one was.

The following men were elected to membership in the league last night: Champlain W. Riley, Allen W. Cowperthwait, Isaac L. Miller, William L. Saunders, Dr. Edward S. Krans, F. DeLacy Hyde, Stephen Haff, Jr., and Howard Colby.

On April 25 the league will meet with Mrs. Stephen Haff, Sherman avenue. This will be the annual business meeting and election of officers. The meeting in May will be with Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, of West Seventh street, when Mrs. Tomlinson will read a paper on "Ways in Which Women's Votes Would Help the Community."

The officers of the league are: President, Mrs. Stephen Haff, vice-president, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller; secretary, Mrs. Champlain L. Riley and treasurer, Mrs. Samuel Huntington.

The Brightside Circle of the King's Daughters, will hold a social this evening at the home of F. O. Dunning, 42 Mountain avenue. The members and friends are invited.

TRAVELERS ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

Plainfield Council, No. 402 Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, at the annual meeting held in Columbus Hall, Saturday night, elected these officers for the ensuing year:

Senior Counselor, John M. Lewin; junior counselor, Arthur Organ; past counselor, Alfred I. Laing; secretary-treasurer, Frank W. Weed; conductor, Hubert F. Warner; page, Fred A. Kirch; sentinel, Peter H. Bennett; executive committee, Frederick Kling, Joseph D. Moon Alfred S. Olmstead and Edward B. Ryder.

There was a large attendance of members at the meeting, including six visitors from Essex Council, No. 317, of Newark. After the meeting a luncheon was served in the banquet hall, prepared by the members, followed by a smoker.

DAUGHTER NEED NOT PAY JUDGMENT AGAINST FATHER

George Ball, attorney for Charles G. Brown and his daughter, Roberta Brown, of Westfield, in the chancery action instituted by Aaron T. Hageman, also of Westfield, received notice today from Vice-Chancellor Emery that he had dismissed the bill, and the costs will be charged against the complainant. The case was argued on January 24 at Newark. Paul Q. Oliver, of Westfield, represented the complainant.

The complainant filed a bill in Chancery in October, 1908, seeking to charge land belonging to Roberta Brown with a judgment, obtained against Charles G. Brown in Justice Toucey's Court, charging that Charles . Brown paid a consideration price and caused it to be conveyed to his daughter to defraud creditors. The complainant failed to produce sufficient evidence to offset that offered by the defendants. It was shown that Roberta Brown was a preferred creditor.

BINGEMAN ADDRESSES DUNELLEN ATHLETIC CLUB

C. William Bingeman, director of boys' work at the Y. M. C. A., gave an interesting talk on club and association life at the monthly meeting of the Dunellen Athletic club, at the latter place last night. There was a big turnout of members and Mr. Bingeman was enthusiastically greeted by the suburban athletes.

In his remarks Mr. Bingeman gave the outline of purposes in Y. M. C. A. work and suggested that the association is a good body for other clubs to pattern after. He declared that physical, spiritual, educational and social developments of men are the necessary qualifications for all successful clubs. Mr. Bingeman urged the members of the D. A. C. to always play the game clean and be loyal to their organization. "In loyalty is success," said the speaker.

Interesting remarks were also made by Frank R. Wynkoop, Councilman Lewis Churchill, Jesse Ayers, the founder of the club, Dr. Hogan, Professor Guy Rentschler and others.

The speechmaking was interspersed by selections by the Black Diamond quartet, of this city, mandolin selections by George Martin and piano selections by various club members.

During the evening refreshments were served by the committee which consisted of Jesse Ayers, Benjamin Dodwell and Corwin Apgar

SANG SACRED CANTATA

"Message from the Cross" Deeply Impresses Large Congregation.

AT GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Macfarlane's Sombre Historical Theme Masterfully Rendered By Choir of Thirty-five Voices.

Grace Episcopal church was nearly filled last night when the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, gave a short introductory speech about the sacred cantata, "The Message From the Cross," which was admirably sung by the full male choir. Mr. Stevenson said that the presentation of the cantata demonstrated what could be done in the way of devotional music, but that had already been shown in the one previously given, "Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder. The work by Macfarlane is simply the inspired work of a genius who felt the words of the Master from the Cross.

Like the rumblings of a distant thunder the first chords awoke a feeling of impending disaster. Anon the storm breaks and amid the crash of tumultuous sounds the sweet, plaintive voice of the tenor in recitative with a chromatic crescendo breaks forth in a minor story of Christ's suffering for sinful man.

Perhaps no more mournful sound can be imagined than the music accompanying the chorus which follows the solo, "Oh come and mourn with me a while," a plaintive cry from one of the waiting women and a chorus of weeping disciples finish the illusion that one is witnessing the agony and death of the Saviour on the Cross.

Throughout the cantata the sombre, overhanging thought of imminent disaster, emphasized by the emotion evoked by the weird music lends to the whole performance a realism thoroughly in keeping with the history it represents. The dying thief, Mary, the anguish of the Lord and the final giving up after the torture are vividly portrayed. The various solos by William and Bert Tallamy and Vincent Miner, and the trios by the Messrs. Tallamy and Raymond Manley, and the work of Masters Arthur Martin, Benjamin Cooley and Carlyle Wright was finely done. No little part of the success of the cantata is due to the organist and choirmaster, S. Frederick Smith, whose manipulation of the big instrument demonstrated his complete mastery of it.

The cantata was preceded by a processional hymn, the Lord's prayer, collection and benediction by the rector.

BANKRUPTCY COURT DISCHARGES APGARS

After opposition being raised to their discharge and an adverse report of the referee and master as to one of them, Theodore Apgar and George I. Apgar, of Dunellen, who have been large builders and contractors under the firm name of Apgar Brothers, in this vicinity for a number of years, were granted their discharge in bankruptcy by Judge Cross in the United State District Court at Trenton yesterday.

Apgar Brothers were forced into bankruptcy by some of their creditors in the early part of 1908. In December of that year they applied for their discharge. Their application was held up by objections filed by Judge Isaac P. Runyon, who appeared for one of the creditors. The court referred the matter to Captain James Parker, one of the referees in bankruptcy, as a special master to take testimony and report the result to the court. Tsetimony was taken in this city in November last. One of the witnesses who gave testimony in opposition to the discharge was Judge William Newcorn, one of the trustees of the bankrupt firm.

The master filed his report in February recommending that a discharge be denied Theodore Apgar, but stating that the objections had been with drawn as to George I. Apgar, and, therefore, recommending his discharge.

Exceptions were filed to this report by Counsellor W. L. Angleman for Theodore Apgar, and the case was set down for hearing at Trenton yesterday before the United States District Court. After argument by Mr. Angleman, and reading the objections and the testimony, Judge Cross sustained the exceptions made, and granted Mr. Angleman's motion for a discharge in bankruptcy to Theodore Apgar notwithstanding the adverse report of the referee.

Counsellor J. Henry Crane appeared for George I. Apgar and moved for a confirmation of the report as far as George I. Apgar was concerned and applied for his discharge. His motion and application were granted by Judge Cross, and a discharge in bankruptcy granted to George I. Apgar.

DUNELLEN SCHOOL TO HAVE A GYMNASIUM

Members of the Dunellen Board of Education are interesting themselves in plans to install a gymnasium in the Whittier School at that place during the summer vacation which will be in readiness for use at the beginning of the coming fall term. Data is now being secured from the Russell Sage Foundation, which was created by the dead millionaire, for the purpose of providing an incentive in playgrounds and school gymnastics, and it is possible that a representative of the concern will be invited to enlighten the school board and citizens of the place as to the needs of the school in the athletic line.

Professor Guy Rentschler is an enthusiastic advocate for the installation of a gymnasium for the use of the pupils as it will pave the way for athletic competitions with Plainfield and nearby schools. Under present conditions the pupils do not enjoy this privilege. About the only athletic attraction is an open air basketball court in the school yard and this is considered inadequate for the needs of the school in this direction.

The school board has a balance of more than $3,000 in the treasury, not to say anything of the State appropriation which will be added later. Such being the case the sentiment of the board is said to be in favor of establishing a gymnasium and to encourage sports in the schools.

Mrs. Baxter, of Trenton, wife of Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Schools, spent Sunday with friends in Plainfield and attended divine services at Trinity Reformed church.

DUNELLEN WANTS SEWERS

Board of Trade Asks Council to Take Matter Up With North Plainfield.

UP-TO-DATE DEPOT WANTED.

Committee Appointed to Confer With Jersey Central Railroad Officials for Station—P. S. C. Refuses to Lay Track.

The Dunellen Board of Trade had an extremely busy session last night discussing several live topics. One of the important items was the unanimous adoption of a resolution suggesting that Mayor William A. Sanford appoint a committee to confer with the North Plainfield sewer commission relative to the town cooperating with the borough in the installation of the proposed sewerage system. The resolution was as follows:

Whereas, the borough of Dunellen is greatly in need of an up-to-date system of sewage, and

Whereas, the general sentiment of the community is that sewers are a necessity to the prosperity and health of the said borough, and

Whereas, there has been a tentative agreement entered into between the said borough of Dunellen and the borough of North Plainfield that Dunellen would co-operate in the building of a joint sewerage system, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting of the Board of Trade that the Mayor appoint a committee to meet and consult with the sewerage committee of the borough of North Plainfield on the subject at as early a date as possible.

Addresses favoring the resolution were made by Wilson Frederick, Alvah A. Gray, F. D. Baerman and others. Frank R. Wynkoop president of the board, declared that if a vote was taken now in the borough on the question of sewers 90 per cent. of the citizens would vote to join issues with North Plainfield in the proposed system. "Dunellen needs sewers, the town must have them as it cannot get along without them any longer.

As forecasted exclusively in The Daily Press last week the matter of a new railroad station was also taken up. The need of a new depot will be presented to the officials of the company within a week by the Civic Committee, of which Dr. Edward Pennock is chairman. As the present station has done service for more than thirty years and is an "eyesore" to the municipality, sentiment is unanimous that the company will yield to the popular demand for a new and up-to-date building.

The board also went on record as being in favor of proposed legislation which will extend the charter of the Plainfield Horse Car Railroad Company to 1915 which will enable the company to make connections with Metuchen, South Plainfield, Dunellen, Warrenville and other towns. The board will be represented at Trenton by the following committee when the hearing on the proposed measure is held—Dr. Hogan, Assessor J. H. L. Peters, Henry S. Garretson, George W. Day and Wilson Frederick.

A communication was presented from Colonel E. S. Hine, of the Public Service Corporation, stating that the company was opposed to laying another track through the borough.

John B. Eick was appointed chairman of the membership committee to succeed J. Newton Apgar.

Councilman Gloak, chairman of the street committee, reported back the bids for crushed stone, crosswalks, culverts, etc., at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. The bid of N. B. Smalley & Co., for furnishing crushed stone was accepted, and that of J. W. Manhattan for furnishing crosswalkws, culverts, etc., was also accepted. Both were the lowest bids, although it was stated that the prices quoted are about fifty per cent. higher than last year.

Mr. Gloak explained that he had compared the prices quoted the city and those to the borough and that there was about ten cents difference, due, he thought to the extra cartage necessary in the city. Both bids were accepted and the Mayor and clerk were authorized to sign the contracts on behalf of the city.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY OF A GREAT COMPOSER

The meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club held yesterday at the Hartridge School auditorium was one of rare enjoyment. The opening exercises were of a musical character, in recognition of the 225th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach. A paper giving an interesting sketch of the great composer, prepared by Mrs. Arthur H. Chamberlain, was read by Mrs. Robert Lowry. This paper was supplemented by Dr. Leonard Waldo, who added some facts relative to Bach and his compositions, quoting the opinion of another, that music owed to Bach what religion owed to its founder.

Dr. Waldo illustrated a number of the compositions of this great master on the 'cello, assisted by Mrs. Cobb, who accompanied him on the piano, and who also played two gavottes. The purity, harmony, tenderness and spirituality of the great musician's work were brought out under the exquisite playing of Dr. Waldo and Mrs. Cobb.

A paper full of interest was presented on "Dryden and the Drama of the Restoration" and was followed by another on "Sentimental Comedy" by Mrs. Herbert E. Baright, both of which merited and received heary applause.

TO URGE FRANCHISE BILL

Merchants' Association Appoint Committee to Co-operate with Trade Board.

HALF HOLIDAY IN AUGUST.

Again Insist Upon Arc Lights for Business Section of City—One New Member Is Elected.

A vigorous meeting of the Merchants' Association took place last night and the question of pushing the amendment to the present limited franchise act was animatedly discussed with the result that a committee of ten was appointed to act in conjunction with the committee from the Board of Trade in urging the passage of the bill.

If this amendment can be enacted into a law the Public Service Railway Company will extend its trolley lines so as to include Warrenville, Metuchen and South Plainfield, thus establishing a belt line which will connect with the line for Trenton. The following members were appointed on the committee: A. E. Force, C. W. Krausse, T. R. VanZandt, . M. Clark, C. H. Frost, R. H. Barnard, C. L. Applegate, Ulysses Grant Pierson, J. Fass and H. P. Greenwood.

Another matter in which the employees of the various stores will be interested was the resolution adopted to close the stores for half a day during the month of August. The day selected was Thursday. This was agreed to unanimously.

A committee consisting of A. E. Force, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and Herman Schwed was appointed to work with the civic committee of the Board of Trade for the installation of arc lights in the principal thoroughfares of the city. There was a large attendance of members present and one new member, George M. Christian, was added to the roll.

The committee named by the Board of Trade to urge the passage of the bill endorsed last night by the Merchants' Association was as follows: J. V. E. Vanderhoef, chairman; Herman Schwed, F. A. Duttenhofer, George M. Christian, William Jeffery, A. S. Herr, William Hamilton, Peter McDonough, M. C. VanArsdale and Wilson Fredericks. The bill which will contain a clause changing the franchise limit from twenty years to fifty, will be introduced by Assemblyman Schwartz in the House on next Monday and these committees will go to Trenton on that day to use their influence in having the bill passed.

PROTESTING AGAINST UNDESIRABLE BUILDING

William A. Coddington, representing L. V. F. Randolph, sent a protest to the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, against granting a permit to an Italian to erect a one-story addition to his house at 721 East Second street. The Italian proposes to place the addition on the building line and use it for a store. The property is directly opposite that of L. V. F. Randolph and the latter objects.

The Italian made application to Building Inspector T. O. Doane, but the latter returned it because it was faulty. It has not been sent back to Chief Doane, but probably will be within a short time.

At the request of Councilman Taylor, a recess was taken last night to discuss the matter. No decision was reached, but it was the opinion of all the members that the application should be denied. However, Chief Doane is quoted as saying that according to law there is nothing to prevent the man from building the addition. He says that similar questions have been threshed out time and again in the Supreme Court and that no law has been found that would prevent the erection of such buildings. If the application for a permit is returned no doubt it will be referred to Corporation Counsel Marsh for an opinion.

Women's New Spring Dresses and Millinery in an Assemblage of Fashionable Models

Freshly unpacked cases—received daily—reveal many attractive ideas in Spring apparel, as well as numerous designs in the new Spring hats.

These new arrivals are keeping us as busy as bees placing the goods in their proper departments. Each day's arrivals adds to the attractiveness of our stocks. It has been freely expressed by Plainfield women that if you want to get a real pretty, stylish suit for the least outlay "You Must Go to Teppers."

The models on display in our ladies' ready-to-wear department depict the authoritative designs approved for Spring. They make the suit and costume section one of the most interesting spots in the store.

As interesting as the suit department is the millinery department—new and becoming models find their way from our workrooms to our tastefully arranged Millinery Department.

Beautifully trimmed hats are on display in hundreds upon hundreds of styles and each hat presents some new becoming feature. One model you'll find trimmed with flowers and maline while right along side of it you'll find a smaller shape oddly arranged with feathers and a touch of velvet.

A woman can buy her Easter hat here and feel assured of getting a style positively correct—just as much so as if she had paid three times its cost.

Our preparations for Spring business are wide in scope—and while we have assembled the most complete stock we have gathered in years our prices are a conspicuous example of our moderate, pricing principle. Visit the store today—each day adds some new attractive feature to our superb stock.

SPORTS
NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

Y. M. C. A. PLANNING FOR BASEBALL NOW

Baseball will be the leader in Y. M. C. A. sports in the next few weeks. Physical Director George L. Listman is now at work on the schedule and he expects to arrange his opening game for Saturday, April 30, so as not to conflict with the opening day of Manager Ernest Dorflinger's with the Newark O. N. T.'s on April 23.

Twenty candidates will try for places on the team, a much larger number than usual. Six are already engaged in doing preliminary work in the gymnasium, the list including Slocum, Fritts, Linke, Gilmore, Coyle and Murphy. The latter, who was injured several weeks ago in an athletic contest, is coming around all right and will be in shape to play ball.

Lew Slocum is considered one of the leading candidates for pitcher. Mr. Listman declared today that this boy will get a good tryout. The team will be well fortified in the box as at the close of the college season Jack Peacock, of Princeton, will be installed as regular twirler.

Reports from Princeton state that Peacock is displaying splendid form and is sure to participate in some of the big varsity contests this year.

Always for something new and sensational look to Rube Waddell, "The Eccentric." The famouse Rube is now getting a lot of press agenting as coach of a young woman's basketball team in St. Louis. What next?

"Didn't get a fair chance" will be the cry of several hundred minor leaguers who are getting tryouts with major league teams in the south, who will be dispatched back to the "bushes" when the weeding out process begins.

Colonel Roosevelt is a good old sport if press dispatches from South Africa are true. 'Tis said that when he came out of the wilds his first question was: "Have they named the place for the big fight yet?"

J. W. Dobbins, the Newark baseball promoter, having failed in an attempt to organize a New Jersey State League is devoting his efforts in trying to organize a Pennsylvania league.

Birth and blood goes into the discard as a means of entrance into society. Be an athlete is the royal road. Last week's newspapers told of Jack O'Brien being entertained at dinner by A. J. Drexel Biddle, Stanley Ketchel leading a german and Hughey Jennings pouring tea with society queens at San Antonio, Texas.

The veteran baseball authority, Tim Murnane, in speaking of individual star players on a team, adds: "Should Wagner have an off year it would make hard sledding for Barney Dreyfuss. Should Ty Cobb spring a charley horse it would be an easy matter to beat out the Tigers. The failure of Mathewson to show real form would make a second-division club out of the Giants, while Evers out of shape would take the life from the Chicago Cubs."

Local fight fans who are going to attend the Jeffries-Johnson fight, take notice: Seats for the Jeffries-Johnson fight July 4 will range from $5 to $50 according to an official statement by Tex Rickard, one of the promoters. It was originally planned to charge from $10 to $100, but Rickard declared that, after considering the subject they had come to the conclusion they could make enough money at the reduced prices. As Rickard explained it, there will be 30,000 seats, and, striking a rough average of something like $22 a seat, there will be over $650,000 in the box office.

China is getting there O. K. Two Chinamen are engaged in sports at Yale, both of them with fair chances of making good. Mun Yin Chung, of Honolulu, is working for the baseball team, and may make the freshmen nine. He is a good hitter and a fair fielder. Daniel M. Chung, of Shanghai, son of one of the members of the Chinese legation at Washington, is one of the best coxswains of the freshmen squad, and is expect to make the "varsity boat before he graduates.

Oxford is a slight favorite over Cambridge for the annual boat race to be rowed tomorrow. The crews appear to be so evenly matched, however, that the betting is about even. Oxford's time trials over the full course have been several seconds faster than that made by Cambridge. Oxford's crew, averaging 177 pounds excluding the coxswain, is the heaviest on record. Cambridge averages about 171¾.

Smiling Jimmy Montross, of this city, is angling for a job as pitcher of the New Brunswick club. Another candidate for the job is Flick Luyster, the Elizabeth twirler.

A SUMMERS VEGETABLES.

The average back yard will grow a summer's supply of vegetables for an ordinary family at an expense for the seeds of from $1.00 to $5.00.

FOR THE MAN WHO WANTS A CONTINUOUS SUPPLY OF FRESH VEGETABLES DURING THE SUMMER WE HAVE MADE UP 3 COLLECTIONS OF SEEDS. "THE GARDEN" CONTAINING 19 VARIETIES AT $1.00. "THE SUBURBAN" OF 43 VARIETIES AT $2.50, AND "THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN" COLLECTION WITH 60 VARIETIES AT $5.00.

THESE COLLECTIONS OF VEGETABLE SEEDS ARE COMPOSED OF SELECTED VARIETIES WITH A VIEW TO FURNISHING A CONTINUOUS SUPPLY OF HOME GROWN VEGETABLES.

OUR "GARDEN GUIDE AND RECORD," A BOOK OF CONDENSED CULTURAL DIRECTIONS THAT ARE PRACTICAL AND THOROUGH, SENT WITH EVERY COLLECTION, OR MAILED WITH OUR CATALOGUE OFFER BELOW WITHOUT EXTRA CHARGE.

The women of the First M. E. church will hold a supper in Vincent chapel, Thursday night, April 14 at 6:30 o'clock.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered to twelve or more candidates at the First Baptist church Sunday night by the pastor.

As a central committee to advance the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the First Baptist church, Pastor Chambliss has appointed the following: Edwin L. Bonny, William Conner, John G. MacLaughlin, Edward T. Wilson and O. B. Leonard.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its bi-monthly social tomorrow night. An attractive program of music from the works of Ethelbert Nevins has been arranged and an enjoyable time is promised all who attend.

Elaborate preparations are being made for Easter services at the Ebenezer Baptist church, on Sunday. Rev. G. E. Scruggs, pastor, will preach on the topic, "Master What Shall I do to Inherit Eternal Life?" The children will take part in a special program and a photograph of the members will be taken. TO PERMIT JOINT SEWER Bill in Legislature to Enable City and Borough to Construct System.

INTRODUCED BY ACKERMAN.

Frelinghuysen Sponsor for Measure Which Provides for a Mutual Agreement for the Undertaking.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman introduced a bill at Trenton last night for State Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen for the direct benefit of Plainfield and North Plainfield. It authorizes any two or more municipalities in this State, without regard to their form of incorporation, to provide and maintain a system of sewerage, or a system of conveying sewerage from said municipality, and constructing one or more outlet or trunk sewers, disposal plants or station for the treatment of rendering of said sewerage. The measure further provides for the cost of the same to be arrived at by mutual agreement and for the assessment of benefits and damages sustained. It was referred to the judiciary.

The bill was drafted in the interest of Plainfield and North Plainfield, the municipalities being desirous of uniting in a joint sewerage plan. The residents of the borough have already voted on the question of establishing a sewerage plant, and as Plainfied must of necessity make a change within a short time, it is planned to build one large plant in the extreme western end of North Plainfield township.

Dunellen is also anxious to join such a system, the matter being discussed at a meeting of the borough Council last night. It is possible that some arrangements may be made whereby Dunellen can join with Plainfield and North Plainfield in the one system.

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER AT HEAVENLY REST

The services in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector, for the balance of the week will be as follows: Tomorrow, Thursday and Saturday, at 10 o'clock in the morning, celebration of Holy Communion and Saturday evening the service of public baptism will be held.

On Good Friday Pro-Anaphora at 10 o'clock in the morning, with meditation on the seven sayings from the Cross. At 4:30 in the afternoon a children's service which will include the final address on the Lord's prayer. At 7:30 in the evening will occur the annual special service for the men's association. A large attendance of men is desired, and all are welcome.

On Easter Sunday there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7, 8 and 11 o'clock in the morning. At the 11 o'clock service there will be special music including the anthem "Christ is Risen," by Maunder. At 4 in the afternoon there will be a children's service and in the evening Even song and instruction for confirmation.

Rev. Mr. Mallery will go to Trenton tomorrow night to preach and on Thursday night he will preach at St. Stephen's church.

BASKETBALL.

Trinity defeated the First Presbyterian five in a Sunday-school Athletic contest at the Y. M. C. A. last night by the score of 15 to 13. The lineups: Trinity—Hodge, Woodhull, forwards; Caleen, center; VanZandt, Doeringer, guards. First Presbyterians—P. Dunning, W. Peacock, forwards; Davis, center; Currin, Dunham, guards.

In the other sceduled contests Hope Chapel forfeited to Crescent Avenue and Grace P. E. forfeited to the Congregational quintet.

Scotch Plains is sure of the championship and from all accounts the winning team will be banqueted in royal style after the scedule is completed.

While the Trinity quintet is not a winner this year it is being loyally supported by the school, and bigger things are expected nexxt season. This is Trinity's first year in the league, but the experience gained is sure to count in favor of the team next season. Last night's victory over the First Presbyterian was encouraging to the team and gratifying to its followers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn, of West Third street are the happy parents of a young daughter who was born on Sunday.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

ROUTINE MATTERS BEFORE CITY FATHERS

Upon the recommendation of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, John Kelly, formerly a patrolman in the local police department, was re-appointed to the force last night, and was started in Class C, in which there are six other patrolmen. He will draw about $77 a month. There are two other lower grades, but as there are no men in those grades, Mr. Kelly was placed in Class C. Mayor Fisk informed the Council that Mr. Kelly had served as a policeman for six years and had a clean record and is now in perfect physical condition.

The police committee, through resolutions offered by Councilman Charles C. Randolph, was authorized to purchase new rubber tires for the patrol wagon at a cost not to exceed $60 and three new bicycles for members of the department at a cost not to exceed $100.

In response to a petition from residents, three lights were ordered placed on Denmark road, between Dixie lane and Revine road, and one light was ordered placed on West Fourth street, between Clinton and Hunter avenues.

Councilman Gloak presented a map and also an ordinance providing for the installation of a storm sewer in Richmond street, between North avenue and East Second street. This will complete the storm sewer work on that street. The ordinance was read for the first time and a public hearing will be granted later. The cost for this work is to be paid for out of the general tax.

Enoch Berry, of Leland avenue, communicated with the Council relative to the removal of the old railroad bank in the East End of the city. He said that he had removed a good portion of the bank and asked the Council to make an allowance of $200 for completing the work; or he agreed to contribute that sum toward the completion of the work if the city would agree to do it. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Mr. Buxton offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $300 for the care of the city dump. Mr. Buxton referred back ten bonds, presented earlier in the evening, for the approval of the corporation counsel; also the petition of Mary Denny, of Johnson avenue and East Second street, and one from Rose A. Hall, of East Second street and Netherwood avenue, referring to double assessments on their property. Upon the recommendation of Corporation Counsel Marsh one assessment in each case was authorized cancelled.

Upon the motion by Councilman Gloak the Central Realty Company was granted permission to connect with a sewer main in the West End of the city, in accordance with a previous petition.

PLAN AN EXTENSION TO CHURCH EDIFICE

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church met last night at the home of Elder George L. VanEmburgh on East Second street, the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, and all the members being present, except William F. Oliver. The members devoted the whole evening to discussing the advisability of building an extension to the rear of the church to give the Sunday-school the extra room needed at this time. There was free and full discussion of the matter, after which it was voted to refer it to the congregation at a meeting to be held Wednesday night, March 30.

There are two matters of expense that will be brought before the congregation at that time for sanction, namely, the raising and expenditure of $3,000 for absolute necessary repairs to the prescent church edifice, the painting of the exterior and the decorating of the interior.

The other amount to be asked for is $3,000 for building the addition to the rear of the church in order to accommodate the members of the various departments of the Sunday-school. It is proposed to raise all the money that is possible for the improvements and then borrow the remainder. It was between 11 and 12 o'clock when the business was concluded, and before the Consistory left Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh served sandwiches and coffee and received the hearty thanks of all present.

Proctor's Good Show.

Those who love the saucy boy, the boy who always talks back, will enjoy the sketch at Proctor's theatre. Mr. Hussey is a clever ventriloquist and a good comedian. Howard and Linder in the German comedy skit, "As My Father Used to Say," are fine and the Mexican, Herrman Company, presenting comedy magic, is making a hit. The tricks are clever. Julia Curis, a clever young woman, impersonates Anna Held, Eddie Leonard and she sings well.

Westfield Defeats P. H. S.

The girls' basketball team of the Westfield High School defeated the P. H. S. girls' team at Westfield, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 18 to 14. P. H. S. did not make a goal during the first half and then Westfield did all the scoring. Ruth Douglas distinguished herself by shooting a goal from centre field.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The destruction of boats on the lake has become such a common occurrence that Judge Smith has offered a reward of $25 for the conviction of any one who wilfully destroys or takes a boat from its moorings. The "Dorothy," a beautiful craft, belonging to Alfred Lawrence, of Plainfield, was totally destroyed and a few nights ago a canoe was stolen and found swamped two miles from its moorings.

The L. V. R. R. coal storage plant here is now in the middle of its annual spring rush. The work of loading and shipping the coal is going on night and day.

The case of Joel Gorri against Saventina for wages amounting to $16.75 was settled in Judge Smith's court by Saventina paying wages and costs.

Elias Richards has removed from Samptown to this village and is now occupying the house built for Mrs. Hoffman and her daughter.

William Pace, who has been employed for the past two years as driver for TenEyck and Hanis, has removed to a farm beyond Somerville.

Charles Thornton, who recently bought the Galligan hotel, is making extensive repairs on the property.

Mrs. Walter Sisty and her daughter, Alice, have returned from a visit to Asbury Park.

A flock of wild ducks have been seen hovering over the lake for the past week.

Mrs. Nolen is recovering from a severe attack of grip.

HERE AND THERE.

When the Common Council met in adjourned session last night, George B. Wean, city stenographer, was not present, and the motion of Councilman Gloak that William R. Townsend be appointed stenographer pro tem., prevailed. The collector took the position, but Mr. Wean walked in a few minutes later much to the amusement of the members who had planned the joke on the Mayor's secretary. Mr. Townsend was game, however, and he remained at the stenographer's table throughout the session, until Councilman C. C. Randolph moved that his office be vacated. Several times during the evening attempts were made to have Townsend read his notes, but something interferred each time. As he was leaving his position a vote of thanks was extended and Mr. Mygatt moved that the official be given the privilege of the floor next Monday night. After the meeting adjourned all the members adjourned to Timbo's restaurant on North avenue and partook of a repast. It was reported to be a "Dutch treat."

FUTILE EFFORTS MADE. TO RECOVER A WHEEL.

The efforts of the police to locate a wheel stolen from a son of Ernest Hand, of Netherwood avenue, have so far proved unavailing. The wheel disappeared from the side of the Daley millinery store on East Front street last Monday March 16, and it was taken within two minutes after young Hand had dismounted and entered the shop.

Several boys, mostly pupils in the Reform class at the Stillman School, have been in the habit of 'borrowing" wheels of the other pupils in both Stillman and Franklin schools, and riding them around for short periods, then returning them to the yard whence they were taken. But at times the wheels were not brought back because the borrowers were afraid of punishment for having taken them. In such case the wheel was generally abandoned in the street and after being notified the police would recover it.

This wheel of young Hand's though, has got 'em all guessing. Yesterday morning six boys were arraigned before Judge William Runyon in an effort to discover the whereabouts of the missing wheel. But although the boys confessed to riding others' wheels none would confess to having even seen the Hand wheel. Thomas Babbitt, colored, one of those questioned, and who is not in the incorrigible class, declared he had seen William Harrison, a diminutive colored boy, riding a wheel which corresponds in color to the missing one, but Harrison stoutly maintained that the wheel he had borrowed was black and not red as Babbitt claimed.

Several other boys corroborated Harrison as to the color of the wheel he was riding and there the case rested. Judge Runyon got the whole bunch of boys before him and said that if the wheel was not returned to police headquarters by last night someone would have to be punished. But the wheel has not been returned nor found and the case stands just where it was before.

HERE AND THERE.

Boston, the ever progressive, has added to its fame by establishing a unique school and once more takes the lead in educational institutions. The new school is called the School of Matrimony and in it the prime essentials of wedded happiness are now being taught. In this school a group of girls including those from the best Back Bay families are being trained five days in the week to become ideal wives, mothers and homemakers. The instruction is under the direction of some of the Hub's most noted educators and is of a strictly practical character. The matrimonial course includes the following studies which the student must master before she is given a certificate accrediting her for the position of wife: Literature, ethics, child study, household arts, house building, textiles, sewing, handwork and design, music in the home literature for children, chemistry, biology, social economics, hygiene, dental hygiene, home nursing and the care of delinquent children. The assimilation of these studies ought to qualify any woman for the position of Censor in General to the Universe.

Proofs are being found from time to time corroborating some of the historic occurences of Bible times and for years preceding them. The latest discovery along this line is that made by Professor Herman V. Hilprecht, of the University of Pennsylvania, who now offers to the world absolute proof that Abraham was an actual historical personage and that the deluge actually took place. Among some tablets recently unearthed in the land of Ur, from which Abraham came, there is one which after two years of persistent effort has been deciphered and which gives a complete account of the deluge almost identical with the facts related in the Bible. The tablet antedates by more than two hundred years the time that Abraham left Ur to go to the land of Canaan. The tablet was written about two thousand years before Christ and tells how and why the ark was built and its peculiar construction. A complete description of the find with a translation of its written contents will soon be published in the fifth volume of the records of the Babylonian expedition of the University of Pennsylvania.

EARTH'S GREATEST SHOW OPENS ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

Interest in the approaching season of the Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth is manifest. This big circus has always given the public the very greatest novelties obtainable, and nowhere else in the world will you see such an exposition of entertaining wonders and sensational features in one vast enclosure.

There are 400 artists who take part in the big program and most of them are from abroad. 1,000 rare wild beasts will be found in the big zoological collection, and among these will be seen Little Baby Bumbeeno, the tiny nursing giraffe, born at Bridgeport, Conn., January 12, 1910. Great interest will be centered around this little animal as it is the only giraffe that has ever been known to be born in captivity.

This circus program promises to be one of many surprises. All the noted riders, gymnasts, acrobats and novelty performers of the world have been engaged to take part and these, with an army of 50 clowns, promise to provide an excellent exhibition. Besides Jupiter, the balloon horse, who with a fearless young lady rider mounted upon his back, ascends to the dome of Madison Square Garden in a baloon and descends in a shower of fireworks, a new sensation will be sprung in the appearance of Desperado, a young Frenchman, who leaps from a small platform in the highest point in the big building and alights on his chest upon a small curved skid, placed on the ground 80 feet below. The very simplicity of this act, together with the absence of all mechanical effects, makes it all the more wonderful to know that this young man could live to repeat his daring performance. Desperado has no imitators. No other performer has ever dared to attempt an act as hazardous.

Charley, the first, a chimpanzee with almost human intelligence and who has astounded all Europe with his remarkable performances, will be seen at each exhibition.

Barnum and Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth opens at Madison Square Garden, New York, Thursday night, March 24, and will continue giving performances twice daily for a short season only.

The Island of Regeneration

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, 1909 by W. G. Chapman.)
(Copyright in Great Britain.)

"On my word, by all that I do hold sacred, by my love for you, Kate, I will not speak unless in some way you give me leave."

"So help you God!" said the woman solemnly.

"So help me God!" replied the man with equal gravity.

"And now you must go."

"I have one request to make of you, Kate, before I go," said Langford.

"If I can grant it, you may be assured I will."

"It is very easy. Will you stay in this cave for two hours?"

"I have no watch," said the woman, "but I will guess the time as best I can."

"Then," said the man, "go down to the beach. The yacht will be gone."

"Valentine," said the woman, "you don't mean to stay here on the island?"

"I would stay gladly," returned the other, "if I thought that I were welcome, but I know that cannot be."

"I will wait," said the woman. "Good-bye!"

She extended her hand to him. He seized it in his own trembling grasp and kissed it. He remained a moment with his lips pressed to her hand and she laid her other hand upon his bended head. He heard her lips murmuring words of prayer. He released her hand, stooped lower, laid something at her feet, turned and resolutely marched out into the sunlight.

The woman lifted her hand, the hand he had kissed. It was wet with tears. The man had left her with a breaking heart. She sat down upon the sand to think her thoughts during her two hours wait. Her bare foot touched something metallic. She bent over and picked it up. It was his watch. He had placed it there. The simple kindness, the spontaneous generosity of the little action moved her as had not all his pleas, and she mingled her own tears with his upon her hand.

She looked at the watch after a while and found that more than two hours had elapsed, nearly three. The latter part of the time had fled swiftly in thoughts of him. She was hungry and thirsty, too. It was noon. She went out on the sands. The yacht was nowhere to be seen. She could not have gotten below the horizon. She divined that he had sailed around the island and away in that direction.

There was a pile of boxes and things on the sand above the high water mark. She stepped toward it and opened one of the sea chests. It was filled with books and papers, a strange collection. He had ransacked the yacht for her. Another chest contained provisions with which she had long been unfamiliar. There were toilet articles, pieces of cloth, writing paper, pencils, a heaping profusion of all that he fancied she might need, that might afford solace and companionship to her and alleviate the loneliness of those hours. In her heart she thanked him, and lifting up her hands, she blessed him again. He had made life possible and tolerable to her. She could write, she could read, she could sew. And all this while she could hope and dream.

CHAPTER XXIII.

A Great Purpose.

Late springtime in old Virginia. The climate was not unlike that of the island during the cooler portions of the year, thought the man, standing on the porch of the high-pillared old brick house set upon a hill overlooking the pale green waters of Hampton Roads, which stretched far eastward past Newport News and Old Point Comfort to the blue of the Chesapeake and far beyond that to the deeper blue of the ocean. Back of him a thousand leagues of land and more than a thousand leagues of sea intervened between him and the object of his thoughts. Not for a day, not for an hour, scarcely for a moment even was that island out of his mind. There was pleasure and pain in the recollection of it.

Upon the man's face a stern melancholy had settled. Not the melancholy of ineptitude and indifference, not the melancholy that made him do nothing, unmindful of the large issues of life in which he had been suddenly plunged, not the melancholy that paralyzed his activities, but the melancholy that comes from the presence in the heart of an unplucked sorrow that neither time nor chance nor occupation could uproot; a melancholy that came from the sense of bereavement ever growing more keen and more poignant as the period of bereavement lengthened and which sprang from a consciousness of imperfections and failures for which no after achievement could atone.

It had not been difficult to establish his rights. Whittaker and the chaplain, armed with the depositions, had taken the man across the continent when the ship had been put out of commission at San Francisco, and presented him to his uncle, the Charnock in residence in that great house on the Nansemond shore overlooking that estuary of the James by Hampton Roads. The old man, childless and alone, had welcomed him gladly. The newcomer was of the Charnock blood. It was a strange moment for the islander when they took him into the great drawing-room and showed him the pictures of his father and of his mother. He was the living image of the man, tempered with some of the mother's sweetness. This remarkable likeness—indeed he was not unlike his uncle as well—coupled with the material proofs, the ring, the Bible, the evidence of the ship, together with what was known, removed every lingering doubt from the minds of those most concerned.

The family was reduced to those two, the uncle and the nephew. The old man formally and legally recognized the relationship and offered to transfer the property rightfully his, which since the discovery of coal had increased enormously in value, to the newcomer, but Charnock would have none of it then. He recognized his unfitness to deal with such things. If the older man would retain it, he could give it to him at his death. Meanwhile he could teach and train him how to use it. Bereft of his one guide, his one inspiration in life, he would need wise counsel and careful leading indeed.

The Endorsement of a Great Artist

You have often seen in our advertisements the statement made that the Hardman Piano is endorsed or used by the greatest musical artists of today.

We reiterate that statement. Because these musicians have given their life to the study of their art—the Piano is one of its necessities and they must have the best for they cannot do their best work with any other instrument. That the majority speak so highly of the is most significant.

Mme. Tetrazzini used the Hardman Piano exclusively on her recent concert tour.

Whenever they have free choice the great artists use the Hardman, showing most conclusively what they think of it.

The technical details of piano construction would not interest you. We will not dwell on them. You know this—that there must be many points in which the Hardman surpasses all other pianos, otherwise it would not be "The Artists' Choice."

See and hear the Hardman Grand Pianos at our warerooms. You will be delighted with them.

Terms may be conveniently arranged. The highest possible value allowed on instruments taken in exchange.

PROVISION MADE FOR FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

The adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, was devoted chiefly to a discussion of matters pertaining to the fire department, Councilman Duncan W. Taylor, chairman of the committee, being prepared to put through various contracts and agreements.

The question of the city making an agreement with Allen B. Laing to take entire charge of the fire alarm system caused considerable discussion. It was not perfectly clear to Mr. Mygatt that the contract submitted covered the ground, he having the impression that the city would be obliged to bear the expense for all materials furnished in addition to paying the cost of services and maintenance.

Mr. Taylor explained that the intent of the contract was that Mr. Laing is to maintain the entire system as at present but if a any time it is necessary to purchase new wiring, boxes or other material, the city must pay for it. Mr. Laing agrees to do the work for the sum of $1.400 a year. Mr. Taylor said that this contract was suggested because the New York Telephone Company which had charge of the work charging $670 a year, plus $25 extra for the care of the auxiliary system at the hospital, notified the committee that it would charge an additional $60 a month in the future. Then a contract was drawn up in which Mr. Laing agreed to do the work for $1,400 a year. After much discussion the contract was approved. Although Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh drew up the contract Mr. Montgomery got it into his head that it was somewhat ambiguous, expressing his idea that it could be made more simple and plain. He alone voted against accepting the contract.

Mr. Taylor also offered a contract drawn up by Corporation Counsel Marsh between the city and the Spicer Manufacturing Company, relative to the installation and maintenance of the fire alarm whistle at the company's plant. Mr. Marsh had informed the committee that it was the best contract he was able to make, and Mr. Taylor recommended its acceptance.

This was done, but not until there was considerable discussion. Mr. Mygatt wanted to know if the city would have to pay the company for services from the time the contract was signed, when the whistle might not be ready for service. Mr. Taylor said that the company would doubtless insist on the contract being signed before work was started erecting a tower, etc., but he thought it might be arranged to start payments from the time the whistle is put in commission.

Mr. Mygatt thought the contract should be more explicit on this point; also as to the exact location of the tower. Mr. Taylor then explained that Mr. Spicer had been very generous in his proposal, agreeing to maintain the whistle at a cost of $515 a year, which represents about the exact cost for the work. If it was found next year that the work could be done for $200, he said Mr. Spicer would make that charge, while if it was found that it would cost $600 to maintain the whistle the price would be raised. When the vote was taken on accepting the contract, Mr. Mygatt alone voted in the negative.

Mr. Taylor moved that a contract be made with the W. T. Kirk Iron Company for the erection of an iron tower for the whistle, at the price of $194 quoted by the company. This went through without any objection. It is expected that the tower will be put up in about two weeks.

Several resolutions were offered by Mr. Taylor and adopted. One authorized the New York Telephone Company to repair the fire-box at the Irving School at an expense of $1.89. Another resolution informed the Council that the entire fire equipment as installed by the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company is now in first-class condition and authorized the committee to sign the certificate of that fact.

Still another resolution authorized the New York Telephone Company to install a fire tapper in the home of J. W. McDonough on East Sixth street, at a cost of $1.50.

WM. R. GEORGE'S ADDRESS

Founder of George Junior Republic Tells Its Interesting Story.

BRANCH FOR FLEMINGTON.

Boys' Self-Government Colony at Freeville Makes Fine Citizens Out of Incorrigible Youngsters.

That the George Jr. Republic will eventually solve the problem of the juvenile delinquent can hardly be doubted. From the little Republic established at Freeville, N. Y., there have gone out into the world men of character, brain and ability, who have made names for themselves as business men, lawyers and scholars of which any university might be proud. This sums up the efficiency of the work by boys with boys in this model resort.

William R. George, the founder of the Junior Republic, interested a good sized audience of men in the Sabbath school room of the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night in the story of the building up of the republic and gave some highly interesting statistics in connection with it. Representatives from all the men's clubs in the city were present and at the end of the story asked questions which showed their real interest in the movement.

Mr. George said that as it was the first time he had had the opportunity of speaking to a Plainfield audience on the subject he would of necessity have to tell a whole lot more than he would ordinarily say about the place he is the father of, but judging from the willingness to know more exhibited by the men present he could have gone on talking until this morning and no one would have begrudged him the time.

Mr. George said that the very simplicity of the scheme as practiced at the republic made it hard to understand. Some people, he said, had an idea that it was like some sort of an institution, but that is an entirely erroneous impression. The republic is a minature of this great republic and as such has its laws, and lawyers, guardians of the peace, jail and other modern as well as ancient systems of government and the boys run it and do it well.

The citizens work just as other citizens do and they earn wages in the same way as others. If they don't work they can't eat and if they are vagrants they are put in the jail, where they soon repent of their rashness and go to work. Wages are paid according to the ability shown and the work turned out. The boys have to pay their board and if they fail the boarding house mistress puts them out just as one would do anywhere outside of the republic. Wages are paid in aluminum coin which is exchanged, dollar for dollar, for good United States money when the citizen leaves the republic to make his way in the outer world.

The boys meet the actual conditions of life. They are thrown overboard, so to speak, and the way in which they manage to overcome the obstacles shows their innate mastery over self.

"The tougher they are the better they turn out," said the speaker, "and we want the toughest we can get. That very toughness shows that there is a character underneath the surface which needs but a guiding hand in the right direction to make it shine out as a diamond among pebbles."

Mr. George traced the history of the republic from its inception in 1897 after six years of experimenting with summer colonies of boys and girls, who grew fat and sleek with their vacations with nothing to do. The forming of the republic was the result of a sudden inspiration and no sooner thought of than put in practice. In the summer of 1897 of the 250 boys and girls who spent their time in Freeville at Mr. George's invitation, twenty-five agreed to stay and form the nucleus of the republic, but when the train pulled out on the morning of the return to New York only five actually stayed. In a few days another came straggling up having "beat it" from the city and with these six boys the enterprise was started.

"The first of these boys became the first president of the republic and afterwards went to Cornell University, where he graduated in 1903 with high honors. He is now a lawyer in Syracuse with a large practice and a trustee of the republic. The second one of the six has become a lawyer of high standing in the west. The third is a smart business man in New York city. The fourth is also in business for himself. The fifth boy is in the employ of the Government at Washington and has occupied a position of trust for several years there. The sixth boy, the

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

Plainfield and Morristown to Be More Closely Connected by Macadam Road.

AFTER 12 YEARS AGITATION.

The Road Committee of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders Decides to Make Extensive Improvements.

The road committee of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders made a tour yesterday of the county and inspected the districts where new roads will be built and improvements made this season. In all the board will build fourteen and one-half miles of new roads, the most important thoroughfare being the one that will extend from the Watchung store to Smalleytown, to the Passaic River, connecting with the Morris county macadam road.

The road will be a big benefit to this city and the borough as it will be a connecting link to Morris county and will be a gateway to borough and city to the mountain rural settlements. It will also provide a short cut to Morristown, and under present conditions, it is necessary for travelers to use the road to Springfield and the over mountain route to Morristown, a distance of about twenty-eight miles. The new road will reduce the distance to about thirteen miles from this city to the Morris county metropolis. Agitation for the road was inaugurated twelve years ago.

A four and a half mile macadam road will be constructed from Groendyke Corner, Hillsboro, to Blackwell's Mills, and a one and one-half mile strip of macadam will be laid from Bedminster to Large Cross Roads; improvements will also be made to the road from Millington, to Liberty Corner to Far Hills.

A committee of the Middlesex Board of Freeholders also met with the Somerset county representatives and discussed the proposed extensions of the road running paralell with the Raritan River from South Bound Brook to New Brunswick and the new Franklin Park road.

The Somerset County road committee which will direct the building and improvements to the roads consists of Edward Hoagland, S. C. Everett, Andrew E. Lutkins, Thomas Douglass, Peter Smith and Director Thomas E. Gibson.

TOMMY MUIR TO PERFORM IN HOPE'S MINSTRELS.

The Hope Chapel Minstrels, who will give a three-night performance the latter part of April, participated in an enthusiastic rehearsal last night under the leadership of City Judge William N. Runyon. Benjamin W. Evans has been selected as interlocutor and among the end men will be Tommy Muir, who has starred in amateur minstrelsy in past years.

It will fall to Tommy's lot to sing the topical song which is being written by Judge Runyon. A number of new specialties will be introduced and the performance is expected to eclipse all other shows conducted in the chapel. Tickets will be put on sale in three weeks.

Easter at Mt. Zion Church.

The Easter program at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church will include a song service Friday night, a sunrise prayer-meeting Sunday morning, followed with preaching at 11 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock in the evening by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs. There will be special music by the choir under the direction of A. P. White. There will be a special service of the Sunday-school at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in charge of Rev. E. B. Maynard, superintendent.

Purchased Valuable Cat.

Mrs. Guy E. Thomas, of Dupont street, has purchased of Miss Mygrant, of Fanwood, "Kito," the registered shaded silver Persian cat, sired by Scotland Yet, the wonderful imported blue Persian winner of many prizes. Mother was prize-winning silver Margot, whose father was one of the finest Silvers ever bred. "Kito" has won prizes at Syracuse and Madison Square Garden two seasons and is a fine specimen.

Last Lenten Talk.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Campbell will give the last Lenten talk in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Those who have been regular attendants have greatly enjoyed these weekly talks.

—William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republic, who spoke at the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night, was entertained while in the city by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hubbard, of West Fifth street.

FRANCHISE LAW RAPPED

Civic Society Adopts Resolution Opposing the 20 Year Limit Act.

DETRIMENTAL TO PROGRESS.

P. W. McDonough Raps Statute in Vigorous Talk—Agitation is Started for a Local Real Estate Exchange.

The Plainfield Civic Society at its meeting last night went on record as being in favor of the revival of the old charter of the Plainfield Horse Car Railroad Company, which will permit the building of a line connecting this city with Metuchen, Warrenville, Dunellen, New Market and South Plainfield. A committee will be appointed to push the matter along with other civic organizations at a hearing which will be given the measure in the near future at Trenton.

In agitating for an extension to the charter of the company, Peter W. McDonough, of South Plainfield hurled a broadside into the limited franchise law. Said Mr. McDonough: "Its principle is wrong, it is detrimental to rural communities, and it retards progress. Trolley lines never did an injury to a community and they never will. People are wrong in clamoring against corporations whose aims are to benefit the country."

William Hamilton, of South Plainfield, introduced a resolution, placing the society on record as being opposed to the present twenty-year limit law. It was unanimously adopted.

The water question was also discussed. F. A. Duttenhofer again urged that the people of Plainfield vote to buy or build a plant of their own. He wanted to know what the Common Council is doing in the matter. He was appointed a committee of one to confer with the councilmen and report his findings at the next meeting of the society which will be held on Tuesday night, April 5.

George M. Christian urged that local real estate agents unite and establish a local exchange for the listing of properties for sale or to let. He declared that it would be a big benefit to the city and a source of information to prospective home seekers. He predicted that if the real estate men would agree to work together Plainfield's population would be boosted to the 50,000 mark within five years.

H. G. Meggie, of Fanwood borough, was appointed chairman of a committee on permanent organization.

WORK ON NEW EDIFICE TO BE STARTED SOON

The trustees of St. Joseph's church are engaged in making preparations for the erection of a new stone edifice on the site of the present rectory corner Jackson and Watchung avenues. Father Miller is now receiving bids for the rectory and the building will be sold to the highest bidder and removed to another site.

As a nucleus for a church building fund the trustees now have on hand about $20,000, and after the Lenten season, steps will be taken by the various organizations of the church to increase the sum. It is expected that the corner stone of the new edifice will be laid during the coming summer.

The plan of the congregation to erect a new church, to accommodate the increasing membership, was announced in The Daily Press last fall. It is expected that the new structure will cost between $50,000 and $75,000.

It is planned to convert the present church into a hall when the new edifice is erected the building to be utilized by the various societies of the church.

Dr. C. E. Moldenke to Lecture.

"On the Shores of the Mediterranean," a descriptive talk of a trip along the coast from Spain to Sicily, superbly illustrated, will be given at St. Peter's Lutheran church, on Grove street, Wednesday night, March 30, at 8 o'clock, by Dr. Chas. WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS ACCIDENT?

An accident occurred this morning on West Eighth street in which an automobile owned by the Thompson Automobile Company was damaged to the extent of perhaps two hundred dollars, the blame for which is a difficult matter to place.

Chauncey Lant, a chauffeur for the automobile concern, while driving west on Eighth street was alarmed at the sudden splitting of a falling limb from a tree on that thoroughfare and turned his machine so sharply to avoid being struck that he ran the car into a tree near the curb, breaking the radiator and lamps and otherwise damaging it.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, when apprised of the accident, immediately started to investigate in an attempt to place the blame, but he found the task a difficult one as it appears that no one was actually in charge of the tree trimming at the moment the accident happened. At least it was impossible to attach any blame to the man employed by the city, W. G. Hobson, as far as he could ascertain.

An Italian who claimed to be doing some work for someone else was on the job, as was another man trimming trees for Mrs. George H. Babcock, none of whom could give any adequate opinion as to who was responsible. At the automobile garage this morning Mr. Thompson when seen said that the responsibility probably rested with the man who cut the limb, as there was absolutely no warning given until the machine was almost under the falling limb. The chauffeur, Lant, declared the first intimation he had of the impending fall overhead was when he heard a voice shouting' Why don't you look out where you're going?" The next thing he knew he was up against the tree on the opposite side of the street with a badly damaged machine, but thankful that he was alive.

Take it all aroudn it's a pretty kettle of fish and represents a tangle which will take some unravelling.

HE WISHES TO LEARN WHAT HAPPENED TO SUIT

Gaetano Poggiola, a hurdy-gurdy artist whose home address is Newark, but whose business is that of itinerant music provider, came to this city this morning to find out if possible what had become of a suit he instituted against W. C. Drake, of Morristown, whose automobile, it is alleged, demolished Poggiola's automatic piano on October 7 last.

On that date Mr. Poggiola was on his way east from near the corner of Richmond street on East Front, and it was dark. It was cold and he was hurrying in order to keep up a good circulation. He must have been dreaming of sunny Italy for suddenly his mechanical piano was lying in sections on either side of the road and he was hurled to one side as if propelled by a catapult.

The automobile was occupied by Mr. Drake and his wife and Mrs. G. W. Pierson, all of Morristown. As soon as possible the auto was brought to a stop and an investigation of damages and causes for the accident made. Poggiola had no lamp on the rear of his hurdy-gurdy and the lamps on the automobile were low and at the time Mr. Drake declared that he was going at a low speed.

Anyway, the matter was brought up in the police court on the following morning with the result that Poggiola brought suit to recover the value of his piano. W. V. Nash, Jr. who was retained by Mr. Drake, subsequently offered to settle the case for seventy-five dollars, but the offer was refused by Poggiola's counsel, McDermott & McDermott, of Newark, who demanded at least $250. After this the offer of $75 was withdrawn and today it was learned that John P. Owens had taken up the case for the Italian and will sue for the full amount claimed by Poggiola. The suit came up once before in the District court, but was dismissed because the plaintiff was not represented.

SCOTCH PLAINS' AMBITION

Its Fourth of July Celebration to Put Village on the Map.

READ THIS GREAT PROGRAM!

Toe and Heel Races, Grand Band Concerts and Moreover a Real Fireworks Display Scheduled.

Stop—Look—Listen—On and after July 4, of this year, Scotch Plains will be found on the map—that is if plans that are now under way materialize. The change is to be brought about by an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration, which it is proposed to hold on that date—baseball games, sack races, running heel and toe races, and other games are to be held, the program being divided between the morning and afternoon. Band concerts will be given and the day will wind up with a grand display of fireworks in the evening. Excelsior H. & L. Co. has taken the initiative in the movement, although the celebration will be a town affair and the expenses borne by popular subscription, every one who desires to being given a chance to do their part.

This will be the first celebration the town has had since 1876, when the old "One Horn" cannon, which was a bone of contention among Westfield, Plainfield and Scotch Plains was stolen from the watchful eyes of its Westfield guards and borne triumphantly into town, and all during the night of the 3rd and the day of the 4th its constant boom was heard. The town at that time presented a picture of the time of 1776. Every resident did guard that night and patrolled the streets of the town awaiting the onslaught of the evening from Westfield. Feeling ran high and had a determined effort been made to capture the old relic the 'Plains would have been the scene of a bloody battle.

All this changed after the centennial celebration. Westfield was allowed to regain the trophy, only to lose it later to Plainfield. Scotch Plains returned from the struggle and its Fourth of July since that memorable date have been very quiet affairs. The younger generation, however, have determined to revive the old custom of celebrating the day and with this end in view, the question was brought up at the meeting of Excelsior H. & L. Co. Monday night and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and report at the April meeting of the company. Considerable money has already been pledged and from present indications Scotch Plains will again take her place in history, and regain her lost prestige.

PARENTS HEAR TIMELY ADVICE ON CHILDREN

William D. Murray, a New York lawyer, who is superintendent of the primary department of the Crescent Avenue Sunday-school, and who is a student on the children's problem delivered an interesting talk on "Our Boys and Girls" before the Parent-Teachers Association at the Franklin school last night. More than one hundred persons were present.

Mr. Murray said in his remarks that the period of adolesence is between twelve and eighteen years among children. He urged fathers and mothers to make friends with their boys and girls and to inquire into the companionships with other children.

When boys arrive at this stage in life said Mr. Murray, they go around in "gangs." A boy's father and mother has a right, and should see to it, that their boys keep good company, and steer clear of bad associations.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees, of Madison avenue, president of the association. All other business was suspended and the entire time was given over to the lecturer. The same talk was delivered by him two weeks ago at the Crescent Avenue church, and the discourse proved so helpful to the parents who had heard it, that the association prevailed on the speaker to repeat.

Sesame Club Meeting.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. S. R. Voorhees, 602 Madison avenue.

TALKED ON TEMPERANCE

Mrs. Cora Seabury, W. C. T. U. National Lecturer, Makes an Address.

"WHAT IS MAN," THE TOPIC.

Musical Program a Feature of Meeting at Which Mrs. T. H. Tomlison Presides—The Proceedings.

Mrs. Cora Seabury, of New York, national lecturer for the Women's Christian Temperance Union, addressed a small, but appreciative audience at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, last night, on the subject: "What is Man?" The meeting was held under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. and Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president, presided.

There was special music, Martin A. Korff playing several violin selections; also a duet with Whitney Frazee, cornetist. Mrs. Charles E. Herring presided at the piano. Mrs. L. A. Udell also sang, "Victory," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George W. Saums.

Mrs. Seabury is a talented speaker and held the close attention of her audience throughout. She is also an elocutionist of no small ability and during her lecture she gave two appropriate recitations.

In her treatment of her subject, Mrs. Seabury said that when she recalls the words of the Scripture that God created man in his own image she thinks how the mighty have fallen, yet she said that all could be God-like, no matter what the features might be.

"Can you imagine," said the speaker, "God walking on this earth eating like a glutton, drinking, smoking a pipe and spitting tobacco juice right and left? Men generally concede that the soul belongs to God, and I am convinced that the body does, too.

"We know about cause and effect and know that if one contaminates the body the faculities are injured. Ruskin, who was not a temperance fanatic, speaks of physical morality. Whenever I hear of a couple getting married I think of the awful responsibility devolving on them as the fathers and mothers of the children of the future. If a child should be entitled to anything it should be vouchsafed a clean, wholesome body. In many cases the father sows his wild oats and his children reap the harvest."

Mrs. Seabury then spoke of three important things in direct line with her subject, as great gifts of God; Conscience, will power and responsibility. As to the first she said that love of God and love of neighbors is all important and urged that conscience be dominated by commonsense. As to will power, she said that this overcomes all difficulties and that will power has brought everything under subjection, even to the elements of the air. Edison is called the wizard of electricity, yet his work would amount to nothing without the people in this country. The speaker declared that the whole human family is inter-dependent. God has given man dominion over all and as man ascends in the scale mentally, God increases his power.

In conclusion Mrs. Seabury gave numerous illustrations of the value of her work among the poor of the great cities and in the country districts where she has traveled so extensively, and did not fail to show that the rum traffic is the worst evil known to mankind.

WALK OUT AT SILK MILL

The Employees' Demand for Higher Wages is Refused by Concern.

AND A STRIKE FOLLOWS.

Fifty-five Quit Work and the Plant Is Closed Down—No Disturbance Seen—The Trade Is Dull Now.

Thirty-five weavers in the employ of the Watchung Silk Company went out on a strike yesterday afternoon following the refusal of the company to grant an increase in wages of one cent a yard. As a result of the action of the weavers the concern closed down its entire plant throwing fifteen other employes out of work. The strikers and those effected are men and girls.

A Daily Press reporter called at the office of the company today, but the official in charge was reticent in giving out information as to the trouble. All he would admit was that a committee of the Weaver's Union demanded the increase yesterday afternoon and that the request was promptly refused. Then followed the walkout of the weavers.

All of the machinery in the mill is at a standstill, and the visit of The Daily Press reporter to the plant disclosed no scenes of excitement that generally accompany labor troubles. None of the striking weavers were seen in the neighborhood of the mill and everything appeared peaceful.

Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, a stockholder in the concern, when approached by a Daily Press reporter, said that the company had a strike on its hands. He also admitted that the weavers applied for an increase in the scale but declared that it was impossible for the company to accede to their demands owing to the slackness of trade in the silk indsutry. He stated that the dull period is due to an over production and the low prices prevailing for material. The company, he said has been operating with a reduced force for some time owing to the dull conditions, and for this reason alone it could not see its way to grant an the increase.

STORES ON PARK AVENUE TO CHANGE LOCATIONS.

Some important changes are to occur on Park avenue among the sores between the Trust Company's building and North avenue between now and April 1. The store now occupied by Arthur DeBrigard will be taken by Arthur H. Osmun, of the Men's Store, while Mr. DeBrigard will move into the Boice-Runyon building.

It is believed that the Public Service Company will occupy the store vacated by Mr. Osmun if proper accomodations can be made in it for the company's needs. W. R. Causebrook, manager for the P. S. C., said this morning that the company required more space and that if satisfactory alterations can be made the company will move a part of their present belongings there which will enable them to serve the public more satisfactorily.

A COCKTAIL TRAY.

Either for the bachelor host or one of your married friends who serves wine nothing is newer or more unusual than a cocktail tray. One can easily be made either by the girl who works in burnt wood or who can do the effective canvas embroidery.

Make the tray about fourteen inches in diameter finished. This allows for an inch rim and a twelve-inch seperate circle. If preferred, the tray can be square, though the rounded ones are more correct.

On the tray itself burn a gay cock with spreading tail and vivid, natural colorings, with burnt background of duller brown tones. The rim is burnt in the same shades as the background and has on it some appropriate motto.

Cover the body of the tray with glass before the rim is put on.

Another way to make such a tray is to have a thin circle of half-inch wood covered with canvas, on which is worked a cock with a solid cross-stitch or darned background of solid color. If the full strands of filo silk instead of cotton are used for the work the effect will be richer.

Cover the canvas with glass and have the rim in the burnt wood with motto or in mahogany moulding two inches wide.

It will probably be necessary to take the tray to a picture framer to be made up.

Women's New Spring Dresses and Millinery in an Assemblage of Fashionable Models

Freshly unpacked cases—received daily—reveal many attractive ideas in Spring apparel, as well as numerous designs in the new Spring hats.

These new arrivals are keeping us as busy as bees placing the goods in their proper departments. Each day's arrivals adds to the attractiveness of our stocks. It has been freely expressed by Plainfield women that if you want to get a real pretty, stylish suit for the least outlay "You Must Go to Teppers."

The models on display in our ladies' ready-to-wear department depict the authoritative designs approved for Spring. They make the suit and costume section one of the most interesting spots in the store.

As interesting as the suit department is the millinery department—new and becoming models find their way from our workrooms to our tastefully arranged Millinery Department.

Beautifully trimmed hats are on display in hundreds upon hundreds of styles and each hat presents some new becoming feature. One model you'll find trimmed with flowers and maline while right along side of it you'll find a smaller shape oddly arranged with feathers and a touch of velvet.

A woman can buy her Easter hat here and feel assured of getting a style positively correct—just as much so as if she had paid three times its cost.

Our preparations for Spring business are wide in scope—and while we have assembled the most complete stock we have gathered in years our prices are a conspicuous example of our moderate, pricing principle. Visit the store today—each day adds some new attractive feature to our superb stock.

NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

SERGEANT FLYNN HAS SOME PENNANT DOPE

Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, Grand Royal Patriarch of The Stovepipe League, after a few exhilarating whiffs from his dope pipe, at the corner of Park avenue and West Front street this morning, handed out two pennant predictions, as follows:

Pittsburg to win the National League flag, and the Chicago White Sox to capture the American League championship. Now it is up to local fans to agree or disagree with the Flynnsonian dope.

"I am dead certain that the Pirates will repeat again this year and that the Cubs will not be in it at the end of the race. I realize that the Cubs is a mighty baseball machine but the best they can do is to fight it out with the Pirates for first place honors.

"As to what team will win the American League championship," continued the detective-sergeant, "I believe that the "Old Roman," Chas. Comiskey, will surprise everybody in the Banjoshsonian circuit. According to reports from the Pacific coast he has a big collection of stars who I believe will show their heels to all other teams."

Switching off the subject, John continued, "What do you think of my namesake, Jack Flynn, who is trying to make first base for the Pirates, with Bud Sharpe, the former Newark firstsacker, who is his chief opponent? I think Flynn is a pippin, and has rings around Sharpe as an all-round player, and will land the job."

"Don't you think the Yankees will bring home the bacon this year?" queried Jack Nicol, who is slated to captain the Elks team this season.

"Frank Farrell," says so," replied the detective-sergeant. "He has been telling the same story for the last five years, but he has failed to make good. I think, however, that Stallings' brigade will surely finish in the first division."

GOLF.

Much to the dismay of the duffers additional traps are constantly making their appearance on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club. They insist that George Low, the genial professional, is responsible for their increased trials and tribulations. Two more pot bunkers were dug last week on the way to the first hole, and they appear on the right side of the fairway between the big bunker and the green. Those sand traps on the right hand side going to the second hole have been made about four feet deep, while the pit guarding the home green has been deepened and widened. Thre is also a new pit on the left of the green, thereby making the approach more difficult than ever.

The appearance of a raft, which now floats on the placid waters of the pond in front of the fourth tee, is hailed with glee. With 50 cent balls of last year now selling for 65 cents, and those that were 65 costing 75 cents, players are not overjoyed at the prospect of lost balls.

Members are delighted with the locker room on the lower floor of the new clubhouse, and it is now thought that the whole building will practically be ready by May 1. The present restaurant will then be given over to Low for use as a shop. The frame building that served as a temporary locker house after the fire has been removed.

With youthful assurance members of the golf team representing the Montclair High School have come out with a challenge to any and all schools, public or private, within a radius of thirty miles. Their proposition is to play home-and-home matches, one over the course of the Montclair Golf Club and the other on links used by their opponents. The Montclair High School team was organized a year ago, with the result that three matches were played with New York teams. Montclair won one, lost one and broke even on the other. The team consists of James Monoz, Harrison Royce, Bert Miller and Walker Beavie.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wellington Opp, of this city, are stopping in Brooklyn for the present.

Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, of Putnam avenue, has returned from a visit with friends at Easton, Pa.

Mrs. John Cory, of this city, has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Angleman, of Jersey City.

Horace Sherwin, of Westervelt avenue, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, shows no sign of improvement.

Earl Pierson, of Bridgeton, son of the late Rev. J. Judson Pierson, and his bride, are on their honeymoon and are visiting Mr. Pierson's aunt, Mrs. F. W. Bailey, of 86 Duer street. The couple was married on Monday.

ON TO BALTIMORE FOR LOCAL BOWLERS

Plainfield is to be represented by two five-men teams in the N. B. A. tourney at Baltimore, which begins on April 9, and will continue until April 30. An enthusiastic meeting of the local pin knights was held at Campbell's alleys last night when final arrangements were made for the trip to the Oriole city. The tourney management has designated Monday and Tuesday, April 26 and 27, as Plainfield's day to compete for honors.

The ten pinners who will represent this city are Kiely, Blatz, Causbrook, Laing, Stout, Campbell, Nash, Matthews, Schaub and Burscher. An Elks' team will be selected from five of the first six named, and the remaining five will be designated as the Plainfield five.

The local bowlers will also engage in the two-man teams and individual competitions. The double combinations will be as follows: Blatz and Stout, who registered a 1172 score and captured $50 in prize money in the Madison Square Garden tourney last year; Kiely and Causbrook, Matthews and Laing, Burscher and Schaub and Nash and Campbell.

In sending two teams to the tourney Plainfield will present a strong front as compared with other cities. Newark, which is a red-hot bowling centre, with 300,000 population, will send only ten teams.

More than 1,000 bowlers will participate in the different events. There will be fully 300 five-man teams, 600 two-man combinations and 1,000 individuals in action.

Local bowling enthusiasts will have an opportunity of seeing what should prove a sharp competition on Friday night, April 1, on Campbell's alleys, when the Elizabeth A. C. quintet, the probable winners of the Athletic League championship, will meet the local Elks team in a special match.

Johnny Campbell is going to make his debut as a match roller on the Tuxedo alleys in Newark on April 4, when he will clash in the opening games of a home-and-home series with William Garrabrant, his former team mate, on the Tuxedo team. Garrabrant will appear on the local alleys on either April 7 or 14.

MOTOR-CYCLE MEET HERE ON APRIL 16

Plainfield has been placed on the motorcycle racing circuit and on Saturday afternoon April 16 a race meet will be conducted at the Plainfield Driving Park. Judging from the interest displayed in the coming meet the new sport is sure to be a go here.

The promoters of the meet are Claude Holgate, automobiling editor of the Newark Evening News, and Joseph H. Gunn, also a member of the sporting staff of that newspaper. The Newark men will be asisted in promoting the meet by A. D. Honeyman, the Plainfield Bicycle club, and other local interests.

The race program is now being arranged. The card will probably consist of six motorcycle contests and two cycle races. In the motocycle contests will be seen all of the Eastern cracks including Walter Goerke, of Brooklyn, the national champion.

The complete program will be in readiness for the newspapers within one week. One of the feature races will be a contest limited to motorcyclists and this event should excite keen rivalry between local speed merchants.

Have You Seen 'The Battle of Gettysburg?'

The great $100,000 painting "The Battle of Gettysburg" which we now have on exhibition on our 5th floor is regarded as the most realistic historical canvas on exhibition in this country. Many thousands of people have viewed it during the past ten days, including hundreds of veterans of the Civil War, many of whom participated in the battle itself, and everyone is enthusiastic in their praise of it. No school boy or girl who has studied American history should miss it and no educator should fail to study it. Mr. James Drummond Ball, the well known Boston lecturer, delivers interesting talks on the "Battle of Gettysburg" at convenient intervals during the morning and afternoon. Visit our 5th floor tomorrow and see this famous canvas. You may never have another opportunity of so doing.

Plainfield, N. J., March 23, 1910.

A FIFTY YEAR FRANCHISE.

The effort being made by local business men and civic bodies to obtain the sanction of the Legislature for the revival of the lapsed horse car charter which was granted many years ago for the purpose of connecting this city with Metuchen is most commendable. The charter in question became void because the promoters failed to interest capital in time to fulfill a provision that work on the road be begun within five years. Conditions then were very different than now.

True, Plainfield did have a place on the map but it occupied no commanding position as a centre of life and trade in this section of the State. Today, it is conceded by its sister municipalities to be a live, progressive and important city; one surrounded by a large number of small communities, the inhabitants of which to a large extent, do their shopping here. Unfortunately, however, Metuchen, though but a few miles distant, is entirely cut off from Plainfield for there is no means of transportation except by carriage and automobile.

Should a trolley service be established between these two places Plainfield would be greatly benefitted. Its stores would receive increased patronage and there would be direct connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad. As such a service would naturally make connections with South Plainfield, it would provide facilities for connecting with the Lehigh Valley Railroad at that point.

Capital can and will be interested and the trolley line will be built provided the Legislature will revive the charter and grant a fifty years' franchise. Only a few days ago a step was taken that would make this possible. The Legislature passed Assemblyman Lee's measure, as the public well knows, permitting trolley connection links to be built with a franchise for fifty years. At that time, Assemblyman Edge, in championing the bill, well said:

"I believe we made a mistake in this State when we passed the so-called limited franchise law. I think that every man here appreciates that twenty years is too short a time to place as a limit on the life of a franchise. The history of this State since that law was passed shows that it was bad legislation. Not a trolley company has been formed in this State since then. It is impossible to secure the capital to invest in a company when the franchise is limited to so short a period of time. We have got to be fair and decent to these public service corporations. * * We know that when men invest in a trolley company they are making a public improvement, but that they are doing it to make money. It is natural and right that they should be protected in their rights. They deserve a fair return."

WM. R. GEORGE'S ADDRESS

one who came in at the last moment is one of the best helpers we have at the republic."

Mr. George told the story of the toughest boy who ever came to the republic. He was a leader of a tough gang on the east side in New York and attempted to kill a policeman. He served two years in Trenton for horse stealing and finally drifted back to New York, and came to see Mr. George. He tackled the job of being a "man" and died a year ago in San Francisco after becoming one of Cornell's most brilliant students and making a name for himself as a civil engineer and bridge builder.

One of the workers in the George Junior Republic is coming to Plainfield within a few weeks to talk up the matter and only awaits the necessary invitations to speak. He will tell of the new republic which is to be established at Flemington Junction in this State, and wants to interest the people of this city in the project.

Branch republics, all of which are connected with what is now the National Association of George Junior Republics, have been established in other parts of the country and are repeating the successes of the Freeville republic.

The present population of the George Junior Republic is about 160, 100 being boys and sixty girls. The girls vote as well as study and work and they earn their board just as the boys do. And they turn out to be just as useful as any other citizens. One beauty of the whole program is that when they leave the republic they have obliterated their pasts and have a whole new life before them which they invariably make the most of.

Religion cuts a large figure in the republic, but none of it is compulsory. Over ninety per cent. of the citizens are regular church members and all religions are represented among the citizens. There are now more than forty buildings occupied in homes, stores and factories. There are scholarships for those too poor to pay their way through college. The rich boy has no more chance nor is shown any favortism more than the poorest. He must work for what he gets.

Mr. George answered many questions relating to the inner working of the republic and left at a late hour. Before the close of the meeting he was elected an honorary member of the Seventh-Day Baptists' Men's club. He was introduced by President John B. Cottrell, and at the end of his lecture was roundly applauded.

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE NOW FOR THE JURY.

The longest and most acrimonious debate of the session, with the exception of last week's struggle over public utilities legislation, occupied the time of the House at Trenton yesterday afternoon when Assemblyman Moore's bill, House 69, an anti-railroad measure, was put through.

The bill in effect says that it shall be for the jury to say whether the evidence shows that a plaintiff in an action for damages for injury used proper precautions at an unguarded railroad crossing.

Court Practise Bills.

There were introduced in the Senate at Trenton yesterday afternoon by Senator Wakelee two bills respecting the taxation of costs in the courts of law in this State which will have the effect of revolutionizing an ancient and cumbersome practise in the courts. The bills were prepared by Charles N. Codding, deputy clerk of the New Jersey Supreme Court, and John A. Hartpence, taxing officer of the Supreme Court, at the direction of Governor Fort, to meet the recommendation in his message to the present Legislature suggesting revising and simplifying the method of taxing costs in vogue in the law courts of this State.

On Committee of Welcome.

Edward R. Finch, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Finch, of Park avenue, has been appointed on the committee from the Republican Club, New York, to arrange for the celebration of the return of Theodore Roosevelt to America. This committee will work in harmony with the committee named by Mayor Gaynor.

Leases Coal Yard.

Richard Parrott, of Newburg, N. Y., has leased the coal yard on South Second street, formerly used by V. W. Nash, Sr., and will conduct the business there after April 1. Mr. Nash disposed of his goods and equipment at auction.

"The Land of Our Lord."

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Land of Our Lord," in the Second Presbyterian church, Friday night. He will use his superb views taken abroad.

—Use Press want ads. They pay.

—Sale of horses on Wednesday, March 30, at A. S. Case's Stables, Three Bridges. See adv. 3 23 2

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell the household furniture at 15 Elm place tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

SENATE'S DEATH BLOW TO LOCAL OPTION BILL

Following a two-hours' discussion, in which Senator Gebhardt led the affirmative side and Senator Prince answered in the negative, Senator Gebhardt's local option bill was defeated in the upper house yesterday afternoon at Trenton by a vote of 14 to 6, Senator Leavitt, of Mercer voting to defeat the bill.

The other senators voting against the bill were Brown, of Monmouth; Fielder, of Hudson; President Frelinghuysen, of Somerset; Hand, of Cape May; Lewis, of Burlington; Mathis, of Ocean; Mills, of Morris; Osborne, of Essex; Price, of Sussex; Silser, of Middlesex; Wakelee, of Bergen, and Wilson, of Atlantic.

The Senators supporting the bill were Ackerman, of Union; Bradley, of Camden; Gaunt, of Gloucester; Gebhardt, of Hunterdon; Minch, of Cumberland, and Plummer, of Salem. Senator Cornish was absent.

Speakers and halls—J. F. Buckle, chairman; August L. Alpers, Joseph Cahill, John W. Clift and George J. Stewart.

Outing—Andrew McCardell, chairman; Edward Baeur, William A. Bembridge, Herbert Buxton, William H. Wright and Henry Waitz.

Gave Herself Away.

"A woman can't keep a secret," declared the Mere Man in an argument with a lady.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the lady. "I've kept my age a secret ever since I was 24."

"Yes," he retorted, "but one of these days you will give it away. In time you will just simply have to tell it."

"Well," she replied, "I think that when a woman has kept a secret for twenty years she comes pretty near knowing how to keep it."

Railroad Appraisement.

Assemblyman William W. Smalley, of Somerset, yesterday introduced a bill in the House to continue the commission created a year ago to appraise the railroad property of the State, including franchises. The bill appropriates $100,000 and provides that the work shall be finished in one year. It vastly increases the power of the commission, permitting the issuance of subpoenas to get testimony and to force the production of papers and records.

Pope Will Receive "T. R."

The arrangements for Col. Theodore Roosevelt's audience with the Pope at Rome were completed yesterday. The audience is fixed for April 5. The arrangements for the reception were made by the vatican authorities on condition that Col. Roosevelt does not lecture before the American Methodist church while in Rome.

Gen. Bell Dying.

Mrs. Stephen L. H. Slocum, wife of Major Slocum, of the Seventh Cavalry, was instantly killed in an automobile crash near Fort Myer today. Major General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the United States army, who was with Mrs. Slocum in the automobile, is dying.

Reversible Cretonnes.

Some of the new cretonnes are reversible. These are especially nice for draperies or curtainings where both sides are seen.

Soft Green Shades.

Garyish greens are to be in demand this spring. Chicory, pistachio and olive are the shades most sought.

Bertram C. Firstbrook, of Liberty street, is convelescing from an illness.

Mrs. Harry C. Runyon has returned from South Branch, where she has been visiting her parents.

Mrs. William J. Firstbrook, of East Front street, will entertain a party of friends at a musicale tonight.

Charles Jacobs, of the Jerry McCauley Missions, New York, will have charge of the prayer-meeting at Grace M. E. church tonight at 8 o'clock.

MR. RANDOLPH TELLS OF PLEASURES ABROAD

Something of the interesting time former Mayor and Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph and their daughter, Miss Blossom Randolph, are having abroad may be gleaned from the instructive letter which Mr. Randolph has kindly sent to this paper at its request. The letter follows:

Tunisia was good to us, and we loved her. The entire North African littoral from Tunis to Oran is, in its present condition of advancement and prosperity, a fine example of French government. Algiers is a Department of France, one of the States of the Republic, so to speak; having her own Representatives in the Congress, or Parliament, at Paris. Tunis is a protectorate, nominally governed by a Bey under Turkish direction, but really controlled by France, and now under active and rapid French development. We motored four hundred miles through Tunisia and traveled by rail half that distance, and found the Arabs apparently content, both in the cities and in the country sides. Somehow, too, they appeared to have more life and useful activity in them than we had observed amongst their brethren in Algeria or in Egypt.

The French respect the Mahommedan religion and on that score no complications arise. Catholics and Protestants fraternize freely also. As a Catholic said to me, "We all worship the same God;" and the numerous Jews belong to the same happy monotheistic family. Devout revivalism, or evangelization might do good in any of the great churches. But there is hardly occasion for the exploitation of additional religious doctrine in North Africa. And this is particularly the case in view of the fact that the Protestant thought it worthily represented there, as it is everywhere, where French civilization prevails, by the evangelical or "Reformed" church.

Time was when, in France, in the middle ages, or just afterward, religious belief and French religious destiny were almost equally balanced between the Waldensian, or Albigensian, type of conviction and tradition, and the tradition handed down through the ages by Rome. It is, in effect, the same type of French protestantism which we have found exemplified in recent years throughout France and her colonies. In Paris, in Marseilles, in Mentone and in Tunis alike you will find the devout congregation the simple, unadorned edifice, the eloquent pastor, the unaffected service with hearty congregational singing. We have heard the like amongst the mountains of Wales. Its sincerity and harmony appeal to the true spirit of worship.

From Tunis to Marseilles we crossed in a tottlish French boat of 2,300 tons burthen—not so big as the General Chanzy (owned by the same line) which went to the bottom of the Mediterranean, with all her passengers save one, a few weeks ago. The first two-thirds of our voyage proved a joy, the last third was as much of a misery as our worst enemy (if we have any) could have wished for us—particularly for the ladies.

Marseilles is a splendid city, full of maritime and manufacturing enterprise. Its population exceeds half a million, and it glories in holding only second place to Paris amongst the cities of France.

We are resting at Nice on the French Riviera. The season is on, and the great hotels are full. We have made the motor drive over the splendid Corniche road to Mentone. We have looked on the thronging thousands that surround the gaming tables at Monte Carlo—but without feeling any temptation to play—and we have witnessed a fine ascent by Monsieur Rougier in his flying machine over the sea.

A DAY OF PLUMES.

It may be that the tariff on artificial flower gave gave an impetus to feathered hats, for surely we see many of them. Plumes are short and long, curled and straight, cut in many devious ways, and often made out of all resemblances to their original habitat. No ostrich would know them. He would be right in repudiating many.

The willow, expensive and perishable, is the kind most sought. In its limpest state it is now called a drenched plume. It is in all colors and sometimes all these colors are on one quill. The dyers do not mind how much work they do this season, and it seems one of their sports to dye each little tendril in a different color.

The result is the iridescent feather that, if it was natural, would make an ostrich an outcast among his kind.

The especial fashion in these iridescent plumes is to dye them in intense blues, greens, purples and blacks all on one spine. These are draped over the length and breadth of the black velvet turban, and they are quite glorious.

The cut ostrich brush is in the class with the bob-tail horse. It is an unnatural treatment of an ostrich feather, but it has attained wide popularity when used on the Cossack and Uhlan turbans. It looks something like a peacock feather with the "eye" cut off.

Another idea is to build up a mongrel affair on the central spine with a quill feather on one side and a wide drooping ostrich on the other.

A Pearl Bandeau.

Seed pearls are ranked among the beautiful ornaments of the winter coiffure. They are incrusted in lines or huge flower-like forms on a band of tulle or gauze, and the whole is a lovely ornament for the swirling lines of hair. The bandeau passes quite around the head low on the forehead, and is fastened under a large pearl cabochon at the right side, where, by the way, the important motif must appear this season.

WINTER SONG.

Sing a song of winter—
Air so crisp and clear!
Sunshine in the distance
And joy bells ringing near!
Snowflakes lightly falling
To warm the buds asleep,
Then a thaw and next a tramp
Through mud that's two feet deep!

Sing a song of winter—
When the frost is white
And the tonsilitis germ
Seeks you day and night!
When the wind is sighing
Sadly through the trees!
"Your furnace isn't working,
And the water pipes will freeze!"

Sing a song of winter—
Sing it anyway;
You've got to have your troubles;
There are debts that life must pay,
So set 'em to a jingle
As you laugh at fate perverse,
Sing a song of winter
And be glad it isn't worse!

AT THE CLUB.

Mr. Sponge—Doctor, what would you give for a sore throat.

Doctor—Nothing. I don't want a sore throat.

A Bachelor's Epitaph.

At threescore winters' end I died,
A cheerless being, sole and sad,
The nuptial knot I never tied—
And wish my father never had.

Catching On.

"Euphorbia," he groaned, "after all these years of devotion on my part are you going to close the door of hope in my face?"

"Yes, Algy," she said; "but I'll open it when you—er—ring."

Algy understood. He brought a solitaire the next time he came.

A Wonder.

When we see a sweet little woman in a street car sitting alongside of a man, wearing a derby hat on the side of his head and a cigar stub clenched between his teeth, we often wonder if she is really proud of her choice of a husband.

Poor Chafing.

"I met her last night and it appeared that she was chafing under restraint."

"What do you suppose was the matter"

"Her husband would not permit her to use more than half a bottle of ale in the rarebit she was making."

Irony.

"You're as hard as nails," said his trainer.

"Well," irritably answered the actor-pugilist, "wouldn't you naturally expect me to be? I wear my claw hammer coat two or three hours every night."

Not an Obstacle.

"But money doesn't always lead to happiness," said the poor young man who had just been handed the frigid mit.

"True," rejoined the fair owner of the cold storage heart, "but it often facilitates the search."

His Belief.

"So you don't think sense can be spanked into a child, eh?"

"I certainly do not."

"Why not?"

"The spanking place is too far from the child's head."

The Foolish Man.

"I see," said the landlady, "that a man in Ohio has got himself into trouble by marrying two women."

"Huh!" growled the bachelor boarder, "just as though one wife couldn't make trouble enough!"

TIME TO GO.

Papa's Voice (from above)—Mary, is that young man here again?

Mary—No, papa; it's all the same call.

Hottentottish.

The board of health of Tennessee
Has forbid kissing! Moses!
When sweethearts meet in Tennessee
Hereafter they'll rub noses.

His Advantage.

"It never pays to be cynical with a dog."

"Why not?"

"For the simple reason that he can make biting retorts."

His Scruples.

"Why do you suppose he got married by a justice of the peace?"

"He probably doesn't believe in church lotteries."

In addition to the formal recognition, the elder man legally adopted the younger and constituted him the heir to his own property which was almost as extensive and as valuable as that which rightly belonged to the nephew. And then these formalities being completed, the lieutenant-commander and the chaplain summoned elsewhere by their duties, bade the two farewell and left them.

Charnock could not have fallen into better hands. Education was his first requirement and he applied himself to it with a fierce energy and a grim determination which presently, from the splendid foundation which had been laid enabled him to progress sufficiently to take his place and hold his own with men and women. It was impossible to keep secret forever the details of such a story as his, especially when it was linked with a name so famous and still remembered as that of Katharine Brenton, and it had been decided by Capt. Ashby and Whittaker and the man himself that such portions of it as would suffice to explain his own presence and her fate should be given to the world. Upon the foundation thus afforded romance builded. Charnock immediately became a marked man. He would have been a marked man in any event from the financial power that he possessed.

His uncle's management had been wise and prudent, he had spent little and had saved much, so that Charnock found himself the possessor of vast riches in the form of available capital.

Among the first things he learned was the power of money. Had he not been steadied by the memory of the woman, he would probably have learned it to his sorrow. As it was, he was almost miserly. He spent little upon himself. His wants were astonishingly few and contact with the world did not develop extravagant ideas. Those were things which he was too old to learn, against which he had been anchored. He was saving what he had and what he could get for some great purpose, a purpose of help, of assistance in which he could commemorate her name, for which future generations should rise up and call her blessed.

He had long talks with his uncle about it. The old man would fain have had his nephew marry and carry on the ancient line. Delicately, tenderly, he broached the subject after a time, but the suggestion met with absolute refusal. Women interested Charnock as men did. Indeed his interest in his kind was intense. The intellectual stimulus of conversations with bright, intelligent people was the most entrancing result of his contact with the world. But none of them touched his heart. That was buried on that gemlike island in the far off sea.

He was a man of unusual force of character, prompt and unyielding decision. His uncle had not lived his long life without being able to estimate men. He recognized very early in the undertaking the futility of argument, and though he tried finesse in the presence of the wittiest, the cleverest, and most beautiful women of Virginia and elsewhere, for the two traveled throughout the United States, welcomed everywhere, his efforts were unavailing. There was more than one woman who would have been glad to accept the man's suit; whom, if he had wooed ever so slightly he could have won, but he was friendly with everyone and in love with none.

At the end of two years society gave him up as confirmed in his isolation and loneliness. He was not the less welcome, but he was no longer a matrimonial possibility, nor was he any more the wonder that he had been. New things engrossed public attention. The world presently took Charnock as he would fain have it take him, as a matter of course.

He did things slowly, not because that was his nature, but from an invincible determination to do things right. He made his plans deliberately and had formulated an enterprise so comprehensive in its scope, so vast in its outlay and with such infinite possibilities of help to the poor, the wretched, the down-trodden classes of society, that when the foreshadowings of it were announced, people stood amazed. An undertaking so great was not within the power even of Charnock. His resources were utterly unequal to it, but he had enough to make a magnificent beginning and by devoting to it the whole revenue of his estate, and the estate itself after he died, gradually the enterprise would be achieved.

There was no necessity for secrecy about it. Indeed with that simplicity and candor so unusual and so unconventional, which touch with the world had never been able to alter, he had spoken of his plans without reserve and he had declared with equal frankness that what he was doing was in memory of the noblest and the truest of women, to whom he owed it that he was a human being and not an animal.

Whittaker, of whose judgment he thought highly and with desert, was called from the naval service to be the executive head of the great undertaking. The spiritual work was to be placed in the hands of the chaplain who had so endeared himself to the promoter and deviser of it all. Charnock realized that these men who had known Katharine Brenton would enter more sympathetically into his views and could be depended upon to carry them out in case anything happened to him. He and his uncle and one or two others of excellent judgment whom he had met, were associated with the two mentioned to carry out all the founder's plans.

Now, this thing was not done in a corner. The news of it was carried over the United States and spread even to foreign lands. The world read it and marveled again. A newspaper carrying an account of it fell under the eye of a lonely man in San Francisco, who had just returned from a long voyage in northern seas. The name "Charnock" caught his eye first; and then Langford saw the name of the woman he loved. He read with avidity, appreciating as none could better do than he from his trained business acumen the scope and yet the feasibility of the undertaking. He had wondered cynically what would be the career of the man in the United States. He knew the value, as did every business man, especially every man with large transportation interests like his, of the Charnock estate. He would have wagered that Charnock would lose his head as ninety-nine men out of a hundred would have done, and that intoxicated by the sudden touch of the material world which was at his feet, he would have gone the usual pace; and he would have won his wager had it not been for the immortal memory of the woman they both loved, he felt bitterly enough

He sat alone in his office in the great building and pondered over the account in the paper. He had been mistaken in the man. He was really worth while. He was worthy of the woman. If he had not sworn an oath, given his word— He hesitated, smiling bitterly. The woman alone could release him. Should he sail down to the island with that paper and tell that story. He had waited too long. The army surgeons of Alaska had told him the brutal truth; that he had but a few months to live and that if he had anything to do before he went out into the beyond, he had better do it quickly. No, he could not go down there and tell her and get released from his promise.

Yet how Charnock would revel in such news as he, and he alone, could give him. He loved the woman and he hated the man. He could not bear to think that the man should have what was denied him. He could not bear to think of the woman he loved in another's arms. And yet he loved the woman. As he pictured Charnock happy, so he pictured Kate sad, fretting out her life on that island as he had fretted out his on the ship. And he could make her happy by a word if he broke his oath and was false to the plighted word he had given her. Should he do it for her sake? Would she forgive him? He would be past forgiveness when she knew.

Which was the stronger, his love for the woman or his hatred for the man? If he spoke at all, it would be for her sake, naught else. Would the man understand that, would she? Whatever happened, he had possessed her; she had been his for brief hours. Did he have the strength now to give her to someone else even though he were dead? Being dead, would he know?

The struggle racked and tore him in his heart. He could come to no decision, at least not then. What he would do later would depend upon circumstances. One thing he could do and that was to go and find the man. Attending to such matters as were most pressing and taking the precaution to make his will, a strange will, at which his attorney ventured to remonstrate unavailingly, at last he started on that journey across the continent in his private car. He left the car at Suffolk, Virginia, and with a motor which had been transported with him he ran up the west side of the inlet until he came to the manor house which a local guide, picked up by the way, pointed out to him.

No. 2

Because the consideration of unexpected and unpleasant occurences is NOT CONDUCIVE TO HAPPINESS is no reason why such subjects should be NEGLECTED.

On the other hand, it is a better plan to take due consideration, ONCE AND FOR ALL, of every possibility of Fate, and INSURING YOURSELF against disastrous results, dismiss from your mind at least ONE CAUSE OF WORRY.

To overlook the duty which is owed to the ones who look to YOU FOR SUPPORT is a policy decidedly "penny-wise and pound-foolish."

P. H. S. GIRLS DEFEAT MORRISTOWN, 24 TO 2

The P. H. S. girls' basketball team defeated the Morristown five at the local gymnasium yesterday afternoon, by a score of 24 to 2. It was a complete walkover for the locals and in many respects it resembled the former game between these teams when Plainfield won by a score of 28 to 1.

Miss Ruth Wean distinguished herself by shotting goals from foul. At the end of the first half the score was 16 to 1. The lineup:

P. H. S.—Forwards, J. Stuart, F. Newall; centre, R. Douglas, R. Wean; guards, H. Woolley, M. Strader.

Morristown—Forwards, E. Alexander, P. Reed; centre, M. Douglas; guards, F. Myers, G. Muchmore, E. Tiger.

Lightning Consumed Steeple Ball.

Newton, March 23.—Edgar Layton, sexton of the First Presbyterian church, discovered Monday that the large copper ball surmounting the weather vane on the church steeple was gone, and as it was in its accustomed place Sunday this was deemed peculiar. Mr. Layton made a search for the sphere without success and then learned that Mrs. George A. Williams, of High street, from her home during the thunder storm late the previous afternoon, had seen the ball falling from its place all on fire, immediately after a sharp flash of lightning. It must have been entirely consumed for a second search revealed no trace of ashes or burnt wood.

Razor Wielder Surrenders Himself.

Elizabeth, March 23.—In a quarrel that took place Monday evening at Broad street and Elizabeth avenue here between some negroes, Richard Ross, age thirty-five, was slashed across the face and throat with a razor by James McLease, another negro, aged forty. After doing the cutting McLease ran two blocks to police headquarters and informed Desk Sergeant Gerstung he had cut a man and wanted to surrender himself. He was held on a charge of atrocious assault and battery. Ross was taken to the hospital by friends. He lost considerable blood and will be disfigured permanently.

Hold-up at Red Bank.

Red Bank, March 23.—Mrs. Joseph Bray, of Mechanic street, was held up Monday night on Mount street at 7 o'clock. She was going to visit friends on Wallace street, and went through Mount street for a short cut. Henry Mills, colored, was arrested last night, charged with the hold-up, and this morning was given a hearing before Recorder Sickles and fined $50. He also was held for the grand jury. He was taken to Freehold on a noon train.

Ashes Ignited Residence.

Branchville, March 23.—Ashes thrown into a box against the residence of W. Irving Thompson, in New street, nearly caused the destruction of the building by fire yesterday. A large hole was burned into the weather boards before Mrs. Thompson discovered the flames and summoned neighbors, who assisted her in extinguishing the blaze. The ashes had been placed there shortly before, and were supposed to be dead.

SHE IS HER FATHER'S OWN LAW PARTNER NOW

Trenton, March 23.—To Miss Elinor Reading Gebhardt, a daughter of Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, belongs the honor and distinction of being the seventh woman to qualify as an attorney-at-law in New Jersey. Miss Gebhardt, who lives with her father at Clinton, took her examinations before the representatives of the Supreme Court three weeks ago, and last week her name was announced among the others who are entitled to a sheepskin and the right to practise in the courts of New Jersey.

Miss Gibhardt is 23 years of age and has been studying law with her father in the latter's office at Clinton for the last three years. She will continue to be associated with her father, who also conducts an office in Jersey City. The particular field of her career as a modern Portia will be Hunterdon county, where she was born and reared.

Miss Gebhardt received her fundamental education by attendance at the public schools in Clinton. She was graduated from the Clinton High School in the class of 1904, capturing the honor of valedictorian. Her determination to enter the field of law was not at first favorably viewed by her father, but the young woman persisted against the frowns from parental sources and the Senator's objection to his daughter's cherished ambition gradually vanished as he observed that she was persevering and possessed apitude for the legal profession. As a matter of fact Mr. Gebhardt has turned over to his daughter much of the work which formerly devolved upon himself in his Clinton office, but which he has been glad to be relieved of under the pressure of politicai activity and official duties as a legislator.

Miss Gebhardt is the only woman who has successfully passed an examination for a license to practise as an attorney-at-law in New Jersey in two years. Miss Alice Dillingham, of Englewood, secured her sheepskin in 1908. Besides the Misses Gebhardt and Dillingham, the other women practising law in New Jersey are Miss Mary Philbrook, of Newark, through whose efforts the Legislature of 1895 passed a law authorizing women to become lawyers, and who was the first to avail herself of the provisions of the statute; Miss Annie Keeler, of Camden, and Mary M. Stele, of Somerville, who qualified in 1897; Miss Mary E. Alward, of Elizabeth, who was admitted in 1898, and Miss Jessie Vanderveer, of Asbury Park, who was admitted in 1902.

The choicest bit of humor at a Councilmanic meeting in many years was when Francis L. Montgomery Monday voted against the approval of a proposed contract between the city and an electrical engineer. Mr. Marsh, as corporation counsel, had drawn the agreement, but in the legal opinion of Mr. Montgomery the contract was "too ambiguous."

SELF-DENIAL WEEK FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

This is Self Denial week for the old and young folks of the Presbyterian church at Dunellen. In his recent sermons, in which he touched on the significance of the Lenten season to his congregation, Rev. Ernest O. Brown suggested that members of his flock regard Passion Week as a period of strict self-denial in view of swelling a special missionary collection which will be taken at the Easter service.

Pastor Brown in advocating the scheme urged all of the young people to make sacrifices in the line of worldly pleasures and unnecessary expenditure of money for amusements during the self-denial period. That his admonitions are being taken seriously by the younger element in the congregation is plainly apparent.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Society are especially active and some practical self-denial examples are being set. For instance, two young women who are employed in this city, instead of riding to and from work on the trolley cars, are walking back and forth this week. This represents a saving of $1.20 which will be dropped into the collection basket at the Easter service. Another young woman who had a five dollar greenback stowed away to purchase a new silk waist for Easter Sunday has given up the idea and will do without the piece of apparel at a huge personal sacrifice. Several other young women who are enthusiastic over the idea have refrained from purchasing new feathers for their Easter bonnets, and scores of school girls have given up the pleasures of chewing gum for the week.

The fellows, too, are not to be outdone by the gentle sex. It is true that none are walking to this city Bound Brook, or to New York to their daily toil, but the major portion of them have "swore off" smoking and "cut out" shows and social engagements that were carded for the week.

Parents and grownup folks are also imbued with the self-denial spirit. This is evident by the scarcity of pie and cake and other delicies at the table.

Dunellen merchants, especially the candy shops, are feeling the "Self-Denial Boycott." One candy shop proprietor said to a Daily Press representative yesterday:

"Biz on a de bum. Kids no buy candy or peanut. All churcha people no eata sweet things this week, and the sports no smoka the cigarette."

EASTER OBSERVANCE IN FRANKLIN SCHOOL.

Eastertide will be observed by appropriate exercises by pupils at the Franklin school tomorrow morning. The program as arranged by Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal, is as follows:

Opening Hymn—"Glad Light;" Scripture reading followed by the Lord's Prayer; hymn, "Crown Him;" song by school, "The Palms;" carol, "Ring Ye Bells," school; carol, "A Song of Triumph;" chorus, "The Lilies," by the little ones; carol, "Ye Lingering Shadows," school; solo and chorus, "Shine Forth;' carol by school, "Dark, Dark the Night;" duet and chorus, "Glory to Risen King," Masters Hafner and Alpaugh; closing chorus, "Seek Not Your King,' school.

King's Daughters Hold a Social.

Under the auspices of Brightside Circle, of The King's Daughters, a dime social was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Jones on Mountain avenue. The evening was spent in playing all sorts of games and having a good time in general. The proceeds from the affair will be used to purchase milk for tubercular patients about the city, several Circles being engaged in a similar work. Those benefited are poor people who cannot afford to buy milk.

To Improve Hotel Property.

Charles Thornton, former proprietor of the New Market Hotel, has taken possession of the hosterly at South Plainfield, which was formerly conducted by Morris Higgins, of that place. Mr. Thornton, who also purchased the building, has planned to make a number of improvements to the building. Ground was broken today for the erection of an addition. Thomas Brennan, of Dunellen, has been awarded the contract to do the work.

YERKES BIBLE CLASS ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

James E. Church resigned as teacher of the Yerkes Bible class of the First Baptist church at the third annual business meeting and banquet held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Church, 243 Somerset street, last night. The past year's work was discussed and reports of both the secretary and treasurer were read and approved.

Mr. Church having recently been elected superintendent of the Sunday-school was compelled to resign as teacher of the class, which he has been so instrumental in building up during its existence. However the class is assured of Mr. Church's continued support and help. These officers were elected:

President, N. J. R. Chandler; vice-president, Arthur N. Ferris; secretary, Winfield Wainwright; treasurer, Charles A. Lee, Jr. A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers after which all present adjourned to the dining-room where the hostess had prepared a sumptuous repast. The remainder of the evening was given up to games, vocal and instrumental music. Honors were awarded as follows: Potato race, Charles A. Lee, Jr., first; Arthur Perrin, booby.

The work of this class is noteworthy to all who are interested in organized classes among young men. When the class was organized there were four members and it has now grown to a membership of nineteen with the prospects of doubling that number this year. These members were present last night:

Arthur N. Ferris, Charles A. Lee, Jr., Gideon Fountain, Winfield Wainwright, Hollis Cubberly, Frank W. Downs, Walter Stine, Arthur Perrin, Ernest Powlison, Russell Bird, Chester Denton, Walter Pierce, Frank Webster and N. J. R. Chandler.

Holy Name Dance.

The Holy Name Society, of St. Joseph's church, has completed arrangements for a dance to be given in Saengerbund Hall on Wednesday night, March 30. O'Connor, a well known New York piper, will assist Paroubek's orchestra in furnishing the music. The committee in charge is Robert McCormick, Thomas Meany, William McCullough, Patrick and Cormack McDonough.

Franklin School's Flowers.

Last fall the children of the older classes in the Franklin School contributed toward a fund, which was expended in bulbs, hyacinths, jonquils, daffodils, etc., These were potted by the children under the direction of Miss Post, one of the teachers. They were tenderly cared for during the winter, and have most royally repaid the caretakers the last month, in the riot of bloom which has delighted every one who has seen them.

Attempted Suicide on Trolley Car.

Long Branch, March 23.—Abbott Paulsen attempted suicide Monday while on a Second avenue trolley car by drinking laudanum. James B. Niles, a sign painter, was with him at the time. Paulsen offered Niles a drink from the vial, telling him it was liquor. Paulsen was hurried to the hospital, where, after emetics had been applied, he was restored to consciousness. Domestic affairs, he said, was the cause of his rash act.

Social and Entertainment.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a social and entertainment in the parlors of the church, this evening. ROSY OUTLOOK FOR P.H.S.

Candidates for City School Nine Display Fast Form in Practice.

"CLIFF" RANDOLPH IS COACH.

Opening Game Will Be Played Here on Saturday, April 2, With Somerville School's Nine.

P. H. S.'s baseball squad is displaying fast form in its daily practise sessions and according to Captain Harry Van Zandt the school will be represented by one of the strongest diamond aggregations in its history. "Cliff" Randolph, the Binghamton twirler, is acting as coach for the school athletes. Captain Van Zandt announced this morning that daily practise sessions will be held at Crescent oval on every morning during the Easter vacation.

A little more than a week and the first game of the season will be played with Somerville High at Crescent oval. The date for this battle is fixed for Saturday, April 2. Because of the closeness of this contest the locals will be up and doing every spare moment during the Easter vacation.

The team is fortunate in having last season's batery, Van Zandt and Lidgate. Lidgate covered first base a part of the time last season but he will be a regular performer behind the bat this year.

While Van Zandt is slated to do the major portion of the twirling there are three other likely candidates who are displaying considerable skill in the twirling art. They are Herbert Terry, Edson Woodhull and Nelson. All three are good flingers and will be seen in the box before the season is over.

Four men are out for the initial sack job, Clyde Doane, Jim Nash and Everett Smith; there are two candidates for shortstop, Gardner Bristol and L. Van Deventer, and Frank Clark and Sidney Karr are fighting it out for third corner.

Competition for the outfield positions is also keen. After these positions are Jack Riffert, Runyon, Doane, Carpenter, Hanrahan and Titsworth.

The local aggregation will be at home in twenty-four contests this season, a much larger number of home games than usual.

COURT ORDERS WOMEN TO LEAVE THE CITY.

Lulu Nichols, Marion Stives and Dorothy Lane, all colored women and all from New Brunswick, were banished from this city this morning by Judge William Runyon on penalty of spending the next sixty days in the county jail. The three women were caught in a raid on Monday night by Detective Sergeant John Flynn and Patrolman Vanderweg.

Mabel Gray, another young colored woman, was given a suspended sentence owing to having been caught in bad company and apparently been more sinned against than sinning. Richard Hooper, a colored man, caught at the same time, was allowed to go. The women will be watched until they get tickets and board the train for New Brunswick.

Was Peddling Without License.

Andrew Shaw, a brush maker from Elizabeth, forgot the formality of taking out a license to peddle his wares in this city, and when he rang the doorbell at the residence of Chief Kiely yesterday noon and offered to sell the chief some of his dust removers the chief became inquisitive and asked for the vendor's license, and as it was not produced the chief politely requested the young man to appear before Judge Runyon this morning at 9 o'clock to explain. He was there on time and was given a suspended sentence on a promise to sell no more goods until a license was procured.

To Speak on Missions.

Fresh from the mission fields of Burma and India, which she visited last year, Miss Edith Gurley, of Boston, will have an interesting story to tell of her impressions of the work and the workers in her address at the anniversary of the Women's Missionary Societies of the First Baptist church on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room. Miss Gurley is an interesting speaker and the subject of her discourse cannot fail to interest all who care for missions.

Sunrise Prayer Meeting.

According to the annual custom, a sunrise prayer meeting will be held Sunday morning at 6:45 o'clock at Trinity Reformed church, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the leader and all Endeavorers are invited.

FIRST BAPTIST FLOCK HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual business meeting of the First Baptist church was held last night, when Frank W. Jones was re-elected a deacon for a term of five years and Mrs. George F. White was elected one of the three women managers from the church on the board of the Baptist Home Society for the Aged at Roseville. She succeeds Miss Mary J. Thickstun, who resigned after serving for many years. The other two members of the board are Mrs. J. A. Chambliss and Miss Laura J. Runyon.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor, presided at the meeting and Oliver B. Leonard, church clerk, filled his position. There were nearly two hundred members present and much interest was shown. The beneficience committee, of which Oliver B. Leonard is treasurer, reported that $2,800 had been received and expended for denominational purposes. This amount is exclusive of the money raised by the missionary societies and Sunday school.

It was decided to increase the board of deacons by two and an election will be held on Wednesday night, May 25. One will fill the vacancy caused by the death of M. Clark Dobbins in October last. Pastor Chambliss announced that on Sunday evening the ordinance of baptism will be administered to twelve candidates, many of whom are from the Sunday school.

RESIGNS AS TEACHER AND WILL RAISE CHICKS

The Board of Education of Berkeley Heights is in need of a schoolteacher in the primary grade to take the place of Miss Agnes M. Burgmiller, who has resigned. The teacher has laid down the textbook and chalk box to enter a new field of labor, that of chicken raising.

Miss Burgmiller, it is understood, will raise chicks on a large scale and will make a specialty of furnishing spring broilers to the New York market. She will act as superintendent of the farm and also be her own sales agent.

Miss Burgmiller has been a teacher in the school for more than a dozen years and many of her former pupils are among the happy parents of that vicinity. Some are grandparents, it is said. A few years ago, during a big snowstorm Miss Burgmiller gained considerable fame by walking through snow drifts to the schoolhouse, lighting the fire, and opening the school, though according to history no pupils reported that day.

BOROUGH OF GARWOOD DEFENDANT IN CIVIL SUIT

Judge Newcorn presiding in the District court this morning took under advisement the case of Joseph Manhattan against the borough of Garwood on a contract for street improvement in that borough. Mr. Manhattan sued for $108, which he claims the borough owes him for the removal of twelve trees at $9 each.

The original contract called for $2,248, which was approved and an allowance of $78 made for excavations under the head of extras. Mr. Manhattan claimed that in addition to these two amounts he was authorized to remove the trees by Paul Britz, chairman of the Street Committee of the borough. This is denied by Mr. Britz. Counsellor Jeremiah A. Kiernan, of Elizabeth, appeared for Garwood and Vincent W. Nash, Jr., for Mr. Manhattan.

Examination in Bankruptcy.

Several witnesses were examined before Referee DeCosta at Newark, yesterday in the bankruptcy case of A. B. Cantor, formerly a grocer of this city. Judge William Newcorn represents Mr. Cantor, and Martin A. Stutsman appeared for Swift & Co., and the Commercial Mills and Elevator. The examination will be continued on Tuesday, April 5. Mr. Cantor has filed his petition to go through bankruptcy, but further action is withheld pending the examination of witnesses.

Pocketbook Snatched.

Miss Gertrude Johnson, twenty-four years old, address not given, was robbed by a pair of tramps on Terrill Road yesterday afternoon at about 2:30. One of the tramps snatched Miss Johnson's pocketbook containing six dollars and ran. She was accompanied by a teacher from a private school. The police were notified and Patrolman Nolan was sent to investigate. He could find no clue which might lead to an arrest.

TEMPLARS' CELEBRATION

Golden Jubilee of New Jersey Masonic Grand Commandery.

THE PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED.

Trinity Commandery to Send a Delegation to the Festivities to Be Held at Trenton on May 9 and 10.

Knights Templar in particular, and the Masonic fraternity in general, in this vicinity are looking forward with interest to the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of New Jersey, which will take place in Trenton on May 9 and 10. As usual the Masonic organizations here, particularly Trinity Commandery, will be largely represented at the festivities.

The program as arranged will last two days and will include a banquet, a session of the Grand Commandery, a parade in which every commandery in the State is expected to participate, and for which practically every band in the State has been engaged, and will conclude with a public installation of the Grand Commandery officers elected at the annual session.

The banquet, which will be presided over by Past Grand Commander I. Layton Register, of Camden, will be served on Monday evening, and will witness the largest gathering of the governing body which has ever taken place in New Jersey.

During the course of the dinner, addresses will be made by a number of guests, including Grand Master Rugg, of Providence, R. I., and J. Clarence Conover, of Freehold, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons in this State; Samuel G. Rudderow, of Camden, Most Excellent Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons, and the Illustrious Grand Master of Royal and Select Masters, the latter being the governing body of Cryptic Masonry in New Jersey; the Grand Commanders of Knights Templar of New York and Pennsylvania.

Others who will make addresses are former Governor Edward C. Stokes, of Olivet Commandery, of Millville; Right Eminent Grand Commander Charles A. Mohn, Mayor of West Hoboken; Very Eminent Charles J. Hazard, of Hightstown, Deputy Grand Commander, and Past Grand Commander I. Layton Register.

The great body of Templars in the State are more directly concerned in the festivities of the second day, when the celebration will take the form of a parade, and active preparation has been in progress in each asylum for several weeks. A bronze medal commemorative of the event is being struck off and will be presented to each participant, and photographs will be taken of the line when in "cross" formation, which consists of forming a solid marching cross of twenty commandries, headed by the massed bands of the State playing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

For this event the merchants and citizens of Trenton will decorate their places of business and dwellings, and all will join in welcoming the visitors.

Palestine Commandery, of Trenton, has accepted an invitation to act as a general reception committee, and has engaged Winkler's Second Regiment Band and what was formerly the field music of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., to act as an escort. They will meet visiting commanderies and conduct them to their quarters.

The Grand Commandery was organized at Burlington, February 14, 1860, by representatives from Hugh de Payne Commandery, of Jersey City; St. Bernard, of Hightstown, and Helena, of Burlington, at which time it was instituted and warranted, previous application having been made to the Grand Encampment for this authority. At this conclave it was decided to hold future meetings in Trenton, since which time that city has been their headquarters.

There are in the State twenty commanderies, numbering in the neighborhood of 6,000 men. Just what proportion of this number will engage in the parade is problematical at the present time, but there will probably be a large number to participate, the great majority of whom will be accompanied by ladies.

Party for Miss Gloak.

Miss Isabelle Gloak, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. William L. Gloak, of East Second street, was given a birthday party at her home, last night, in honor of the sixteenth anniversary of her birthday. There were thirty-five guests. Games and music, followed by refreshments were enjoyed. Miss Gloak received a number of gifts.

Appropriate Exercises are Held in the City and Borough Schools.

TO OBSERVE GOOD FRIDAY.

Vacation Begins Today and Will Last All Next Week—The Easter Program.

Exercises appropriate to Easter were held in the public schools in both city and borough today. As Good Friday is a public holiday in New Jersey, the schools will not be re-opened until Monday, April 4.

The Easter exercises at the City High School were held at noon today. In attendance were a number of graduates who are home from college on their Easter vacations. The exercises opened with a song by the school, "Easter," which was followed by the singing of "Victory," "Fling Wide the Gates" and the "Story of Calvary.' Roy Titsworth was narrator. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, made an address on Easter.

At the Irving School the pupils observed Easter by singing a number of Easter carols this afternoon.

At the Bryant School this morning special Easter exercises were given as follows:

Carol by school, "Dark, Dark the Night;" Scripture reading, Matt 28; carol by school, "Seek Not Your King," "A Song of Triumph Ring," "The Lily's Message;" recitations and song by Martha Williams, Benjamin Doane, Ruth Compton Harold Whitford, Marjorie Searing; song by kindergarten and primary department, "Lilies so Bright," "The Sweetest Flowers;" recitation, "How Did You Know," Helen Scribner; carol by school, "Ye Lingering Shadows;" an Easter exercise, Phoebe Hermann, Florence Huntsman, Helyn Newman, Margaret Stout, Lavina Moran; primary song, "The Flower's Call the Butterflies;" recitation, "An Easter Story," Katharine Schaeffer; carols by school, "Shine Forth," "Ring Ye Bells."

Washington School.

The kindergarten department of the Washington School held an Easter party at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The forty children in this department played games, favors were distributed and ice cream and cake were served. This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Easter exercises consisted of the singing of carols by the children of the upper grades took place. There were no recitations or other features.

Eastertide was observed at the Borough High School this morning by the rendition of Schnecker's Calvary by the pupils. The solo parts were rendered in pleasing style by William Holmes. Another feature of the celebration was an Easter address by the Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. No exercises were conducted in the primary department at Watchung school.

During the year $500 was raised for church and missionary purposes.

GOSSIP OF CONFERENCE

All Three Local Pastors to Be Returned to Their Charges.

AS TO REV. DR. A. C. M'CREA.

He Has Decided Not to Remain at Centenary, Newark—Dr. Cook Here on Sunday, April 3.

Sunday, April 3, will be known as "Conference Sunday" among the Methodist churches of the Newark Conference, the annual session of which will be held in Newark. On that day Rev. Dr. Richard J. Cooke, book editor of the Methodist Book Concern, will preach morning and evening at the First M. E. church for Dr. Anderson.

Dr. Cooke is a man of great ability and was prominently mentioned at the Baltimore conference for the office of bishop. Every book that is published by the Methodist Book Concern must first be passed upon by Dr. Cooke and he has a wide and extensive knowledge of men and affairs as well as religious matters.

As far as it is possible to tell, it is expected that the three local Methodist ministers will be returned to their charges. In each case the congregation has invited the pastor to continue another year, and unless the presiding bishop wills otherwise they will come back.

In connection with the coming session, Plainfielders will be interested to know that Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, now pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, Newark, does not intend to remain in that charge another year, in fact there is a mutual understanding between pastor and people to that effect. It is said, however, that an arrangement has been made that Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead, of Hoboken, who was pastor of Centenary church prior to the appointment of Dr. McCrea, is to be returned to that church a year hence. This may lead to complications as the bishop who will preside at the coming conference will have no jurisdiction a year from now and any arrangements that he might make would not be binding on another bishop yet to be selected for the next conference.

It is stated on the highest authority that Dr. McCrea and his people are united and the latter has no grievance, except over what they consider the arbitrary action of Bishop Neely a year ago in sending Dr. Mead to Hoboken, when it was believed that he would be continued for another year. Plans for Dr. McCrea's future have not been made known.

Easter at Calvary Church.

Easter exercises will be held at the Calvary Baptist church on Sunday, beginning with a consecration service at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night. The subject will be "Christ Rejected." There will be a service at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning, the topic being "The Power That Raised Jesus." Special services will be held by the Sunday school at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, together with a foreign mission rally.

Praises Women's Relief Corps.

Department Commander John Connolly, of the G. A. R., has issued a circular letter in which he commends the Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R., in praiseworthy terms for its excellent work, and the circular augmented by a happy response by Department President Mrs. Anna M. Sparkmaker, of Trenton, has been sent to all the members of the Women's Relief Corps in the State.

Burial of Mrs. Wolff.

The funeral services of Mrs. August Wolff was conducted at the German Reformed church yesterday afternoon. The pastor, Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, was in charge, and he was assisted by the Rev. George Hauser, of Warrenville. Interment was at Scotch Plains, the bearers being Henry Haurand, Thomas Traynor, Frederick Becker, Stephen Schlief and John Wirth.

The Ackerman Commission.

A step that will probably lead to advanced legislation along the line of an employers' liability act was taken in the Sente yesterday at Trenton when Senator Ackerman, of Union, introduced a joint resolution which provides for the appointment of a commission to inquire into a report upon the subject of an employers' liability act.

Borough Court Blotter.

M. Sorensen, arrested last night for disorderly conduct by Marshal Frank Culver, was fined two dollars in the borough court this morning by Recorder Dolliver. Isaac Goldbery, who was arraigned for fighting, will have a hearing tomorrow night.

—Mrs. Orra Eckert, of Monroe avenue, has removed to West Fourth street and Lee place.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS ENJOY ENTERTAINMENT

About a hundred members and friends of the Seventh-Day Baptist church enjoyed an evening of delightful entertainment last night in the Sabbath school room under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work. A program of music, readings and recitations was rendered in which local and New York talent appeared.

Mrs. Violet Truell Johnson, violinist, Miss Mabel Maxson, pianist, and Miss Jessie M. Utter at the organ, opened the entertainment with a trio, which was followed by a reading, "Ethelbert Nevin," by Miss Ruth Maxson. Charles P. Titsworth received an encore for a baritone solo. Mrs. Allan Babcock, elocutionist, of New York, gave as her first selection "The Lost Word" by Van Dyke, and was compelled to respond to several recalls in which Paul Lawrence Dunbar's poems were given with true negro dialect which were heartily applauded.

A piano duet by Mrs. William and Mrs. Frank Hubbard was splendidly received and Mrs. Johnson captured the audience with another exquisitely played number on the violin. The program ended with a glee sung by four women, Mrs. John Cottrell, Mrs. E. F. Champlin, Mrs. F. Langworthy and Mrs. William Hubbard.

Light refreshments were served after the concert and a silver collection taken.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT SCOTCH PLAINS CHURCH

Special meetings are being held at the Scotch Plains Baptist church, this week, and they are being largely attended by the people of that community. Last night there were brief talks by Miss Tapping, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Adjutant Mrs. Jackson, of the Salvation Army, while William Holmes sang a solo.

This evening the topic will be "The Testimony of the Toilers," and there will be talks by L. W. Randolph, James F. Parker and David M. Runyon, of this city, and Miss Conger, of the borough, will sing.

Tomorrow evening the theme will be "The Profession of the Professions," and short addresses will be made by S. S. Swackhamer, and Dr. Herbert E. Baright, of this city, and Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, pastor of the church. There will be soprano solos by Mrs. Elward D. Young.

NO SETTLEMENT OF THE WEAVERS' STRIKE

All is peaceful and serene among the striking weavers of the Watchung Silk Company, who walked out on Tuesday afternoon, as exclusively announced in this paper yesterday. The plant is closed down. This is the dull season in the trade, but the indications are that the striking employes will return to work on Monday morning.

Eugene M. Laing, vice-president of the company, stated to a Daily Press representative, today that the mill will remain closed until Monday, and if at that time, the strikers desire to return to work at the scale offered by the company, they will be free to do so.

Mr. Laing stated also that no effort will be made by the company to obtain help from other cities, as under the present conditions it would not seriously effect the business of the company to suspend business for a month or more. A report was current this morning that weavers from Hoboken would be given the places of the strikers, but the statement made by Mr. Laing nails this rumor. He declared that under no conditions would any efforts be made to fill the positions left vacant by the strikers.

The trouble came about over the action of naming a rate on a special class of goods which was one cent per yard reduction over the rate paid the last time for the same quality of manufacture. The rate effected only this special grade and had no bearing on rates on other material.

The striking operators are mostly of Italian and French nationalities. All work is done by the piece work system and according to officials of the company the individual weekly earnings range from $12 to $17.

—Abrams, West Front street, is offering some rare bargains in men's, women's and children's shoes and oxfords. ***

KROM SUIT NOT DECIDED

STOCKHOLDER WANTS $16,000.

S. Arthur Krom Brought Action to Recover Profits, Salary and Money Loaned the Concern.

Final argument was heard before Judge E. S. Atwater in the Union County Court, yesterday in the case of S. Arthur Krom, of Madison avenue, against the Krom Machine Works to recover $16,000 representing profits, salary and money loaned between 1902-'05, the time that he was associated with the business. Decision was reserved. George W. V. Moy represented the complainant and Frank H. Hall, of New York, the defendants.

George H. Frazer and A. C. Frazer, of Brooklyn, holding fifty-three per cent. of the stock now control the Krom Machine Works. Mr. Krom holds forty-seven per cent. of the stock. The plant was formerly located in this city, the concern leasing a building and property here belonging to Charles Leonard, of Elizabeth, who also has started a suit to recover $18,000 for three years' rent.

The defendants filed an offset for $281, and claimed that the loans specified were outlawed. Taking the figures of the defendants, it is said that they show that $2,100 is due Mr. Krom. The defendants also claimed, it is said, that the concern lost $5,000 during 1905, yet other papers showed, it is said, that a profit account was discovered showing that it made thousands of dollars.

Mr. Krom, who identified himself with the Frazer Brothers in business in 1902, retired in 1905 because he was not satisfied with the way the business was being conducted. The plant, which was removed from this city to Brooklyn in 1907, is valued at about $75,000 by Mr. Krom. The concern originally made a lease with Charles Leonard for the use of his property here for five years at a yearly rental of $5,000. At the end of two years, after Mr. Krom retired, the company removed the plant to Brooklyn, as stated, immediately after paying the month's rent. Mr. Leonard claims that the concern violated the terms of the lease.

SCHOOL NOT A FAVORITE PLACE WITH THESE BOYS.

Two truancy cases occupied a half hour of Judge Runyon's time in the city court this morning. Julius Richards, ten years old, who has a bad reputation, and who is continually the cause of complaint, will likely be sent to some private disciplinary school when arraigned in the juvenile court in Elizabeth, for which Judge Runyon he'd him this morning.

Julius has been in the habit of absenting himself from school and has often been caught panhandling on the streets. The money thus obtained has been used for obtaining admission to a local theatre. He was in the habit of staying out nights and his father, Isaac, has given up hope of reforming the boy.

James Melucco, another twelve-year-old youngster, has taken such a dislike for the pursuit of knowledge that yesterday he decamped and this morning it was learned that he had arrived at the home of an aunt in West Hoboken. He will be brought back today and will have to appear before Judge Runyon on Saturday morning. This boy also has a record of truancy which is hard to beat, but correctional measures will be applied in his case in an effort to reform him.

Swedish Church Services.

Lenten services will be held at the Swedish church, this evening, tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8 o'clock, led by the pastor, Rev. Theodore Englund. Easter services will be held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening. The pastor will preach at the morning service and there will be special music. The young people will have charge of the afternoon service and the evening service will be largely musical.

Direct Primary Bill.

A good-sized political sensation was caused yesterday afternoon in the Senate at Trenton by the discovery of the fact that Senator Gebhardt's bills extending the direct primary system to the nomination of candidates for Governor and members of the House of Representatives, had been reported by the Senate Committee on Elections, of which Mr. Bradley, of Camden, is chairman.

Women's New Spring Dresses and Millinery in an Assemblage of Fashionable Models

Freshly unpacked cases—received daily—reveal many attractive ideas in Spring apparel, as well as numerous designs in the new Spring hats.

These new arrivals are keeping us as busy as bees placing the goods in their proper departments. Each day's arrivals adds to the attractiveness of our stocks. It has been freely expressed by Plainfield women that if you want to get a real pretty, stylish suit for the least outlay "You Must Go to Teppers."

The models on display in our ladies' ready-to-wear department depict the authoritative designs approved for Spring. They make the suit and costume section one of the most interesting spots in the store.

As interesting as the suit department is the millinery department—new and becoming models find their way from our workrooms to our tastefully arranged Millinery Department.

Beautifully trimmed hats are on display in hundreds upon hundreds of styles and each hat presents some new becoming feature. One model you'll find trimmed with flowers and maline while right along side of it you'll find a smaller shape oddly arranged with feathers and a touch of velvet.

A woman can buy her Easter hat here and feel assured of getting a style positively correct—just as much so as if she had paid three times its cost.

Our preparations for Spring business are wide in scope—and while we have assembled the most complete stock we have gathered in years our prices are a conspicuous example of our moderate, pricing principle. Visit the store today—each day adds some new attractive feature to our superb stock.

LOCAL TEAM TO PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

When Managers Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., and Dorflinger, of the Plainfield nines, get together a series of five games will be arranged to determine the local championship. Mr. Listman yesterday expressed his willingness to arrange a five-game schedule and it is the general opinion that Mr. Dorflinger will see it in the same way. Such a series is sure to provoke unusual interest and be a money-maker for both clubs. It has been demonstrated in past seasons that rivalry is wanted in this city and the projected series is bound to meet with popular support as both clubs have large followings.

The season's lid will be shot off in New Brunswick on Saturday. April 9, when the Middlesex county aggregation will have the Springfield (Connecticut League) team as its opponents. The Brunswick magnates plan to inaugurate the season with a brass band hurrah.

There is no reason why "Smiling Jimmy" Montross should not land a job with some of the classy combinations in the State. If the record made by him last year is any criterion, the "Smiler" is as good as he ever was. Should Jimmy make a rule to restrict himself to pitching one game a week, and not overtax his strength, he is sure to blossom out as an effective twirler again.

Thomas Haley, the young Detroit bowler, who made the new individual record in the recent A. B. C. tourney, is now the big man in the American game of tenpins. Practically unknown outside of his home city, he jumped into countrywide fame on the final day of the tournament by putting up a total of 705 pins in the individual competition. It smashed all existing records on the alleys, and it was the first time that any bowler in the national tourneys ever went over 700 in three games of an individual competition. The best previous mark was 699, made by Archie Wengler, of Chicago, at Cincinnati, in 1908. Haley's scores were 236, 268 and 201, and they brought him home $325 for his effort. Haley's great shooting was by no means a freakish performance. He didn't confine his high-class work to the individual series, but went right through the three divisions of the tournament and put up the highest all-around total of the competition. There were more honors for him in this respect, as he was proclaimed the all-around champion. In his five-man series he registered 617, and in the two-man series his work netted him 639. This gave him a grand total of 1,961 pins and a grand average of 217.8.

All the slab artists training with the Highlanders are youngsters. Ten of the most promising candidates for the staff now in training in Athens, Ga., are Walter Manning, Jack Warhop, Jack Quinn, Will Upham, Tom Hughes, Russell Ford and Dick Carroll, righthanders, and Jim Vaughn, Frank Clunn and Jack Frill, southpaws. Russell Ford did splendid work for Jersey City last year, winning half of his games for a team that finished in last place. The Highlanders originally got Ford from the Atlantic Club of the Southern League, and President Farrell sent him over here for another year of minor league experience. Another young twirler in the Highlander uniform is Jack Frill, a Reading, Pa., boy. He began with the East Liverpool Club of the P.-O.-M. League in 1907. Frill's discoverer was Mal Eason, who got Walter Burnham to give him a trial with the Newark team near the fag end of the 1907 campaign. Frill made good from the start. His strong point is control.

Inasmuch as the administrative officers are continuing to take the same stand as they took last year in regard to intercollegiate rowing at Princeton, the crew management has been forced to abandon, for this spring at least, all hope of holding an intercollegiate race on Lake Carnegie. Immediately after the Easter vacation, however, the oarsmen will be called out and put to work on the machines and in the shells. Professor J. D. Spaeth, a former Pennsylvania oarsman, will again be in charge of the work.

The Hot Cross Bun League will get in full swing tomorrow.

In the Princeton football schedule just issued the date for the annual battle between Yale and the Tigers is fixed for November 12 at Princeton.

Jack Martin and Jim Emery are getting in daily licks of practice on Crescent Oval. Cliff Randolph is also getting his wing in trim with light work. All three athletes should have healthy appetites for the farewell banquet which will be tendered to them by the Plainfield baseball association before their departure.

Now that Joe Cannon has struck out, isn't it about time for Jim Martine to make a home run. The "Farmer Orator," 'tis rumored, will put one over the fence in the mayorality game next November.

Ball players bear reputations for never forgetting their stomachs, but if the "Eat no Meat" circular recently sent out by the New York Anti Meat League, is the real dope, there must be a hitch somewhere. The circular states that the Giants, now training in Texas, have signed a pledge to eat no more meat until prices become normal again. Wonder what will become of "Bugs" Raymond who consumes six pounds of steak every day, rainy days included

Fred Tenny is making good as a baseball "journalist" in the capacity of correspondent for the New York Times on the Giants' training trip. "Addie" Joss, the Cleveland pitcher, is another player who has succeeded at the game. During the winter months he is sporting editor of a Toledo paper.

What has become of old Jack Warner the catcher?

GIANT ROOTER.

He will manage Binghamton this year.

They're all getting the fever. Even Billy Townsend and Alec Ayers are hatching plans to organize a city municipal team to play Mayor Smalley's "Stalwarts" on some warm afternoon this season.

Charley Smith, of the Newark News make-up staff, is organizing a printer's nine. He flings a defi at Plainfield typos as follows?

Sporting Editor,
Daily Press, Plainfield:

The Newark Consolidated Typographical baseball team has organized and arranged a schedule for the 1910 season. If Plainfield typos entertain any ambitions for diamond laurels a series of games can be arranged by addressing yours truly,

CHARLES SMITH,
Care Newark Eevening News.

"Wee Willie" Dunn, of the "C. N." brigade, says on the matter, "Take Smitty up on the proposition. I'll get a pair of crackerjacks from New Brunswick to help out, if we can't get a full team here."

A few lines from our old friend, and former "Diamond Studded" Rooter Charles Dixon, from Newark, is interesting dope. Here it is:

"This will be a big year for the sport. The Giants will win the National League pennant hands down and Christy Mathewson will lead the pitchers. Yours merrilly, C. D."

BASEBALL BUG.

Beyond the sleet—across the snows
He did not see the budding rose
That waved its crimson welcome to
An earth of green—a sky of blue—
Nor yet the daffy daffodil,
That crowned the valleys and the hills—
The apple blossoms, pink and white,
That drifted into lanes of light;
He did not hear the blue bird sing
Nor yet the south wind whispering
In murmur through the maple trees
That swayed and slanted to the breeze.
And harbored on each bending limb
The maker of a woodland hymn—
And yet, like every living thing,
He, too, had drawn his dream of spring.

He saw a gent arrayed in blue
Heave bodily into public view,
And in a fog-horn tenor call
To thousands—"Batter up—Play ball!"
He saw a tall guy nod and beck
And then cut one around the neck,
While in a trance the slugger there
Inanely paddled at the air;
He saw the shortstop leave his place
And flag one back of second base
And wing, it swiftly on ahead
To where the dashing runner sped;
He saw, before his flashing eye,
The keen outfielder fenceward fly
And with an effort pull
The drive down with bases full!

He heard once more the rooters call
The ringing clash of bat and ball—
The cry of "Belt it on the snout—
Don't try to bunt there; whale it out!"
The groans and curses—Cheers and jeers
Like music tickled in his ears
The grandstand rocked and roared in strife—
The howling bleachers leaped to life,
As whooping, jeering, shouting, cheering,
Praying, cursing, pleading, fearing,
Stamping, howling, smiling, growling,
Laughing, weeping, snarling, scowling,
Over city, field and glen
The Bugland Chorus rang again,
For he, like every other thing,
Had drawn his dream of golden spring.

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability, nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Graft in Somerset.

It is not at all surprising, neither is it in the least gratifying, that in the midst of reports of graft in San Francisco, Pittsburg, Washington, Albany and other great places, the evidence of similar dishonesty and corruption should be proved up in little Warren Township in the county of Somerset. Two brothers, Joel and Horace Codington, one the treasurer and the other the clerk of the township, were recently convicted of appropriating the township funds for their own use, and have been sentenced to the State prison for eighteen months and one year respectively, at hard labor.

The method of petty graft adopted by the Codington brothers was so simple as to make detection and conviction inevitable. Joel, the treasurer, drew checks payable to Horace the clerk, the latter cashed them at the local bank and put the proceeds in his pocket. The taxpayers suspected what was going on and organized a little society of mild vigilantees, which they called "The Circle on the Square." They traced five checks, aggregating $600 of misappropriated money, went before the grand jury and had the township officers indicted. One pleaded non vult, the other stood trial and was convicted.

The sum embezzled is utterly insignificant compared with the graft of greater places, but it is big in proportion to the amount handled. Warren Township has only 11,832 acres of land, 225 polls and a total net valuation of taxable property of $399,739. It raises $810 State school tax and about $2,700 other taxes. If the treasurer and clerk had embezzled the whole township tax they wouldn't have made themselves wealthy. As it was, they took about twenty per cent. of the money they handled.

There's another feature of the Warren Township petty graft that has its lesson. For forty years, more or less, members of the Codington family have been active and dominating in the town politics. They were the puny bosses of the township. They have either held office themselves or have dictated who should hold them. Undoubtedly most of them were honest and capable, as bosses go, but long contact with the public funds at last led to the all too common results. Even the sturdy countrymen of Warren Township became dishonest and corrupt.—Newark News.

Is the Olwell Bill Killed?

Rev. Dr. Scudder, of Jersey City is righteously indignant over the threatened fate of the Olwell child labor bill. In his address to the people of his congregation Sunday he assumed that the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry, consisting of Senators Plummer, Lewis and Cornish, had decided, under some occult influence, to smother the bill by holding it in committee and never allowing it to come to a vote in the open Senate. In expressing his opinion of this method of preventing humane and righteous legislation, Dr. Scudder voiced the sentiment of a very large proportion of New Jersey's citizens. The bill passed the House with but a single vote in opposition. Last year it was adopted by the House by a large majority. Twice or three times before it was approved by suceeding Assemblies, but each time it went to Plummer or to some one else equally antagonistic, and it was killed. This seems to be the trick, and thus far it has been successfully played this year. Why should any committee fail to report a bill affecting the interests of children, unless the interests of the glass manufacturers are in some way made superior? Why should a bill which the fathers and mothers and all the labor, educational, medical and charitable authorities of the State favor, be prevented from coming to a fair vote in the Senate? What obstructs it, other than the influence of wealthy industrial corporations? It is a capitalistic game which has been played for years and the strangling process is being tried again. Any citizen or organization that can bring influence to bear to induce the Senate committee to release the Olwell child labor bill should exert it at once. There is no time to lose.—Newark News.

Psychological Moment, Jim!

Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, of the Fifth New Jersey district, was one of the forty insurgents who have been making trouble for the Republicans in Washington. His party was good enough for him so long as he could remain at the head of the important Committee on Banking and Currency. Whether he is good enough for his party will be decided by the Republicans of Union, Morris and Warren vounties this year. The pyschological moment for "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine may be drawing nigh.—Trenton Times.

PERSONAL.

H. K. Tetsuka, of Bellview avenue, who has been quite ill at his home, is improving.

William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, is detained at home with a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. L. L. Baker, of the Bristol, has returned from a two weeks' stay at the Manhattan Hotel, Lakewood.

B. A. Hegeman, formerly of the borough, but now of New York city, has been spending a few days in town.

Mrs. Frank Hoffman and her daughter, Miss Doris Hoffman, of Grandview avenue, have returned from Newark, where they spent the past two weeks with relatives.

Dr. Herring a Winner.

Dr. George D. Herring, of 159 Crescent avenue, has been notified by the New York Evening Mail that he is one of the winners of a ten dollar cash prize in the Bocklover's contest conducted by that newspaper.

The Brotherhood of the First M. E. church will meet in Vincent chapel tomorrow night, to plan for a special meeting to be held in April, the date to be announced later.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be special music.

TEACHERS SHOULD HELP CENSUS MEN

In accordance with notices sent out from the Census Department at Washington, State Superintendent Charles J. Baxter, formerly of this city, has issued letters to all the teachers of the State calling their attention to the assistance they may render the census taker and the advisability of instructing the children as to the necessity of such practices every decade by the government officials.

The notice contains instruction as well as requests and lays stress upon the explanation that there is no need of fear that an increased population means increased taxation. Referring to this the instruction read:

"It is, therefore, earnestly hoped that clergymen, priests, physicians, school teachers, employers and other public spirited citizens who come in contact with large numbers of people will co-operate with the Census Bureau by telling persons who are believed to entertain erroneous opinions of the census the real facts, urging them to give full replies to the enumerators. Teachers are particularly requested to speak of the census to the school children, and ask them to tell their parents about it.

"No person should hesitate, neglect or refuse to answer all the enumerator's questions. He only asks those necessary to fill the schedules which are required by law. Nothing that is told him can in any way be used to the detriment or damage of any person, or his family, or his property.

"If any adult person refuses or wilfully neglects to answer an enumerator's questions or if any person wilfully gives answers that are false, he or she can be arrested, carried to court and fined up to $100. Keepers of hotels, apartment houses, boarding or lodging houses, tenements or other buildings in which persons make their homes, must help the enumerator when asked, or they will be liable to arrest and punishment by a fine up to $500."

HERE AND THERE.

"Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall," says the old proverb, and it's true, every word of it. It was shown to be true yesterday. In one of our busy streets the proud and haughty man was humbled in the dust—literally. He was about six feet tall and proportionately built and he was riding a bicycle down East Front street apparently oblivious to anything but his profound contempt for the handle bars of his wheel. There happened to be a little stone, or maybe it was just a pebble, one of those insignificant little things which obtrude themselves upon one's notice suddenly and without warning. The tire of the front wheel of the bicycle maliciously and with the very intention of taking a fall out of the proud man's self-esteem sought out the hiding place of the inoffensive pebble and striking it fairly in the middle swerved and in a jiffy Mr. Proudman was lying in the dirty road wondering why he had been so forgetful. He knows why now.

GOVERNOR FORT SIGNS THE UTILITIES MEASURE

Governor Fort this afternoon signed the Public Utilities bill as passed by both Houses of the Legislature. He took this action after he had received an opinion from Judge Van Syckel, S. W. Riker, Frank H. Sommer and Attorney General Wilson, which held that the proposed law is perfectly constitutional.

Among the reasons assigned by Governor Fort for approving the measure is that the act is on the right direction. He says that the new law does not go os far as he would like it but it is better by far than no such law. He considers it would have been a great mistake for him to veto the bill.

The Democrats led by Senators Silzer and Gebhardt and Assemblyman Osborne have fought against the Governor's approval, claiming that the measure is unconstitutional.

An interesting feature of Easter week in Bayonne will be the annual beefsteak dinner of Bayonne Lodge, No. 434, B. P. O. Elks, in the club house, in West Thirty-fourth street, next Tuesday evening.

STATE SENATE GRINDS OUT MANY NEW LAWS

Trenton, March 24.—Altogether a score of bills were passed by the Senate during Monday afternoon's session which did not begin until almost 5 o'clock, and lasted until nearly 8 o'clock. There were three bills killed on the floor. There was little interruption of the work which was almost entirely of a routine character and evoked little stir. Of the measures passed on favorably, eleven were House bills. The bills defeated originated in the House. They were No. 216, which would increase the fees of coroners; No. 249, which related to masters' fees in foreclosure suits; and No. 225, which would have made it a misdemeanor for an autoist or driver of a vehicle to run away after an accident in which he was concerned. The principal belief of some of the Senators, that it held as guilty all the occupants of a vehicle.

Senator Leavitt got through his bill, No. 232, by which the State may use $30,000 to develop what is to be known as Capitol Park. It will be a continuation along the Delaware River, south of the Capitol, that the city of Trenton is making north of the Capitol. The entire improvement consists of a reclamation of land lying between the "water power" canal and the river. It is understood that other installments will be needed later.

The bill fathered by Senator Prince, providing that no educational institution in the State, organized after the beginning of this year, shall give a degree unless authorized to do so by the State Board of Education, was adopted without opposition.

The other Senate bills passed were as follows:

No. 183, which gives to harbor boards, jurisdiction over streets for a distance of 300 feet back from the water front.

No. 68, repealing the Ocean County oyster act of 1905.

No. 236, amending the borough act so far as it relates to the issuance of bonds.

No. 172, to incorporate the borough of Milford, in Hunterdon county.

No. 181, as amended, by which a county may retain for its own use five per cent. of the five per cent. fee allowed on evry excise license granted by the county courts.

Senate 247, continuing the commission to arrange preliminaries for the construction of a North River bridge.

The House bills passed were as follows:

No. 72, retiring on half pay Civil War veterans who have served twenty-five years as public officials.

No. 222, which will allow trust companies under certain conditions to reduce the amount of their deposits or to withdraw them from the office of the register of the Court of Prerogatives.

No. 130, amending an act to authorize the issuance of bonds for public docks.

No. 113, to create an Excise Commission of four members in Elizabeth.

No. 224, authorizing municipalities to deposit money with banks or trust companies having places of business anywhere in the State.

No. 170, by which the chancellor may increase the salaries of sergeants-at-arms of Chancery chambers from $1,200 to $1,500 a year.

No. 8, allowing two or more townships owning lands jointly to sell them.

No. 315, relative to the annual report of the State geologist.

No. 293, to incorporate the borough of Moonachie, Bergen county.

No. 266, permitting freeholders of a county to appropriate money for a hospital in another county.

No. 33, providing for the payment of jurymen biweekly in second-class counties.

HOW TO LIVE CHEAPLY TOLD BY "UNCLE SAM"

Washington, March 24.—The secretary of agriculture's cook book is out. In it "Uncle Jimmy" Wilson, through his experts, tells the country how to make the poor cuts of meats taste as good as the best, and also how to get just about as much nourishment from them. The experts who prepared the book are C. P. Langworthy, Ph. D., and Caroline L. Hunt, A. B. They have found that the cheaper cuts of beef, such as the brisket, the chuck rib, the flank and the neck, are just about as rich in the substances which build up and repair the important tissues of the body as are the porterhouse and sirloin steaks. For instance, in a chuck rib there is 19 per cent. of protein, as compared with 21.9 in a porterhouse steak.

Also in regard to the flavor of meats, the department's cook book says, there is a general misapprehension of the facts. Most persons believe that the expensive meats are the best flavored, while in reality cuts on the side of the beef often taste better than the higher-priced cuts.

"Owing to the difficulty of mastication," says the book, "this fact frequently is not detected."

The secretary's experts find that there is a good deal of unnecessary waste in the average home in treating the fats that come on high-priced cuts of meat. The loins and ribs of beef, for instance, contain from 20 to 25 per cent. of fat. Instead of being thrown out into the garbage can this, according to Secretary Wilson's cook book, ought to be utilized.

The department gives minute instructions as to the best process for frying out and clarifying fat and for making the drippings savory. "Uncle Jimmy" Wilson's experts are strong on gravy. They think no chance should be overlooked to utilize the gravy. They also recommend greater use of bones. Almost any bones can be used for soup, they say; and especially rib bones, if they have a little meat left on them, can be grilled or roasted into palateable dishes.

"In this connection it may be noted," says the book, "that many of the dishes popular in good hotels are made of portions of meats such as are frequently thrown away in private houses, but which, with proper cooking and seasoning, make attractive dishes and give most acceptable variety to the menu."

One way to economize on your meat bill is to "extend the meat's flavor" over a certain number of other substances that are not meat. For instance, serve the meat with dumplings, pie crusts, or on toasts and biscuits. Your meat taste is satisfied in this way, while really you have eaten only a little of it. Borders of rice, hominy and mashed potatoes on meat dishes also are good for carrying out this delusion.

"By serving some preparation of flour, rice, hominy or other food rich in starch with the meat," says the cook book, "we get a dish which in itself approaches nearer to the balanced ration than meat alone, in which the meat flavor is extended through a large amount of material."

The cook book tells how to make tough meat tender by pounding it or soaking it in vinegar; how to accentuate the flavor of tasteless meats; how to make good milk gravy for salft pork, mock venison out of plain beef and a kitchen bouquet.

The cook book will be furnished free to all who apply to the department.

FISH AND GAME LAWS REVISION IS URGED

Trenton, March 24.—An effort toward an important revision of the fish and game laws, in so far as they particularly refer to duck hunting, was furthered yesterday by the passage in the House of Senate bill 153 by Senator Mathis. The measure amends the fish and game act (revision of 1903) by changing the open season in the south and middle Jersey interior counties for black or mallard duck to between the first day of November to the first day of March, inclusive, and for any other kind of duck, swan or wild water fowl, other than black duck wood duck, geese, brant and shell drakes, this season to be between the first day of November and the fifteenth day of March following, under a penalty of $200 for each offense.

A similar penalty is provided for killing or destroying any duck, other than black duck or other water fowl, except between one hour before sunrise and until sunset. It also makes it unlawful after the fifteenth day of March and until the close of the season on April 10 to carry any decoy on a boat under a similar penalty, and provides for a general closed season for five years from and after the passage of this act for wood duck in any of the counties of this State under a penalty of $20 for each offense.

Other bills to pass yesterday were:

House 337, Mr. Whyte, amends the building and loan act of 1903 by giving loan associations authority to improve lands purchased by them through foreclosure proceedings.

Senate 30, Senator Leavitt, provides for a readjustment in the case of municipalities where valuations have been altered by the county boards of taxation.

Senate 107, Senator Wakelee, incorporating the borough of Walwick in Bergen county.

Senate 136, Senator Brown, gives boards of health supervision over milk and milk products.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Atlantic City Knights Templars will hold their annual ball on the Steel Pier next Monday night.

Real estate transactions recorded in the office of the county clerk indicate early building activity in Atlantic City.

Thomas Williams was arrested at Bridgeton, accused of assaulting the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Laura Bergen, of Othello, Tuesday.

The State Fish and Game Commission has shipped a large number of Hungarian pheasants for liberation at Mays Landing. The birds were imported.

As a result of a midnight quarrel at Lakehurst, Pasquale Parisi is in the Lakewood Hospital, minus his right eye and with seven or eight gashes distributed about his person. Luigi Desantis is in the county jail, wondering whether he will be tried for murder, but Pasquale will probably recover.

The family of Richard Wood, a prosperous farmer a few miles below Woodbury, is having its share of affliction. A twenty-year-old daughter was buried Sunday, now a son, Richard Jr., fourteen years old, is dead, while another daughter is ill from scarlet fever. Mr. Wood has been very sick, and is just able to be about.

When the wheels of a wagon passed over his head it was believed that John Oliver, twenty-six years old, of Haddonfield, had been fatally injured, but at the Homeopathic Hospital, Camden, last night, it was stated that while he sustained lacerations of the forehead and face his condition is not critical. His foot caught in lumber in the wagon and he was dragged some distance.

Waving a salute to his boss from the rear platform of a Riverton trolley car at West Palmyra yesterday morning, William J. Lawler, forty-eight years old, a machinist, of 206 South Fourth street, Camden, lost his balance and fell through the trestle work of a bridge to the ground a distance of about thirty-five feet. He was hurried to Cooper Hospital, Camden, where it was found that no bones had been broken, but Lawler suffered severely from a sprained back and internal injuries. His condition is not serious.

Charges have been preferred against Policeman Hugh Carr, one of the younger members of the Passaic police department, and he was given a hearing in the Mayor's office at the city hall in Passaic last evening. Police Captain Gustav Schmidt reported to Chief Hendry that he had found Policeman Carr asleep in the Passaic Park station of the Erie railroad, and the chief reported the matter to Mayor Spencer. The Mayor conducted the hearing last night. Decision was reserved.

J., March, 1910," (to which map reference is hereby made and the same made a part hereof) said separate sewers or drains to be constructed on said portion of Richmond Street between the above mentioned points, as shown on said map, with the necessary manholes and appurtenances to complete the same, and to be of the dimensions and materials and to be laid along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on said map.

Sec. 2. That the costs and expenses to be incurred under this ordinance shall be paid with money to be raised by taxation (by general tax for street improvements) pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, as other moneys are raised in said city.

was presented, read, and ordered to be considered and acted upon by said Common Council at the regular meeting to be held at the Council Chamber, No. 149-151 North Avenue, in said City of Plainfield, on Monday, the second day of May 1910, at the hour of eight o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same, in writing, or otherwise, as the Common Council may at that time direct; and public notice is hereby given of the intention of said Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in said ordinance to be made; and such persons or corporations as may object thereto are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's Office (No. 151 North Avenue, in said City of Plainfield, N. J.,) at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice, or to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of said ten days; and said Common Council at such meeting to be held on the second day of May, 1910, as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.

By direction of the Common Council.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 27, 1910.

Topic.—Getting ready to live forever.—Eccl. xii, 1-7. (Easter meeting.) Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The immortality of the human soul, the existence or the continuation of the human life beyond the grave, are practically universally accepted truths today. It is foreshadowed in nature, by the numerous forms of life that seem to die, only to put on a newer and fuller life at a future time. The dream of Socrates has practically become an accepted fact of both science and philosophy. There is a yearning in the human heart for continuation of life, and therefore it must be so, else whence this longing hope, this fond desire for immortality. The foreshadowings of nature, the teachings of science and philosophy, the dreams of the human heart, are demonstrated by Christianity. Jesus Christ died. His body lay in the tomb for three days. His soul still lived in paradise. On the third day soul and body were united again and raised from the dead, proving both the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body.

We are therefore to live forever. This life is but the threshold of an eternal life, and here it is to be determined whether we are to live forever in happiness or in woe, depending upon our relation to God through the Lord Jesus Christ. It should not take us long to decide our destination for the future. Only the thoughtless and careless can let the days go by without deciding to live forever in heaven with God than in hell with Satan and his fallen spirits. If we have not decided to live with God forever we should do so this Easter season and get ready to live forever with Him. If we have decided to spend the immortal life with Satan little preparation is necessary. Live a life of unbelief and sin or of indifference and the preparation will be made. But an hour of eternal happiness costs something, and preparation is necessary and should be made. It will well repay us for all our efforts and all our sacrifices.

Getting ready to live forever! What a solemn thought! If we were going to some other place to live than where we live now how earnest we would be in getting ready. Perhaps days, weeks and even months would be needed. It takes time also to prepare for the life that is to be forever. The journey itself is brief, but the preparation may take some time. We should get ready early. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Just as soon as we reach the age of responsibility we should get ready for our future and eternal home. This is quite reasonable, for if we neglect getting ready then evil days may come, in which indifference or sin may take possession of us and persuade us that getting ready is unnecessary, at least for long years. But what folly! We do not set the time when we shall move into our eternal home. Death is certain, but nothing is so uncertain than the time of His coming, and, having made our peace with God and possessing the assurance of our soul's salvation, we should keep ready at all times. Years may pass before we make the journey, trials and tribulations may be met, but we should keep the faith at any cost or sacrifice, for again "no man knoweth the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh." Constant readiness, as in the case of the five wise virgins, is an absolute necessity. The matter of our eternal dwelling place is of too infinite importance to be neglected even for a moment. In that moment we may be called to the life that is never to end and, like the five foolish virgins, find ourselves unprepared and shut out of the kingdom of heaven. Accept Christ as your Saviour, be ever faithful unto Him, and when He calls you will be prepared to enter the heavenly home which He by His death has prepared for you.

China's Great C. E. Convention.

China's great Christian Endeavor convention of 1909 met in Nanking, and the large mat tent erected for the meeting proved inadequate, so admission was by ticket or badge only. Many of the Nanking people had to be turned away, but at the close of the convention a series of revival meetings opened in the tent, and to these all were invited. The structure itself was said to be most suitably and beautifully decorated with Christian Endeavor banners and flags of all nations. The gathering proved that Christian Endeavor is meeting a long felt need in China, the training of leaders. The older missionaries say it has surpassed their greatest expectations and are delighted to see the Chinese men and women creditably taking the lead in these large meetings. Chinese women have never before spoken in any but women's meetings. The earnestness and intensity of purpose which characterized these meetings was said to be wonderful.—Ohio Endeavorer.

Making Ministers.

"One of the results of the Christian Endeavor meetings at Sagamore Beach, Mass., 1909," writes William M. Leach, president of the Progressive Christian Endeavor union, Massachusetts, "is that I am going to study for the ministry." Excellent! In these days, when the bitter cry of the church is the dearth of men entering the ministry, it is pleasing to note that Christian Endeavor is one of the influences that tend to direct the thoughts of men to that field of usefulness.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A Promise Broken.

It was that same late spring morning when John Charnock sat on the porch overlooking the pale waters of Hampton Roads past Newport News and Old Point Comfort and the blue waters of the Chesapeake and the bluer ocean beyond. The motor car was stopped outside the great gate at the end of the long avenue of trees which led to the river road. It could have been driven in, but as he approached the house more nearly with his mind still in a state of indecision, in order further to collect his thoughts and because he was tired from the long ride and because he would not trespass on Charnock more than was absolutely necessary, Langford decided to walk.

Now the sight of a motor car was not unusual and Charnock glanced at it indifferently enough until it stopped at the gate. That was out of the common, for most of those who came to visit him in such fashion turned in the drive and stopped before the long flight of steps that led down from the porch to the terrace and from the terrace to the lower level of the lawn. He did not recognize the tall, slender figure which came slowly up the path by the side of the drive under the great arch of trees. Still as the man drew nearer, he arose and with true Virginia hospitality, a hospitality he had easily learned since it was in his blood, he descended the steps to the terrace and would have descended farther to the roadway but that he suddenly recognized the visitor. He stopped dead still, surprised, amazed. Langford started, hesitated, threw back his head and came resolutely on. He mounted the first flight of steps and as he did so, Channock turned, drew back a little to make way for him and the two men faced each other upon the terrace.

"Great God!" cried the Virginian, at last, "you of all men. What are you doing here?"

His brow was dark, his hands clenched.

"Why not I?" answered Langford coolly, a bitter smile on his lips.

"You say that to me after all that you have done?"

"Man," said the other, "didn't I do everything under heaven that man could do to undo it. She forgave me, can't you?"

"No!" answered Charnock, moving toward him.

"Stop!" cried Langford. "Is your own record so clear? Have you nothing with which to reproach yourself? I ruined her life; yes, I grant it, but you drove her to suicide. Why have I not the right to fault you even as you seem to claim the right to fault me? We have both sinned against that woman, but at least in those final hours I did my best for her. Did you?"

Charnock hesitated. No one had ever spoken to him like that. He had said these things to himself many times, but no one else had ever assumed or presumed to do so, and had anyone but this man ventured upon such words, he would have met with short shrift indeed. But there was so much justice and so much truth in what Langford said that, resentful though he was, hating the man as he did, he could not be blind to it.

"You are right," he admitted at last but with great reluctance. "There is more guilt on my soul than yours, but no other man under heaven should have told me so."

"Nor should I have told it to any other man," returned Langford.

"But that doesn't explain why you come here."

"Why!" exclaimed the other. "I don't really know."

In that instant the tension under which he held himself gave way. He reeled slightly, put his hand to his heart. For the first time Charnock noticed how white he was, how sick and wretched he looked. Although he could not bear to touch the man, there was unconscious appeal in his weakness which the stronger man could not resist. He sprung instantly to his side. He caught him by the arm.

"What's the matter?" he asked almost roughly. "You look ill, weak, suffering."

"It is nothing," answered Langford, struggling manfully to control himself and to fight back the ever tightening pain about his heart. "My time's about up. If I could sit down somewhere—"

"Here," cried Charnock.

He half led, half carried the man, supporting him with his powerful arms, to a seat on the terrace across which the shadow of the house fell in the morning.

"Thank you," said Langford. "Now," he fumbled in his pocket and pulled out a little phial with shaking fingers, "if you will be kind enough to open that and give me one of these," he gasped, "I am hardly up to it."

Quickly, deftly, Charnock took the phial, opened it, placed one of the tablets in the other's hand and waited anxiously. Above on the porch a servant appeared and him Charnock bade bring water, wine, restoratives. Presently Langford recovered himself, the powerful medicine acted, the tearing pain at his heart abated. If left him fearfully weak and broken but his own master.

"Well," he said with cynical bitterness, "you see."

"Yes," answered Charnock gravely, "I see."

"I am going in one of those some day and mighty soon now, and it is because of that that I came to see you. I wanted to talk to you about her."

"No man speaks to me about her."

"But you can't refuse the dying, you know. You can't go away and leave me here. You can't stop me by force. 'When I am weak, I am strong,'" he quoted almost sardonically.

"I shall not leave you," said Charnock. "You are paying for what you did. My God, I could envy you your going. Do you think life is sweet and pleasant to me with the memory of what I did rankling?"

"No, I suppose not," said Langford, "but I didn't really come so much to talk about her as to talk about you."

"I can't conceive that I am a proper subject for your conversation."

He said it firmly but not unkindly. Langford was too pitiable a spectacle for that.

"It's about your project," went on the other. "Will you tell me about it?"

"Haven't you read the papers?"

"Yes, but I want to hear from your own lips what you propose to do. I am a business man accustomed to large affairs. I want to hear with my own ears all about it."

Charnock hesitated. After all, why not. Standing before the other, he outlined all his plans. Rapidly, dramatically, concisely, he builded before the other's eyes the castle of his dreams.

"It is to be for her, a memorial to her, you see, so that her name shall be remembered and prayers and blessings called down upon her head by generations yet unborn."

"It is a practicable scheme," said Langford, "and a great one. Who has it in charge?"

"Men you know," answered Charnock, rapidly naming them.

"They can make it go if anybody can. I congratulate you upon it. It is a great idea. As usual," he laughed bitterly, "you have got ahead of me. While you have been working and living these two years, I have been idling and dying. But I can make some amends at least. You will see presently. Now I must go."

He rose unsteadily to his feet.

"Wait!" said Charnock. "I never thought to do this. I never thought to speak to you again. But you can't go now. You are in no state to travel even in an automobile. You must come to the house until you recover yourself, get a rest over night, let me send for a physician. I don't mean that there can be friendship between us. There is too much in the past that keeps us apart. I have never before been glad that I didn't break you when I held you in my arms upon the could do to undo it. She forgave me, you, I can do it. Maybe by that I can earn some forgiveness myself. We were both fools and you were knave, but you were man at last. I wasn't. Stay here. I won't disturb you."

"By heaven!" said Langford, flushing, "you are man now. No, I won't stay, but I thank you for your offer, and I will pay you for it."

Charnock put up his hand.

"I want no pay."

"Nevertheless, you shall have it," insisted the other. "I will give you a word of advice, although to do it damns me!"

He paused, laid his hand upon his heart again, clenched the clothing about his breast as if he would fain tear it off. He was white once more, the sudden flush had gone, but his lips were set determinedly.

"Listen well to what I tell you," he said slowly. "I break my word to do it. I am false to my oath in what I say. Nevertheless I say it. Go back to the island!"

"What?" cried Charnock.

"Don't you hear me?" asked the man, intense bitterness in his voice. Now that he had made the plunge, he realized more keenly than ever what it meant to him even in the very articles of death to think of Charnock and the woman. "Do I have to say it again?" he went on. "Go back to the island."

His voice rose until he almost cried the five words in Charnock's face. The Virginian stood absolutely appalled. Langford looked at him a moment, laughed bitterly, turned, and went slowly down the steps. More than ever he hated him. In one bound Charnock was by his side.

"You have said too much or too little," he cried, laying his hand upon the other. "What do you mean? Why should I go back to the island? Is she there?"

In his agitation, he even shook the frailer, slighter, feebler form of the man who had just uttered those words.

"Unless," said Langford coolly, "you want me to die on your threshold, you would better take off your hand. The doctors told me that the least physical violence or exertion would be fatal to me."

Releasing him, Charnock spoke again.

"But won't you tell me what you mean? Great God, man, think what your words convey?"

"I will tell you nothing, nothing further. This is my last will and testament to you. Though I die here, I have nothing further to say to you than this: Go back to the island. Damn you!"

SWELL SCORES BY A FEW BUM BOWLERS.

Before golf gets fairly under way again at the Scarsdale course a number of changes will be made. It is understood that the much criticised bunker guarding the sixteenth green will be entirely altered. Not a few of the trees on the right of the fairway going to this hole have already been removed, thereby making the approach less trying. The course is temporarily closed.

Jimmy Douglas, for the last eight years professional at the Chevy Chase Club, leaves Washington this week to form new affiliations with the Philmont Country Club, near Philadelphia. Douglas will succeed John Reed.

The course of the Country Club of Atlantic City is about a month ahead of last year, and as a result promises to be at its best for the annual spring open tournament, April 28, 29 and 30. It covers a playing length of a trifle more than six thousand yards.

Substitute for Gold.

In France a substitute for gold has been afforded by combining 94 parts of copper and six parts of antimony and adding a little magnesium carbonate to increase the weight. It is said that this alloy can be drawn, wrought and soldered much like true gold, and that it also receives and retains a golden polish. It is worth about 25 cents a pound.

Book Farming Pays.

The old-time farmers used to laugh at the book farmer, he who studied the earth and the products thereof scientifically, but here is a professor leaving an agricultural college with a salary of $4,000 to take the management of a farm with a salary of $3,000. And he will probably make good, too. There is a lot of farming in books, and the man who is willing to admit it will make the most money out of his farm.

Ways of Cecil Rhodes.

Cecil Rhodes always did things on a big scale. Sometimes his gardener would ask him for two or three dozen rose bushes or fruit trees. Rhodes would impatiently exclaim: "What's the good of two dozen of anything? Count by hundreds and thousands, not by dozens. A thousand is the only way to produce any effect or make any money."

Peculiar Cause of Death.

The coroner at Hackney, England, mentioned to the jury the other day that he had just inquired into a remarkable death. A child of nine weeks was ill, and the parents, thinking it was going to diefl went to a clergyman to baptise it. He poured water over the child's head, and medical evidence indicated that this set up congestion of the lungs, and the child died of pneumonia.

SCHOOLS' SONG FESTIVAL

Elizabeth Will Take Part in Music Tests to Be Held Here in April.

MANY OTHERS ARE TO JOIN.

Newark, New Brunswick, Somerville and Others to Take Part in the Singing Contests in This City.

To arrange for a preliminary festival for the purpose of raising funds for the singing contest between the children of the public schools of this city, Newark, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Somerville and other New Jersey cities and towns to be held here April 28 and 29, Superintendent of Schools Clement, of Elizabeth, has appointed a committee composed of the principals of four of that city's schools.

The following letter, which is self-explanatory, has been sent out to the principals of the different Elizabeth schools by Mr. Clement:

"In order that funds may be secured for the purpose of meeting necessary expenses connected with the musical festival to be held in Plainfield on April 28 and 29 it seems necessary and desirable that we hold a preliminary festival in Elizabeth. I have accordingly appointed Dr. William F. Robinson Joseph A. O'Brien, Miss Sophie M Braun and Miss Isabel J. Cameron as a committee to have general charge of our local festival, working in conjunction with Mr. Wilson, our supervisor of music, and the principals of our schools.

Three Divisions of Festival.

"Our festival will be held in three divisions. (1) A junior section; chorus not to exceed fifty pupils from each of the eleven primary schools and primary departments in our city grammar schools. Each chorus will sing a unison song required and a unison song from a selected list, the music to be supplied by the supervisor. The junior section will sing in the auditorium of School No. 3 on the afternoon of April 14, beginning at 3 o'clock. This will constitute concert No. 1, for which an admission will be charged.

"(2) Grammar section, chorus not to exceed forty voices. Schools 1, 2, 3, 4, 9 and 10 will be represented. Two-part song required; two-part song from selected list, and two-part sight test, music to be supplied by the supervisor.

"Boys' chorus of not more than thirty voices from different grades to sing two-part chorus required; two-part chorus from selected list music to be supplied by supervisor. All schools may be represented. This will constitute concert number two and will be given in the auditorium of Public School No. 3 on the afternoon of April 15, beginning at 3 o'clock. An admission will be charged.

"(3) On the evening of April 15, beginning at 8 o'clock will be given concert number three in an auditorium to be selected. An admission fee will be charged. Any grammar grade may supply a chorus not to exceed fifty voices. To sing a three-part song required; a three-part song from selected list and a three-part sight test, each chorus drawn from one school only.

"A high school chorus of not more than thirty-five voices, to sing selections made by the supervisor. Individual sight singing tests. Open to any pupil from any public school in the city.

"Solos. Open to any pupil from any public school in our city.

"(4) All vocal work must be judged as to tone, diction and interpretation.

To Name Three Judges.

"(5) Three judges to be appointed, two by Mr. Wilson and one by the committee. These judges will determine Elizabeth's representation in the festival to be held at Plainfield, and will award the certificates of excellence to those entitled to them.

"It is the intention of the supervisor to use in our local festival the music to be used later at Plainfield, all other selections to be taken from our school music readers.

"The committee will arrange for having suitable programs printed and for advertising as extensively and as economically as possible, our three local concerts. The committee will also arrange for necessary rehearsals, using as little as possible of the regular school time.

"The committee will also determine the admission fee to be charged for concerts two and three and in general perform such duties as may properly devolve upon such committee.

"The Liederkranz Singing Society has been invited to supply one or two numbers for concert number three on the evening of April 15."

Celebrated Soprano to Sing at Anti-Tuberculosis Society Benefit.

OTHER ARTISTS ARE ENGAGED.

Dr. Carl Dufft, Edward Strong and Hans Kronold Also Booked by Dr. Joseph McIntyre for Concert.

For the purpose of raising funds with which to continue its fight, the Anti-Tuberculosis League, through an arrangement with Josepa McIntyre, will give a concert at the High School auditorium on Tuesday night, April 12. A notable gathering of men and women, socially and philanthropically inclined, will lend their presence towards making this one of the most brilliant of the post-Easter functions.

Through persistent effort and by rare good luck, Mr. McIntyre today concluded arrangements with Mme. Mary Desmond, one of Oscar Hammerstein's highest priced song birds, to appear at this concert. Mme. Desmond, it will be recalled, was first heard in New York at the Manhattan Opera House in Strauss' masterpiece, "Electra," and she shared honors with Mme. Mariette Mazarin, who sang the title role.

Mme. Desmond is an English woman and is regarded as one of the best mezzo sopranos in the world. She is in great demand in French, English and German operatic circles and on several occasions she was "commanded" to apear at Buckingham and Windsor Palaces to sing for King Edward, Queen Alexandra and their Royal suite. Aside from her beautifully cultivated voice she is a stunningly handsome woman and posses a charming personality.

The concert is to consist of old and new ballads, all to be sung in English, and for this reason the function might be termed an "English Ballad Concert." Dr. Carl Dufft, the basso and a prime favorite here, will appear as well as Edward Strong, a New York tenor who is in great demand in musical circles. Hans Kronold, a cellist and an artist of the first calibre, also will appear and Mr. McIntyre will preside at the piano.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace P. E. church, and president of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, said today that the keenest interest is being manifested in the forthcoming concert and that many prominent men and women would lend it their heartiest support. He looks for the "Standing Room Only" sign to be displayed long before the doors of the concert hall open.

The officers and heads of committees follow:

President, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson; first vice-president, Dr. William H. Murray; second vice-president, William Dutcher; secretary, Dr. F. E. DuBois; treasurer, James P. Murray; chairman finance committee, E. F. Feickert; chairman membership committee, Mrs. William H. Murray; chairman house committee, Miss Georgianna Smith; chairman educational committee, Miss M. C. Phillips.

HONORS FOR CLERK...

Miss Ella Boice Guest of Honor at Dinner Party

Mr and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, gave a dinner party at their home last night in honor of Miss Ella Boice, of Dunellen, in recognition of her faithful services for twenty years as clerk in Mr. Woodruff's insurance office. There were twenty-two guests, intimate friends of Miss Boice who was showered with congratulations.

The affair was termed a birthday party by Mrs. Woodruff, and a birthday cake, bearing twenty candles, was the object of much interest in the table decorations. After the dinner the company enjoyed a pleasant evening, sociability and music being features.

MAYOR SMALLEY OBTAINS SOME ENGLISH PHEASANTS

A crate of English pheasants has been received by Mayor Newton B. Smalley after much effort and the birds will be released in the borough after they have become used to their new surroundings. William J. Buttfield will have charge of distributing the birds. With the law against shooting properly enforced in the borough it is likely that this covey of pheasants will increase largely in numbers in the next few years and finally enter the surrounding country where it will be possible to bag some of them during the shooting season.

Mayor Smalley got the consignment of birds from State Fish and Game Warden Harry L. Cook, of Trenton. There is an ordinance in the borough against the use of firearms and now that there are English pheasants about the law will be strictly enforced.

NO WEDDING BELLS FOR THEM SAID 'SQUIRE

Stern justice clogged the wedding bells at Justice Thomas Snape's home in the borough last night.

While the justice was enjoying an after-supper snooze he was awakened from his slumbers by the jingles of his door bell. He responded promptly as possible to the alarm.

The squire was met at the outer door by a "good lookin' feller," accompanied by a pretty young woman, as the justice expressed it. "We want to get married, your honor," was the visitor's opening salutation, and as these words were uttered the latter slipped a sealed envelope in the justice's hand. The latter deposited it in his vest pocket, without inspection, and started to talk business.

"All right," replied Justice Snape, "I can tie the knot and kiss the bride in ten minutes. All that is necessary is for both of you to fill out the necessary papers, and I will go out and get a couple of witnesses."

While the justice was out to procure the witnesses the expectant bridal couple filled out the blanks. "I'll be ready in a few moments children, just as soon as I scrutinize the papers," said Justice Snape as he returned with the witnesses.

Then came a thunder-clap, and the hopes of the couple were dashed to smithereens. "Sorry, can't do it, the young miss is only fourteen years old. I advise both of you to take the first trolley home." The couple left the marriage altar in crestfallen spirits, but the bridegroom elect promised to return in a few days with the necessary consent of the young woman's parents.

The young man gave his name as William Penn Jones, and the young woman, Adelaide Parker, and their home addresses, Elizabeth. Jones put his age as thirty and the young woman registered fourteen, although she looked twenty.

The couple in their departure forgot to claim the sealed envelope. Justice Snape also had forgotten it until this morning. When he opened it he discovered a five dollar bill and a postal card bearing 'Loving Easter Greetings."

MRS. GUILLERMO THORN GOES TO HER REWARD.

Mrs. S. Helena Thorn, wife of Guillermo Thorn, died this morning at her home, 616 East Second street, following an illness of one week with intestinal trouble. She was a great sufferer. Mrs. Thorn was a native of Boston and had been a resident of this city about thirty-five years.

Mrs. Thorn had a large circle of friends, especially in the First M. E. church, of which she was a member for many years. Beside a husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Walter Buchanan, of Newark, and Mrs. Albert Wyckoff, of Elizabeth, also two sons, Clarence Thorn, of the borough, and William Thorn, of this city. The last named is a clerk at the postoffice. The funeral will be held from the late home Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Misuse of Commutation Tickets.

The practice of loaning and hiring Central Railroad commutation and fifty-trip tickets, when discovered last summer, resulted in the issuance by the Court of Chancery, of an injunction restraining this practice. That injunction applies not only to the defendants in the suit instituted by the railroad company, but to all persons in the State of New Jersey engaging in such practice. The Central Railroad has given notice that all persons violating this injunction will be proceeded against according to law. ***

DISCUSS 'M. O.' ELECTION

Civic Societies Confer with the Councilmanic Public Affairs Committee.

COURTING FULL PUBLICITY.

Anxious to Have the Public Understand the Purpose of the Special Lecturer for Tuesday, April 19.

Upon the invitation of the Councilmanic committee on public affairs, representatives of the Plainfield Protective Association, the Civic Society and the Board of Trade attended a conference at the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, last night, for the purpose of discussing matters relative to the coming water election on April 19.

The Plainfield Protective Association was represented by R. Henry Depew, George W. V. Moy, Henry C. Deknatel, Thomas M. Day, and D. N. VanVliet, while F. A. Duttenhofer and George M. Christian represented the Board of Trade. The councilmen present included President R. I. Tolles, F. E. Mygatt, Herbert Buxton, F. L. Holt, George S. Clay, Duncan W. Taylor, William L. Gloak and Charles C. Randolph.

The chief purpose of the meeting is the desire of the public affairs committee to enlighten the citizens regarding the objects of the coming election on the water question so that an intelligent vote may be obtained. The committee wants to secure the power to investigate to determine whether it is advisable to condemn the present water plant, build a new plant or not disturb the present agreement and renew the contract with the water company.

The committee, they say, believes that if this is done, it wil place the city in a position where it will not be compelled to make a contract with the water company at practically the latter's own terms, and for this reason the committee seeks the co-operation of all civic bodies in the city so that the greatest publicity possible may be given prior to the election on April 19.

The representatives of the Plainfield Protective Association expressed themselves in favor of the proposition and it was decided to hold a meeting of the executive committee of that organization on Monday night to take steps to asist in the publicity plan. The proposition as outlined by Mr. Holt last night reecived the endorsement of the P. P. A. members, as well as those of the Board of Trade.

Y.M.C.A. OFFERS EASY MEMBERSHIP TERMS NOW

The membership committee of the Y. M. C. A. at its dinner last night inaugurated a new plan of boosting the membership of the association from 650 to 700 by May 1. The annual dues of the association is eight dollars, but in order to make it easier for young men of this city to affiliate themselves with the association, who are unable to pay down the regular price at a clip, it was voted to accept members on the installment rate of two dollars a month. This move is expected to prove popular and the committee is confident of reaching the 700 mark.

The dinner was an enjoyable affair. George A. Coe, of the Orange Y. M. C. A., who was the guest of honor, gave an interesting talk on the various attractions offered by Y. M. C. A.'s. He declared that membership in a Y. M. C. A. presents an opportunity for helpful friendship. A membership in the Plainfield Association, or any local organization, means a membership in a brotherhood of 800,000.

Members of the committee who were present were Joseph W. Gavett, H. W. Herrman, Philip S. Suffern, E. M. Daniel, A. J. Spicer, Alexander Doig, John Fritts and Robert H. Radford.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday; moderate west winds. Maximum, 65; minimum, 47.

John M. Lewin Surprised.

A surprise party was given to John M. Lewin, of Watchung avenue, last night, and was complete in every detail. Euchre was the feature of the evening. The first and second honors for the women were awarded to Mrs. Corra Ryno and Mrs. William A. Cockran, while William Tier and Corra Ryno received first and second honors for the men. Instrumental and vocal music and refreshments were added features.

TAXPAYERS, ATTENTION!

If the bill introduced into the Legislature by Senator Oliver Huff Brown, of Monmouth county, on March 14, becomes a law the city of Plainfield will have to go down into its pocket for an amount of money which will make the taxpayers take notice in more than one way. Mr. Brown's bill is an "Act prohibiting the discharge of sewage, excremental matter, domestic refuse and other polluting matter into fresh water," and at a meeting held in the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk last night it was the unanimous opinion of the Plainfield Protective Association, the Plainfield Civic Association, Plainfield and North Plainfield Board of Trade and the members of the Common Council that every taxpayer in the city should write a personal letter to Senator Ernest R. Ackerman urging upon him the necessity for the defeat of the bill

The present sewage disposal plant in so far as it relates to pollution of Green Brook, into which the distillation from the sewage beds is emptied, carries with it no possible danger, as the system of distillation disposes of the poisonous matter contained in the sewage.

Senator Ackerman has urged Plainfielders to protest against the bill and it was through the the Senator's efforts that the bill was held up yesterday in the Senate. The sewage plant which now suffices for this city has cost in the neighborhood of $350,000, and to saddle another and greater amount on the taxpayers of this city would be little short of a crime.

Therefore, it behooves the property owners of this city to protest vigorously against the passage of Senator Brown's bill which is numbered "Senate Bill No. 238." Personal attention to the advice of Senator Ackerman of writing the letters of protest will have the effect of delaying the passage of the bill, and its ultimate defeat and those who are interested would consult their own interests by heeding the advice. Do it now!

FLIM-FLAMMERS FOILED THROUGH LOCAL POLICE

A trio of flim-flammers came to town yesterday to try and work the diamond ring swindle on George Metzkopf, a butcher in the employ of the Endress Company, but their plans were frustrated by Patrolman McDonald. The policeman brought one of the men to headquarters and he was subsequently released for lack of evidence. The other two Edward Luddington and James Andrews, got away but fell into the clutches of the New York police on a telephone message from Chief Kiely.

The two men were allowed to go when after a search nothing was found on them to incriminate them. The game is an old one and might have proved profitable but for the vigilance of the local police

With one good diamond and several imitations the flim-flammers beget the interest of their intended victim. When he doubts the genuineness of the stone a jeweler is consulted and the genuine diamond submitted to his inspection. The genuine article is then supposed to be handed to the man who pays a low price for the diamond, but he invariably gets a "phony" substitute.

Saving for County.

Within a few days Union county will be running a water pumping station to furnish water for the entire courthouse at Elizabeth. The installing of the plant will cost $2,000, but the water expenses of the courthouse has been about $1,- the courthouse have been about $1,- will be run by electricity, and it is estimated that the power will cost 15 cents a day. Within a year and a half after the plant is installed the county will begin, it is figured, to save money on the water supply.

Another Bicycle Stolen.

The police committee couldn't do a better turn than to empower Chief Kiely to engage a special sleuth for the purpose of breaking up the gang of bicycle thieves that infest this city. Wheels are being stolen almost every day. The latest victim is C. William Bingeman, director of boy's work at the Y. M. C. A. His wheel was taken yesterday from the hallway of the association.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Solemn Observances in Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches Today.

HOLD THREE HOURS DEVOTION.

Tomorrow's Baptismal Offices—Sunday Music to Be Exceptionally Good in the Various Churches Here.

Divested of all ornaments and with the crucifixes draped in mourning the churches of the Episcopal and Roman Catholic denominations entered into the observance of Good Friday at an early hour this morning. The principal event of the day was the three hours' devotion from noon until 3 o'clock this afternoon

At Grace Episcopal church Rev. Dr. Melville K. Bailey, of Grace church, New York city, made the addresses on the last seven words from the Cross. This service was performed at the Church of the Holy Cross by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, and at the Church of the Heavenly Rest by the rector, Rev Cortlandt H. Mallery, and at St. Stephen's church by Rev. Morgan Ashley.

In St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches the statues and crucifixes were draped in purple and several masses were said including the mass of the Pre-Sanctified and the three hours of agony were observed in both churches from noon until 3 o'clock.

That the observance of this day is becoming more and more universal was demonstrated this morning when it was seen that not more than half the usual number of commuters entrained for New York. As a matter of fact the businessmen of New York notwithstanding the fact that in that State the day is not a legal holiday are growing more observant of its significance every year and the early morning attendance at the churches indicated a real conformance to the spiritual eminence of the fast.

Tomorrow evening in the Episcopal churches will be set apart for the administration of the office of Holy Baptism and on Sunday the great church day will be observed with even greater joy than ever before. The musical services, a program of which will be published tomorrow, will be the most elaborate ever given in this city and include some of the finest compositions of the composers of church music.

HEBREW PURIM FEAST BEGAN YESTERDAY

Commencing with the Feast of Purim services in the Synagogue B'Nai, on New street, last night, the Hebrews entered upon a period of one of their greatest obligations of the year. All next week they will feast on matzo, and their services will continue intermittently until the Feast of the Passover is finished late in April.

This year is leap year in the Jewish calendar, and for that reason the Feast of the Passover does not commence with Easter Day. It will commence on April 24, just four weeks from next Sunday.

The services began last night, when the Feast of Purim, commemorating the deliverance of the Jews from the machinations of Haman, began. Yesterday was the fourteenth of Adar, according to the Jewish calendar.

Tomorrow and Sunday evenings the Sader services will be held in Jewish synagogues and temples. The "Haggadah" will be read at all the services next week.

Passover services, lasting eight days, will commence on April 24. This ceremony commemorates the exodus of the Jews from Egypt.

Arrested for Buying Bottles.

On a warrant sworn out by Frank Linke before Justice Snape, D. Loprete, a junk dealer, of 40 Maple avenue, was taken into custody by Chief Weiss this morning. Loprete is charged with buying and selling registered bottles and it is alleged that about six cases of bottles bearing Mr. Linke's register was found in the former's possession. Loprete will have a hearing at borough police headquarters Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

HOWARD P. GOODWIN SUES FOR A DIVORCE

Howard Parker Goodwin, of Newark, has applied for an absolute divorce from his wife, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Van Doren, of New Brunswick, but now a resident of this city.

The petition sets forth that the couple were married in this city on October 2, 1897, and lived together until April, 1904, when it is alleged Mrs. Van Doren left him and their relations have since never been resumed.

The action is based upon the allegation that on June 19, 1906, an illegitimate child was born to the defendant. No co-respondent is named in the petition.

There was one child born to the couple by their marriage, Helen L. Goodwin, now twelve years of age, who is in the custody of the petitioner, who requests that she remain in his care.

SILK WEAVERS' VERSION OF THEIR STRIKE TOLD

According to members of the committee of the striking weavers at the Watchung Silk Mill the story has not all been told in full and the actual position taken by the weavers who struck is not understood by the public. For this reason and in order to clear any doubt that the people of Plainfield may have in the matter a member of the committee requests the publication of their grievance and asks the public to withhold their judgment until they know just how the matter stands.

Mrs. Annie Sbolchiero and Miss Carrar stated yesterday that up to Monday they had been receiving seven cents a yard for certain lines of taffeta and satins and that this price had been in vogue for months. They were suddenly told that the rate per yard was reduced to six cents and at that rate no one could make a living wage under present high prices for provisions and other necessaries. They told the manager of the mill that they could not afford to work for the reduced price.

At the old rate allowing for deductions for imperfections and other fines the best an operative could do, they say, would be to average from fifteen to twenty dollars every two weeks, but with the six cents per yard scale they would not be able to earn more than an average of five dollars per week, and this, they claim is insufficient to maintain one who must eat and clothe herself. And at that the work is not steady. The committee is composed of two men and two women and they are working with the end in view of having the piece rate restored to the old figure.

The committee claim that the firm has sent out scouts to hunt up other operatives and deny that the work on hand is diminishing so much as to require a reduction in pay.

LOCAL DONATIONS FOR THE BERKELEY LIBRARY.

The aim of the Berkeley Heights Public Library Association to obtain 2,000 volumes will soon be realized if the present rate of donations continue. The library now has 700 volumes on its shelves. Among local people who made recent donations are Mrs. S. French, of West Front street, 150 volumes; Mrs. Tiffany, of Crescent avenue, 70 volumes; Mrs. Hill, of Westervelt avenue and Miss O. Brown, of West Front street.

Inspected County Roads.

The road committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, accompanied by R. A. Meeker, State supervisor of roads, made a tour of inspection of several roads in the county yesterday and stopped at the Hotel Waldorf at noon for dinner. They went over the new road extending from Terrill road to Rahway, a distance of about three miles; also over Jefferson avenue, and found them to be in fine condition.

Freeholders Preparing Report.

The monument committee from the Board of Freeholders, of which J. Hervey Doane is chairman, will be ready to make its report at the regular meeting of the board in April. It is the intention to secure the monuments from the Government, thus saving the county about $10,000. It has been decided to mark the graves of all Revolutionary soldiers, as well as those of the Civil War.

N. P. H. S. vs. Alumni.

The North Plainfield High School nine will play its first game of the season tomorrow afternoon on Hyde Field against the Alumni. "Tone" Overton will captain the latter team

ELOPED FROM BALTIMORE

Miss Anna May Campbell Becomes Bride of Lewis H. Eichelberger.

GROOM A CIVIL ENGINEER.

Married by Rev. V. N. Ridgeley, of Ellicott City, Md.—Will Receive Parental Blessing.

According to advices received from Baltimore last night, Miss Anna May Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Campbell, of Grove street, is now Mrs. Lewis H. Eichelberger, and she is now on her honeymoon somewhere in the South. The news of the wedding came in a dispatch to Mr. Campbell last night and while it caused some agitated talk for a few moments it was not considered of such great importance as to cause the widespread comment given to it by the New York papers.

Mr. Campbell said last night that the family was aware of the attachment of his daughter and Mr. Eichelberger, the groom, but had understood that the wedding was to take place in the fall. However, since they are married the parental blessing will be bestowed when the time comes.

So far as can be learned Mr. Eichelberger is an entirely proper person to be the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and is a prosperous civil engineer of Baltimore. Miss Campbell was on a visit to relatives in Baltimore when the elopement took place and so far as is known here there has been no separate trip of the bride to Louisiana as was published in other newspapers.

There was no objection to the wedding so far as is known, the only incident connected with it being the sudden culmination of the courtship and the informality of the ceremony. The parents of both parties to the event apparently are satisfied. The father of the bride is officially connected with the B. & O. Railroad. The couple were married by Rev. V. N. Ridgeley, of Ellicott City, Md

Boracic Acid Useful.

Boracic acid is a simple home remedy. Mixed with vaseline it forms one of the cheapest and safest ointments for cuts and bruises. Boracic acid dusted into the sleeves of dresses which have been worn when exercising removes all disagreeable traces of perspiration. Handkerchiefs which have been used when colds and influenza are prevalent should be sprinkled with boracic acid powder, or, better still, should be steeped in a strong solution of it and water before being sent to wash.

An Exception.

Wifey—You told me the other day we must avoid all luxuries and confine ourselves to absolute necessities only.

Hubby—That's so, my dear.

Wifey—Well, last night you came home from the club in a cab.

Hubby—Yes, but that was an absolute necessity.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Popular Pongees.

The natural rough-woven shantung and tussah will be worn much this spring. Long traveling coats of this material will be especially smart.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Thomas Muir, who recently returned from the bear hunting wilds of Canada, declares that the interest in hockey in that part of J. Bull's American domain, is on a par with the interest in baseball in the United States.

Its, "Are you going to the hockey game from Monday to Saturday?" declared Tommy yesterday. Special trains are chartered and thousands attend the big games.

P. S.—Soon as Tommy gets acclimated he will contribute a chapter, on "How to hunt bears."

Have you caught it yet? What? The spring fever. Newspaper reporters are thankful that they are exempt from this plague.

Rahway is to be represented by two strong teams this season. The traveling aggregation are booked to appear in this city twice as opponents of the Y. M. C. A. team.

JACK PEACOCK BOOSTS PRINCETON'S CHANCES

Jack Peacock, of the borough, who arrived home from Princeton yesterday on his Easter vacation, in talking on sportdom at Old Nassau, predicts that the Tigers will be particularly strong on the diamond this season and should annex the championship with little trouble. The Tiger nine, he said, is one of the speediest aggregations in the history of the college. White and Dawson, the veteran battery, will do the brunt of the work in the points for the Tigers and experts agree that this pair will shine as the star collegiate battery this season.

Football players are also at work for the battles on the gridiron next fall. For several weeks a score of pigskin warriors, and ambitious athletes, have been working out in the preliminary stages. A big part of the work has been confined principally to signals and team play. It is considered an instructive course and preparatory to the system of training which will be inaugurated in the fall when the university reopens.

Pennsylvania defeated Holy Cross in the first collegiate game of the season yesterday by a 2 to 1 score.

Princeton was easy for the Philadelphia Nationals in an exhibition game at Richmond yesterday. The big leaguers won 10 to 2.

The Somerset Field Club will hold a fair at corner of Mountain avenue and Somerset street on Saturday, April 2. The funds will be used to equip its ball team with uniforms.

Headline in Newark Evening News says: "McGinnity has a sore neck." The "Iron Man" should feel lucky with this slight affliction, as if he fails to give the city a pennant winner this season, the Knockerino Bugs will surely get after him, and leave something worse than a yellow-jacket's sting.

Herbert Nicholas, a Palmerton, Pa., ten pinner, rolled a perfect score of 300 the other day.

Chief Meyers, of the Giants, is doing the same as last spring. Getting all of the home runs out of his system before the championship season opens.

With a continuance of spring weather there should be a good-sized sprinkling of ball players out for practice on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon. Ernest Dorflinger's aggregation will romp about the diamond until 4 o'clock, when the Y. M. C. A. athletes will turn out for and hour's workout.

Arrangements for the motorcycle meet at the Plainfield Driving Park on Saturday afternoon, April 16, were clinched yesterday when the promoters completed negotiations for the use of the track for that purpose. The track, which is in fairly good condition, will be rolled and some speedy time is sure to be made by the racers.

The Chevy Chase Club, near Washington, where President Taft plays golf so often, will spend $100,000 on a new clubhouse. It has long been realized that such a step was necessary, but there has been considerable sentiment among the members of the club to preserve, if possible, the old farmhouse which has been used as the club quarters for years. There is also a strong feeling that an entire new house will be found necessary in the future and that if the club is to spend $100,000 for building at this time it would be better to put it in a new structure. It is believed that the board of governors is inclined to favor the construction of an entirely new house and that it will proceed along that line in making its plans.

Another important step taken by the club was an amendment to the constitution providing for life, or debenture, membership. The amendment agreed to provided that upon the payment of $1,200 an active or a newly elected member of the club could become a life member and be exempt in the future from dues. This life membership is to number fifty, with the privilege of extending the number to a hundred. Since the life members are to be drawn largely, and probably entirely, from the resident members, and their places filled immediately by the election of new members, the regular income of the club will be decreased little, if at all.

When fifty life members have been enrolled the club will have received from the new membership $60,000, and will have this money at once available to aid in the construction of the new clubhouse.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

M'GRAW OR CAPSTICK FOR FOWLER'S PLACE

Elizabeth, March 25.—Either James H. McGraw or John D. Capstick will be the choice of the Fifth district "regular" leaders as a candidate to succeed Charles N. Fowler, who is now finishing his eighth term in the House at Washington, and it is up to State Treasurer "Uncle Dan" Voorhees to name the man who the Press correspondent has learned from the most reliable sources. As was the case two years ago, "Uncle Dan" has been told that he must make the selection and that the only condition is that his selection must be a man from his own county, Morris. Both McGraw and Capstick are close personal and political friends of the Morris leader and it is reported that he will select one of them.

If Mr. Fowler is not renominated by the Republican convention it is considered here more than probable that James E. Martine will be trotted out again to make the run for the office as the Democratic candidate. Martine is not adverse to accepting a nomination if it comes his way; in fact he said today that he would consider it a great honor to have his party agree on him. He is anxious to make the run for he has pronounced views against Cannonism and says that although the Speaker has been divested of his imperial authority his alleged domineering methods will be the issue of the campaign in the fifth district.

ADOPTED DAUGHTER IS ABOUT TO CONTEST WILL.

Summit, March 25.—The will of the late Frederick Badelt, who died at his home in Park avenue, East Summit, March 4, is to be contested. Mrs. Mark Burkhardt, of Newton, who claims to be an adopted daughter of Mr. Badelt, has engaged counsel to make a fight for a share of his estate.

It appears that on December 26 last Mr. Badelt made a will while he was confined in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, suffering from the illness which resulted in his death. Leroy A. Gibby, a local lawyer, drew this instrument, which, it is said, provided that the testator's estate should be divided equally between his wife and Mrs. Burkhardt.

On March 1, or three days before his death, Mr. Badelt made another will, in which Mrs. Burkhardt is not mentioned. By the provision of this testament Mrs. Badelt receives the homestead and her niece, Mrs. Joseph Murray, an adjoining house and a fifty-foot lot. The cash in bank, amounting to about $400, is to be divided between Mrs. Badelt and her nephews.

Elmer L. McKirgan, of this city, drew the last will. It is the contention of Mrs. Badelt's counsel that Mrs. Burkhardt was never legally adopted by Mr. Badelt and his first wife, nor was there ever any agreement made when the couple took the girl from an orphan home about twenty-five years ago. Mrs. Burkhardt lived with Mr. Badlet until shortly after the death of his first wife, about twelve years ago. She then left the Badelt home and was later married, and, it is said, only visited Mr. Badelt once or twice since leaving his home.

ALTERED BILL ABOUT STREET CAR SPITTING.

Trenton, March 25.—By unanimous consent three more bills were introduced into the House Wednesday night. One was put in by Mr. Bedle to take the place of House 174, which was vetoed by Governor Fort. It provides, as did the other act, that any person who shall expectorate on the floor of a trolley car shall be subject to a fine of $5. The bill vetoed made the penalty $26 which the Governor said he considered too large.

The other bills offered were.

Mr. Thompson, authorizes towns to adopt ordinances to construct storm sewers or culverts under streets and issue bonds for the payment of the same.

Mr. Vredenburg, authorizes freeholders in all but first class counties to use the inmates of the county jail to perform labor on the county grounds and in the county buildings, provided that they shall not be out of the jail for more than eight hours per day.

Wild West Fever Curbed.

Roselle, March 25.—"You will find more Indians in front of cigar stores in Hoboken than you will on the plains nowadays," said Police Justice Roosa Wednesday night to two young men arrested on the street by Chief of Police Kenney on suspicion. The prisoners gave their names as E. W. Egerstadt and Albert Becker, of Hoboken. In grips they carried revolvers. They told the judge that they had intended going out West, but they had given up the idea and were on their way home when arrested. Kenney trailed them about the borough for more than an hour before placing them under arrest. The judge, after giving the prisoners some sound advice, fined them each a small amount and instructed Kenney to put them on a train for their home.

Religion as Friendship with God

By REV. DR. HUGH T. KERR
Pastor Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Text—"Immanuel—God is with us."—Matt. 1:23.

Men think of God in three ways. The man in the street believes in a non-resident God. Occasionally he visits this world, and then we have a miracle. For him God is what the philosophers call transcendent. The men and women who have poetic temperaments, and artistic tastes believe in a God who is everywhere, "whose dwelling is in the round ocean and the living air and the blue sky and in the mind of man." For them God is what the philosophers call "immanent." The third way of thinking about God is the Christian way, and it combines what is true in both of the preceding views. It proclaims that God, while still remaining the infinitely holy God, is yet with us, "closer to us than breathing, nearer than hands or feet."

This was and is no new idea; it is as old as the Bible. In beautiful and majestic language the first chapters of Genesis picture the coming of the Lord God into the garden to walk and talk with his children in the cool of the day. "Certainly I will be with thee," is the promise of God to Moses, and in promises ofttimes repeated God insists that he will never leave nor forsake his people.

This was the very truth God was trying to reveal to his people throughout the full length of their recorded history. God never changed his attitude toward his children, but they, blinded by prejudice and selfishness, refused to understand. So it was, line upon line, precept upon precept. It is like all great revelations. What is given is not always revealed. We are both being given on every hand facts of municipal corruption and political jobbery, and yet the great majority of our citizens are still unconcerned.

The reason that made the revelations of the Old Testament ineffective lay in the fact that words conceal as much as they reveal. All that God could say and tell about himself was not sufficient to create a personal friendship. The world did not know God. He was still hidden, misunderstood, and misinterpreted. God was a king, a judge, a detective. The promise of companionship and personal friendship with a detective who is sworn to shadow you and finally arraign you before the bar of judgment is not appealing, to say the least.

"To many people of the olden times, and to many people even yet, God is a sort of self-appointed detective. His eye is on us; his hand is over us; his ear is open to hear; but his presence distresses when thought of under such categories. So it was that at last God had to speak, not in the words of any human language, but in the language of a human life. "The Word becomes flesh." Last of all, he sent his Son, and in the living characters of a human early life we understood what God had been trying to tell the world for centuries. They called his name "Immanuel—God with us."

Under this new conception of the nearness of God to our human life, common things became sacred. The supernatural is expressed to us in the terms of the natural. We look for God no longer in signs and wonders and the spectacular, but in the moving of the Spirit of God through the things among which we live. We no longer see an occasional bush that is aflame with a strange revelation, but we behold "earth crammed with heaven and every common bush aflame with God."

The little Child, the manger and the cattle in the stalls; the stars above us, the sheep in the field, the wise men on their long search, fatherhood and motherhood—all become sacred and the new year would become singularly fruitful of blessedness and peace if in the daily round and the common task we could be sure that God is with us.

The presence of God with us in the days and duties of this new year means hope and inspiration. "Will God indeed dwell with men? The heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain him." But if it is true that God does indeed dwell with his people there is high hope for all of us in that.

The other week our president went down to the slums of New York city and talked to the men who, as the world says, were "down and out." Next day a wondrous thing took place. Men who had trailed their honor in the dust held up their heads with a new-born hope. "If he has faith in us to come here and tell us we still have a chance, perhaps it is worth while to try." And if the eternal God has faith in the children of men to enter personally and permanently into their life of sin and sorrow and shame perhaps there is a more wondrous redemption in a love like that. Through him we are born again into a living hope.

If religion is friendship with God, and if God has entered into companionship with us, then religion as friendship with God becomes a vital and beautiful reality. Mrs. Browning asked Charles Kingsley to tell her the secret of his happy and beautiful life, and he replied to her sympathetic request: "I had a friend."

There is a funny side everywhere, that was put there by an All-wise Providence to give us a chance to sometimes forget our troubles and burdens.

The man who loves good, loves God, whether he knows it or not.

Instead of a banquet, as has been the custom, the Camden Board of Trade will this year give a planked-shad dinner. Fifthian S. Simmons, Charles S. Boyer and James M. Bentley were Wednesday appointed a committee to make the arrangements.

Circuit Court Judge Frank T. Lloyd, of Camden, is having his big power yacht Lea put in commission at Toms River. It will be run around to the Delaware River and fitted with a new and more powerful engine to be ready for use at Sea Side Park this summer.

Camden's Board of Trade has inaugurated a crusade against the smoke nuisance, of which there has been much complaint in that city. It is intended to enlist City Council, and, if necessary, the members of the Legislature, in the campaign.

Just after a train pulled out from the station at Stanwick Wednesday night, a brick was hurled through a car window. It came near hitting the mother of Dr. Atwood, of Mt. Holly. One or two persons were slightly cut.

Among the speakers will be Professor Livingston Barbour, of the chair of oratory and elocution in Rutgers College, New Brunswick; Professor E. J. Nelson, of Lakewood, who will talk on "Language Work in the Grades;" Miss Christina Mount, of Hoboken, who will speak on "Primary Reading." Discussions on phases of school work will be held.

INCURABLES MAY GET AID AT STATE EXPENSE.

Trenton, March 25.—Permission is given in a bill by Senator Wilson, of Atlantic County, which was passed in the upper chamber of the Legislature Wednesday, for the State to appropriate $365 a year for each patient it may send to a private institution and who may be the victims of incurable diseases. The bill, No. 129, is intended primarily for the benefit of the Bide-A-Wee Home at Longport, Atlantic county, according to Senator Wilson's statement when the bill was taken up. The bill gives to the Governor the power to authorize patients to be treated at State expense.

The Senae also put through Senator Price's "Back to the Farm" concurrent resolution which provides that the State Agricultural Department shall give instructions on its tours of the State to residents of the State to residents of cities, especially to the laboring class. Senator Price, in advocating the resolution, which was adopted unanimously, said that it was the belief that action of this kind might attract men to the country and thus help alleviate the lack of help for agricultural work.

Four other Senate bills were favorably acted upon by the Senate yesterday and last evening. They were No. 216, authorizing freeholders to take over and improve county roads; No. 212, authorizing boroughs to issue certificates of indebtedness; No. 249, to prevent the adulteration of turpentine, linseed oil and flaxseed oil; and No. 168, providing for the publication of a history of Kearn's Brigade in the Civil War.

No. 216 was amneded so as to insure to property owners protection of their rights in the roads. Objection had been made to the bill that as it stood originally, it would not be necessary for corporations to get the consent of property owners to obtain franchises.

LETS P. R. R. OPERATE TUNNEL AND TERMINAL.

Trenton, March 25.—In the House yesterday Mr. Housel, of Trenton, got consent to introduce a bill taking the place of House 468, which he has not withdrawn, however House 468 merely amended the act of 1885 relative to the leasing of railroads. The new bill is more specfic, and gives consent to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to lease and operate the Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Railroad Compay, which runs from Harrison, N. J., through the tunnel under the Hudson River to the Thirty-fourth Street Station, New York City.

OCEAN GROVE BOROUGH MEASURE IS RELEASED.

Trenton, March 25.—Senator Hand, chairman of the Committee on Boroughs, yesterday afternoon reported Senator Silzer's bill, No. 208, to incorporate Ocean Grove as a borough.

This is the bill which caused an uproar among the members of the Ocean Grove Methodist Campmeeting Association. That body entered a protest against the bill and voiced its objections at a hearing before the committee.

The bill was strongly urged by Miss Helen Thompson, an owner of property that will be affected.

Thrilling—Startling—Dramatic.

The biggest mystery story ever written from the pen of Louis Joseph Vance. It is entitled "The Brass Bowl," and it has had the attention of novel readers in Europe and America for the past year. So great has the fame of this book become that the New York Sunday World has secured it for its fiction series. It will begin April 3 and be complete in five booklets of 20,000 words each Get the first instalment. It is a hummer.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"Where There's a Will," that sensational play is in its last two weeks at Weber's and when it leaves New York the metropolis will lose the greatest laughing show it has had for many a moon. People are beginning to realize now that "Where There's a Will" is not as naughty as it was painted at first. The play has raised wide discussion and in its three months' stay at Weber's has entertained crowded houses. "Where There's a Will" is leaving Weber's because of a contract made by Joe Weber with another atraction long ago. Maurice Campbell offered a large bonus for this contract for the play that is to follow so that "Where There's a Will" could remain indefinitely in New York, where it belongs, but was not able to make the deal because of the anxiety of the other attraction to get into New York. The last opportunity, therefore, to see this great laughmaker will be on Saturday, April 2. There will be the usual Saturday matinees and on Wednesday the usual one dollar matinee. On April 1, Friday, there will be a special matinee to accomodate the crowds during the last week of "Where There's a Will" in New York.

Gerson's Midget Circus at the New York Hippodrome made a pronounced hit at the big playhouse when it was seen for the first time in America on Monday last. This feature, which will doubtless make a strong appeal to the young as well as to the old theatre patrons, will remain for the rest of the season. The little midgets give an entire two ring and platform circus, unassisted by any full sized performers. There are acrobats, who do wondrous feats of tumbling; wee wrestlers who exhibit their skill in the Graeco-Roman art; tiny lady equestrienes on the smallest ponies imaginable; other miniature damsels who perorm on the revolving globes; do tightrope walking and lift weights of iron weighing three times as much as themselves. There are singers and dancers in the troupe and Ludwig, who is the smallest man in the world, is seen in his remarkable rapid fire painting, producing a large picture in crayon, in the space of a few minutes, in full view of the audience.

GAITERS TO MATCH YOUR HAT.

It is English, and a custom which many women on this side have adopted, to look carefully to the gaiters when out for a walk.

They are checked, and are worn to match the covered hat. Blue and white gaiters look smart with a blue turban, gray and white with the gray, brown or black with the brown, and so on through the variety of tones of this winter's millinery.

This "mania for matching," as one observing man called it, necessitates a good supply of gaiters, but the possession of a variety gives a certain distinct individuality to the outfit of a woman.

Creamy Candy.

A delicious candy is made with sour cream. The cream should be just clabbered and should not have stood long enough to become bitter. Mix a cupful of it with three cupfuls of brown sugar. Cook it on the stove until it forms a grain when a little is stirred in a sauder. Then add butter the size of a walnut and half a pound of chopped nuts. Walnuts or almonds may be used, or even peanuts. The walnuts are the best for the purpose. Let the candy or fudge—for this is practicall what it is—cool a few moments and then begin to heat it. When it begins to grow thick pour it into buttered pans and cut into squares when hardened. A few drops of vanilla may be used if liked.

Round Thread Linens.

The round thread linens will be found practical for any work which demands thread drawing.

Cultivating Slimness

Fat women must take this injunction to heart if they want to be in style for the new models will not drape over a fat figure.

The fat has got to come off quickly but without harm, of course, and this means only one thing can be depended upon. Exercising or dieting are too slow. The fat woman who wants to wear a form-clinging gown must make an immediate trip to her druggist and get a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, which will cost her about 75 cents.

Taking one of these after each meal and at bedtime should be enough to bring her to the "losing-a-pound-a-day" stage before even the first case is used up. It is hardly believable that such delightful results can be obtained without harm and for such a small sum of money, but then, fact is stranger than fiction.

Test the effect of these tablets by getting a case yourself, either from the Marmola Co., 988 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., or from any druggist. They are made in exact accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription and, consequently, can not have any ill effects.

LITERARY

Benj. B. Hampton, editor of Hampton's Magazine, in an article in the forthcoming April issue of that periodical printed over his own signature, comes out boldly for government construction and operation of railroads in Alaska and for a system of leasing the vast resources of the territory which he declares are now rapidly passing under the supremacy of the Morgan-Guggenheim celebration. "What we need to apply to the Alaskan situation is some good hard sense," says Mr. Hampton. "We need to put the whole proposition on a business basis that will permit individuals and corporations to make liberal returns on the big investments that are absolutely essential to developing Alaska, but also, while they are making these liberal profits, to see that a fair percentage is paid to the owners, the people of the United States.

Important timely interest is characteristic om many of the articles of the April Century. In the spirit of the Easter season is Robert Hichens' account of his journey "From Damascus to Nazareth," with reproductions in color of Mr. Guerin's paintings of the Garden of Gethsemane, the Mount of Olives, and Tiberias and the Sea of Galilee. George von Skal's "If Germany Were Called to War" is a vivid presentation of the wonderful organization by which a million soldiers could be placed in the field within a week. Charles P. Miller, editor of the New York Times, who has made a special study of Socialism, presents some of his conclusions, giving cogent reasons why Socialism is undesirable and impracticable, and considering the latest program of the Socialist party, chiefly as it would affect the management of finance. An article of constructive social interest in the numebr is Jacob A. Riis' "The People's Institute of New York," a remarkable organization which has brought about the censorship of moving picture films for the entire country, the supervision of theatres for the people, and which conducts an open forum at Cooper Union where important questions of the day are freely and helpfully discussed.

The Editors of Everybody's seem to have set out to cover, in their April number, about every phase of life, and to provide entertainment and interest for every member of the family. In "Sanity and Democracy," which opens the magazine, they urnish some remarkable facts about the success of American cities under Commission Government. From this start the ytalk about wild animal photographing in Africa; athletics, straight and tainted, the production of gold, its romance, and its effect on high prices; the make-up of an orchestra, and all the complicated machinery that goes into the pleasant sounds to which we dance and sing.

The Red Book Magazine for April, much enlarged, comes in a cover at once alluring and artistic. Illustrating, as it does, Hulbert Footner's story in the same issue, "The Pulse of Spring," it indicates the engaging qualities of the entire number. A powerful African story by Percival Gibbons, entitled "The Thoroughbred," serves to lead the literary contents o the issue.

Recently an eight million dollar smelter was closed by the people of Utah on the grounds of smoke damage and the smelter owners everywhere await with anxiety the final outcome of the great Montana suit which will probably be accepted as a precedent.—From "A Million for a Smoke Eater," in April Technical World Magazine.

For Lingerie Ribbons

The problem of keeping the ribbons for lingerie in some neat way has been solved by the inventor of a little winding stick, gilded and tied with a bow at each end. It is provided with a series of springs that hold down one end of the ribbon while it is being wound around the stick. It is small enough to be kept in the workbox, and large enough to accommodate several coils of ribbon at once.

Overdress of Velvet.

The master builders of wonderful gowns are restricted by nothing this season. Unlimited license is theirs, lovely fabrics, laces, metal, tissues, fur and jewels. Never before have there been such evening gowns, such blending of colors, such combination of materials. A new idea is to drape an overdress of chiffon velvet over a gown of satin, lace and metallic tissue. The velvet is hung.

Sho Kishi Troupe, Japanese Acrobats; Musical Mays, Instrumentalists; Fred Coles' Terrier Dogs; The Brinkleys, Singers and Dancers.

The weekly prayer meeting will be omitted at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, the evening on account of the Union Good Friday service.

The annual meeting of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held at the church Sunday night at 8 o'clock, to hear repors and to elect officers for the ensuing year.

SCHOOL TEACHER WANTED AT BERKLEY HEIGHTS

Here's an opportunity for Plainfield girls, who aspire to become school teachers, to secure a position.

The Berkeley Heights School Board is in need of an instructor for the primary department, which embraces second, third and fourth year grades, to take the place of Miss Agnes Burgmiller, who recently presented her resignation to the board, in order to become a chicken raiser.

There are thirty-eight pupils in the department and applications can be filled with William Jeffery, 136 Park avenue. The duties of the new teacher will start on April 4.

Baby Pillow at Its Best.

White swiss or mull is successful material for the covering of the baby pillow when transparency is an object. Linen, although of sheer quality will often conceal the colored cover beneath. One of the best swiss pillow covers has been sewn up each side and left open at each end, where it was scalloped and provided with eyelets two inches from the extreme edges for ribbons, which held the back and front together and the rose-colored silk pillow inside. The ribbons used are narrow and white, and to each corner of the pillow is attached a rosette-like bow of wider ottoman ribbon.

Stephen Langon.

Stephen Langon, one of the pioneer employes of the Pond Tool Works, who came to this city from Worcester, Mass., when that company established its plant in this city twenty-two years ago, died at a boarding house on Manson place last night after an illnes of two months' duration. He was 52 years of age and is survived by a sister in this country, whose address is unknown. The funeral service will be conducted in St. Mary's church tomorrow afternoon.

Proctor's Good Show.

Sho Kishi, Japanese jugglers and acrobats, appearing at Proctor's theatre, have made a big hit. Their work is clever, and little short of marvelous. The Musical Mays, playing on various instruments, are good, while Fred Cole, besides being a good banjo player and clever clog dancer, presents his famous bull dogs, skilled in jumping and ball playing. The Brinkleys, colored duo in songs and dances, win their share of applause.

Were Helplessly Drunk.

George Green and James Walsh, two local coal wagon drivers, were found drunk on South Second street at 2 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Sweeney and they were brought to police headquarters in the patrol wagon by Roundsman Higgins. Judge Runyon postponed the case until tomorrow morning so that Patrolman Sweeney may tell the story of the arrest as Green denies being helplessly drunk.

Theodore Goldstein.

Theodore, the six weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Goldstein, of Cedar street, died early this morning from an attack of whooping cough. The funeral was conducted this afternoon and interment made in the Gateville cemetery.

The Canal Open.

The D. and R. Canal opened yesterday. The first boat to go through, which was followed by about ten others, was the Steam Yacht "Enaj" bound to Philadelphia from New York city.

David Gray Seriously Ill.

David G. Gray, a former resident of the West End, but now of Newark, is seriously ill at his home in that city. Mr. Gray is suffering from a relapse following a recent operation.

Mayor Fisk to Make Address.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk has accepted an invitation of the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest to address that organization on Thursday night, April 14.

"One-a-penny, two-a-penny, hot cross buns" was not exactly cried on the streets of the city this morning, but more than fifty thousand of the delicious little half cake half bread confections were distributed by the local bakers. No breakfast was complete without its portion of the buns.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jacoby, of the Hotel Knickerbocker, is visiting Mr. Jacoby's sister, Mrs. John J. Shafer, of East Front street.

Letter Carrier J. W. A. Bauersacks is off duty owing to injuries sustained by a fall while delivering mail on St. Patrick's day.

Philip Swain and daughter, of Craig place, have returned from a week's stay at Atlantic City, where Mr. Swain was ordered to go by his physician.

—Mrs. Belle Bird, nurse, who has been caring for Richard Boyce, of Somerset street, is now taking care of Mrs. Edward Drake, of Elizabeth, who is very ill.

Loaf Bread.

It is perhaps worth recalling that the art of baking loaves came to Europe quite late in history. Flat cakes were baked even in the earliest times, but as late as the beginning of the nineteenth century, loaf bread was comparatively unknown in many parts of the continent. In 1812, for instance, when an English captain ordered loaves to the value of £1 in Gothenburg, the baker stipulated for payment in advance, on the ground that he would never be able to sell them in the city if they were left on his hands.—London Chronicle.

When Candy Is Good for a Child.

The average healthy child of ten or 12 should be able to eat of pure candy the equivalent in weight of two or three lumps of sugar after his midday meal. This, however, should not be given him unless other proper foods, in sufficient quantity, are eaten, and should never be allowed between meals. Butter-taffy and molasses candy, made at home of pure materials, are especially to be recommended, and may be considered valuable articles of food.—Jean Williams, M. D., in Woman's Home Companion.

As It Looked to Her.

To my little daughter of three the dawning of each new day was a constant marvel and surprise. Going to an east window, she would look out quickly and exclaim: "Mamma, the sky's open again!" One morning there was a heavy fog, and when Beatrice went to the window she cried in great alarm: "Come, quick! Come, quick! The sky's coming down the road."—Woman's Home Companion.

Ruskin's Protest.

Utopianism: that is another of the devil's pet words. I believe the quiet admission, which we are all of us so ready to make, that because things have long been wrong it is impossible that they should ever be right, is one of the most fatal sources of misery and crime.—Ruskin, "Architecture and Painting."

Voting Under Difficulties.

Before the advent of the railroad the polling in some English constituencies occupied as much as 14 days. In the Buckinghamshire election of 1784, for instance, there was only one place for voting (Aylesbury), and electors had to be brought in from places as much as 35 miles distant.

Seek Individuality.

Be true to yourself and the world will be true to you. Whatever you say, write or do, stamp it with your own individuality—grapple fearlessly with your own ideas, express your thoughts and do your work in your own way.

Varying Wood Consumption.

In Germany 37 cubic feet of timber per capita is taken annually from her forests; France is able to get along with but 25 cubic feet; while in this country the consumption is 250 cubic feet per capita.

Diogenes Modernized.

He discoursed from a grocer's tub, did that pestiferous old dub, they called Diogenes. He argued with the other men and stole some codfish now and then, or swiped the grocer's cheese.

Taking the Ad. Literally.

"We want high-grade articles," advertised the magazine. And in the next day's mail 20 motor enthusiasts submitted stories relating to the steep hills they had climbed.

A Special Order.

Divorced Woman—I like that doll very much, only I wish you could arrange it so that instead of saying papa and mamma, it would only say mamma.

Verily.

Tyro—"Isn't billiards rather an expensive game?" Oldsport—"Yes; it's costing us all the elephants there are in the world."

Almost.

It is almost a shame for a man to live to be 96 years old, without making it worth while to write his memoirs.

Must Wait for Remarriage.

In Louisiana the law permits a widow to marry again only provided she has waited until ten months after the death of her husband.

Materials for Gas Making.

In the United Kingdom 17,000,000 tons of coal and 60,000,000 gallons of oil are used annually in gas making.

Dated Sandwiches.

The dated sandwich is an innovation in the railroad station restaurant service.

In French and German.

The French call our country Etats-Unis, but Vereinigte Staaten is the German rendering of the same name.

Unconventional.

Gwendolen (greatly shocked)—"Oh, mother! Baby's speaking to all sorts of people he doesn't know!"—Punch.

Wage Warfare on Sparrows.

An English agricultural society has a sparrow extermination fund.

Crops Worth Immense Sum.

The 12 principal crops of this country show a valuation of $5,000,000,000.

"Come in and Talk It Over"

Why Don't You Economize on Coal?

The hungry furnace and the coal man are a hard combination to beat, but the

BOYNTON

Square Fire-Pot

FURNACE

is the friend of the man who takes care of the fire. The square fire-pot prevents the clogging of clinkers around the sides of the fire. That means all fire—more heat per unit of space. The square pot gives a greater surface for combustion and heat radiation and actually takes less coal for a good fire. And then there's the Boynton special flue for carrying away the dust. You don't sift ashes all over the house when you shake down the BOYNTON.

Talk it over with the BOYNTON dealer in your town.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

Insurance Talks

No. 3

How much is it worth to YOU to know that nothing can interfere with your earning capacity?

Just how much would you be willing to pay to KNOW that neither accident nor illness could cause YOU AND YOUR FAMILY financial embarrasment?

This is the only practical basis upon which to consider the matter of ACCIDENT AND HEALTH INSURANCE—what is it worth?

DISABILITY FROM ILLNESS OR ACCIDENT means loss of time, consequently loss of money, business opportunities, and a considerable increase in personal expenses.

When once confronted by such DISABILITY the cost of SECURITY against the consequent loss seems exceedingly small.

A subject of this kind is not one to WORRY about, but one to consider NOW and feel SECURE in the future.

None of us is LOOKING FOR TROUBLE, but when we are prepared for it, we are better able to meet it.

Base Metals in Coinage.

The wear and tear of coinage is delayed by the admixture of baser metals with the precious ones. In their pure state gold and silver would be too soft to stand the usage for which coins are intended. Manufacturers of brass and gunmetal are able to effect very surprising results in alloys. They will produce bright and useful substances with the most unpromising materials gathered from the old metal merchants.

Cold Cure.

Any cold can be cured in 30 minutes or less time if the following simple remedy is used promptly: Hot water, one pint; spirits of camphor, ten drops. Mix well and drink or sip the whole of it as hot as can be swallowed. When through the cold in most cases will be gone. If not, remain where it is warm and the air fresh, breathing deeply and the cold will vanish in a short time.

Old Castle Garden.

Only old New Yorkers know that there used to be an island 200 feet off the Battery, and that it was fortified and known as Fort Clinton. The island was connected with the mainland by a draw-bridge. When the waterway was filled in the island became a part of the Battery and was known as Castle garden. As everybody knows, it is now the Aquarium.—New York Press.

Doll Ceremoniously Named.

Invitations were sent to hundreds of well-known Parisians by Mdlle. Solange Sicard, the little daughter of the famous doctor, who desired her friends to attend the ceremony of "naming" her new doll. The party was a great success, where the big children had quite as merry a time as the little ones. The doll was "named" Heloise Berthe with due ceremony.

See Always the Bright Side.

We must somehow get joy out of the pain of life. We must see the beauty and the wonder of the world misery. We must admire the evil as we admire the good. We must lick the dust with the homage that we pay the heavens. We must realize the sweet in struggle, in defeat, in destitution.

Easy Going.

"Study history, my son," advised old Mr. Polonius. "Then you can say that Hannibal was the Turenne of his times, and that Turenne was the Hannibal of his times. This sort of stuff requires no effort and provides your writings with a wise air."

Test Easily Made.

Radio activity of minerals may be tested by their effect upon a photographic plate, which will show shadows of metallic objects placed between it and a specimen of uranium mineral.

Cosmopolitan New York.

New York is the only city in the world where the restaurants provide the native dishes of every land. A Spaniard, Norwegian, Chinaman or Scotchman finds no difficulty in getting his home cooking.

Aluminum Paper.

Aluminum paper, a cheaper substitute for tinfoil, is made by pressing the powdered metal into a thin coating of resin on parchment-like paper.

Keep Up with the Procession.

The keenest joy in life is found in taking a live interest in the passing days. If you go in and shut your windows and pull down the shades, you will miss the show.

Americans the Only Consumers.

At one of the most important groceries in Hamburg they think they are doing well to dispose of 30 or 40 pounds a month of sweet potatoes to resident Americans.

Atlantic Also "Western Ocean."

It is a curious fact that sailors of the English speaking nations often speak of the Atlantic as the "western ocean."

Looking Backward.

Even those among us who are comparatively young can remember when only one or two of the railroads had fourth vice-presidents.

New Luxury in Barber Shop.

A Cincinnati man has patented an electric air heater for barbers' use, compressed air passing through a cylinder containing a resistance coil.

Chance for Capitalists.

No one is at present engaged in exporting hard woods from Ecuador, which is rich in them.

Tanning snake skins for the manufacture of women's belts has become a lucrative industry of Madras.

The Island of Regeneration

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, 1909 by W. G. Chapman.)
(Copyright in Great Britain.)

He turned away again and went down the steps leaving Charnock standing staring after him. He reeled slightly as he went, but he caught himself and marched on with as great a resolution as ever any soldier manifested in the point of danger. He had displayed weakness once in the presence of his enemy. He would not do it again. And while Charnock stared at him, he stepped out through the gate from under the trees, entered the big car and was whirled away.

Left to himself Charnock sat down upon the bench and pressed his head in his hands, his thoughts in a wild whirl. Go back to the island! Why had he said that? Who was there? Did some fantastic spirit of revenge send him half-way round the world on some fool's errand? Hatred spoke in the man's voice. He had coupled his injunction with a curse which was sufficient attest to the bitterness of his feelings. And yet truth spoke there, too. Go back to the island! What could it mean?

A long time he sat resolving in his mind his course, although he knew what it would be from the very moment that the words had fallen from Langford's lips. He must go back, if for no other reason than to settle the doubt, to answer the question, to satisfy the wild clamor of his soul, to kill the hope that flashed into his breast at the other's words.

His reverie was interrupted by the arrival of a strange negro. Langford had stopped at a village tavern, it appeared, where he had procured writing materials. He had paid the boy liberally to bring the note to Charnock. The envelope was sealed. Beneath his name was written these words:

"As you are a gentleman and respect the request of a dead man, you will not open the envelope until you stand upon the island."

Never was there such a prohibition. Never was there such a consuming desire in the man's heart to defy it and disregard it. Yet that vague, intangible thing we call honor, backed by a flimsy bit of paper and paste, held Charnock with fetters of steel. The envelope decided him. He rose to his feet, entered the house, sent for his uncle, told him the story and bade him get ready to start for San Francisco that night. Whittaker and the chaplain, summoned temporarily from the great undertaking, joined them at Washington, and the little party went rushing westward in a private car on a special train as fast as steam and steel could take them. And yet to the heart of the man their progress was so slow that every hour he became more frantic with impatience.

Back in the little village inn by the roadway Langford, alone, lay dying. A strange lawyer wrote a few letters for him confirming a will made in San Francisco leaving ever dollar he possessed to Charnock's great undertaking on condition that his name be not mentioned in it and that those who cared for him might regard it as the end of a great expiation. And so ministered unto by a strange clergyman, he passes out of sight, having made what amendment he could. He loved much in the end, surely in the end much would be forgiven him! Poor Langford!

CHAPTER XXV.

United.

How awful had been those two years upon that island! They would have been completely insupportable had it not been for the forethought and kindness of Langford. The books were not such as she would have chosen, but they were books, at any rate, and she knew them by heart. Of the cloth that he had left, she had fashioned for herself such simple garments as were suitable to her situation, rejoicing that she was no longer compelled to wear the rough, coarse, chafing grass tunics of the past.

The greatest blessing, however, of all that had been left to her was the writing paper, the note books and pencils. They had given her occupation after all other things had failed her, for she had written down the story of her life. Not imagining that they would ever be seen by human eyes, she had poured her whole soul out on the pages. Every incident had been gone over. Not Rousseau himself had been franker in his "Confessions," but here was only sweetness and light. She had restricted her writing to a certain number of moments daily in order to prolong the occupation as much as possible, and she had carefully considered everything ere she put it down.

Twice daily she had gone to the heaven-kissing hill high in the center of the island where she had laboriously builded another pyre for another beacon. Morning and evening with unvarying routine she had scanned the horizon, this time with an excellent glass that Langford had left her. Not once had she sighted a ship. He never came; no one ever came. Hope gradually died away in her heart.

One evening she climbed wearily to the top of the hill and listlessly swept the horizon, the bare, vacant, unbroken horizon, which she had surveyed morning and evening all these years. She expected nothing, but suddenly there sprang into the object glass of the telescope a dark blur which she had never seen before. Her hand trembled so that she almost dropped the glass. She strove to pick up that object again and could not do it in her nervous agitation. Finally she lay down upon the hill and rested her arms upon a little rise of ground, and thus steadying the glass, managed to find it once more. It could be nothing but the smoke of a ship!

The sky was without a cloud; she could not be deceived. It was miles away, of course, yet if the ship was visible to her, the land would be more visible on account of its bulk comparatively to those aboard of her. Yet the ship, if it were bound on some trading voyage, would probably pass by. What should she do? She had sworn that she would stay on that island, live and die there, unless he came to fetch her, but the longing to see him, to hear about him, to know what had become of him, had grown so great that her resolution was trembling in the balance, and in the smoke of that passing ship it vanished into thin air.

She had means of striking a light which Langford had left her, which methodically and mechanically she always brought with her when she climbed up the crest of the hill to seek for a sail. She lifted the matches and approached the beacon. She remembered how once before she had lighted that beacon; she remembered how he had pleaded with her not to do so, how in doing it she had brought the world upon her with such terrible consequences to her. Should she do it again? What would happen if she did? She laid the matches down and lifted the glass once more. Yes, the ship was still there. She was so far away indeed that the short time which had elapsed would have made no change in her apparent position.

She looked back to the westward. The sun was setting. There would be no twilight. Darkness would come swiftly. If she did not light that beacon the ship would pass in the night. If she did light it, the darkness would lend force and efficiency to it. No ship would disregard such a light in such a quarter. Should she do it?

In one swift moment her resolution was taken. She dropped the glass, turned to the box of matches which she had hoarded for this very purpose, knelt down, struck one of them, watched the blue flame develop and swell out in the still air, paused for a moment hesitant, touched the light to the inflammable mass of dead wood at the base of the pile. In one instant the flames were roaring amid the larger timbers as they had roared on that morning nearly two years ago. For one instant she would have torn down the pyre and scattered the flame, but it was not within her power. Nothing could stop that raging blaze now.

As the flames crackled up through the wood, roaring and catching, the sun sank and the darkness fell. Her last act ere the curtain of night shut her in had been to fix her glass upon the faint blur of smoke. Now she could see nothing. It was a moonless night, but bright with stars. She moved away from the fire and sat down as she had sat before, sheltered by the peak, to watch the sea. Now that she had done what she had sworn not to do, she was eager for the success of her attempt. Indeed, she thought that if yon ship did not see that fire and did not come to the island and take her off, this time she would really die; she could not stand another disappointment.

And so she waited wondering through long hours while the flames exhausted themselves and by and by fell to a heap of glowing ashes. Suddenly there leaped out through the darkness a distant twinkle of light. It was too low for a star. Feeling for the telescope, she found it and with difficulty focused it on the tiny spark. It was a red light, the light of a ship! The vessel had seen the signal. It was nearer, much nearer now. She knew about how far such a light could be seen. The ship was coming toward her. She almost fainted from the revulsion of feeling from hope to certainty, from anxiety to assurance.

It was close at hand now. She must go down to the beach to meet it. She rose to her feet and started down the hill. She went slowly, cautiously at first, but finally she broke into a reckless run. She strayed from the path in her excitement, her foot caught in a projecting root. A sharp, excruciating pain shot through her. Something seemed to break in her ankle. She pitched forward on her face and lay still.

Invention of the Lifeboat.

The most effective means of life-saving in the event of a storm is the lifeboat, the first one of which was launched on the Thames on January 4, 1785, by Lionel Lukin, a coach-maker of an inland town near London. The first lifeboat was a Norway yawl, which he had fitted with water-tight compartments, a heavy iron keel and other essentials in buoyancy and stability, which are the cardinal and requisite features of lifeboats now.

Love Greater Than Truth.

You throw yourself away in black, bitter, brutal antipathies and aversions. You with your truth are untrue before false majorities with their lie. Why? I ask it over and over again. Why? And I repeat it after you. Why? And I say: Because the truth never confutes and convinces. Only love confutes and convinces. The best way to get and keep an enemy is to be an enemy.—Horace Traubel, in Conservator.

The Wrong Catalogue.

Recently a party of tourists were visiting the Louvre. By mistake one of the tired number carried a catalogue of the Luxembourg. Upon being confronted by a fantastically modern nude study with a black cat in the background, she turned to the corresponding number and complacently announced to the astonished listeners: "This is Whistler's mother."—Brooklyn Life.

According to Instructions.

At a recent Sunday school convention in Harrisburg, Pa., while the out-of-town guests were registering in one of the churches, a small girl rushed in, and in a shrill, excited voice, said: "Is there anybody here from Montgomery county? Mother says if there is, I'm to get oysters, and if there ain't, I'm to get liver."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Alloys of Metals.

"Brass" stair carpet rods are not brass, but are rods of iron cased with very thin tubes of brass. Much "copper" work is not copper at all, but coated iron. The part pure metals play in manufacture is nothing by comparison with their alloys in their many hundreds of combinations.

Love Versus Passion.

Love and passion are too often mistaken, for they are in reality distinct. Love elevates, passion degrades; love enlarges the heart, passion narrows it. Pure love is entirely free from the taint of passion and is as rare as pure charity.—Home Notes.

Can't Fool the Beggar.

"You can't fool a beggar with bad money," says the Philosopher of Folly. "The deaf and dumb beggar rings it to see if it has the right sound, and the blind beggar looks for the mint mark."—Cleveland Leader.

Nyhart's Cat.

Stewart Nyhart, farmer, of Bartonsville, Monroe county, owns a cat that sleeps on the back of a calf nearly every night. It is said that they are very affectionate toward one another.—Philadelphia Record.

History of New York Street.

The maiden name of Nassau street, New York, was Pie Woman's lane. It was opened in 1696 by a man named Kay, who obtained the right to make it a cartway to what is now City Hall park.

Another Best Seller.

Perhaps the gilded New Yorker who is writing a gossipy book about the pastimes of the idle rich expects to make a fortune out of the first suppressed edition.—St. Louis Star.

Varying Names of Nation.

Spain, to which we owe so large a share of names in the new world, is Espana to the Spanish themselves, Spagne to the Italians, and Espagne to the French.

Very Likely.

Old Lady (on being congratulated on her hundredth birthday)—Ah, I shall never forget this day as long as I live.

The Japanese have no puddings, creams, pies or custards, or anything in which milk and butter are essential; and in actual cookery sweets do not play an important part. Candy and cake stores abound in all their cities and villages, for tea and cakes are always set before every guest. The foundation of all their sweetmeats is either finely ground rice flour sweetened or sugared beans. Centuries ago the Portuguese taught the Japanese to make sponge cake, which is much in favor. It is called kasuteru.

One man makes a happy hit, thousands imitate him, there is a stampede and then failure. Inventions are imitated, names are copied.

THE MEANING AND SPIRIT OF THE RESURRECTION

"Greatest Event in the World's History" Says Rev. Dr. Eaton—"The Secret Hope of the Human Race from the Beginning" Declares Rev. Father Bogan.

As a message to those afflicted by reason of age, sickness or other infirmity, who are unable to attend the joyful service on Easter morn, two distinguished clergymen have kindly consented at the request of The Daily Press to address all such through the columns of this paper.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, who is one of us inasmuch as he resides in the Watchung valley, near this city, has been good enough to spare his valuable time in addressing the "Shut-Ins" on "The Meaning of Easter."

Rev. Father B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's, who ministers to the largest flock of Christians in this section, has also very kindly written a message specially for those who are prevented by some reason or other from listening to a sermon at one of God's edifices.

The Meaning of Easter.

By Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton.

Easter Sunday commemorates the greatest event in the history of the world. Long ago, a man who had died upon the cross and had been buried, rose from his grave. This historical fact is the key stone of Christianity. The Apostle Paul, whose powerful mind penetrated always to the centre of a fact, declared that if Jesus had not risen from the dead, Christians were of all people most miserable. Having renounced the fleeting joys of this world, if Christ be dead, they have lost as well the fancied joys of a world to come. This view of the case is universally accepted by all Christians. In fact upon this one religious truth almost every body of Christians in the world are united.

The resurrection of Jesus is an historical fact, substantiated by evidence, which evidence has convinced the Christian world for over nineteen centuries. To reject this evidence involves greater difficulties than to accept it.

The resurrection of Christ is related to life and conduct, rather than to theology. It is a vital, present reality, a continuous joy and inspiration. It shines like a star upon the bosom of the night, casting its friendly beam into the dark despair and fear which shadows human nature.

There is one question which has been wrung from the aching heart of humanity through all the ages: "If a man die, shall he live again?" To that question there is no answer. The philosopher, the poet, the scientist is silent. We have analogies in nature; but we know that a tree which is dead in the fall cannot live in the spring. One exception in nature to this changeless law is man. This exception is made possible by the fact that Christ was dead and is alive again. We follow our loved ones down to the swiftly flowing river, upon which hangs the pall of eternal mystery. We hear the sound of retreating oars as they embark. But none return to tell us of what lies beyond. Standing thus bowed by the common sorrow which death lays upon all spirits, we hear the voice of the Master: "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

The resurrection of Jesus is a present power in this world of change and decay. In the presence of such a glorious reality the spirit of man is kindled to new hope and aspiration to new confidence in his eternal destiny. We recognize the fact of death; we know that all things change; we are fully conscious that we are passing swiftly from one eternity to another. But to know the power of his resurrection is to rise triumphant over all the depressing influences of human failure and ignorance. The soul asserts its capability of deathless existence. The grave becomes an open door of hope; the hard experiences of our daily life take on the form of wholesome discipline, and we are heartened to bear our burdens manfully knowing that while we may fail, we can never be destroyed. We need help to live this life, for if we live right here, all will be right hereafter. A dead Christ can never become a present Saviour.

This is why the spirit of man rises higher than mere religious observance when it lays hold upon the great truth commemorated by Easter.

The Spirit of Easter.

By Rev. B. M. Bogan.

The secret hope of the human race from the beginning has ever been the resurrection from the dead. Easter joy is but the announcement of the Church of the Living God to the world that the God-Man has risen from the dead. The joy of the Christian is so deep and powerful that its heat warms the earth, and the infidel neighbor is warmed into an enthusiasm and must join with us in our joy. The earth at this moment is propitious. The season of resurrection is come again and the least believing can hope that if the grass and the flowers can return after the winter's death, man shall have his permanent resurrection. Though Christianity may be rejected by the world to the sermon of the Season the critic's indifference is but pretence. For no perfume from the modest violet but breathes the message of resurrection, no bursting bud but says, "You shall rise again." Instinctively the world turns today to that Institution among men which, pointing to the open tomb, opens the heart of the world to hope in immortality. Men stand looking into the open grave which must open remain until the last man has entered it, and grief-stricken cry out, "Is this finality?" In the hours of grief men beat against the walls of death, crying out in their despair: "Is there anything beyond the grave, which holds hope for us?" Unbelievers alone are hopeless as they look into that abyss of mystery. They alone can feel its full horror. For centuries the grief-stricken without hope, cursed the gods they knew, cursed death, cursed life, and cursed thought, because the end of all was misery, uncertainty, and nothingness. How gloriously the Apostles broke in upon their despair! With what joy the eyes of sorrow gazed upon the Risen Christ, and how all ears drank in the comforting message of a life beyond the grave. The message of the Gospel was not a message of philosophy or of speculation. It came direct from God to man with its obligation to believe, and the bloody seal of martyrdom on its cover. Its missionaries died for the truth of it. Is it any wonder then that men were filled with joy in the divine consolation of the message which annihilated death and opened up to man the glory of the celestial world? The serried centuries opposed the message of Christian hope and relegated it to the realm of superstition, but at last the kings left their thrones and the courtiers their conniving and crowded about the apostles of light and heard the story of its hope till wonder and admiration and faith buried their errors and their hatred. For centuries the wise world has been laughing at the loyality of Christianity, forgetting its victories, for, whether crazy or not, after the world's standard, it has achieved what its critics have never dared hope for—the shifting of humanity's broad and violent stream from one channel into another, from the channel of the false gods and its degradation to the channel of Christ and the ennobling hope of immortality. And what expression shall our age give to the faith and hope in its bosom? Unconquerable devotion to the Church, to the Faith against which the world has arrayed its forces of deception and sophistry. Around the standard of the Risen Christ faithful millions are arrayed under military rule, and fearing no hardship that the battle of peace may be fought and the message of hope be conveyed to the generations yet to come. Ours then is the duty of fidelity, courage, patience, sobriety, absolute devotion to the Leader.

Charles R. Scott, of Newark, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave an interesting talk on camp life at Waywaywanda to a large audience of boys at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The talk was illustrated by stereopticon views and was hugely enjoyed by the boys. During the afternoon H. W. Herrman presented silver buttons to seventy boys who mastered the art of swimming in Professor Corsan's classes last week.

DEMAND HIGHER WAGES

Journeymen Tinners Ask for an Increase of Ten Per Cent.

MASONS ASK FOR $5.20 A DAY.

Master Builders' Association Receive the Demands—The Tinners Likely to Be Refused.

The journeymen tinners of the city have made a demand on the bosses for a ten per cent. increase, and the latter at a meeting on Wednesday night, when they received a committee from the tinners organization, refused to grant the extra amount. As yet the tinners have not notified the bosses what action will be taken, but it is believed that they will strike.

The demand grew out of the fact that the plumbers receive $4 a day and the tinners believe that they are worth just as much. The ten per cent. increase would amount to about $3.87 a day or forty-eight cents an hour. At present the tinners receive $3.50.

At the conference of the bosses and tinners, Wednesday night, the former in refusing the demand, stated that business would not warrant the increase at the present time and they believed that it was for the best interests of all to allow the wage scale to remain at the present figures.

A. M. Griffin, Philip Jahn and C. W. Krausse were appointed a committee to treat with the journeymen, but up to this afternoon no word had been received as to the intended action of the tinners.

It was reported today that the masons would also ask for an increase from $4.80 to $5.20 a day, but that no definite action had been taken. The matter will probably come before the Master Builders' Association committee within a short time. From an authoritative source it was learned today that the request is quite likely to be refused, owing to present trade conditions. May 1 is the time usually fixed for a rearrangement of the wage scale in the various trades and no doubt a settlement will be effected by that time.

Church Damaged by Fire.

The old Dutch Reformed church at Brookdale near Montclair was damaged to the extent of $20,000 yesterday by fire. The fire was caused by burning brush and grass which on being fanned by a strong breeze got beyond control reaching the wagon sheds in the rear of the edifice where the lecture room, a modern frame addition, was completely destroyed. The fire companies from Bloomfield had a five mile run and arrived in time to prevent the burning of the parsonage which was ablaze when they arrived. The church, which is of stone, was built 110 years ago.

An Illustrated Lecture.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, gave an illustrated lecture in the Second Presbyterian church, Rahway, last night, on the subject of "The Land of Our Lord." He displayed a great many fine views taken by himself while traveling through the Holy Land, and he explained them in an interesting way.

Crippled Horse in Brook.

A horse which it was claimed is the property of Joseph Manhattan, of East Third street, was found in Green Brook near the Norwood avenue bridge this morning by a member of the S. P. C. A. The animal was in such a pitiable condition that Detective Sergeant Flynn was notified and is making an investigation.

Twenty-sixth Organ Recital.

The twenty-sixth of the series of Sunday afternoon organ recitals will be given at Grace P. E. church tomorrow at 4 o'clock by S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster. The program will include Hallelujah Chorus, Handel; Fari Tochter, Malting; Easter March, Merkel; Hymn of the Nuns, Wely.

Scrapper Fined Five Dollars.

Isaac Goldberg was fined five dollars in the borough court by Recorder Dolliver last night. Goldberg was arrested on the complaint of Solomon Esakson, who charged Goldberg with attacking him on Grove street last Sunday night. Esakson was represented by Martin B. Stutsman.

Building and Loan Annual.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held on Monday night in its office, 146 Park avenue, at 8 o'clock. The seventeenth series will be opened and election of officers will be an important part of the meeting.

MRS. EDWARD KLINE HEIR TO ENGLISHMAN'S ESTATE

Mrs. Edward Kline, of 307 Plainfield avenue, has received information that she is an heir to a large fortune left by an uncle who recently died in England. Her uncle was Peter Mullen, who, in his active days, was a large cattle raiser in Leeds and Manchester. The latter died about March 1.

Mrs. Kline was notified of the windfall by her nephew, H. J. Kearney of 2836 North Orkney street, Philadelphia, who sailed for Ireland to make an investigation on the steamship Haverford of the American Line on March 15. As to the extent of the estate Mrs. Kline expects to hear from her nephew almost any day.

Before her marriage Mrs. Kline was Miss Rose Kearney. She was a native of County Derry and resided near Garva.

WOOLSTON & BUCKLE BUY A FINE BUSINESS BLOCK

Woolston & Buckle have acquired the business property at the southeast corner of North and Park avenues, formerly known as the Taylor property, having traded two residential properties in the borough and one in the city, with F. C. Jennings, of the borough, who was the owner of the Taylor property. Chas H. Lyman, the real estate broker, made the deal.

Woolston & Buckle will make extensive improvement in the property, especially in the store where they will put in a metal ceiling, paper and paint the interior for the purpose of leasing it. This property is considered one of the best in the business section. It was formerly occupied by George W. Rockfellow and F. W. Dunn as a grocery store, but since the latter retired it has been vacant.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAS A BUSY TIME

The fire department was called out to fight a chimney zlaze at 215 Church street at 10 o'clock this morning. Seven streams of chemicals were necessary to extinguish the flames and according to Chief Doane it was the worst chimney fire ever encountered by the firemen. The house is owned by Mrs. Isaac McVoy.

Sparks from a locomotive set fire to an old barn belonging to Mrs. John Brown on South Second street yesterday afternoon and the structure was totally destroyed. The building was valued at about $100.

At 2 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in a pile of debris between McDonough's coal office on Madison avenue and Jersey Central tracks. The prompt arrival of the firemen prevented a disastrous blaze as the flames were making their way to the office when they arrived on the scene.

The borough firemen also had a run yesterday afternoon. As a result of sparks from a grass fire an outhouse and a grape arbor on the property of 168 Grove street, caught fire and was partially destroyed. The damage was about $25.

The North Plainfield fire department was called on again this morning to extinguish a grass fire on Westervelt avenue.

Employes of David T. Kenney, of this city, while at work clearing up Mr. Kenney's estate near Johnson's drive yesterday afternoon, accidentally set fire to the leaves and brush. Twelve cords of wood were destroyed.

Two small grass fires also commanded the attention of the local firemen yesterday. One blaze was at the corner of Park and Evergreen avenues and the other corner West Eighth street and Grant avenue.

At 1:20 this afternoon a grass fire at Arlington avenue Arlington place threatened property but the firemen's quick work prevented the flames from spreading.

There were also two alarms at Scotch Plains. David Walsh's barn caught fire in a mysterious manner, but the prompt arrival of the firemen saved the building from destruction. A fire at the Van Housen residence also resulted in a slight damage.

vary Baptist church in that city was crowded to bid him goodby.

Rev. Mr. Maguire was the guest of honor at a dinner tendered him by the ministers of Cleveland on last Monday and on Thursday night his congregation tendered him and his wife a farewell reception. Mr. Maguire in making the change from Calvary Baptist church is doing so at a great personal sacrifice, but he views the matter from a purely spiritual standpoint and makes the sacrifice willingly. Under his ministrations the Cleveland congregation has doubled and the seating capacity has been increased in the auditorium to more than a thousand and at all the services has been filled. He will deliver a course of thirty lectures at Chautauqua during his summer vacation.

Among the practical charitable associations which he has been able to establish among his congregation is one of brotherhood which has for its object the uplifting of men has been most successful. Many men who otherwise might have succumbed to adverse circumstances have been saved, given employment and otherwise uplifted, besides establishing a sick benefit fund for them. His departure leaves a great void in Baptist circles in Cleveland. Rev. Mr. Maguire will preach his last sermon in Cleveland tomorrow.

Elaborate Music and Special Sermons to Mark the Joyful Celebrations in the Various Protestant and Catholic Churches in the City and in the Borough.

With songs of gladness, the Christian congregations, Catholic and Protestant, in both city and borough, will celebrate Easter, the Day of Resurrection, tomorrow. The festival of Christ's resurrection is called "the queen feast of the year." The word Easter is derived from the Saxon "oster," signifying "to rise." The sacred festival has had existence from the earliest ages of the Church and there can be little doubt of its Apostolical authority. The orders of service tomorrow follow:

JURORS ANGRY OVER PROSECUTOR'S REBUKE.

Elizabeth, March 26.—A sensation was created in the Union County Court yesterday by Prosecutor C. Addison Swift making a fierce attack on the jury that acquitted John Demelle, who was tried a few days ago for conducting a disorderly house here. The case of Joseph Demarco, of Summit, who was placed on trial yesterday for atrocious asault on a man in that city, gave the prosecutor an opportunity to lash the jurymen in the Demelle case. He challenged every one of them when their names were called, and then vigorously stated to the court his reasons for so doing. The Demarco case will last all day.

The challenged jurors, led by Douglas Darby, of Fanwood, held a heated indignation meeting in the courthouse corridor afterward, and bitterly denounced the prosecutor's action.

They were outspoken in their language, and said they did not propose to come to court and exercise their rights as jurymen and then submit to being "insulted, intimidated, bulldozed or browbeaten" by the prosecutor simply becaus they did not bring in a verdict in accordance with his wishes.

A committee of five was appointed to wait on Judge Atwater yesterday afternoon and inform him of the sentiments expressed at the meeting and request that the twelve jurymen be excused from duty for the balance the term.

Physician's Daughter Gone.

Dr. Richard F. B. Seaman, of Locust Valley, L. I. is greatly exercised over the disappearance of his daughter, Miss May Seaman, twenty-four years of age, who, he claims, was held as a prisoner at the home of a negro in Babylon, L. I., for two weeks. According to Dr. Seaman his daughter was supposed to visit relatives in this city, Mr. and Mrs. Klyne, but the latter advised him that Miss Seaman had not visited here.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale" will be produced at The New theatre, New York, in the Elizabethan manner Monday evening. This will be the last presentation of the season by The New theatre company. On April 11 the company will open its road tour in Philadelphia, and a specially organized company will present Rene Fauchois' "Beethoven" on The New theatre's stage. The Elizabethan presentation of "A Winter's Tale" is made chiefly because in the case of this play especially, the absence of scenery enables the producer to obtain more clearly the free atmosphere and the effect of a rapid dramatic narrative which Shakespeare intended. The "properties" will be most elaborate. The stage will be of paneled oak and tapestries. The role of Hermione will be played by Miss Edith Wynee Matthison, and that of Leontes by Henry Holker.

Even the new Amsterdam theatre, the largest regular playhouse in New York, is proving far too small to accommodate the immense throngs anxious to witness "Madame X." Not in twenty years has there been presented an emotional drama in America comparable to this Paris-imported work offered by Manager Henry W. Savage. M. Alexandro Bisson has told his moving story of the wonderful depths of mother-love with sledge-hammer blows that thrill beyond all description just as the ineffable pathos of the mysterious woman's plight brings a flood of tears from every spectator, however calloused. Acted to the point of perfection by a brilliant company, "Madame X" is the electric triumph of the time—a sweeping, smashing hit that is on every tongue.

Harrison Grey Fiske announces two important engagements for the Manhattan Company to support Mrs. Fiske in the Ibsen play, "Pillars of Society," at the Lyceum theatre Easter week. They are Edward Mackay and Helena Van Brugh. The former was leading man with Bertha Galland in "The Return of Eve," and supported Henrietta Crosman in "As You Like It" and "All of a Sudden Peggy." He has also been leading man with Grace George and Mary Mannering. Miss Van Brugh is a member of the De Kay family, her sisters being well known in amateur theatricals. She is a niece of Jeanette Gilder, and her only appearance on the professional stage was with "The Harvest Moon."

George Evans and his Honey-boy Minstrels will be the Easter-week attraction at the Grand Opera House. Cohanesque minsterlsy which has proved so popular the past two seasons will no doubt be hailed with much pleasure by the patrons of New York's West-side playhouse. Mr. Evans still heads the organization andis assisted in his fun-making by many well known minstrel favorites. Prominent among whom are John King, Sam Lee, Earl Benham, Clarence Marks, Thomas Scott and a score of others.

HERE AND THERE.

Easter lillies will be scarce this Easter and all because the happy Sunday comes so early this year. Bermuda, from where the largest supply of these beautiful flowers come, has not contributed its usual quantity of lilies this year, and as a result the prices of the flowers have soared until they are at extremely high prices when they ought to be reasonable. The growers in Bermuda did their utmost to meet the requirements of the season, but the demand has so far exceeded the supply that there are practically none to be had where usually thousands are on sale in New York and other ports.

Baseball is a fine outdoor sport and every boy in the land enjoys it usually from late March to early October, but it has its drawbacks. For instance when the game is being played in the city streets with peril to passers by. Yesterday afternoon a woman was struck on the back with a thrown ball near the corner of Park avenue and Eighth street, but as it did not hurt much she made no complaint beyond scolding the boys for their carelessness. The police are watchful and stop the practice wherever they find the game going on in the streets, but even the guardians of the peace are not ubiquitous. So it's up to the boys themselves to see that they do not imperil the people who must of necessity use the streets in getting from one part of the city to another.

NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

SOME FAMOUS COINS IN HIS COLLECTION

At the Bergen and Lafayette Trust Company, Hoboken, there is on exhibition what is considered one of the most complete collections of both domestic and foreign coins of the world.

Fanan Zerbe, who is president of the American Nmismatic Association, is exhibiting the collection.

The coins range from the crudities that mark the first coined metal in 800 B. C. to the present day. The first human head that was ever reproduced on a coin was that of Alexander the Great, 325 B. C., and on down the line may be seen on gold, silver and copper, the rulers of the nations.

In the collection is the "widow's mite," lepton, shekel and others mentioned in the Book of Mark in the Bible. There are many other freak coins in the collection. Freak coins include all the various odd shapes and materials. Amulet, razor, bridge, dress, fan, bar and key form token pieces and boot-shaped "sycee" from China. Boat, hat, bullet, wheel, shell and fishhook shapes from divisions of the Strait settlements. Heavy ring money from Africa, and the plate money of Sweden are other oddities.

Porcelain, glass, wood, stone, clay, pasteboard, gun metal, shell, pearl, brass, rubber, bone, lead, pewter, and bell metal are among the unusual coin materials.

The wampum of the Indian, the "bean money" of the Filipinos and the "bits" and "cob" money of Latin America tell of primitive currencies, as do the cowries of Uganda, and the wire money of Arabia.

Looking over the collection of United States coins, one is recalled of the early settlement days by the sight of the first coins struck in America, the New England sixpence, 1650, and the famous pine tree shilling in 1652.

The first coins struck by the United States Government are the half cent and the cent in 1793. The first dollar was coined in 1794. Among the collection of silver dollars is one of the 1804 coins which has, because of its scarity, sold for $3,600. The "California slug," minted in 1851, is an octagonal shaped coin 2½ inches in diameter.

In the collection may be found a photographic reproduction of the famous "Brasher's Doubloon," which has a gold value of $16 but has been sold for $6,200. The coin was struck in 1787 in New York by Ephraim Brasher, a goldsmith.

There is in the collection one of the rare Confederate half dollar silver pieces, the only coin of the Confederacy. Also the paper money of the time.

The collection of paper money of the United States is comprehensive, including every note issued from 1861; the "Greenbacks." Among the silver collection of small coins are: Silver—Three-cent pieces from 1851 to 1873. Half dimes, 1791 to 1873. Dimes, 1796, issue continues. Half dollars, 1794, continues. "Trade" dollars, 1873 to 1884. "Standard" silver dollars from 1784 to 1904.

Something of interest to the people of New Jersey now that the agitation for canal abandonment is on is a stock certificate of the Morris company. The number of the certificate is 1,244 and was issued to Ida B. Pollak November 7, 1838, when Samuel Southard was president of the corporation. There is also a promisory note for $300 issued by the canal company.

There is a "$20,000" gold brick among the collection. The "brick" is a large bar of gold which is to all appearances solid gold, but a retired business man a few years ago paid $7,000 for it after he had borings sent to the United States mint and the report had come to him that the borings were gold.

While the borings were being made someone substituted gold for those from the ignot, which is almost solid copper.

JOHNNY CAMPBELL IS "CANDY KID" BOWLER

When it comes to picking out "candy kids" in the bowling game, we must all take off our hats to Johnny Campbell, the individual champ of the Elks League. Without doubt he is the gold medal pin smasher in the State today.

Johnny has won bushels of fame and glory this season but he is after more laurels. He is desirious of arranging matches with such classic tenpin artists as Lee Johns, Billy Weingarth, Charles Meyer and others of Newark. Johnny therefore authorizes The Daily Press to issue a sweeping challenge to all noted bowlers in the State for a home and home series. He has tried to book matches with several of the notables but all have turned down the propositions of the local expert, except William Garrabrant, of Newark. Campbell's former team match on the Tuxedos of that city.

Local sports will put their money down on Johnny to win that contest, and it looks like a sure wager. Johnny and Garrabrant are used to the Newark alleys, while Garrabrant is not so familiar with the local drives. The first battle will be decided at Newark on April 4 and Garrabrant will present himself to the local bowling populace later on.

The first ball game of the season is booked for today on Hyde Field between N. P. H. S. and the Alumni of the borough school.

Local fans may expect to read some baseball dope from the Quaker City in the near future as "Colonel" A. Pippin Hacquer, of Slowtown, is due to arrive in town today for a three-day sojourn.

Four weeks from today, April 23, "Take me out to the ball game," will be in order.

Here's a two-bagger—"Mr. and Mrs. James Childless' home has been brightened by the arrival of twins, two bouncing boys." Tranquility (Warren County) correspondent in Sussex Register. Barnum and Bailey please take notice.

Billy Keeler is still disengaged and baseball managers and girls are still in a merry race for "Wee Willie."

What is the greatest number of home runs ever made in a game of baseball? A. G. T.

If ancient records, when solid rubber balls were in vogue, count, Freeholder Sam Wilbur took the prize thirty odd years ago in a game between Plainfield and Scotch Plains. In that memorable combat a Scotch Plains diamond historian declares that Sam made eleven "homers." Sam therefore holds the record for long distance wallops, although the feat is not chronicled in big league history.

R. Dally, of this city, who has handled the indicator in past seasons is slated to do the judging at Bound Brook this season.

Plainfield Elks will have a strong aggregation on the diamond this season if the plans of Marcus Hoyt and Charley Woolston, the North avenue fashion artists, go through. Here is the material from which a nine will be selected: Jasper Cadmus, Jack Nicol, Harry Blimm, Jack Todd, Harry and Tom DeMeza, Walter McNaughton, Captain Bill Townley and J. "Gabey" Cose. Hoyt and Woolston will soon issue a practise call for the candidates.

Other Elk lodges are contemplating putting nines on the field and the indications are that the Antlers will have a merry competition for honors this season. New Brunswick is organized and an inter-city series is almost assured.

STATE MILITARY BOARD AGAINST PENDING BILLS.

Trenton, March 26.—The State Military Board, at a meeting here Thursday, voiced its disapproval of the series of military bills now pending in the Legislature. Those bills contemplate the reorganization of staffs, the sale of the Sea Girt camp ground and the purchase of another camp ground in the northern part of the State; the remuneration of officers and men for attendance at drills, and other changes in the present order of things military. The board requested Senators Bradley and Fielder to lay before the legislators its attitude toward the bills.

Major-General Wanser appointed General Campbell, General Murray and Colonel Dungan to draw a revised military code. This action, it is said, will probably result in nothing being done in the matter by the Legislature this year.

—Mrs. M. Sweeny and family have removed from 128 to 107 Liberty street.

—Wm. F. Day, of Liberty street, has returned from New Germantown, where he had a contract to erect a large building.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability and equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Plain Field Notes and Queeries

By Druid

Governor Fort, which means Strong, makes a sweet Easter offering to the ladies of New Jersey, whose responsive chorus will be sung fortissimo. His proclamation is an "if," pianissimo.

"The Audubon Society bill put in by Assemblyman Radcliffe of Passaic, making it a misdemeanor for women to wear feathers, wings, or bodies of birds for personal adornment, was put through the House today by a vote of 33 to 11.

"If the Senate passes it Governor Fort will sign it, and Spring styles for New Jersey women must undergo a change at once or many women will be in jail."

There is, as we know on Shakespeare's authority, much virtue in an "if." It pricks a hole in every bubble of bluff. Tender headed womankind need not tremble, it is only a feathery blow at worst. The blowers are the ones who will get worsted.

* * * *

We are the terror-stricken multitude, brother baldheads. What! forbid us to cultivate the scanty crop of downy herbage we fain hope will spring up and flourish like unto the mighty mustard tree! Where are these swashbuckler legislators going to stop in their crusade against personal liberty? If they will kindly postpone these exhibitions of tomboy tomfoolery until they have performed their paid duty of legislating all high and low rascals into jail we and our posterity may safely count on a millenium of indulgence in our right to enjoy life and happiness unworried by flea-bite laws weaker than the paper they are written on and perhaps even than the brains that hatch these sillybilly blue rules. If in a lucid interval legislative apprentices striving for glorious immortality would stamp out the crimes of plucking feathers from live birds; of exterminating those of beautiul plumage for heartless women who think that fine feathers outside their heads make up for the lack of fine feelings within; and the barbarity of using giant feathers to rob their more civilized neighbors of their legal right to see what they pay for in public assemblies, then we will gladly stick a spread eagle quill in their hats for their bravery and sense.

President Taft's spacious smile seems to be getting a little frayed at the edges. When even so semi sacred a thing as a genuine smile becomes automatic it is likely to lose its glow; the gold gets a lacquer of Dutch metal. Or is he only smiling with the other side of his mouth? Failure as an epigram maker is naturally rather souring. At the dinner of the American Peace and Arbitration League the President condescended to borrow a used-up saying from Gen. Sherman, who borrowed it from a heap who borrowed it from Napoleon, who borrowed it from a line of borrowers from every man-jack in the rank and file of the winners and losers in the first battle that ever was. "War is hell!" the reverberating echo of all the ages. His next effort was feebler than even that—"The Lord looks after children, drunken men, and the United States." After! A wide-awake figure-head of a nation is put there to look—not after, but before the child is killed by criminal neglect or recklessness, and before the man makes himself drunk and dangerous, and before the nation makes legislative blunders, petty wars, and tolerates unjust "Justice" betwen the rich and poor.

* * * *

Pittsburgh sticks to its h, denied it by most othertown papers. What can be the secret of its clinging to the h? Certainly the smoky city looks and smells like the Sherman-Taft place. And it is now exhibiting a procession of its citizens, honored by election to its select Council Chamber, in the act of departing from the h city into a paltry penny ten-tiary in the wilderness. Mr. Carnegie, who owes it much for smelting the gold from the human ore so abundant there, even he will not make it his home. Will he now clear his furnaces to purify the material of which so many shining lights of the gold-plated social firmament are made? Or is he courtier enough to echo the shiftless sentiment of his smiling President and leave the Lord to look after poor Pittsburgh's petty grafters and abler wholesale smelters?

* * * *

The Yellow Peril used to be regarded as a bogey to frighten weak-witted Europeans. That is to say—weak-witted journalists and book writers used to try and scare those of us who used our eyes to see and our ears to hear the signs of the times. If there is one thing we know better than another surely it is that wheels go round. Then we believe we know that worlds go whirling round the sun, but this we take upon credit. That nations go up and down with the universal wheel we learn from schoolbooks. What we might know if we sifted our newspapers and give thought to the news which is news and not sheer drivel and transparent lies, is that the universe wheel which revolves by force of nature's law is now lifting the Orient to the top and we know-alls of the up-to-date races are sliding to the bottom.

* * * *

With all our boasted skill and intellect the ancient East can laugh at our ignorance of mysteries and arts long familiar to them. We have mistaken their slowness for stupidity, and their patient endurance for helplessness. We have supposed that they never think of Declarations of Independence, and are too feeble to fight for it. But nations that believe in majority rule ought to keep well in mind that they are a feeble minority when we count the East. China holds 400,000,000 patriots, India 300,000,000, Japan 40,000,000. Not reckoning other Eastern populations these amount to 740 millions of dusky people. The United States may number 85,000,000, and the British Empire, omitting India, say about 100,000,000, and if we count Russia as 105,000,000, Austria-Hungary 46,000,000, Germany 55,000,000, and France 40,000,000, we get a total of say 450,000,000 Americans and Europeans. If someday the 740 millions of Orientals, joined by perhaps ten millions of unlisted peoples in sympathy with them, come swooping down upon us saying they are tired of us and intend to manage their own affairs, what then?

The Point of View.

Jean Paul Laurens, the famous French painter, was the son of an honest cart driver of Toulouse. At one time, when the painter was at the height of his Parisian reputation, it happened that two old women of Toulouse were talking about the Laurens family.

"Let me see," said one, "there were two boys, weren't there?"

"Yes."

"What become of them?"

"Oh, one's a grocer right here in Toulouse. He does a very good business."

"And the other one?"

"The younger one? He went off to Paris and became an artist."

"Dear, dear! And his father such a good, worthy man?"—Youth's Companion.

Cheese Fondu.

Put a tablespoonful of butter in the chafing dish, and when melted, add a half pound of cheese cut fine Stir constantly, and as it softens add a cupful of bread crumbs moistened with as much milk as they will absorb. When the ingredients are well blended, add a little salt, a generous sprinkling of cayenne and the beaten yolks of two eggs. Next stir in a teaspoonful of baking powder and, when the mixture is fluffy, stir in the beaten whites of the two eggs. Serve at once on toasted cracker or triangles of toast.

Boiled Salmon Steaks.

Season the steaks, wipe over with melted butter, then dip in corn meal and broil. Make a cream sauce of two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour and a cupful of cold water. When done, remove from the fire and season with pepper, salt, add the juice of a lemon and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Pour over the fish and serve immediately.

Fried Flounders.

Clean and wash the flounders and rub them in salt. Then wipe dry and dip into beaten egg, sprinkle with cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat.

And All Are Turbans.

Among the new shapes in turbans are the Rembrandt, the Henry III., the Hussar, the De Stael, the Drum Major and the Napoleon.

BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH DIGGING FOR SQUIRREL.

Washington, N. J., March 26.—Fourteen-year-old George Benning was crushed to death by a stone Thursday night at Law's Hollow in the presence of several of his brothers and sisters while digging a squirrel from a wall in which it had taken refuge.

The children had chased the squirrel from a tree and when it disappeared in a chink in the wall, George, the oldest of the group, began to pry the stones apart. As he was kneeling, a huge stone from the top of the wall fell upon his head, crushing it in a terrible manner. The victim's companions ran to the house, a considerable distance away, and notified their mother, who found her son dead beneath the rock. She freed the body and then sent word to the coroner.

Owing to the poverty of the family, it was decided to bring the body to an undertaking establishment here. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon from the Law's Hollow Methodist Episcopal church and Rev. W. H. Evans, pastor of Harmony church, will officiate. The funeral expenses will be paid by Greenwich Township.

WANT ARMORIES USED FOR MILITARY PURPOSES

Declaring that New Jersey has no law which requires military armories to be used exclusively for military purposes, Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr. has received from the war department a circular letter calling attention to the fact and suggesting that State legislation be taken against any use of armories excepting the purposes for which they were built and equipped.

The war department now has a claim over such State armories, inasmuch as they contain federal property in the shape of guns, clothing, etc., and it is the purpose of the department to force the gates or armories to be closed to exhibitions, conventions, political meetings, and everything else, including fairs, charity balls, etc., everything except for military purposes.

The government realizes that those in charge of armories have pressure brought to bear upon them to open the buildings for fairs, charity balls, athletic events, etc. and that they should have some protection in order that they may say "No," and have a law to back them up. This is what the war department wants, as it suggests to the adjutant generals of the various States that the work of the guard is being harmed by the constant use of State armories for other purposes than for which they were erected and equipped.

The war department tells Adjutant General Sadler that only four States—Massachusetts, Michigan, New York and Washington—have within a few years put in their military code regulations forbidding the use of State armories for political or other purposes. In Massachusetts the Governor has discretionary power to allow a limited use of armories for public purposes; in Michigan a "board of control" can rent an armory to "outside parties for temporary purposes" subject to the control exercised by the State military board. In New York armories may be used by veteran organizations, if allowed by the authorities, but not for political purposes, and in the State of Washington the same condition prevails as in New York.

The war department suggests to Adjutant General Sadler that this matter be taken up.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Shad fishermen from Bridgeport have been very successful this week. In one haul at the mouth of the creek twelve fine fellows were caught and they sold quickly at $1.50 each.

Woodbury has caught the cleaning-up fever and Mayor Ladd may name a day, similar to the one in Burlington when the whole city will undergo the same treatment.

At a congregational meeting of Kirkpatrick Memorial church, Ringoes, Wednesday, a unanimous call was extended to Rev. Wilson R. Buxter, of Princeton, to become pastor.

THE COLD FACTS AS TO HIGHER PRICES OF MEAT.

Washington, March 26.—Meat production is not keeping pace with the increase in population. The number of food animals in the United States has decreased 5,000,000 since 1901 and the number of consumers has increased 12,000,000 in the same time. These are the cold facts made public yesterday by the bureau of statistics, after a critical analysis of the cost of living problem with reference to meat.

The total number of cattle, sheep and swine in the country on January 1, 1901, is estimated by the Department of Agriculture to have been 179,000,000. On January 1, 1910, the estimates was 174,000,000. According to the census bureau the population on January 1, 1901 was 77,647,000; on the first day of 1910 it was 89,912,000.

From these figures the bureau estimates that the number of food animals to each 100 persons in 1901 was 231, and only 193 in 1910. It is stated also that the aggregate value of food animals at present, despite the smaller number, is twenty-two per cent. more than in 1901.

AUDUBON MEASTRE AROUSES MILLINERS

There will be some radical changes in the styles in women's hats in New Jersey if the Senate passes and the Governor signs the Radcliffs bill put through the Legislature Wednesday evening. The bill comes from the Audubon Society.

It is an amendment to the Fish and Game act, and provides that no person shall purchase, offer, or expose for sale any wild bird after it has been killed or caught, and no part of the plumage, skin, or body of any bird protected by this section shall be sold or had in possession for sale. The bill does not apply to the feathers of birds of paradise, ostriches, domestic fowl, or domestic pigeons. Any person violating the proposed law shall be subject to a fine o $20 for each offense.

It is expected that lively opposition to the bill will appear in the Senate, and it is possible that it will not get through that body. It is known that the millinery interests are opposed to it, and many women are expected to resent this effort on the part of lawmakers to curtail their adornment.

MISSING MAN FOUND DEAD BY OWN HAND.

Elizabeth, March 26.—Martin Houser, a middle-aged German, who resided at 157 Reid street, this city, committed suicide yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

His wife, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning missed him, and found his clothing lying on the floor. Becoming alarmed, she notified the police, and a general alarm was sent out for him.

At 8 o'clock his body was discovered by a boy, who lives next door, and who saw it lying on a heap of rubbish in the back of the yard. The body was removed to Engel's morgue. Houser was employed in the Singer Sewing Machine Works.

A mortgage on his property was shortly to be foreclosed. He brooded over this for a long time.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Plainfield Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men,
The hard work and stooping of workmen,
The woman's household cares,
Are too great a strain on the kidneys.
Backache, headache, sideache,
Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

A Plainfield citizen tells you how to cure them all.

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience with them, I feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Randolph's drug store and I was soon in good health. Since the hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks f backache but a fewo dses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Fig Sauce for Custard.

A fig sauce is delicious with baked custard. Take five figs and chop or cut them very fine; just cover with water and simmer slowly for two hours or longer in a double boiler. Add the juice of half a lemon and a very little sugar and let it cool. Pour over the custard. For those who like flavor, sherry may be substituted for the lemon.

Avoiding Fruit Stains.

When paring any kind of fresh fruit, if the hands are washed off immediately with cold water, instead of being washed in warm water and soap, there will be very little danger of unsightly stains.

Fabric-covered Buckles.

Square and oblong buckles, huge in size and covered with spangled or jeweled fabrics, are seen on many of the new gowns.

Veiled Hat Crowns.

The Island of Regeneration

When she came to her senses light was shining in her eyes. Men stood about her holding ship's lanterns. Some one bent over her as some one had bent over her five years before when she lay senseless on the sand. A voice she knew called to her; arms to whose touch she thrilled gathered her up; she felt a heart beat against her own. He had come back. He was there.

"Woman," said the man, "I have come back to you."

"Man," returned the woman, oblivious of those who stood around, holding the lights, to whom she gave no single thought—indeed they were those who knew her well—"Man," she asked, true to her resolution, "do you love me as much as on that night?"

"More, a thousand times!"

"And do you think me worthy—?"

"Do not ask! It is I who am unworthy of you."

"I can die now," said the woman softly, lasping into unconsciousness again.

"Great God!" cried the man, straining her to his breast again, "have I found her only to lose her!"

"Let me look," said the surgeon, whom by good chance they had picked up at San Francisco. "She didn't look like a dying woman a moment since. Lay her down, man, and stand back."

Whittaker and the chaplain pulled Charnock aside. The surgeon took his place by the prostrate figure.

"Lights here!" he cried. He made such rapid examination as he could, seeing in a moment one foot lying inert, out of place, and helpless. "She's only fainted," he said. "It's her ankle. She's broken it in the darkness coming to meet us. We will take her to the ship."

"No," said the man; "she must come of her own free will. Send to the ship for bandages and whatever you require."

"Very well," said the surgeon, rising and conferring hastily with Mr. Whittaker. "Meanwhile, your handkerchiefs, gentlemen, and some cold water."

"There is a spring hereabouts," said the man, "on the other side of the hill."

"I will fetch the water," said the chaplain.

He was wearing a tightly woven straw hat in which he could easily carry it.

Mr. Whittaker turned and ran to the beach whence he sent the boat off to the ship. The surgeon meanwhile had bound up the woman's ankle, and bathed it with water and whisky, and had forced some of the spirits down the woman's throat, but the man's touch, his presence, would have sufficed to call her back to life.

"Do you suffer?" he asked tenderly as consciousness returned to her.

"Not since you are here," she said. "I ran to meet the ship and fell and hurt my ankle."

"The doctor has fixed it up for you. We have sent to the ship for bandages."

"Man," she said, "whose ship is it?"

"Mine."

"Did you see my signal?"

"Yes, and we were glad because it told us that you were alive, but we were coming directly here."

"And did you come for me?"

"For you only."

"How did you know that I was here?"

"I didn't know it."

"Why did you come then?"

"I was sent here."

"Who sent you."

"Langford."

"Did he tell you I was here?"

"No, he told me to go back to the island, that was all."

"Nothing more?"

"He gave me a letter which I was to open when I set foot upon it."

"Open it now," said the woman.

She had risen to a sitting position. He knelt beside her, his arm around her supporting her. He carried the letter in his pocket. He had slipped it there as he started for the shore. He took it out and handed it to her.

"You may open it," he said.

With trembling fingers she tore the envelope. Inside there was nothing for him, but a smaller envelope addressed to her. The chaplain held the light close to enable them to see.

"It is for me," she said, "not for you."

"Yes," said Charnock gravely, stifling a spasm of jealousy in his heart.

"You may open it."

"Not I," returned the man touched by this confidence. "It is for you."

Without more ado she tore the second envelope. A little slip of paper fell from it. His message was astonishingly brief. While Charnock resolutely averted his head, she read these words:

"I broke my word once to your sorrow; I break it again to your joy. Won't you try to remember now that I am gone that I tried to make amends and that I gave him back to you?"

She glanced at the paper and then she read the simple words aloud.

Charnock understood vaguely that in some way Langford had known that the woman was alive—how he could ascertain later—and that she had made him promise not to tell; that he had broken his promise and died.

"I don't understand the last words," said the woman.

"They are his last words, I take it," answered the man. "He looked like a dead man when he came to me at my house in Virginia and told me to go to the island."

"Poor Langford," said the woman.

"May God have mercy on him!" added the chaplain, solemnly. He knew the story, too. "Do you forgive him, my child?" asked the old man as he, too, turned away to leave these two alone.

"With all my heart," answered the woman.

"And do you forgive me?" asked Charnock softly.

"With all my heart," again answered the woman, but with a change in the intonation that made all the difference in the world between the two statements.

She turned her face toward him, reaching her arms up to his neck, forgetting the pain in her foot in the long kiss he pressed upon her upturned lips while he held her close there in that still and starry night on that gemlike island of regeneration in the far Pacific sea.

THE END.

PAPER MONEY LONG IN USE

Idea That This Particular Medium of Currency Is New, Is Erroneous.

Paper money—properly guaranteed—is now generally recognized throughout the world as the most satisfactory and convenient form of currency. It is not, however, as is very generally supposed, a comparatively modern idea.

The celebrated traveler, Marco Paulo of Venice, was the first person to announce to Europe the existence of paper money in China under the moguls. It was subsequently introduced by the moguls into Persia, where their notes were called djaou, or djaw, a word evidently derived from the Chinese word schaio, signifying "a want of specie."

The fact of the moguls having in China and Persia made use of paper money has induced the belief that they were the originators of it. But in the history of Tchinghiz-khan and of the mogul dynasty in China, published in the year 1739, the author speaks of the suppression of the paper money, which was in use under the dynasty of the Soung, who reigned in China previous to the moguls, and he also mentions a new species of notes which were substituted for the old in the year 1264.

The original financial speculation of the Chinese ministry to provide for the extraordinary expenditures of the state, which were exceeding the revenues, was in the year 119 B. C. At this period were introduced the phi-pi, or value in skins. These were small pieces of the skin of deer, which were kept in a pen within the palace walls. They were a Chinese square foot in size and were beautifully ornamented with painting and embroidery. The price of those skins was fixed at a sum equal to about $65.

Standard Oil Capital.

Earnings of the Standard Oil Company are understood to be at a rate between $80,000,000 and $85,000,000 a year as against disbursements of roundly $40,000,000 a year to shareholders. While no definite action has been taken by the company to increase its capital, it is known that certain inside interests favor larger capital and consequently smaller dividends. The company is engaged in litigation with the government, and it is not thought there will be any enlargement of the capital until after the company shall have disposed of the litigation. I has been suggested several times that the stock be increased to $600,000,000.—Chicago Tribune.

Progression in Language.

It is possible to tell almost exactly when the more elegant "perspire" drove out the vulgar "sweat." According to a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine in 1791, "for some time past neither man, woman nor child in Great Britain and Ireland, of any rank or fashion, has been subject to the gross form of exudation which was formerly known as 'sweat.' Now every mortal, except carters, coal heavers and charmen, merely 'perspire.' For these 20 years past the word 'sweat' has been gradually becoming more and more odious." Before 1770 or so "perspiration" commonly meant an insensible process, "sweating" the grosser variety thereof. In one of his sermons Wesley remarked that "during a night's sleep a healthy man perspires one part in four less when he sweats than when he does not." That would be meaningless to-day.

Crocheted Bedroom Slippers.

Bedroom slippers crocheted of the heavy mercerized cotton are most attractive. The changeable cottons are especially effective.

Twilled Foulards.

Unusually handsome for gowns are the twilled foulards found in a large range of colors as well as in many rich designs.

Tailored Suit Buttons.

Buttons self-covered and set in black rims are being used on some of the early spring tailored suits.

Foulards for Linings.

Figured foulards are to be used as linings for many of the smart tailored coats this spring.

HER MEMORANDA

Mrs. Winnick thought, sitting extremely upright and staring intently at the third knob in the fresco over the opposite window, that such things really never did happen in real life, and anyhow if they did happen it was perfectly absurd that they should happen to her.

The voices at the next table came to her distinctly. She had been away a whole month, visiting, and Harold had not expected her back for two weeks, but she had grown homesick. She remembered now that in his last letter he had written: "Do not feel that you must hurry back, dear. Your visit is doing you so much good that I want you to stay just as long as you like."

When she had read that she had thought how perfectly self-sacrificing and thoughtful Harold was when she knew he must be wandering around like a lost sheep in the family hotel where they made their home. Harold was always so dependent upon her for company. She had thought just that! And the voices at the next table kept right on with their hateful chatter.

She remembered now of having once read that trying to surprise people was foolish. It was foolish indeed, she thought. She had come back unannounced just at dinner time and, hiding her suitcase in the depths of the closet, had gone down to the dining room, anticipating gleefully Harold's surprise when he walked in to his solitary meal and found her there.

She had noticed the occupants of the next table when she entered because they were strangers to her and because one was so surprisingly pretty, with masses of blonde hair and lovely coloring. The older woman had spoken first.

"Are you going out again this evening?" she had asked. "I noticed Mr. Winnick's car being brought around as I came in."

"Yes," the pretty girl had answered. "He telephoned from downtown an hour ago saying it was such a fine evening that it would be pleasant to take a ride and get supper somewhere. The last time he took me out—"

By this time Mrs. Winnick had straightened up with beating heart and begun staring at the third knob in the fresco, meanwhile giving her waiter a perfectly unintelligible order. And she had been pitying Harold because of his siege of loneliness!

"I don't know when," the pretty girl went on, "I've met a man who was as fascinating as Mr. Winnick. And he's been so lovely to me since I came."

"Well," remarked the older woman, "that's a mild way of expressing it! He has hung around you every minute of the time, to tell the truth!"

Her Harold! What a monster of duplicity! Mrs. Winnick fiercely ate a piece of celery so covered with salt that it strangled her.

"He's so amusing," caid the pretty girl. "And witty. He kept me in a perfect gale of laughter last time all the way out and back."

And Harold in all the years Mrs. Winnick had known him had been distinguished for his quietness! Mrs. Winnick ate her dinner mechanically, thinking bitter thoughts. The worst of all was to find there were angles to Harold's nature which had been hidden from her, his wife. She never had been kept in gales of laughter for hours at a time!

She heard the pretty girl mentioning Mr. Winnick and the theater. Mrs. Winnick regretted wildly that she had been so idiotic as to abstain from a theater party while away solely because there was to be a man present whom she had jilted in order to marry Winnick.

She had heard that the more you care for a person the more violent is your dislike when you begin to hate him or her. Now she felt that she hated Harold Winnick desperately. All she hoped for was that she might be able to maintain a cold and calm demeanor when he came in. At that instant she saw him enter the big dining room and watched feverishly as he threaded his way toward her corner. Her heart sunk hopelessly as near the next table, he bowed beamingly to the pretty girl and her companion.

At his own table he paused in bewildered surprise. Then, with a joyous exclamation which Mrs. Winnick labeled hypocritical, he bent over and kissed her before everybody.

"Well, if this isn't splendid!" he cried.

"Is it?" asked Mrs. Winnick icily, with her eyes on her plate.

"Don't you feel well?" asked Winnick, anxiously. "You look pale. And I've been boasting to Tom about your pink cheeks."

"Who is Tom?" queried Mrs. Winnick, with no animation.

"I've been saving him for a surprise," explained her husband. "My cousin, Tom Winnick, who is here on business for a few weeks. I had him come to our table—he ought to be here now. I thought he'd be a lot of company while you were away, but he got so interested in that pretty blonde at the next table that— Good gracious, Mabel, what on earth's the trouble? What are you crying about?"

"Oh," quavered Mrs. Winnick, hysterically, "because you are just the same as you always were!"

"Well, why shouldn't I be?" demanded the mystified Winnick.

The only time to hesitate about telling the truth is when you are convinced it is going to hurt.

His Misplaced Confidence

Mrs. Braithwaite opened the kitchen door in answer to a timid knock and a small girl handed her a note. She read:

"monday chicago. Dear madam Mrs. Wendt Cannot come to wash monday for I am felling veary bade and I will come to wash next monday your Truly MRS. WENDT."

When the small messenger had been sent on her way with a nickel and the last piece of cake in the house Mrs. Braithwaite considered the situation.

"I never have washed before, but what woman has done woman can do," she murmured. "I'll just celebrate my month-old wedding anniversary by making it my first washday."

It was nearly 11 o'clock before Mrs. Braithwaite began to put her plan into execution.

Presently she stopped to rest a moment and ruefully contemplate her reddened hands robbed of cuticle in more than one place. Then the water boiled over in the wash boiler on the gas stove. She raised the lid, filling the tiny kitchen with steam, and at that moment there came a tap at the door. Lid in hand, Mrs. Braithwaite answered the summons and was confronted by a graceful figure in a gray suit.

"I couldn't ring the front door bell because of the newly painted steps," explained the caller. "Is Mrs. Braithwaite at home?"

"I am Mrs. Braithwaite."

"Phil's wife! How perfectly delightful to meet you! I am Evelyn Du Bois. You will excuse my calling at this unseasonable hour, but I'm passing through the city and took the opportunity between trains to make the acquaintance of Phil's wife. Please, may I come in?"

"I beg your pardon," Mrs. Braithwaite said, painfully conscious of her abbreviated skirt and the boiler lid in her hand. She led the way into the sitting room through the piles of assorted clothes on the kitchen floor.

This, then, was the girl Phil had been engaged to!

Mrs. Braithwaite looked around her in dismay. Never before had the little sitting room shown such disorder. She gathered up an armful of things from a chair and begged her caller to be seated.

"Phil and I have known each other for years," Miss Du Bois observed. "He's much older than I, you know. I imagine you are nearer his age. He always said he never would marry a brunette, but there's no depending upon a man's word, as I suppose you have learned already. What a dear home! And so very, very tiny! Somehow, I can't imagine Phil crowding his six feet of stature in here. Of course he keeps up his singing, Mrs. Braithwaite, and you play his accompaniments?"

Mrs. Braithwaite shook her head and became conscious of the sweeping cap. She removed it, attempted to smooth back her hair and felt the curlers. An embarrassed flush stained her cheeks.

"My hair curls naturally," Miss Du Bois volunteered with a superior smile. "How do you keep your hands in condition to play the piano when you must wash? I never dreamed that Phil would ask his wife to do the washing. He was always so considerate and—"

"My husband hasn't the faintest idea that I'm washing," Mrs. Braithwaite broke in indignantly. "The woman failed to come."

"Of course," Miss Du Bois acquiesced with a politely incredulous air. She consulted her watch, adding as she rose: "Positively, it is nearly luncheon time."

Mrs. Braithwaite rose also, a nervous, something tugging at her throat. Phil would never forgive her for letting Miss Du Bois go without some refreshment. But the pantry was empty! Saturday they had dined downtown; Sunday they had dined with friends.

"You must let me give you a bite and sup," Mrs. Braithwaite urged. "While you lay aside your coat in the hall, I will prepare it quickly."

Seated at the table, brave with pretty new napery, cut glass and silver, Miss Du Bois helped herself daintily to bread, butter and jelly, begging to be excused for omitting eggs, which she never ate.

"Did you have a caller to-day?" asked Braithwaite of his wife when they met.

"Yes, Miss Du Bois," she answered.

"I met Evelyn on the street and she tried to get me to go to lunch with her," explained Braithwaite. "I told her I wanted her to meet you. She thought maybe you wouldn't be prepared for callers and all that sort of thing, but I emphasized the fact that you are always prepared and have given me leave to bring anybody home at any time for a meal. Evelyn, you know, can't turn her hand to anything in a house—been waited on all her life. It was all right to send her up, wasn't it?"

Mrs. Braithwaite said "Yes," rather faintly. Then she added, as though the thought had just flashed on her. "Perhaps it would be best, though, to call up and see if I'm at home and ready for visitors before you send out anybody again."

"I'll do that," he agreed. "But I'm certain you were prepared to-day," he declared, with the blissful ignorance of an inexperienced husband.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD BEAT OUT THE NEW MARKETS.

The South Plainfield Field Club shut out the New Market Field Club in an exciting contest yesterday at the former place. The score was 18 to 4. It was a case of "sweet revenge" for the victors as last Saturday they were trimmed by the New Market aggregation by a score of 11 to 10. Sofield pitched a fine game and received excellent support. One of the features of the game was Miller's catch of a red hot liner. The score:

BISBANE ON ADVERTISING.

Chicago, March 26.—That a man who advertises his business properly is not only a distributor, but also helps the public generally to economize was the statement made Thursday by Arthur Brisbane, of New York, in an address before the Chicago Advertising Association.

"Writing advertisements is the hardest possible work," said Mr. Brisbane. "It is the most difficult thing in all the business of writing, because when you write an advertisement successfully you must, to begin with overcome a man's reluctance to read it. You must interest him in what interests you. If I told you men now that you have very interesting noses you would all feel your noses and look in the glass. If I try to interest you in some money making scheme or some merchandising scheme it is very difficult.

"The old-fashioned man imagined that when he bought an advertised article he paid for the advertising. The modern man knows that this is false; that the value is in the goods, and that they are just as cheap."

OBSERVE GOOD FRIDAY

The Evangelical Congregations Gathered Together Last Night.

HAYDN'S "PASSION" WAS SUNG.

Quartette and Chorus Give Superb Rendition of Musical Masterpiece—Offering for Charity.

Under the direction of R. A. Laslett Smith, organist and choirmaster of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, a quartet composed of Miss Lillian Watt, sporano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; LeRoy Pilcher, tenor, and Berney P. Pettigrew, baritone, and a chorus of forty voices selected from among the choirs of the various churches in the city, there was given one of the best rendered musical services last night ever presented in this city. Haydn's Passion in six parts was the cantata and its rendition was as near perfection as such a work can be.

The service for the evening was the annual Good Friday union meeting in which pastors of the various churches took part and the whole congregation joined in singing the hymns. The church was filled to its utmost capacity with an appreciative gathering and had applause for the singing been permissible there is no doubt that the people would have lent their approbation of the magnificent singing in some unmistakable way. Much of the success for the excellence of the performance was due to the splendid work of Mr. Smith, but he as well as others concurred in the statement that to Howard M. Case, who presided at the organ, was due a large share of the honors for his exquisite work at the big church instrument. His accompaniments were faultless and the interlude, "Maestoso Adagio" was played with magic power and beauty.

Taken as a whole the performance was an enduring mark of quality for those who took part. The reading of the score with its diminuendos and climaxes precisely timed was a treat not often offered to the average church goer and the memory of the glorious, uplifting cadences of Haydn's masterly music will be a lingering memory of soul happiness.

Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, pastor of the church, delivered the invocation; Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church read the scripture; Rev. Dr. John A. Chambliss offered the prayer and the whole congregation repeated the creed. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Chambliss.

An offertory was received for the benefit of the Children's Home. The union Good Friday is a time honored custom here.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

The anniversary of the Women's Missionary societies of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, the meeting being in charge of the Young Women's Society and presided over by the newly-elected president, Miss Helen Armstrong. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who spoke impressively on the importance of mission work and introduced Miss Edith Gurley of Boston, who last year visited the mission stations of the Orient.

Miss Gurley described the reception of her mother and herself on their arrival in India when Christians and non-Christians gave them honor, because they were guests of missionaries who had shown themselves true friends of the natives. Her story of Nellore and Ongole was full of interest. She told of the ascent to Prayer Meeting Hill of Dr. and Mrs. Jewett when there was not a single Christian in all the Telegu people about Ongole and the changes that were wrought until in 1878 the Telegu converts were numbered by thousands. The Christian conventions in Burma the helpfulness of the Karens the house to house visitation in China and the mission schools in Japan were vividly described by Miss Gurley. She quoted the saying, "Those who are least up in a thing are most down on a thing," and she believed from personal knowledge that anything done for missions counts for more than any other work. Playing with missions she said was playing with human souls, and it was time to work for missions with power and zeal.

On account of Miss Gurley's limited time, the secretaries of the Home and Foreign Missionaries societies had asked to have the reading of their annual report deferred until their regular meeting. Miss Ida Yerkes, treasurer of the Foreign Missionary Society, reported the amount received for the year $485.65.

Mrs. Frank W. Jones, treasurer of the Home Missionary Society, reported the year's receipts $500.24.

The report of the Young Women's Society was read by their secretary, Miss Pauline Denton, and showed interest and advance.

The treasurer's report read by Mrs. Robin Brown in the absence of the treasurer Miss Bessie Flanders, showed receipts of $236.30.

A social half hour followed with serving of tea. Miss Gurley conducted a missionary rally in Elizabeth last evening.

NEW SLEEVES.

There is a revolution in the style of sleeves. The long, tight severely plain ones are steadily giving way to the elaborate models. The new sleeves show a variety of ornate shapes with gathers, puffs, pleatings, slashes and smockings galore.

Some are full length, some end above and others just turn the elbow. There are wide and narrow cuffs of net and lace, with full puffs above held by bands of velvet or saatin ribbon, gold, silver or bronze tissue.

Sleeves need no longer be of the material of the gown, indeed, they are more often of fabric far removed from that of the frock. Lace, net, gold and silver tissue and chiffon cloth are used in creating the majority of the sleeves of smart gowns. On one frock one or two of these materials may be used; on another all of them may be combined to form a ravishing arm covering.

HOW EASTER WAS OBSERVED IN THE CHURCHES

Large Congregations Heard Superb Music and Stirring Sermons on the Feast of the Resurrection.

The fine weather of yesterday brought out the largest congregations seen in the local churches in many a day. This was particularly true of the Episcopal churches. At all the communion services in the morning the attendance was large. At Grace church the number of persons to attend communion was the largest in the history of the church, and the offerings, which were for missions were very gratifying.

The music at Grace church was of the highest character and the male choir gave a splendid account of itself. At the organ recital in the afternoon and at Evensong immediately following, the attendance was also good.

At Holy Cross the same thing was noticeable. The church was filled with worshippers at every service and the choir under the direction of Will O'Brien, organist and choirmaster, sang brilliantly. The church altars were beautifully decorated with seasonable flowers and the women's toilets added more color to the ensemble.

At the Church of the Heavenly Rest the special services also drew splendid congregations and the general feeling of happiness which characterized the various offices of the church was reflected in the faces of the communicants. One of the sweetest services of the day was that of the children in the afternoon, when the rector, Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, addressed the children. What has been said of the three churches above may be repeated of St. Stephen's with the exception that Rev. Morgan Ashley, the rector, sang the solos in the anthems and his splendid tenor voice did justice to the music which was under the direction of Charles M. Suhr.

At Trinity Reformed the altar and pulpit were masses of lilies, palms and ferns forming one of the most beautiful pieces of decoration seen in the city. The singing by the quartet choir was up to the standard and the work of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, was highly commendable. The pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, preached a strong sermon from 1 Corinthians, 15:55: "O, Death Where Is Thy Sting? O, Grave Where Is Thy Victory?"

At the Congregational church the morning services and the session of the Sunday school were both largely attended. The music was sung by a quartet under the direction of Charles L. Lewis and met with approval. At the Sunday school exercises a great many of the congregation remained to hear the children sing and recite. There was no evening service in this church.

At Marconnier chapel, after the regular morning services conducted by the pastor, who preached upon an Easter topic, there was an old fashioned egg hunt, which was participated in by the children of the Sunday school.

Park Avenue Baptist church.

The Easter program given by the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school yesterday afternoon was especially pleasing and included exercises by the main school and primary department as follows:

Opening selection, orchestra; carol, school; prayer, Mrs. David M. Runyon; carol, school; cornet solo, "Calvary," Whitney Frazee; carol, school; recitation, "Making the Weather," Irene Moy; song, elementary department; recitation, "When the Pussy Willows Gray," Emily Van Winkle, Elsie Dayton and Gladys Hadley; song, elementary department.

Solo and chorus, Edith Bechtel and young women's chorus; recitation, "The Bulb and the Seed," Hilda Gerlash, Elizabeth Ttate and Helen Parker; recitation, "The Flower Buds are Swelling," Jennie Dayton; carol, school; song, elementary department; recitation, "Nature's Easter Song," Clara Hadley; carol, school; address, Miss Ruth Angel; carol, young women's chorus; recitation, "The Easter Angel," Miss Arline Brown, with piano accompaniment by Miss Mary Clark; carol, school; prayer, George E. Hall, "Ave Maria," Victor machine; closing selection, orchestra.

Miss Ruth Angel, of New York, held the close attention of the audience as she told the Easter story in her pleasing way, in connection with which she described many of the customs of the Jews in the time of Christ and at the present day. A feature of the program was the augmented orchestra led by Arthur S. Mosher including the following:

Violins, Arthur S. Mosher, Elmer Winckler, Charles Wheeler, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Marjorie Brown, G. W. V. Moy; flute, Elmer P. Wheeler; cornet, Whitney Frazee; bass viol, Dr. J. F. Berg.

Rev. Charles Hillman Fountain, of this city, preached two excellent sermons at the church services, morning and night.

First Baptist Church.

The Easter services at the First Baptist church, were of unusual interest, while the floral display from the conservatory of C. W. McCutchen was one of the most elaborate witnessed in years. The flowers were arranged in a solid bank about the pulpit platform.

At the morning service, the quartet and chorus choir was assisted by Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist, and Howard M. Case was at the organ. The program:

Prelude, "Cavatina," Taylor, violin and organ; anthem, "Light's Glittering Morn," Parker; "Te Deum," Buck; anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," Miller; sermon, "The Place of the Resurrection in History," Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss; offertory, "Upon the First Day of the Week," Foster; doxology, benediction and postlude, "Allegro," Tours.

The solo parts were taken by Miss Louella C. Harris, soprano; Miss Bracker, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor.

The Sunday school Easter service and anniversary exercises were held in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when this program was given:

Prelude, "Andante Religieuse," Thome, violin, piano and organ, Mrs. Alfred Kennelley at the piano; carol, "Easter Flowers Bloom Again," school; invocation, pastor; responsive reading, led by Assistant Superintendent Frank W. Jones; anthem, choir; recitation, "At Easter Time," Elmer French; semi-chorus, "Christ Lives," primary department; recitation, Anna Sherwin; carol, "Joy Bells," Junior department; recitation, "On a Morning Bright and Beautiful," Katherine Herrman; recitation, Emily Pilger; carol, "Ring Out Sweet Easter Bells," school; recitation, "When God Calls," Evelyn Tennison; song, "Waiting to Grow," primary department; annual report, James D. Macnab, secretary; carol, "Easter Song," school; lesson, Arthur M. Harris; semi-chorus, "Shine Our Morning Star," junior girls; recitations, Mildred Weiss, Caroline Grannatt; offertory, "Nocturne," Chopin; recitations, Mildred Boyle; carol, "Ye Happy Children Onward," school; benediction, pastor; postlude, "Maestoso," Dubois.

A third service was held in the evening when Dr. Chambliss baptized twelve candidates, most from the Sunday school. This impressive service was witnessed by a large congregation.

Trinity Reformed.

One of the prettiest services of the day was that of the Sunday school of Trinity Reformed church, in which the junior, primary and beginners' departments took part. Some very tuneful music was sung and appropriate recitations given The pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, spoke briefly to the children in a parable concerning the King's house with its ten servants, a story which interested old and young alike.

James A. Smith read the annual report for 1909, which showed that the membership of the school, including teachers and officers, has passed the 1,000 mark, 1,023 being on the rolls January 1, 1910.

Following is the program of the exercises.

Processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers;" Scripture reading, hymn No. 171, school; Invocation; exercise, Easter Welcome, Clifford Williams, Alfred Baker, George Frukoff; song, "Voices of Spring," Class No. 12, primary department; recitation, "Pretty Flowers," Paline Davison; exercise, beginner's department, John Mehlenbeck, Gemini Harrison, Robert Blair; hymn, No. 168, school; exercise, Easter Emblems, Marjorie Van Emburgh, Dorothy Ross, Helen Willett, Helen Lake; song, "Beauty Everywhere," Mildred Clark, Ruth Freeman, Grace Sowden, Esther Kellogg, Edna Smith and Adele Freemon, sextette from primary department; exercise, "Lessons from the Lily," Charles Mehlenbeck, Alfred Cadmus, Arthur Krymer, Edward Cadmus, Alfred DeNise; exercise, "Jesus Lives," Dorothy Seader, Mabel Bodine, Marjorie Lindsay, Alma Allegar, Helen Clarkson; song, "He Careth for Them," primary department; recitation, "On a Morning Bright and Beautiful," Carman Trembath; song, "Sing All Ye Lands," junior department; recitation, "The Joyous Day," Gertrude Rittenhouse; exercise, "The Old New Story," Francis Neighbor, Dorothy Van Winkle; song, "The Living Lord," quartet

MISS SANCHEZ APPEARS IN "GODDESS OF LIBERTY"

Miss Inez Sanchez, who portrays the character of Doris Butterworth in "The Goddess of Liberty," which comes to the Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, is a beauty of the decided brunette type, was born in Porto Rico, where her father, until a few years ago, was a wealthy fruit commission merchant.

Miss Sanchez is of the Spanish type and is often taken for a Spanish girl by those who see her on the stage. She has, however, an American education, which she received before her father failed in business, at the Sacred Heart Convent in Philadelphia. When her father's fortune was swept away she decided to make her own way in the world and accepted a position in the chorus of "The Spring Chicken," in which Richard Carle was starring. That was but four years ago, and since that time her rise has been a rapid one. The opportunity soon came and she took Blanche Dale's part in "The Spring Chicken," in which she made such a success that she was offered an engagement with Rogers Bros. "In Panama," where she was allowed to creat a Spanish part.

Following this she went into "The Broken Idol," in which she succeeded Laura Guerite, now starring in "Dick Whittington," and from "The Broken Idol' into "The Goddess of Liberty," where she has been most successful. Miss Sanchez has a number of opportunities for the coming season and it is expected she will be given a starring vehicle in the near future. She has a remarkable voice and unusual dramatic ability, a combination that counts for much.

SHAREHOLDERS ARE PAID TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS

The Union Building and Loan Association on Saturday presented Easter greetings to its shareholders in the shape of checks, amounting in the aggregate to $20,000, in payment of the first series of stock. This series has been running eleven years and two months, which is considerably less than the time it usually takes a series to mature. The customary period is about twelve years.

Each member in this series received $100 for $67 paid in, the amounts received ranging from $100 to $3,000. There were two hundred shares in the series and there has been subscribed 255 shares in the series which was opened in January to take the place of the one matured. The association opens a new series in April and there is already a large waiting list of those anxious to subscribe. Wage earners or persons of moderate means find this a safe and profitable way to accumulate earnings by investing them in such associations.

Funeral of Jasper H. Wilson.

The funeral services of Jasper H. Wilson, who died in Trenton on Saturday, will be held from the home of his brother, Andrew Wilson, on Craig place, and will be private. He was the son of Jenet and the late John Wilson. He was fifty-two years of age and had been a resident of Trenton for eighteen years.

Junior Endeavorers to Meet.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a business and social meeting at the church Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by the president, Miss Adelaide Cole. The Endeavorers are requested to bring their Log Cabin banks to this meeting.

Aged Man Converted.

Miss Clyde Burnet made an impressive and eloquent address at the Plainfield Rescue Mission meeting, last night, on "The Resurrection." Alexander Stanley, of Trenton, who is seventy-three years of age, made a public confession of Christ.

Chosen Valedictorian.

Miss Gertrude L. Hunter, a senior at Barnard College, is spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hunter, of West Fourth street. Miss Hunter has been chosen valedictorian of the '10 class for the commencement in June.

Rev. Dr. Schenck Assisted.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor-emeritus of Trinity Reformed church, attended the Easter services yesterday morning and at the close pronounced the benediction.

COURT ORDERS WOMEN TO KEEP FAR APART

A business difference between Mrs. Amelia Milheim and Miss T. Alexander, of Lake street, led to an altercation between the two last Wednesday which resulted in a summons to court of Mrs. Wilhelm today. All the parties which included several women of the neighborhood are Syrians and interpreters were needed to get at the facts. Miss Alexander claimel that Mrs. Milheim insulted her, using vile language in the presence of her friends. Mrs. Melheim denied the charge, but all the witnesses to the affair showed that she had been indiscreet. Judge William Runyon advised the two women to keep away from each other in future and dismissed the case.

The attendance at yesterday's session was 247 and the collection amounted to $16.14. One year ago the membership was 555, including 24 officers and 43 teachers, and during the year there was an increase of twelve, the membership on February 1 last being 567. TO MAKE CHANGE AT EAST BOUND STATION.

William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, has received from General Manager W. C. Besler, of the Central Railroad a letter in which Mr. Besler says: "While I personally feel that the expense of rearranging the plan of the lawn at the east bound station is not warranted and that the beauty of the lines of the landscape gardening will be marred, in deference to the request af the citizens whom you state you represent, we will make this change."

This is in reply to a letter from Mr. Jeffery to Mr. Besler in which Mr. Jeffery asked for a change in the landscape gardening in order to improve the traffic service at the station.

FINED TEN DOLLARS EACH FOR FIGHTING YESTERDAY

A free for all fight in which a quintet of Poles were the central figures took place yesterday afternoon near the home of John Polhanka on South Second street and resulted, as usual, with the peacemaker getting a broken head and the breaking of a small cross intended for the grave of Polhanka's sister.

Polhanka was putting the finishing touches on the little monument when Joseph Kavis and John Slonka interfered with him and after telling Polhanka that the cross would be no good unless it was properly baptized with holy water proceeded to smash it. This precipitated a fight in which Polhanka endeavored to save the remains of the cross, while Kavis and Slonka pummeled him and one Peter Ross who tried to prevent bloodshed.

John Shats took the police into his confidence and sent for the patrol wagon, but in the meantime Kavis and Slonka got away, but as they were known to the police they were easily apprehended while asleep in their homes this morning at 7 o'clock. Both these men have been in trouble for fighting on other occasions. Judge Runyon fined each of them ten dollars which their wives paid. Strangely enough there appeared to be no drunkenness preceding the scrap.

SABBATH SCHOOL HOLDS ITS ANNUAL ELECTION.

Officers were elected and reports were presented at the annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist Sabbath-school, held at the church last night, and the annual appropriations were made. These officers were chosen:

Superintendent, Orra S. Rogers, first assistant, Henry M. Maxson; second assistant, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Nathan Wardner; treasurer, Roland Davis; chorister, Frank Langworthy; pianist, Mrs. William C. Hubbard; librarian, Miss Nettie Stillman.

The school now has a membership of 143, a decrease of eight over last year, due to the removal of families from the city. The total receipts for the year were $529.14 and the disbursements $371.06, leaving a balance of $158.08. These appropriations were made for the coming year:

Muhlenberg Hospital, $10; The Day Nursery, $10; Children's Home, $10; Loyal Temperance Legion, $5; Sabbath-school library, $10; Sabbath-school Board, $25; State Primary Union, $1; denominational theological seminary, $10.

He Hit O'Hare.

The night watchman at the Courtney Rubber Works was compelled to hit Daniel O'Hare, one with his right in the face and another with his left on the body, a la Jack Johnson, in order to convince O'Hare that he was a persona non grata on the company's grounds Saturday evening about sundown. O'Hare was under the influence of liquor and wanted to go to work. The judge suspended sentence this morning in order to allow him to take his job.

A Severe Test.

The fire at Brokaw Garage proved conclusively that concrete building material (when properly made) is absolutely fireproof. When made of Trap Rock and Portland Cement it will withstand a much greater degree of heat than when ordinary sand is used. Build your garages of concrete. We can supply your wants. R. G. Bush, 743-5 South avenue. ***

She Withdrew Complaint.

Clarence Drake, who ran down Miss Edyth Glaentzer near Grant avenue a week ago while on his motor cycle, was in court this morning, but Drake was not sentenced owing to the fact that the complaint against him by Miss Glaentzer has been withdrawn, but it is likely that the breaking of the speed laws will be taken up against him later.

Borough Court.

Aaron Reed, who was arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in the borough on Saturday night, will have a hearing before Recorder Dolliver tonight. Hannah Vandervort, colored, who appeared on the same charge before Mayor Smalley this morning, was released with a 90-day sentence hanging over her head.

Fined for Drunkenness.

Albert Sanderson, colored, who has a long record of appearances in the city court, was fined five dollars this morning for being helplessly drunk on Somerset street Saturday night.

Suspended Sentence.

John Cox and William Wingleman, the latter of Pittsburg, Pa., charged with fighting on Saturday night, had sentence suspended by Judge Runyon this morning.

AUBUDON BILL'S OBJECT

Measure Would Make it Illegal to Sell Wild Bird's Plumage in State.

WILLIAM DUTCHER EXPLAINS.

The President of National Association Corrects False Reports Concerning the Purpose of Proposed Law.

As president of the National Association of Aubudon Societies, William Dutcher, of Central avenue, desires to correct false impressions as to the purpose of the Aubudon bill now before the State Senate. He has been prompted to do so because many erroneous reports have been circulated, working considerable harm to the cause.

Mr. Dutcher made this statement today:

The question now before the Legislature is whether they will still permit the milliners to deal in property that belongs to the State as a whole and not to any individuals or a single class of persons. The vital point is whether the wild birds shall be conserved for the benefit of agriculture and forestry, or whether the milliners shall be permitted to have them killed so their plumage may be sold for hat trimmings. By the census of 1900, New Jersey had 34,650 farms, covering 2,840,966 acres, the value of which was $189,533,660. Every acre is swarming with insect and rodent pests, the chief check on which is wild birds, which were provided by an All-Wise Creator solely for this purpose. They certainly were not created for millinery ornaments, notwithstanding the claims of the milliners. The bill now before the Legislature simply amplifies Section No. 3, of the present wild bird law of the State, because it has been found that the present law does not sufficiently protect our local wild birds.

All the Audubon society asks is to make it illegal to sell the plumage of wild birds irrespective of whether the bird was killed within or without the State. After a bird has been killed and its feathers have been made into a millinery ornament, no living person can tell whether the bird was killed in New Jersey, or Pennsylvania, or Florida, or Canada, and therefore the birds of New Jersey cannot be protected. The amendment seeks to prohibit sale only and does not effect the woman who is willing to wear plumage except in so far as it restricts her to the use of plumage of domestic poultry and pigeons, ostrich plumes, the feathers of game birds and of certain exotic birds of which there is no representative of the family in the United States. The only question now before the people of New Jersey and their representatives in the Legislature is whether the milliners shall appropriate the wild birds for their pecuniary benefit or whether they shall be conserved for the benefit of the whole people as an aid to agriculture and forestry which are acknowledged to be the foundation of the wealth of the country.

This is a question of pure economics, and not one of sentiment. The writer is one of the recognized authorities in the United States on the relation of birds to agriculture, and he does not hesitate to say that if the Senate of New Jersey, before whom the bill now is, do not approve of the amendment and send it to the Governor for his signature, that they will be acting directly contrary to the best interests of the State.

Plan Improvement of Church.

The prayer-meeting at Trinity Reformed church, Wednesday night, will be followed by a congregational meeting, at which plans adopted by the Consistory will be submitted to the congregation for approval. The plans include the enlargement of the Sunday school rooms, the interior decoration of the church, painting and repairing the exterior of the church, and the installation of a new memorial pipe organ, the gift of a member of the church.

"Dutch Market" at Trinity.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will conduct a "Dutch Market," at the church, Thursday and Friday nights. No admission will be charged. There will be all kinds of good things to eat in Dutch or American style to satisfy any appetite. A feature will be a tulip bed.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the Plainfield Fire Department for their gallant work at the fire in our building, and also Mr. Waller and Mr. Carpenter, who engineered the work of saving cars from the building, and also all those who assisted in any way in saving property. Signed

AUTOS AFIRE, LOSS $75,000.

Twenty Cars Badly Damaged by a Big Blaze at Brokaw Bros. Garage—Many Machines Saved.

Vapor, which was caused by the escape of gasolene from a leaking carborator, coming in contact with a hot exhaust pipe or lamp, resulted in a disastrous blaze at the Brokaw Brothers' automobile garage on East Fourth street early yesterday morning. Twenty automobiles, ranging from $1,500 to $10,000 in value, were badly damaged, while a dozen or more machines were put out of commission by smoke and water.

The total loss, including the damage to the building, will reach the $75,000 mark, it is reported. Fire insurance adjusters are now at work on the scene and it will be several days before the exact loss is ascertained. The damage to the garage is fixed at $5,000.

It was the most damaging fire encountered by the local fire department since the destruction of the Babcock building in 1901. The entire department was called out, and it was due to the effective work of the firemen at the risk of their lives that a far greater loss didn't ensue. Four machines were completely destroyed. The total value of the machines stored in the garage at the time of the fire is placed at $200,000. Auto owners who suffered by the fire are as follows:

J. L. Arrowsmith, touring car; T. B. Koons, Thomas car; John J. Kenny, Reo car; David T. Kenny, Thomas Limosine; William A. Codding, Chalmer's car, totally destroyed, loss $2,000; Fiat show car, loss about $2,000. The Chalmers car was not insured. Dr. B. VanD, Hedges, Reo car; L. Hertz, Mitchell runabout; Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Maxwell runabout; Dr. F. C. Ard, Stevens-Duryea; Oliver Reed, Renault car; W. A. Powlison, Maxwell delivery car; Hyman Adelberg, E. M. F. touring car; Duncan Taylor, Reo car; C. E. Dunn, Reo car; Robert A. Meeker, Buick car; C. E. Biddle, Reo car; C. C. Pierson, New York, Packard touring car; Brokaw Brothers, 1910 Reo car and two 1907 Reo cars, total wreck; Reo demonstrator and new locomobile, slightly damaged; A. B. C. Bodine, Flemington, Jackson car; Philadelphia owners, Buick car and Pierce Arrow touring car. The latter car is uninsured.

Among the cars damaged by fire and smoke are machines owned by George H. Chapman, Dr. Conover, of Hasbrouk Heights, and a truck belonging to the Vacuum Cleaning Company, of Jersey City. Werner Heideloff, Clarence Varian, Walter Simpson, F. A. Duttenhofer, Albert Giddes, C. E. Lipscomb, Louis Morris, F. Wood, Roy Wolley, Joseph T Vail, Armstrong Mulford and Frank Crawford.

The blaze started at about 1:45, or about ten minutes after J. L. Arrowsmith, of West Seventh street, left his car in the garage on his return from New York. Charles Vermeule, the night man, was the only person in the building when the fire started. According to his story he heard a sizzling noise, looked around and beheld a flame shooting out from the Arrowsmith car in the rear of the shop.

In an instant Vermeule declared he was surrounded by a huge flame. He sized up the situation quickly, however, hurried to the telephone and notified fire headquarters. In making his way through the flame Vermeule was burned slightly about the face. From descriptions of the origin of the fire auto experts believe it to be due to the vapor caused by the leakage of gasolene from the carborator on the Arrowsmith car.

When Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings received Vermeule's word he immediately notified Chief Doane, who in turn, issued an order to call out all the companies. Captain James Daley, of headquarters was the first official of the department to arrive on the scene.

Orders were given to Vermeule to pull Box No. 21 and when Chief Doane reached the burning garage two more alarms were sent in and within half an hour the full force of the regulars and call men were at work where they remained until about 5:30 o'clock.

When the first detachment of the fire reached the garage one solid flame was swooping over the area in Juvenile thieves raided a row of new houses being erected on Mott avenue, Burlington, by Mayor Farner, and stole new floor boards, tar and nails sufficient to construct a barge along the river shore. Frightened when their boat sank on its first trip, one of the boys confessed, implicating his young confederates in this and other crimes. Two have been arrested and fined.

Just after tapping the gong for the departure of a boat from the terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Camden Friday night, Amos K. The man's wife has been an invalid for several years, and he had been in the employ of the company nearly twenty years.

French, of Camden, having obtained the consent of the attorney-general for the use of his name, will begin proceedings at once in the Court of Chancery against the Sooy Oyster Company to have set aside the exclusive grant to dredge for oysters in certain natural oyster beds in Atlantic and Cape May counties and the Mullica River. The grant was made by the State Riparian Commission. Mr. French represents the oystermen of Great Egg Harbor Bay, who have been at war with the Sooy company for several years.

Arrested on a charge of desertion, Frank Williams, a barber, told County Detective Carroll in Camden Friday that he was compelled to marry Catharine Brogan by her brother-in-law, who, he alleged, reached his hand in his back pocket and said: "You have your choice, marry my sister-in-law or go to the graveyard." Williams declared that, as he was not prepared to go to a grave yard, he accompanied the girl to the office of Justice of the Peace Baldwin, who performed the ceremony. He was committed to jail in default of $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Garrison.

Becoming angry during a dispute over a business matter at the office of the Delaware and Atlantic Telephone Company, Third and Market streets, Camden, Friday, Mrs. D. F. Spuer reminded one of the clerks that she carried a revolver, ready for use at any time she might be insulted, in a business transaction or otherwise. The clerk telephoned to city hall and Policemen Flick and McCully escorted the woman to the street. "I'm perfectly harmless" she said as the police took charge of the gun, and, as no charge was preferred against her, she was allowed to proceed to her home near Locustwood Cemetery.

DELAWARE SHAD RUNNING.

Gloucester, March 28.—At the first haul with the "nigger," or small net, at the Washington Park fishery early Thursday evening, one large roe and four buck shad were caught and pleased Captain Joseph Bennett so much that he decided to fish the small net every day until the big net is ready, which will be Saturday of this week or sooner. The net Thursday night was put out for the purpose of ascertaining whether the fishing grounds were clear, and when five shad were caught with twenty-five smaller fish and the usual collection of rubbish, the fisherman were quite surprised.

The roe shad was purchased by a Camden physician, who paid $2 for it. The others were consumed by the fishermen, who usually enjoy a feast with the first shad caught. The work on the big net will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and, if it is finished before next Saturday and there is a good run of shad, it will be put overboard immediately.

If the big net is put overboard this week it will be the earliest that it has been fished in many years. It is not usually put in commission until the middle of April and sometimes later.

Braider, organist and choirmaster. The solo parts were taken by Miss Jeanette C. Grant, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; Otto A. Knauer, tenor, and Herbert R. Byard, baritone. A feature was the violin playing by Miss Edith Cecelia Rubel, of New York. The singing by the quartet was much enjoyed by large congregations. The Easter decorations were unusually attractive.

The Sunday school met at 10 o'clock in the morning, when Superintendent LeRoy Gates presented buttons to all members present. In addition to the elaborate musical programs given at the First M E. church, morning and night, the Sunday school enjoyed a special program in Vincent chapel in the afternoon, under the direction of James R. Hope Chapel.

Rev. L. R. Howard preached Easter sermons to two large congregations at Hope chapel yesterday morning and evening. Inspiring music was rendered by an augmented choir and the festal day was haled by beautiful floral decorations, of lilies, palms and potted plants that adorned the pulpit. At the morning service the rite of baptism was administered to a little girl, Erna May Mague. At this service Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson rendered a violin solo and Mrs. L. R. Howard presided at the organ.

In the afternoon there were recitations and songs by members of the primary and beginners' departments. Superintendent George H. Condict presided and E. L. Suffern delivered an Easter talk.

Grace M. E. Church.

Sunday school children took a prominent part in the celebration of Easter at the Grace M. E. church yesterday afternoon. An Easter address was given by the pastor, Rev. Ora J. Shoop, in addition to a program rendered by the children.

Participating in song and recitations were Helen Bolen, Gladys Brokaw, Adelaide Jones, Elva Jennings, May Moore, Evelyn Nelson, Grace Bolen, Edna Mantz, Elizabeth Voorhees, Anna Starbuck, Marion Jones,

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES

Helen Nelson, Douglass Maltby, Marie Jennings, Cora Hale, Ruth Conover, Ruth Nichols, Bertha Starbuck, Mildred Harden, Walter Conover, Albert Monck and others.

During the exercises Easter souvenirs in the form of Easter crosses were distributed to members of the school. The decorations consisted of a profuse arrangement of palms and lilies. Miss Della Vohel was in charge of the decorating.

Temple Baptist Church.

The Sunday-school of the Temple Baptist church joined in an elaborate Easter service at the church, last night, under the direction of the superintendent, L. W. Randolph. W. A. Conger was at the organ and a children's chorus took part. At the morning service, the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, preached an appropriate sermon on the theme, "The Risen Redeemer," after which he baptized a number of candidates. There was also baptism in the evening, there being twenty-two in all.

This program was presented in the evening:

Easter carol, "Praise Ye the King of Kings," school; prayer, L. W. Randolph; Scripture reading, Frank Stewart; "The Return of Spring," choir; recitations, "A Message," Freddie Berg; "A Happy Greeting," Eva Cartright; "A Short Piece," Wells Rose; song and chorus, "Blessed Tidings," Hardreff Paterson; recitation, "Ten Little Hands," Nellie Askham, Alice Senior, Geraldine Bicknell, Bessie Griffen; "The Glad New Day," choir; recitations, "Are You?" Helen Waldron; "Something," Harold Winn; "Tread Softly," solo and chorus, Blanche Askham; recitation, "Wake Up," Willie Cartright, Cora Cornelius, Walter Montrose, Lavina Todd; "Ye Snow Clad Vales," solo and chorus, Alice Huff; recitation, "A Change," Harold Wilson; song, "Everywhere," school, address, Rev. J. W. Musson; baptism and closing services.

Hunt Club's Weekly Chase.

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club was held Saturday afternoon, starting from New Market, and finishing near Metuchen. Rufus C. Finch was acting master in the absence of Lewis E. Waring. Albert Trojan was among the riders, mounted on a new horse recently purchased from Hugh Gormley.

Many Small Fires.

The fire department was called out this morning to extinguish two chimney fires, one at 338 East Third street and the other at 247 East Second street. Yesterday a grass fire on Berkeley avenue and burning ties on the railroad tracks near the Watchung avenue bridge called for their attention.

Rev. G. R. Maguire Arrives.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, the pastor-elect of the Park Avenue Baptist church, accompanied by his wife and daughter, arrived in Plainfield at noon today from Cleveland, O., and in a day or two will take possession of the parsonage on East Ninth street.

AUTOMOBILES AFIRE

the lower floor, while the second story was filled with dense black smoke. Flames were shooting out of the first story windows from the rear while clouds of smoke were pouring out of the windows of the second story on the north and west sides of the building.

The first two lines of hose put in commission were directed to the west side of the lower floor where the fire started while three lines of hose shot streams in the rear portion of the garage, for the purpose of protecting the station, should the flames spread in that direction. In all about 5,000 feet of hose was in commission.

The firemen were considerably handicapped by alleged low pressure from the hydrants. The steamer, however, which was located at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, executed fine service with a strong stream. While the firemen were playing the water on the lower floor, Captain William Addis and the members of the truck company were engaged in operations on the second floor.

The firemen fought the flames in constant danger of possible explosions of gasolene tanks on the various machines, but fortunately no accidents or injuries were recorded. Chief Doane, in making an investigation this morning, made the discovery that all of the tanks on machines in the building were filled with the fluid. It was fully one and a half hours before the flames were gotten under control by the firemen.

It was one of the hardest fires in the history of the city to cope with, according to Chief Doane. The firemen were handicapped by the heat from the flames, which was so intense as to spring two huge steel girders, which weigh 5,000 pounds each.

Among those who were first to arrive at the fire and render assistance to the firemen were Elton Giles and Elwood Waller. This pair of volunteers saved several machines from being damaged by pushing them out of the burning building.

Valuable assistance was also rendered the firemen by the police department and when the blaze was over there were seven watersoaked and smoke begrimed officers—Chief Kiely, Sergeant Herbert Overbaugh, Patrolmen Morris Higgins, Patrick Sweeney, Mat Vanderweg, Dennis O'Keefe and Flatley.

The biggest loser among the auto owners is Judge William A. Coddington. While he carried an insurance policy on his Fiat car his Chalmer machine, which was rated at $2,000, is uncovered. This car is a complete wreck and damaged beyond repair. From all accounts all the other cars except one of the Philadelphia machines are protected against loss by policies.

It was generally reported yesterday that there was no insurance on David T. Kenny's new $6,000 Thomas car, but this proved untrue. The damage to Mr. Kenny's machine is $400.

Brokaw Brothers announced this morning that they are equipped to take care of all repairing and other business for customers. The debris is being cleaned away and a gang of workmen is at work putting the garage in first class shape.

Robert Kyle.

Robert Kyle, aged about 65 years, for many years in the employ of the Plainfield Country Club as a caretaker, died this morning at his home near South Plainfield, of chronic heart disease. He had been confined to his bed for about two months. Mr. Kyle was a native of Ireland. He was a faithful employe of the country club and had many friends. He is survived by two daughters and a son. The notice of the funeral will be announced later.

F. L. C. Martin and his mother, Mrs. J. M. Martin, of Park avenue, have returned from a sojourn in Bermuda.

Our Club Plan

Why should a man or a woman, perfectly responsible as to character, and earning a good salary, not have the privilege of furnishing the house or flat he occupies on as good terms as he could make if he wanted to buy the house?

Instead of paying rent, he turns the monthly payments into capital, by investing in the house.

The terms we make through our Club plan are much like those made by real estate firms, from whom you can buy houses—and the more salaried men and women who take advantage of such terms here, the more we are pleased.

This applies to Furniture, to Carpets, Rugs and Upholstery—and to these things when they are reduced as well as when they sell at regular prices and there is no interest to pay.

STYLES IN HAIR

"It's funny about hair," said the girl who likes to talk. "People in former years didn't have such a time over their topknots! Why, when I was a little girl I can remember my mother taking her hair in one hand, combing it upward in three motions, giving it one twist—I think they called it a French twist—and then it ran up the back of her head to the top. Then with one more motion she coiled what was left up above on the roof somewhere, jabbed in three hairpins and that was all there was to it. And my mother was a stylish woman, too!

"I believe I had an aunt who wore a false front at that time, though it was considered a sort of disgrace to the family, and she was invariably spoken of as 'poor Aunt Amelia,' much as though she was feeble minded or afflicted with a cork leg. Hair was hair then and everybody seemed to have it. I still remember the girl named Abbie who walked up the hill by our home to school with her hair in two thick symmetrical braids tied with cherry ribbon. From the second primary grade to the first high school year Abbie's braids grew far below her waist and were just as thick at the ends as at the top. Every girl had thick braids and the mothers weren't behind in that respect, either. They wouldn't have known what to do with a 'rat' unless they had used it to stuff a soft cushion.

"I don't know where all that hair has gone to, I'm sure.

"At the present time," proceeded the girl who likes to talk, "to own a little hair attached to your scalp is taken as a personal injury by the hairdressers. They tell you in sad tones that it's impossible to dress your hair so that it looks fashionable if you have any of your own.

"I've never been exactly crazy about my hair," declared the girl who likes to talk, "because I was brought up in the belief that it was an entirely natural thing to have hair grow on one's head, and grow thick and long, just as much as it was natural to grow teeth or a nose. When I was in school I had occasional spasms of trying to arrange my hair after the prevailing mode, but somehow it never worked.

"But I've never been actually apologetic and unhappy till this winter. I've got so now that I slink and cower at the sight of a hair-dresser's sign and shudder with apprehension if I have to enter the shop. The first hair-dresser I approached this winter with a request to be made beautiful regarded me with unconcealed horror as she started to take down my locks.

"'Why!' she gasped, 'you don't wear a braid!'

"'Why should I wear a braid? asked I, in a superior, comfortable way. 'I have plenty of my own hair to braid if I want to.'

"Thereupon the hair-dresser exploded. Didn't I know that a braid could not be arranged properly unless both its ends were free? The only thing to be done, if one was so unfortunte as to have hair, was to wad it up over a cage-like cap and pound it down into as near nothingness as possible and then wind around one's head a braid 20 inches long at least, made of the very best imported hair. Yes, such a braid was expensive. Anywhere from $35 up to $100, and, of course, the more individual the shade the higher the price. My own hair always had looked a most ordinary brown to me. Firmly I refused the $60 braid and the hair-dresser threw up her hands. All she could do for me, it appeared, was to make an old-fashioned pompadour and an old-fashfashioned array of puffs at the back—out of my own hair, to be sure, but as nearly as possible like the false sets you can now buy at reduced rates. So after paying her I went home and took down my hair and did it up my own way.

"A few days later I surged into another hair shop and fell into the hands of a gum-chewing young person called Mabel, to whom I broke the news at once that I did not own a braid. Mabel didn't faint. She said to leave it to her, and as I was in a chair with an apron tied around my neck and helpless, I did.

"Some day Mabel is going to be perched on a pillar of fame. I don't know exactly what she did or how she did it, but when she was through with me I was a fashionable dream. She tied and divided and subdivided and twisted and wreathed my hair till I emerged with the semblance of a perfectly lovely braid puffed out all around my face. Oh, it looked simple and lovely and most becoming and I was entranced.

"Do you know, it took me three-quarters of an hour to get the hairpins out when I took down my hair? Why, I had hairpins stacked up around me like cordwood, all over the dresser and the floor. I looked like a captive tied to the stake all ready for the match to be applied. I got delirious. I didn't know there were that many hairpins in the world or that one head of hair could be divided into millions of strands, as mine was.

"That coiffure was built like the pyramids—to stay. Further, it was like the catacombs for complexity. If I'd let it alone it would have lasted all this year. I don't believe Mabel could ever do it again.

"I believe after all I'll cut off three-quarters of my hair and buy a false braid that I can stick on with two pins—it'll be quicker!"

Parliament a Refuge.

Down to 60 years ago a seat in the British parliament was a prize much sought for by men who found themselves beset by importunate creditors, inasmuch as in those times no civil action for debt could be brought against an M. P. When a dissolution occurred, this privilege of course was automatically annulled, a fact of which the creditors hastened to take full advantage. Disraeli once wrote that the only way to keep some men "out of the house of correction was to get them into the house of commons."

Prolonging Life of Guns.

Henceforth all seacoast guns of six-inch caliber and over, except mortars, will be provided with double tubes, so that, should the inner tube give way, the damage will not extend to the outer tube and the enveloping jacket and hoops. This will permit the restoration at small cost of guns whose tubes give way, and will facilitate the rehabilitation of guns whose accuracy has been lost through erosion and wear of the bore.

Wail from Boston.

"It's disgusting," said Mrs. Waldo Beaconhill of Boston; "the makers of children's blocks never think of putting Greek letters on them; and there's my poor little Emerson simply dying of ennui, for the want of a good fairy tale in words of moderately extensive syllabification."

Unknown Eskimos.

There exists no connected account of the material culture of the great group of Eskimo dwellings around the mouth of the Mackenzie river. Still more meager is our knowledge of that extinct Eskimo culture of which the sole witnesses are the ruins in the islands in the north Canadian archipelago; these islands form the most northerly bridge between the western Eskimo and Greenland.

Good Substitute for Reality.

A New York woman who likes to have flowers in her windows but finds it impracticable to do so in the city has artificial ones painted on the glass. The windows are high up above the street and the flowers are in colors to enable them to be seen more easily. The apartment house in which the woman lives is on Broadway, and the effect of the art is very striking.

Showing World's Progress.

The average Frenchman of to-day can at a smaller price have much better wine than the wealthy Frenchman of the fifteenth or sixteenth century, and this is made possible by the fact that wine is nowadays kept largely in bottles, while in the past only casks were used. Even at the table of Louis XV. wine was rarely served in bottles.

Devoured by Wolves.

A grim tale comes from Transylvania. While Baron Otto Orban, a Hungarian magnate, aged 76 years, was riding on his estate he was chased by hunger-pinched wolves. His horse became frenzied, and threw the baron, who was devoured by the wolves. A bloody knife, found in the snow, indicates that he fought for his life.

Cheap Railway Travel.

In the cities of Great Britain the population of which is 200,000 or more, the average rate of fare for street railway travel is 1.1 cents a passenger mile. In the cities of continental Europe the average rate of fare paid for urban transportation is one cent a passenger mile.

"Block" Tin Goods.

Block tin goods are steel goods, coated. Vessels made of tin would melt on the fire or fall to pieces immediately that they were used. Steel must be used, and "block" only means that an extra thick covering of tin has been given.

Pretty Mean Trick.

A Chicago millionaire has published a volume decrying the value of education. Naturally a rich man has enemies, and some particularly bitter one must have inspired the writing of this book.

Competition Lowers Prices.

Piassava fiber at one time brought up to $336 a ton in Libera. Competition in other African countries and in South America has forced this price down at times to as low as $48 a ton.

German Thoroughness.

For the purpose of promoting the sale of German goods abroad, instruction courses for cultivating the artistic taste of storekeepers and their salespeople have been instituted in Berlin.

Metal Pens Comparatively New.

Although the first American patent for a metal pen was granted a Baltimorean in 1810, it was half a century later that the industry began to flourish.

Strict Meat Regulations.

Germany forbids the use of boric acid in curing meats and requires that all meat pickled in salt or brine must contain at least six per cent. salt in its innermost part.

At Least Show Good Intent.

An optimistic Washington preacher told his congregation that broken resolutions were better than no pavement at all.

From 8,000 to 10,000 coal slack and pitch briquettes are manufactured and consumed in the city of Belfast, Ireland, each year.

CHAPTER I.

I Go to Pittsburg.

McKnight is gradually taking over the criminal end of the business. I never liked it, and since the strange case of the man in lower ten, I have been a bit squeamish. Given a case like that, where you can build up a network of clews that absolutely incriminate three entirely different people, only one of whom can be guilty, and your faith in circumstantial evidence dies of overcrowding. I never see a shivering, white-faced wretch in the prisoners' dock that I do not hark back with shuddering horror to the strange events on the Pullman car Ontario, between Washington and Pittsburg, on the night of September 9, last.

McKnight could tell the story a great deal better than I, although he cannot spell three consecutive words correctly. But, while he has imagination and humor, he is lazy.

"It didn't happen to me, anyhow," he protested, when I put it up to him. "And nobody cares for second-hand thrills. Besides, you want the unvarnished and ungarnished truth, and I'm so hand for that. I'm a lawyer."

So am I, although there have been times when my assumption in that particular has been disputed. I am unmarried, and just old enough to dance with the grown-up little sisters of the girls I used to know. I am fond of outdoors, prefer horses to the aforesaid grown-up little sisters, and without sentiment ("am" crossed out and "was" substituted.—Ed.) and completely ruled and frequently routed by my housekeeper, an elderly widow.

In fact, of all the men of my acquaintance, I was probably the most prosaic, the least adventurous, the one man in a hundred who would be likely to go without a deviation from the normal through the orderly procession of the seasons, summer suits to winter flannels, golf to bridge.

So it was a queer freak of the demons of chance to perch on my unsusceptible 30-year-old chest, tie me up with a crime, ticket me with a love affair, and start me on that sensational and not always respectable journey that ended so surprisingly less than three weeks later in the firm's private office. It had been the most remarkable period of my life. I would neither give it up nor live it again under any inducement, and yet all that I lost was some 20 yards off my drive!

It was really McKnight's turn to make the next journey. I had a tournament at Chevy Chase for Saturday, and a short yacht cruise planned for Sunday, and when a man has been grinding at statute law for a week, he needs relaxation. But McKnight begged off. It was not the first time he had shirked that summer in order to run down to Richmond, and I was surly about it. But this time he had a new excuse.

"I wouldn't be able to look after the business if I did go," he said. He has a sort of wide-eyed frankness that makes one ashamed to doubt him. "I'm always car sick crossing the mountains. It's a fact, Lollie. Seesawing over the peaks does it. Why, crossing the Alleghany mountains has the gulf stream to Bermuda beaten to a frazzle."

So I gave him up finally and went home to pack. He came later in the evening with his machine, the Cannonball, to take me to the station, and he brought the forged notes in the Bronson case.

"Guard them with your life," he warned me. "They are more precious than honor. Sew them in your chest protector, or wherever people keep valuables. I never keep any. I'll not be happy until I see Gentleman Andy doing the lockstep."

He sat down on my clean collars, found my cigarettes and struck a match on the mahogany bed post with one movement.

"Where's the Pirate?" he demanded. The Pirate is my housekeeper, Mrs. Klopton, a very worthy woman, so labeled—and libeled—because of a ferocious pair of eyes and what McKnight called a bucaneering nose. I quietly closed the door into the hall.

"Keep your voice down, Richey," I said. "She is looking for the evening paper to see if it is going to rain. She has my raincoat and an umbrella waiting in the hall."

The collars being damaged beyond repair, he left them and went to the window. He stood there for some time, staring at the blackness that represented the wall of the house next door.

"It's raining now," he said over his shoulder, and closed the window and the shutters. Something in his voice made me glance up, but he was watching me, his hands idly in his pockets.

"Who lives next door?" he inquired in a perfunctory tone, after a pause. I was packing my razor.

"House is empty," I returned absently. "If the landlord would put it in some sort of shape—"

"Did you put those notes in your pocket?" he broke in.

"Yes." I was impatient. "Along with my certificates of registration, baptism and vaccination. Whoever wants them will have to steal my coat to get them."

"Well, I would move them, if I were you. Somebody in the next house was confoundedly anxious to see where you put them. Somebody right at that window opposite."

I scoffed at the idea, but nevertheless I moved the papers, putting them in my traveling bag, well down at the bottom. McKnight watched me uneasily.

"I have a hunch that you are going to have trouble," he said, as I locked the alligator bag. "Darned if I like starting anything important on Friday."

"You have a congenital dislike to start anything on any old day," I retorted, still sore from my lost Saturday. "And if you knew the owner of that house as I do you would know that if there was any one at that window he is paying rent for the privilege."

Mrs. Klopton rapped at the door and spoke discreetly from the hall.

"Did Mr. McKnight bring the evening paper?" she inquired.

"Sorry, but I didn't, Mr. Klopton," McKnight called. "The subs won, three to nothing." He listened, grinning, as she moved away with little irritated rustles of her black silk gown.

"Guard This with Your Life."

I finished my packing, changed my collar and was ready to go. Then very cautiously we put out the light and opened the shutters. The window across was merely a deeper black in the darkness. It was closed and dirty. And yet, probably owing to Richey's suggestion, I had an uneasy sensation of eyes staring across at me. The next moment we were at the door, poised for flight.

"We'll have to run for it," I said in a whisper. "She's down there with a package of some sort, sandwiches probably. And she's threatened me with overshoes for a month. Ready now!"

I had a kaleidoscopic view of Mrs. Klopton in the lower hall, holding out an armful of such traveling impedimenta as she deemed essential, while beside her, Euphemia, the colored housemaid, grinned over a white-wrapped box.

"Awfully sorry—no time—back Sunday," I panted over my shoulder. Then the door closed and the car was moving away.

McKnight bent forward and stared at the facade of the empty house next door as we passed. It was black, staring, mysterious, as empty buildings are apt to be.

"I'd like to hold a post-mortem on that corpse of a house," he said thoughfully. "By George, I've a notion to get out and take a look."

"Somebody after the brass pipes," I scoffed. "House has been empty for a year."

With one hand on the steering wheel McKnight held out the other for my cigarette case. "Perhaps," he said; "but I don't see what she would want with brass pipe."

"A woman!" I laughed outright. "You have been looking too hard at the picture in the back of your watch, that's all. There's an experiment like that. If you stare long enough—"

But McKnight was growing sulky; he sat looking rigidly ahead, and he did not speak again until he brought the Cannonball to a stop at the station. Even then it was only a perfunctory remark. He went through the gate with me, and with five minutes to spare, we lounged and smoked in the train shed. My mind had slid away from my surroundings and had wandered to a polo pony that I couldn't afford and intended to buy anyhow. Then McKnight shook off his taciturnity.

"For heaven's sake, don't look so martyred," he burst out; "I know you've done all the traveling this summer. I know you're missing a game to-morrow. But don't be a patient mother; confound it, I have to go to Richmond on Sunday. I—I want to see a girl."

"Oh, don't mind me," I observed politely. "Personally, I wouldn't change places with you. What's her name—North? South?"

"West," he snapped. "Don't try to be funny. And all I have to say, Blakeley, is that if you ever fall in love I hope you make an egregious ass of yourself."

In view of what followed, this came rather close to prophecy.

The trip west was without incident. I played bridge with a furniture dealer from Grand Rapids, a sales agent for a Pittsburg iron firm and a young professor from an eastern college. I won three rubbers out of four, finished what cigarettes McKnight had left me and went to bed about one o'clock. It was growing cooler, and the rain had ceased. Once, toward morning, I wakened with a start, for no apparent reason, and sat bolt upright. I had an uneasy feeling that some one had been looking at me, the same sensation I had experienced earlier in the evening at the window. But I could feel the bag with the notes, between me and the window, and with my arm thrown over it for security, I lapsed again into slumber. Later, when I tried to piece together the fragments of that journey, I remembered that my coat, which had been folded and placed beyond my restless tossing, had been rescued in the morning from a heterogeneous jumble of blankets, evening papers and cravat, had been shaken out with profanity and donned with wrath. At the time, nothing occurred to me but the necessity of writing to the Pullman Company and asking them if they ever traveled in their own cars. I even formulated some of the letter.

"If they are built to scale, why not take a man of ordinary stature as your unit?" I wrote mentally. "I cannot fold together like the traveling cup with which I drink your abominable water."

I was more cheerful after I had had a cup of coffee in the Union station. It was too early to attend to business, and I lounged in the restaurant and hid behind the morning papers. As I had expected, they had got hold of my visit and its object. On the first page was a staring announcement that the forged papers in the Bronson case had been brought to Pittsburg. Underneath, a telegram from Washington stated that Lawrence Blakeley of Blakeley & McKnight had left for Pittsburg the night before, and that, owing to the approaching trial of the Bronson case and the illness of John Gilmore, the Pittsburg millionaire, who was the chief witness for the prosecution, it was supposed that the visit was intimately concerned with the trial.

I looked around apprehensively. There were no reporters yet in sight, and thankful to have escaped notice I paid for my breakfast and left. At the cabstand I chose the least dilapidated hansom I could find, and giving the driver the address of the Gilmore residence, in the East end, I got in.

I was just in time. As the cab turned and rolled off, a slim young man in a straw hat separated himself from a little group of men and hurried toward us.

"Hey! Wait a minute there!" he called, breaking into a trot.

But the cabby did not hear, or perhaps did not care to. We jogged comfortably along, to my relief, leaving the young man far behind. I avoid reporters on principle, having learned long ago that I am an easy mark for a clever interviewer.

It was perhaps nine o'clock when I left the station. Our way was along the boulevard which hugged the side of one of the city's great hills. Far below, to the left, lay the railroad tracks and the seventy times seven looming stacks of the mills. The white mist of the river, the grays and blacks of the smoke blended into a half-revealing haze, dotted here and there with fire. It was unlovely, tremendous. Whistler might have painted it with its pathos, its majesty, but he would have missed what made it infinitely suggestive—the rattle and roar of iron on iron, the rumble of wheels, the throbbing beat, against the ears, of fire and heat and brawn welding prosperity.

Something of this I voiced to the grim old millionaire who was responsible for at least part of it. He was propped up in bed in his East end home, listening to the market reports read by a nurse, and he smiled a little at my enthusiasm.

"I can't see much beauty in it myself," he said. "But it's our badge of prosperity. The full dinner pail here means a nose that looks like a flue. Pittsburg without smoke wouldn't be Pittsburg, any more than New York prohibition would be New York. Sit down for a few minutes, Mr. Blakeley. Now, Miss Gardner, Westinghouse Electric."

The nurse resumed her reading in a monotonous voice. She read literally and without understanding, using initial and abbreviations as they came. But the shrewd old man followed her easily. Once, however, he stopped her.

"D-o is ditto," he said gently, "not do."

As the nurse droned along, I found myself looking curiously at a photograph in a silver frame on the bedside table. It was the picture of a girl in white, with her hands clasped loosely before her. Against the dark background her figure stood out slim and young. Perhaps it was the rather grim environment, possibly it was my mood, but although as a general thing photographs of young girls make no appeal to me, this one did. I found my eyes straying back to it. By a little finesse I even made out the name written across the corner, "Alison."

Mr. Gilmore lay back among his pillows and listened to the nurse's listless voice. But he was watching me from under his heavy eyebrows, for when the reading was over, and we were alone, he indicated the picture with a gesture.

"I keep it there to remind myself that I am an old man," he said. "That is my granddaughter, Alison West."

I expressed the customary polite surprise, at which, finding me responsive, he told me his age with a chuckle of pride. More surprise, this time genuine. From that we went to what he ate for breakfast and did not eat for luncheon, and then to his reserve power, which at 65 became a matter for thought. And so, in a wide circle, back to where we started, the picture.

"Father was a rascal," John Gilmore said, picking up the frame. "The happiest day of my life was when I knew he was safely dead in bed and not hanged. If the child had looked like him, I—well, she doesn't. She's a Gilmore, every inch. Supposed to look like me."

"Very noticeably," I agreed soberly.

I had produced the notes by that time, and replacing the picture Mr. Gilmore gathered his spectacles from beside it. He went over the four notes methodically, examining each carefully and putting it down before he picked up the next. Then he leaned back and took off his glasses.

"They're not so bad," he said thoughtfully. "Not so bad. But I never saw them before. That's my unofficial signature. I am inclined to think"—he was speaking partly to himself—"to think that he has got hold of a letter of mine, probably to Alison. Bronson was a friend of her rapscallion of a father."

I took Mr. Gilmore's deposition and put it into my traveling bag with the forged notes. When I saw them again, almost three weeks later, they were unrecognizable, a mass of charred paper on a copper ash tray. In the interval other and bigger things had happened: The Bronson forgery case had shrunk beside the greater and more imminent mystery of the man in lower ten. And Alison West had come into the story and into my life.

CHAPTER II.

A Torn Telegram.

I lunched alone at the Gilmore house, and went back to the city at once. The sun had lifted the mists, and a fresh summer wind had cleared away the smoke pall. The boulevard was full of cars flying countryward for the Saturday half-holiday, toward golf and tennis, green fields and babbling girls. I gritted my teeth and thought of McKnight at Richmond. And then, for the first time, I associated John Gilmore's granddaughter with the "West" that McKnight had irritably flung at me.

I still carried my traveling bag, for McKnight's vision at the window of the empty house had not been without effect. I did not transfer the notes to my pocket, and, if I had, it would not have altered the situation later. Only the other day McKnight put this very thing up to me.

"I warned you," he reminded me. "I told you there were queer things coming, and to be on your guard. You ought to have taken your revolver."

"It would have been of exactly as much use as a bucket of snow in—Africa," I retorted. "If I had never closed my eyes, or if I had kept my finger on the trigger of a six-shooter (which is novelesque for revolver), the result would have been the same. And the next time you want a little excitement with every variety of thrill thrown in, I can put you by way of it. You begin by getting the wrong berth in a Pullman car, and end—"

"Oh, I know how it ends," he finished shortly. "Don't you suppose the whole thing's written on my spinal marrow?"

But I am wandering again. That is the difficulty with the unprofessional story-teller: He yaws back and forth and can't keep in the wind; he drops his characters overboard when he hasn't any further use for them and drowns them; he forgets the coffee pot and the frying pan and all the other small essentials, and, if he carries a love affair, he mutters a fervent "Allah be praised" when he lands them, drenched with adventures, at the matrimonial dock at the end of the final chapter

PLAINFIELD DEFEATS THE BROOKLYN TEAM

The Plainfield Association Football Club achieved a great victory Saturday afternoon when it defeated the Brooklyn Football Club, on the Clinton avenue grounds by a score of 5 to 0. Despite the fact that the contest was one-sided, it proved interesting to a large crowd of spectators, while the local team was glad to score its first victory over the Brooklyn aggregation.

The Brooklyn club came here with four men short, and the local club loaned its opponents three men, playing with ten men. The Brooklyns kicked off against a strong wind and the play for the first eight minutes was around mid-field. The locals then got a line on the ball and a nice cross from Hosie was put through by Braidwood, scoring one point for Plainfield.

A few minutes later Hosie succeeded in adding another point on a fine pass from Sutton. The Plainfield goal keeper was only tried out once in the first half, and he was equal to the occasion. The visitors' goal keeper was kept busy, however, and he also cleared some nice ones. When time was called at the end of the first half the score was 2 to 0 in favor of Plainfield.

On resuming play, the home team got right down to business and Spalding made a nice run from midfield and put in one of his dandy shots, scoring another point for his team. Shortly afterward, Hosie headed the ball through from a nice corner-kick from Spalding, making the score 4 to 0. In the next few minutes, when Plainfield was pressing the visitors, one of them made a foul, for which Plainfield received a penalty kick. This was taken by Craig, scoring another point. In less than five minutes Plainfield was awarded another penalty, which was taken by Heaume, but McCauslin managed to save it. The Brooklyns never got one shot at the Plainfield goal throughout the second half, so one-sided was the game.

During the last twenty minutes the Plainfield team kept shooting in at the visitors' goal, and they simply put it all over their opponents. When the game was called the score was 5 to 0 in favor of the locals. The lineup:

JUDGMENT FOR E. H. ALLEN

Joel Codington and His Father Must Pay for Searches of Property.

BORROWED $4,200 ON NOTES.

Horace Codington Out on $2,000 Bail—Joel Codington to Go to Prison.

Joel Codington, former treasurer of Warren Township, now under sentence of one year in the State prison, was brought from the Somerset county jail in Somerville to the Somerset District Court yesterday morning, as defendant in a suit for $500 brought by Edward H. Allen, attorney for the Bernardsville National Bank.

Joel Codington about a year ago, obtained from the Bernardsville Bank $4,200 on various notes which were indorsed by his father, William H. Codington, and his brother, Franklin B. Codington. When the notes went to protest the bank secured judgments against the Codingtons and was about to foreclose when the Codingtons attempted to stay judgment by offering the bank mortgages on several tracts of real estate.

The Codingtons agreed to pay Allen for making a search of all the properties in question and for executing mortgages and all other legal expenses that might be incurred in straightening the matter out.

Mr. Allen testified that he had paid searchers $140 cash out of his own pocket and performed legal services amounting to several hundreds of dollars. The Codingtons, he said, finally refused to give the mortgages to the bank and their property was seized by the sheriff to satisfy the judgments. After the foreclosure the Codingtons refused to pay Allen's bill. P. E. Henry, vice-president, and Arthur E. Brown, cashier of the Bernardsville bank, testified that Joel and William C. Codington made a verbal agreement to pay Mr. Allen for his services in making searches, executing mortgages, in order that their obligations might be discharged to the bank.

The case occupied the court for the day, and it is expected that Joel Codington will be taken to the State prison by Sheriff Ross today. Horace Codington, brother of the convicted treasurer, who was sentenced to eighteen months in the State prison is now out under $2,000 bail pending an appeal to the Supreme Court for a new trial.

William C. Codington, his father, became one of the bondsmen and testified that he owned property worth $10,000 free of incumbrances.

Mr. Allen secured a judgment for $347 this morning before Judge Isaac P. Runyon for part of the bill for $500, several of Mr. Allen's claims being disallowed by the judge.

BUILDING AND LOAN OFFICERS ARE NAMED

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association at its meeting last night re-elected the old board of directors who in turn appointed the officers who have administered the affairs of the association during the past year. The board is as follows: L. E. Barkalew, Henry Liefke, W. R Codington, E. W. Titsworth, Louis Klein, Jacob Voehl, James P. Homan, W. A. Woodruff, Joseph C. Blimm, J. E. Flannery, B. F. Coriell and E. M. Laing. The officers are: President, L. E. Barkalew; vice-president, Henry Liefke; secretary, B. F. Coriell, and treasurer, W. R. Codington.

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the association, the seventeenth series was opened last night and three hundred shares were disposed of at once. During the past year nearly three hundred thousand dollars have been handled by the officers of this association at a cost of only $803.10, a showing hard to equal in any other purely co-operative financial association.

Another record which the officers are proud of is the fact that during the fifteen years just past no house has been left on their hands. The financial showing proves that this association is one of the most successful in the State.

All the officers of the association are stockholders and are well known business men of this city and vicinity. They take a personal pride in the association's success. With the exception of the secretary and treasurer the services of the directors and officers are given free in the administration of the affairs of the association.

In such matters there are no keener critics than those of Paris, and her recitals there called forth unqualified praise and were pronounced a "tremendous success." Her annual recital in New York on Easter Monday is one of the events of the season. The Tribune says of this one, "She moved her audience to tears and laughter at will with a program which she has made peculiarly her own." Miss Cheatham comes here under the auspices of the Musical Club.

FAVOR WATER ELECTION

Protective Association's Executive Committee Wants a Favorable Vote.

FOR PROPOSED INVESTIGATION.

Movement on Foot to Arouse Interest for the Special Election to Be Held Next Month.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Plainfield Protective Association was held last evening at 125 East Front street, at which the forthcoming city water election to be held on April 19 next, was discussed. It was pointed out that the purpose of the election is to authorize the Council to investigate the relative merits of condemning the present water company's plant and purchasing it, building a new plant, and making a new contract with the present company. The proposition also gives the Council power to proceed as they think best in the event of the result of the election being favorable; thus opening the way for the city to own its own water works.

The meeting voted unanimously in favor of the proposition as it will be presented to the voters and decided to take active steps to advocate the plan. Among those present were G. W. V. Moy, D. M. Van Vliet, R. H. Depew, D. E. Titsworth, H. C. Deknatel and C. L. Riley.

This action of the protective association makes the last of the civic bodies to approve the action of the Common Council in suggesting means of securing for the city improved water facilities. It will afford the people an opportunity to express their sentiments on the subject.

No date is set for the wedding. Mr. Stout will graduate from the Rutger's Seminary in May and will be ordained pastor of the Netherwood church in June.

The announcement of the engagement reveals a romance that was begun in the Wells Memorial Hospital, New Brunswisk, a few years ago, when Mr. Stout, then a student at Rutger's College, was a patient in the institution undergoing an operation for appendicitis and Miss Peterson was a nurse.

It was a case of love at first sight. As the patient convalesced the friendship depened and the future wedding will culminate the romance.

COMPANY K TO HAVE NEW DRILL HALL SOON

Company K members are considering the advisability of changing their armory quarters in the Schepflin building to the new Sebring building on West Front street. The local militiamen engaged in their weekly drill in the Sebring auditorium last night and it is reported that they are greatly pleased over the anticipated change of headquarters.

Major William B. Martin, who was present at the drill, delivered an interesting talk on the practical side of rifle shooting interspersing his remarks by numerous minor details. Major Martin also talked on bullets. He said that the ones used in the standard Springfield army rifle have a pressure of 47,000 to 50,000 pounds to the square inch.

He informed the local soldiers that bullets were manufactured of lead because of it being a cheaper process. Bullets made out of silver, he explained, would be better but the expense would be greater. Major Martin also described the differt grades of powder used for military purposes.

HONORED BY THE POPE

Knightly Rank Conferred on David T. Kenney by Holy Father.

BISSETI SENDS THE DECREE.

Plainfielder a Steward of Papal Household and Chamberlain of the Cape and Sword by Pontiff's Order.

David T. Kenney, probably Plainfield's most distinguished Catholic citizen, has been signally honored by Pope Pius X. In a recent edict issued by His Holiness, he has been appointed a secret chamberlain, equivalent to a steward of the Papal household, and a Knight of the Cape and Sword, a distinction coveted by many, but seldom conferred. This is the first time this distinction has been conferred upon a Catholic layman in this diocese. The honor is in recognition of Mr. Kenney's zealous work in the interests of the Catholic church in the Trenton diocese and was made at the earnest solicitation of the Rt. Rev. Dr. James McFaul, bishop of Trenton.

Mr. Kenney's many bounties to Catholic institutions both here and elsewhere are well known and while the Papal appointment comes as a surprise to some it was, in the estimation of many of his friends, a well earned reward for self-denial and a consecration to the cause of the church.

Mr. Kenney was instrumental in bringing Mount St. Mary's College to this city from Bordentown, having given the valuable and picturesque land for its location on the Watchung hills and contributed toward the erection and establishment of the college with abundant portions of money. He has always been known as a liberal contributor to charities connected with the church and has given of his time in other enterprises for the betterment and uplifting of humanity. He is a member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mr. Kenney is the inventor of the vacuum cleaner, which has taken the place of ordinary housework drudgery and his system has been adopted all over the world for cleaning theatres, office buildings, hotels, churches, department stores and private homes. Other inventions connected with sanitary plumbing are also due to his inventive genius. He has been busy since the announcement of the honors were announced in receiving the congratulations of his many friends in this city.

The parchment bearing Mr. Kenney's appointment, which entitles him to attend all the functions in the Vatican and makes him a member of the Pope's household, is signed by His Holiness' Majordomo, Bisseti and bears the seal of the Pontiff.

It follows:

Office of the Majordomo of the apartments of the Vatican*
March 3, 1910.
No. 38.

His Holiness of Our Lord has graciously deigned to enroll Mr. David T. Kenney, of the Diocese of Trenton among His supernumeary Secret Chamberlains of the "Cape and Sword."

Majordomo to His Holiness.

Ricketts, Woodhull and Karr executed the battery work for the first team.

On Thursday morning the schoolboys will stack up against the Y. M. C. A. Juniors. Jack Peacock will assist the association team by performing in the box.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Rev. W. T. Dorward preached his farewell sermon at the Stelton Baptist church on Sunday night. A number of church people from the borough and village attended the service. Dr. Dorward will leave Stelton on Thursday for Milwaukee. On Sunday afternoon Dr. Dorward was one of the speakers at Piscataway chapel.

According to gossip there is little chance of New Market being represented on the diamond this season William Harkins had plans to organize a team, but he failed to discover the necessary enthusiasm.

William H. Taylor has recovered from an attack of rheumatism and is able to be about again. Yesterday he called on some old time friends in Plainfield.

The addition to the New Market fire house will be completed next week when the apparatus will be removed to its new home.

Frank Fletcher is in the west on an extended business trip.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The members of B. & E. Co. are out with a challenge to play Excelsior H. & L. Co., a game of baseball on the Fourth. There is some of the "has beens" members of both companies and such a game would bring out the old timers and make an interesting contest.

The Public Service Corporation have had a gang of men at work for some time erecting new electric light poles in town to replace some of the old ones that were showing signs of decay.

St. Mary's baseball team, of Stony Hill, are arranging to hold an entertainment and dance in the Berkeley Heights Lyceum Tuesday night, April 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, spent Easter with friends in Newark.

Robert Hamilton spent the day at Ford's Sunday.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Goddess of Liberty, with its wealth of tuneful music, its numerous song hits and a book that is as bright as its chorus is pretty, comes to the Plainfield theatre for Saturday, matinee and night, April 2. The entire cast remains unchanged after a run of over one year in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, where the press has recommended it to be one of the best entertainments that has been given the public for years. The plot of the skit represents an impecunious English Lord who is visiting America in search of a wife and becomes engaged to Hope Butterworth, a wealthy heiress, but after seeing the cousin, Phylis Crane, falls in love with her and to secure her hand, he represents to the parents of his financee that an older brother has been found alive and therefore he has no right to the title; this story is believed and he is discarded, but immediately proposes to the cousin and is accepted. The story develops a love at first sight and Miss Crane, although supposed to be poor, is very wealthy, and so the plot works itself out in a pleasing way. It is said that the staging in all three acts is one of grandeur, and this combined with its marvelous scenic effects, make each act one splendid picture. The second act shifts from the forest to a fashionable drawing room scene, and while one of the largest entire changes ever attempted on the stage is accomplished in exactly one minute and fourteen seconds. The first act opens on the lawn of the Butterworth mansion, where visitors in some of the most charming costumes gather around the table.

AN APPRECIATION.

"If I wrote poetry," said a member of the First Baptist church Sunday, looking at the wealth of flowers in the Easter decorations of that church, "I would write a poem and I would call it "The Easter Box of Alabaster."

The beautiful flowers from the conservatories of Charles W. McCutchen filling the house with their fragrance like "the alabaster box of ointment of spikenard, very precious," could not but remind the beholder of the costly gift that was an expression of Mary's love and devotion. It is in line with divine thought that such expressions of love and honor should not be forgotten, and wherever the Gospel is preached, this act of Mary's is told for a memorial of her.

An appreciation by the comrades of Mr. McCutchen is surely most fitting, for the rare out-put of exquisite flowers, banking the pulpit and chancel had in it the expression of Mary's thought, love and honor to the Lord

In the absence of Mr. McCutchen and family who did not see the beautiful sight, mention should be made of Peter Dorringer, superintendent of Mr. McCutchen's conservatory, who, with his assistants, have found it a pleasure to carry out the wishes of their employer. We cannot but feel that the spirit of Mary's offering has actuated Peter Dorringer's labor of love as well as Mr. McCutchen's gift.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA.

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence, a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents, will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons.

SPORTS
NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

QUAKER CITY SARCASM—"If Ty Cobb's spikes don't go back on him, Detroit should be in the race again."—North American.

Jack Thoney, of the Boston Americans, otherwise known as the sick man of baseball, broke all records this year. He played in three practice games with the Red Sox without going to the hospital.

ADVICE TO BOYS—Hugh S. Fullerton, the Chicago baseball expert, writing in the April American Magazine about how baseball players get themselves into condition during the few weeks of training just before the opening of the regular seasons, asserts that any average boy with determination to work hard can develop into a good ball player. Mr. Fullerton says:

"It seems usless iconoclasm to refute the idea, but the fact is that baseball, like every other trade or profession, consists more of experience and hard work than of natural ability, and it is hard work that counts for most.

"An average boy, with average brain, average legs, arms, and health can in time become a great baseball player if he will work hard, work long and work faithfully. The more natural ability to run, throw and hit he posses, the greater his success will be, which applies to every other line of endeavor as well."

The mighty Tyrus "Swat" Cobb is giving Hughey Jennings something to worry over owing to his failure to report.

Kid Foster, the former Jersey City shortstop, looks to be about the best ball player among the new infielders the Yankees have rounded up in some time. There seems to be no doubt about his hitting. The Yankee pitchers have been trying him out when he is at the bat in order to discover where he is weak. Jack Quinn threw him a low one and he slammed it for a base hit. Foster also had a three-base hit the first time up. Ball players complain about hitting the spit ball, but Foster says he would rather hit at the spit ball than the curve.

Earl Mack, the young son of the Philadelphia Athletics' manager, whose work with the second-string men of the White Elephant team, is so brilliant, may some day become as prominent in fast-set baseball as his father.

Young Mack, who is not yet of age, was a star member of the Central High School team in 1908. Last year the bright youth did good work for the Leeds Club and the Atlantic City professionals. In the fall he matriculated with Notre Dame, but quit college early this spring in order to take the trip South with his father.

Connie's son has signed to play with the Utica team, of the New York State League, which should prove to be an opening wedge of getting in the big show.

If the football reformers carry out their ideas there will be four inning gridiron games next fall. Here are the six changes in the rules that are under consideration:

1. Removal of the requirements that the player who receives the ball from the snap-back run 5 yards to either side before advancing.
2. A requirement that seven men be maintained by the offense on the line of scrimmage.
3. Prohibition of the flying tackle
4. Division of the game into four periods of fifteen minutes each.
5. No pushing or pulling of the runner to be allowed.
6. A requirement that the ball in the case of an onside kick must strike the ground at least 26 yards beyond the line of scrimmage, failing which the members of the team kicking the ball are offside.

Pitcher Willis, transferred by Pittsburg to the Cardinals, during his twelve year major league career has won 234 games, a total only excelled by Cy Young and Mathewson in the same period.

Hughey Duffy, manager of the Chicago Americans, says it is safe to predict that Blackburne will be one of the sensations in the big league. Duffy is counting on Blackburne being another Owen Bush.

Boice, a recruit pitcher of the Cleveland Americans, is a second Falkenberg, so far as height is concerned. Boice stands six feet three and one half inches in his bare feet. He weighs 200 pounds in playing condition.

Manager McAleer, of Washington, believes he has dug up a pitching phenom equal to Walter Johnson in a young Californian named Bill Hendricks of San Anita. He is a sx footer and only nneteen years old. Walter Johnson recommended him to McAleer for a trial.

Manager McGuire of the Naps, is in raptures over the resurrection of Elmer Flick. The once formidable outfielder of the Blues showed every bit of his old time brilliancy in the spring practice games. The old fellow always looked good in the spring.

COURTSHIP OF A BASEBALL FAN

They were seated in the parlor, and the lights were burning dim;
He was a diamond hero—she a fan
quite fair and trim.
But they knew not, as he opened up the game by murmuring
"Love—"
That father was the umpire on the stairway just above.

"I like your form"—he led off first —"with me you've made a hit—
You've got the curves—you've got the speed, and you are looking fit—
Now, if with you, my turtle dove, I make a hit likewise,
Won't you improve my single state and make a sacrifice?"

"I'll never play too far off base," he whispered in her ear—
My salary whip has got the stuff to put 'em over, dear;
Just give the signal for a 'steal!'
and I'll no longer roam,
And when I slide into the plate,
please call me safe at home."

"I've got to have the hope complete," the maiden softly sighed;
"Show me your batting average in
Mr. Bradstreet's Guide;
It takes a lot of speed these days
with cunning and intrigue,
To win a battle now and then within the Grocers' League;

"But give me errorless support"— his heart here took a bound—
"And let me live in big league style and I may come around;
Unwrap the tangle from the dope,
and you can cop the bet
We'll play a double-header, pal, on any date you set."

He started warming up at once, and with a happy sigh
He whipped a fast one round her neck—the other was waist high;
But here the umpire butted in—she said "Oh, father, please,
Don't call him out, he's showing me
the way they work the
'squeeze.'"

The old man gave an irate snort, and said, "I'llhelp the fun
By showing him another play that's called the 'hit and run.'"
He swung like Wagner at his best—
a sole-inspiring clot—
The Son of Swat slid down the steps
—the umpire yelled, "You'— Out!"

GOLF.

Report has it that John Haskins, who is credited with the one-armed golf championship of England, is arranging for a visit to this country. He is due to arrive early in April, and will try to arrange a match for the world's one-armed title.

Haskins, who is a short, stockily built man, relies for distance off the tee upon clean hitting. In fact, it is said that this catching the ball with the centre of the face of his club is the feature of his golf. Haskins also has a way of getting on to the green with full shots, even with his wooden clubs, and he is also a brilliant putter. Haskins has made the Hoylake course in 78 strokes. His rival, Scott, is a longer driver, averaging about 170 yards.

Work on the new home of the Nassau Country Club will be pushed forward with all possible haste from now on, but there is little chance of its being anywhere near completed before Fall. In the meantime the present quarters will remain undisturbed. The fine weather of the last few days has had the effect of bringing out many of the members, and a competitive schedule will be drafted early in April.

In accordance with Spring custom the Country Club of Lakewood will run off a thirty-six-hole play qualifying round to start its annual open golf tournament on April 21. Contestants will qualify in four sixteens to fight it out at match play on the following days, but coincident with the testing round will be a team match, open to teams of four members of clubs in the United States Golf Association.

An eighteen-hole medal play handicap is on for Saturday, April 23, and any player not rated on the printed metropolitan list must present before starting a letter from his club secretary or club handicapper, stating how many strokes he receives from some player at his club who is rated on the list. Entries for the tournament will close on Wednesday, April 20, at 9 p. m., and should be mailed to Raymond E. Todd, clerk of the Country Club of Lakewood.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual parish meeting of the First Baptist church will be held on Tuesday night, April 12

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church held a revival meeting in the chapel yesterday afternoon.

"Immortality," will be the subject of the prayer meeting at the Congregational church tomorrow night. Rev. C. L. Goodrich will be in charge of the meeting.

Rev. L. C. Randolph, of Alfred, N. Y., will give a lecture before the Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, on Saturday night, April 16, on the subject, "That Jolly Fellow—the American Boy."

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will resume its mission study on Friday night in two classes. The one for boys will be taught by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and the one for girls by Miss Colton.

Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of the Bethel chapel, announces that the sum of $137.63 was the net profit of the recent fair and entertainment held at the chapel, March 16, 17 and 18, under the auspices of the Earnest Workers. The money has been placed in the chapel fund.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The subject will be "Immigration," and members are asked to bring items of interest.

AFTER SHORT-WEIGHT MEN.

Washington, March 29.—Persons who try to deecive consumers with short measures will collide with the government if a bill introduced by Senator Lodge (Rep., Mass.) becomes a law. It prohibits the manufacture or the use by dealers of baskets or other open containers for small fruits or berries, the capacity of which, even full, is not one dry quart, 67.2 cubic inches, pints, half-pints or multiple of quarts. The name and address of the manufacturer and the capacity must be stamped on each measure.

Violators are to be tried in the United States courts, the penalty to be $100 for the first and $500 for each subsequent offense. Dealers may sell fruits and berries by weight or litre if they choose, and the bill does not prohibit the use of short measures in the export trade.

HERE AND THERE.

Those who still have faith in Dr. Frederick Cook may find some comfort in the following extract from a speech made by Governor Joseph M. Brown, of Georgia, last Friday, who maintains that Cook is the real discoverer of the North Pole and that Peary has simply stolen Cook's thunder.

"Peary does not seem to realize that in order to destroy Cook's story of the journey to the pole he must destroy his own like story. If Cook were to admit that his story of his journey to the pole was false we could not accept it as being false unless Peary should admit that his like story was false or unless by other testimony Cook's story be proved false.

The Copenhagen professors did not assert that Cook's story was untrue, but merely rendered a verdict of "not proven." As they had not been into that region their verdict can be accepted as voicing their knowledge of the matter.

Yet when Commander Peary heard of the Copenhagen decision he "smiled," and presto! his identical story is proven true and he is acclaimed as the discoverer and poor Cook is branded as a faker.

"Representative Macon deserves the thanks of the American people for his expose of Peary's improbable, if not impossible, story of his journey to and from the pole after he parted from his civilized comrades.

"It seems to me that Peary read the synopsis of Cook's story and shaped his own accordingly. Cook, besides being the real discoverer has proven himself a gentlemen of generous characteristics, while Peary has proven that he is lacking in the qualities which appeal to our higher nature.

"Cook's flight indicates an acutely sensitive nature, one which shrinks from caustic criticism, whether it be just or unjust. Peary, on the contrary, displays a reputative coarseness.

The world loves a good loser, as it condemns an ungenerous winner, but give it time and it discerns between a winner and a pseudo-winner.

"To cap the climax an attempt is made to make Mr. Peary a Rear Admiral of the navy in recognition of his discovery of the north pole. A more grotesque official monstrosity has never been attempted in the history of this Government."

The fear of an impending collision between the earth and Halley's comet gave rise to extraordinary happenings last week at Nagy St. Miklos, a village in Hungary. The word had gone round that the day of judgment was at hand, and when a night watchman in the early hours of the morning perceived a red glow in the sky—caused by a fire in a neighboring village—he gave a blast on his horn and cried the terrifying message that the inhabitants must prepare for the worst.

Men, women and children tumbled out of bed into the open, and Father Kristoffsky, the old village pastor, after scanning the firmament, also came to the conclusion that the world was coming to an end. He comforted his flock and exhorted all to await their fate with resignation. It was, he said, only a matter of a few hours now.

The people were somewhat pacified and with one accord decided they they might as well finish off what food and drink they possessed. Accordingly great fires were lit on the square fronting the church and a feasting began. A few lamented, others prayed, but the vast majority were intent on having a good time while it lasted.

As the dread moment approached the revelry became an orgy; all prudence was thrown to the winds; the fiery wine of the country did the rest and soon there was not a sober head among them. They sang and danced till they dropped and slept where they lay.

The sleepers awoke in bright sunshine and finding the old world still rolling on as usual they unanimously cursed the comet for not doing its duty, especially when they realized that their larders and cellars were empty.

Proctor's Good Bill.

Maxwell & Dudley are presenting a charming sketch, entitled "The Singing Lesson," at Proctor's theatre this week. Among the features of the act is the singing of "The Village Blacksmith," and other popular numbers. The DuBall Brothers are classy dancers and have made a big hit, introducing many new steps. De Haven & Whitney appear in a hilarious comedy playlet, "Front Room, Third Floor," which is one big laugh, while Prof. Keen, the expert bag puncher, receives a generous share of applause.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Easter services in the Baptist church here, were of a high order and brought much credit to those who labored to make them a success. Miss Grace Norman's rendering of "Oh, Light Divine," was excellent, and won for her the hearty appreciation of the entire congregation. The special selections by the choir were well rendered as was also a duet by the Misses Ruth and Grace Boss. An interesting feature of the morning service was the announcement that the missionary committee had collected $58 for benevolent purposes. The full apportionment was $65 and the pastor appealed for the remaining $7 which was instantly given by as many members and thus the church was successful for the first time in raising her full missionary obligation to the Northern Baptist convention. No better evidence could be given of the deep interest which is manifest among the people in every sphere of church activity. The Ladies' Aid Society had already made a missionary offering of over $20. The pastor's morning theme was "The Resurrection—A Promise and Prophecy of Ours." In the evening he spoke on "The Difficulties of Life."

The South Plainfield F. C. will turn out for practice next Saturday afternoon. If possible a Plainfield team will be secured for a practice game. The regular season will start a week form next Saturday when the team will play the Metuchen B. B. C. at Metuchen.

General and Mrs. Schwenck, of New York, spent Saster among their many friends here, who were pleased to greet them.

Mrs. Wilroy Voorhees, of Asbury Park, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Susan Manning.

A special meeting of Court South Plainfield, I. O. F., has been called for tonight.

THE FORUM.

Berkeley School Election.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In your esteemed paper of March 16 I notice a news item concerning the recent school election at Berkeley Heights, in New Providence township, which contains some misrepresentations which require correction.

Your informant was in error in saying that there were any threats of violence or any attempts at disorder on the part of what he describes as the "Johnson-Burgmiller Faction," or indeed so far as I could ascertain of anyone else at the meeting.

I might add that there is and was no such thing as the "Johnson-Burgmiller faction," but the ticket on which these names appeared was a purely non-partisan ticket containing the names of two Republicans and two Democrats, while the opposing ticket, which was successful, was put forward by a political organization for obviously political purposes.

It may also be added that one of the tellers of the election was not a citizen or resident of the township, but an officeholder of another municipality. Such appointment of an outsider was much resented by the people of the township who consider themselves competent to conduct their own affairs without alien meddling, and it is characterized by Mr. Baxter, the State Superintendent of Education, as grossly irregular and improper.

TO PRESERVE CARPETS.

A stiff broom will spoil a carpet in a very short time. Dip the broom in clean, hot suds once a week, then shake it out and hang out to dry. This will not only aid the carpet and make it last much longer, but it will also give the broom a new lease on life. All rugs should be beaten on the wrong side and then swept on the right side. Spots can be removed by the use of oxgall or ammonia and water. Use a soft sponge or a piece of flannel.

To brighten rugs, use slightly moistened bran or salt. Lime spots can be removed by vinegar. Soot can be removed by covering the spot with salt, which should be brushed up quickly. The color can be restored with ammonia and a piece of flannel. To remove ink spots cover with milk and after soaking up all that seems possible, either sprinkle with salt or with a pure white soap and rub with a clean brush and warm water.

Use powdered magnesia for grease spots. Housewives will have no trouble with carpet moths in the winter, but they should watch for these pests in the spring. When they are discovered the cracks in the floor should be soaked with benzine. The upper edge of the carpet should be washed with a solution of corrosive sublimate and alcohol, sixty parts of ths first to one of the latter.

GRADE CROSSING BILL NOT POPULAR MEASURE

Probably the most vigorous protest that has been made against a bill introduced at this session of the Legislature was registered at the public hearing given by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate yesterday afternoon at Trenton on Senate bill No. 255, by Senator Ackerman, of Union county. The bill authorizes the Board of Railroad Commissioners to determine upon application of any municipality or any railroad company after an investigation showing the necessity to order the abolition of any grade crossing. It provides that the cost shall be apportioned on a basis of 65 per cent. to be paid by the railroad company and 35 per cent. by the municipality.

There were delegaions of citizens from many cities present, and they made it plain that they would not stand for the bill. One speaker said that it was an outrage for people to have to protect themselves from the Railroad Commission. Mayor Victor Mravlag, of Elizabeth, asserted that it meant the political doom of any member of the Legislature who voted for the bill.

Former Senator Thomas J. Hillery, now a member of the State Railroad Commission, said that the bill emanates from his commission and at the instance of the commission was introduced by Senator Ackerman.

From all parts of the State representative men protested against the bill. M. E. Woodruff, of Rahway, deplored the fact that Senator Ackerman, "as innocent as a new born babe," was used to introduce such an iniquitous measure. He characterized it as an illegitimate child. "And to think" he shouted, "that the logical candidate for the Governorship should be used as the tool." Mr. Woodruff claimed that it would only take a half an hour's argument to get the Union Senator to withdraw the measure.

NEWEST OPERA GLASS BAG.

Most opera bags look like workbags improvised for evening purposes. The one to be described has not that objection, yet need not be expensive nor difficult to make.

The bag is made from two pieces of suede or soft leather shaped like the old-fashioned oval money pouches, broad and bulging below and narrowing to the top like an Egyptian vase, where it again spreads to form a top. The size is easily gauged by the size of the articles to go in it.

Care must be taken that the neck is amply wide to take in the glasses, as it is not pleasant, in the hasty departure from the theatre, to be delayed by trifles.

Groupes of double eyelets are worked in silk the color of the bag, around the neck. These should be just long enough to hold the ribbon without crushing.

The two halves are sewed together in a narrow seam and lined with silk either in the same or contrasting color. When the latter is done the draw-strings may match the lining or outside, as preferred.

The material of the bag depends upon the inclination of giver. One for an engagement gift could be made of white suede dotted with silver beads and with initials in centre of one side wrought in silver and coral, or silver and turquoise beads. The lining and drawstring may be of white or match the monogram.

More serviceable would be a bag of grey suede or satin dotted with silver beads and lettered with silver and dull grey or black beads. Only the body of the bag, not the frill above the neck, is studded; or the studding may be omitted and the monogram embroidered in raised letters and set in a medallion of beads.

A good-looking effect is in fawn-colored suede studded with bronze beads, with monogram in gilt and bronze, and the drawstring and linings of bronze.

Other pretty combinations are violet suede studded in amethyst beads lined with a similar tone, the monogram in several tones of purple, white with jet beads for one in half mourning, and pale pink in coral and dull black bags.

If one does not find it easy to get leather in artistic shades Ottoman silk could be used for the outside and lined with silk.

EXPECTING 300,000 ELKS

Detroit Prepares on Elaborate Scale for Grand Lodge Reunion.

Detroit is preparing to take care of 300,000 visitors next July when the Elks' Grand Lodge reunion will be held in that city. The entertainment will be on a scale never before attempted in Detroit. Though the gathering is still three months away, all available accommodations have been reserved in the Detroit hotels and large boarding-houses, and arrangements are being made to quarter many of the guests in the hotels of Windsor, Mt. Clemens, Pontias and other neighboring places.

The informal entertainment of the visitors will begin several days before the Grand Lodge assembles for business. On the evening of Monday, July 11, the grand exalted ruler and grand lodge members will be formally welcomed to the city. The arrival of the distinguished visitors will be made the occasion for a grand water pageant illustrating the arrival to the site of the present city of Detroit of Counts Pontchartrain, Cadillac and Lasalle. The boats and costumes will be faithful reproductions of the originals. The flotilla will be hemmed in by canoes bearing Pontias and his Indians.

The grand lodge officials and members will be met at the landing place and escorted to the Lyceum Theatre, in that city, where the welcoming addresses will be delivered by Governor Warner, Mayor Breitmeyer and the heads of the local reception committee. It is planned to have the mayors of all the chief cities of Michigan participate in the welcome demonstration. The response for the visitors will be made by James U. Sammis, of Iowa, grand exalted ruler of the order.

Tuesday morning the grand lodge will assemble for business and daily sessions will be held until Thursday. The business of the convention, however, will be liberally interspersed with features of entertainment. During the week there will be free daily excursions for the visitors to Belle Isle, Tashmoo Park and other nearby resorts. Free band concerts, official receptions, luncheons, theatre parties and baseball games will be included in the program. Another notable feature will be a grand electrical allegorical parade, depicting the founding and development of the city.

The decorations and illuminations of Detroit during Elks' week will be on a scale of unparalleled magnificance. On the Sunday evening preceding the opening of the convention, Thomas A. Edison, at his home in New Jersey, will press a button which will be the signal for turning on the brilliant illuminations which will convert night into day throughout the central portion of the city. Public buildings and business houses will be festooned with thousands of electric lights, while mammoth arches of artistic design will be erected at the principal street intersections to bid welcome to the "Best People on Earth."

As at previous conventions of the Elks the crowning event of the week will be the great parade, which is scheduled for Thursday, July 14. Between 60,000 and 75,000 members of the order, mostly in uniform, will march to the music of 200 bands. The automobile manufacturers of Detroit, which city leads the automobile industry of the world, will furnish a score of handsomely decorated motor cars for the accommodation of the grand lodge officers and distinguished guests, who will ride in the parade. The manufacturers will also place a thousand automobiles at the disposal of the reception committee to carry the visitors on sight-seeing trips about the city. One of the concluding features of the week's program will be a grand automobile parade in which will be shown every style of motor car manufactured in Detroit and vicinity.

Prize drills and numerous other competitions will add to the attractions of the week. Liberal cash prizes will be given for the best bands attending the reunion. Among the competitors will be the full-blooded Chippewa Indian band from Mt. Pleasant, Mich. Two thousand dollars will also be distributed among the citizens who show the best decorated buildings downtown. Another feature of the week will be the free distribution of 6,000,000 oranges by the lodges of Southern California.

The liberality of the railroads in reducing their rates, together with Detroit's central location and its easy access from every part of the United States and Canada, is expected to result in the largest attendance in the history of the Elks' reunions. A rate of one and one-half cents a mile within the jurisdiction of the Central Passenger Association has been made for the reunion. Tickets will be placed on sale July 7, and will be good returning as late as August 20.

Charles Stanley Jacob, of Pawling School, Pawling, N. Y., is spending his Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jacob, of Truell Hall.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Miss Cassie Smith, of Ocean Grove, is conducting revival services in the M. E. church at Rio Grande.

Three converts were immersed at the North Baptist church, Millville, Sunday morning by Rev. E. B. Freeman.

Rev. S. K. Barun, of Newark, delivered an illustrated lecture in the North Baptist church, Millville, Sunday evening.

Falling downstairs yesterday, Eugene Engle, forty years old, of 548 State street, Camden, had a rib fractured and was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

The revival of the old-fashioned spelling-bee at Mays Landing has increased the efficiency of the pupils in the public schools fifty per cent., says Principal S. G. Huber.

Mrs. Sarah Griner, widow of Nicholas Griner, celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday anniversary Saturday with a social gathering at her home in West Millville. Four generations attended.

An unconscious man was found on Plum street, near Washington avenue, Paterson, at midnight last Saturday, and he seemed to be in a serious condition and had a bad scalp wound. He was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital. Later he said he got his injuries by falling on the sidewalk.

With a sharp hatchet Hattie Ward, colored, of Atlantic City, badly cut the head of William Holland, also colored, during a quarrel, aroused by jealousy, late Saturday night. The girl attacked Holland while he was sleeping in his lodgings and his life was only saved by the blade missing his jugular vein. He will recover.

George Fletcher was arrested by Motor Inspector Pedigree in Camden Sunday, on a charge of exceeding the speed limit. He left $50 security for his appearance today before Recorder Stackhouse. Fletcher did not stop when Pedigree started in pursuit, but went out Federal street at a rapid speed. He was leaving Pedigree behind when his automobile ran into a trench and came to a sudden halt.

While Rev. P. J. Doernis, the aged rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Beverly, was administering the communion Sunday, the altar, which was a profusion of flowers, was discovered on fire. The calmness of the priest prevented a stampede. He with the assistance of Francis Smith, a lawyer, and Edwin Collar, smothered the blaze before much damage was done. Collar was burned about the hands. The blaze was caused by a lighted candle dropping into inflammable Easter decorations.

John Steiner, of 132 North Jersey street, Paterson, was found on the sidewalk at Matlock and North West streets, that city, Sunday night, by Patrolman Dermond. At police headquarters Steiner declared he was assaulted in a saloon on North West street, by a man named John Lefkowitz, and the latter kicked Steiner on the ankle. The man was unable to stand and the patrol took him to the General Hospital, where the physicians ascertained that Steiner was suffering from a broken ankle. He was held in the hospital as a disorderly person and he will be turned over to the police when he is able to leave the institution.

Charles Dewey, of Bridgeport, Conn., spent Sunday with his sister, Miss Carrie Dewey, of West Fifth street.

The Man in Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart
Author of
The Circular Staircase

Illustrations by M. J. KETTNER

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

I put in a thoroughly unsatisfactory afternoon. Time dragged eternally. I dropped into a summer vaudeville, and bought some ties at a haberdasher's. I was bored, but unexpectant; I had no premonition of what was to come. Nothing unusual had ever happened to me; friends of mine had sometimes sailed the high seas of adventure or skirted the coasts of chance, but all of the shipwrecks had occurred after a woman passenger had been taken on. "Ergo," I had always said "no women!" I repeated it to myself that evening almost savagely, when I found my thoughts straying back to the picture of John Gilmore's granddaughter. I even argued as I ate my solitary dinner at a downtown restaurant.

"Haven't you troubles enough," I reflected, "without looking for more? Hasn't Bad News gone lame, with a matinee race booked for next week? Otherwise aren't you comfortable? Isn't your house in order? Do you want to sell a pony in order to have the library done over in mission or the drawing room in gold? Do you want somebody to count the empty cigarette boxes lying around every morning?"

Lay it to the long idle afternoon, to the new environment, to anything you like, but I began to think that perhaps I did. I was confoundedly lonely. For the first time in my life its even course began to waver. The needle registered warning marks on the matrimonial seismograph, lines vague enough, but lines.

My alligator bag lay at my feet, still locked. While I waited for my coffee I leaned back and surveyed the people incuriously. There were the usual couples intent on each other; my new state of mind made me regard them with tolerance. But at the next table, where a man and woman dined together, a different atmosphere prevailed. My attention was first caught by the woman's face. She had been speaking earnestly across the table, her profile turned to me.. I had noticed casually her earnest manner, her somber clothes, and the great mass of odd, bronze-colored hair on her neck. But suddenly she glanced toward me and the utter hopelessness—almost tragedy—of her expression struck me with a shock. She half closed her eyes and drew a long breath, then she turned again to the man across the table.

Neither one was eating. He sat low in his chair, his chin on his chest, ugly folds of thick flesh protruding over his collar. He was probably 50, bald, grotesque, sullen, and yet not without a suggestion of power. But he had been drinking; as I looked, he raised an unsteady hand and summoned a waiter with a wine list.

The young woman bent across the table and spoke again quickly. She had unconsciously raised her voice. Not beautiful, in her earnestness and stress she rather interested me. I had an idle inclination to advise the waiter to remove the bottled temptation from the table. I wonder what would have happened if I had? Suppose Harrington had not been intoxicated when he entered the Pullman car Ontario that night!

For they were about to make a journey, I gathered, and the young woman wished to go alone. I drank three cups of coffee, which accounted for my wakefulness later, and shamelessly watched the tableau before me. The woman's protest evidently went for nothing; across the table the man grunted monosyllabic replies and grew more and more lowering and sullen. Once, during a brief unexpected pianissimo in the music, her voice came to me sharply:

"If I could only see him in time!" she was saying. "Oh, it's terrible!"

In spite of my interest I would have forgotten the whole incident at once, erased it from my mind as one does the inessentials and clutterings of memory, had I not met them again, later that evening, in the Pennsylvania station. The situation between them had not visibly altered: The same dogged determination showed in the man's face, but the young woman—daughter or wife? I wondered—had drawn down her veil and I could only suspect what white misery lay beneath.

I bought my berth after waiting in a line of some eight or ten people. When, step by step, I had almost reached the window, a tall woman whom I had not noticed before spoke to me from my elbow. She had a ticket and money in her hand.

"Will you try to get me a lower when you buy yours?" she asked. "I have traveled for three nights in uppers."

I consented, of course; beyond that I hardly noticed the woman. I had a vague impression of height and a certain amount of stateliness, but the crowd was pushing behind me, and some one was standing on my foot. I got two lowers easily, and, turning with the change and berths, held out the tickets.

"Which will you have?" I asked. "Lower 11 or lower 10?"

"It makes no difference," she said. "Thank you very much indeed."

At random I gave her lower 11, and called a porter to help her with her luggage. I followed them leisurely to the train shed, and ten minutes more saw us under way.

I looked into my car, but it presented the peculiarly unattractive appearance common to sleepers. The berths were made up; the center aisle was a path between walls of dingy, breeze-repelling curtains, while the two seats at each end of the car were piled high with suit cases and umbrellas. The perspiring porter was trying to be in six places at once; somebody has said that Pullman porters are black so they won't show the dirt, but they certainly show the heat.

Nine-fifteen was an outrageous hour to go to bed, especially since I sleep little or not at all on the train, so I made my way to the smoker and passed the time until nearly 11 with cigarettes and a magazine.

The car was very close. It was a warm night, and before turning in I stood a short time in the vestibule. The train had been stopping at frequent intervals, and, finding the brakeman there, I asked the trouble.

It seemed that there was a hot-box on the next car, and that not only were we late, but we were delaying the second section, just behind. I was beginning to feel pleasantly drowsy, and the air was growing cooler as we got into the mountains. I said good-night to the brakeman and went back to my berth. To my surprise, lower ten was already occupied—a suit case projected from beneath, a pair of shoes stood on the floor, and from behind the curtains came the heavy, unmistakable breathing of deep sleep. I hunted out the porter and together we investigated.

"Are you asleep, sir?" asked the porter, leaning over deferentially. No answer forthcoming, he opened the curtains and looked in. Yes, the intruder was asleep—very much asleep—and an overwhelming odor of whisky proclaimed that he would probably remain asleep until morning. I was irritated. The car was full, and I was not disposed to take an upper in order to allow this drunken interloper to sleep comfortably in my berth.

"You'll have to get out of this," I said, shaking him angrily. But he merely grunted and turned over. As he did so, I saw his features for the first time. It was the quarrelsome man of the restaurant.

I was less disposed than ever to relinquish my claim, but the porter, after a little quiet investigation, offered a solution of the difficulty. "There's no one in lower nine," he suggested, pulling open the curtains just across. "It's likely nine's his berth, and he's made a mistake, owing to his condition. You'd better take nine, sir."

"Which Will You Have, Lower Ten or Eleven?"

I did, with a firm resolution that if nine's rightful owner turned up later I should be just as unwakable as the man opposite. I undressed leisurely, making sure of the safety of the forged notes, and placing my grip as before between myself and the window.

Being a man of systematic habits, I arranged my clothes carefully, putting my shoes out for the porter to polish, and stowing my collar and scarf in the little hammock swung for the purpose.

At last, with my pillows so arranged that I could see out comfortably, and with the unhygienic-looking blanket turned back—I have always a distrust of those much-used affairs—I prepared to wait gradually for sleep,

But sleep did not visit me. The train came to frequent, grating stops, and I surmised the hot box again. I am not a nervous man, but there was something chilling in the thought of the second section pounding along behind us. Once, as I was dozing, our locomotive whistled a shrill warning "You keep back where you belong," it screamed to my drowsy ears, and from somewhere behind came a chastened "All-right-I-will."

TO BE CONTINUED.

A New Black Dress.

It is a chain mail dress, a sheath-like robe of coarse chenille threaded with jet beads, which the makers insist upon calling black diamonds. The excessive brilliance of the dress is lessened by broad bands of chenille that are crossed in fichu lines and carried down the sides of the tunic. The wide band of velvety black is again used under the arms, so that the glistening black armor is not so aggressive as it sounds. Soft folds of chiffon form the shortsleeves, and white maline gives the chemisette the most attractive form.

REFORMATORY SALARIES FIXED NEW BALLOT BOX LAW.

Senator Ackerman's bill, No. 267, was passed by the Senate at Trenton last night. It authorizes the Board of Managers of the State Reformatory at Rahway to fix the salaries of all employes, providing, however, that no salary greater than $1,500 a year shall be paid except to the deputy superintendent and chief parole officer, who shall receive not more than $1,800 per year. The object of this bill is to raise the salaries of two of the officers of the institution $200 per year each.

The Senate also passed House bill No. 109. This measure straightens out a question which caused considerable annoyance the last election. According to the present law the city clerks are obliged to deliver ballot boxes to the election officers on the day preceding the elections. This method proved cumbersome and expensive, and by the law passed last night the election officers are required to call and receive the boxes from the city clerks.

EVENING FROCKS.

For young girls white is always appropriate, and nowadays the limited purse of mother need not detract from the most perfect of party frocks.

Many inexpensive white materials are being utilized, white washable silks, voiles and cashmeres wear well and stand the test of frequent visits to the cleaners.

Japanese silks are soft and pleasing when made on simple girlish lines. The newest frocks of this material are made in short and sensible round length skirts which fall in full lines from deep belts or satin ribbon. The bodices are gathered into semicircular yokes of lace, and little puffed sleeves are all that is required.

Another dainty frock is carried out in white point d'esprit over silk or satin, with three or five ruffles bordering the hem of the skirt. A quilling or piping of satin is used to produce a fluffy standing-out effect. The bodice is of net draped in frilled lines in a fichu effect, and these ruffles (edged as those on the skirt are) are caught in front above the girdle with a huge satin chou or rose. Short transparent sleeves are edged at the elbow with tiny ruffles.

Artificial flowers lend a dainty touch of color to their festoons or bunches on skirts and sleeves. These are especially good-looking on tulle or net.

The best of the accepted evening dresses can be made at small cost which fact is worthy of thanks from the mothers of growing families.

Mrs. A. V. Lunger Taken Ill.

Mrs. A. V. Lunger, of 203 Watchung avenue, was found on the back porch of her home last night, in a fainting condition. Neighbors assisted her into the house and Dr. Woolley was summoned. He remained with Mrs. Lunger for nearly two hours before it was thought safe to leave her. Today she is still detained to her bed. It is thought that Mrs. Lunger walked from the kitchen to the rear porch for something when she was taken suddenly with a fainting spell. For a time she lost the sight of both eyes. Her condition today is not considered serious.

A Small Loaf.

A half famished fellow in the Southern States tells of a baker (whose loaves had been growing "small by degrees and beautifully less") who, when going his rounds to serve his customers, stopped at the door of one and knocked, when the lady within exclaimed: "Who's there?" and was answered, "The baker." "What do you want?" "To leave your bread." "Well, you needn't make such a fuss about it put it through the keyhole."

MARVELLOUS CALIFORNIA

Its Beauties and Glories Ably Presented by James W. Erwin.

AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

A Lecture Without a Peer in Interest and Instruction—Magnificent Views.

"The Beauties and Glories of California" was the title of a lecture given by James W. Erwin, of San Francisco, in the Congregational church last night and it is safe to say that no lecture of recent years has afforded greater pleasure. Mr. Erwin's pictures which included the trip from New York to New Orleans by steamer and thence through the South and West over the Southern Pacific route, delighted the eye and furnished pleasure and instruction to those who have never visited those places. Stereopticon views alternated with moving pictures, one of the greatest of which was the "battle of flowers," which took place during the visit of the White Squadron in their famous trip around the world.

The Texas cotton fields with the colored pickers, packers and compress workers interested the audience, as did the baling and shipping of the cotton. To views along the route of the Southern Pacific railroad were added the interesting and ancient landmarks of various States until upon the arrival at Pomona, California, one was plunged into the midst of the fruit orchards and veritable gardens of Eden, where even a cane thrust into the soil will take root and grow. From Pomona to San Francisco, through the Santa Clara Valley, Santa Barbara, San Jose Los Angeles and the Yosemite Valley one is bewildered by the successive beauties displayed, especially by the magnificent array of flowers seen on every hand.

The recent aviation meet at Los Angeles provided some of the most thrilling views and a picture of Paulhan taken in the evening when the aviator was 500 feet in the air evoked round after round of applause. The public gardens, 30,000 pigeons in flight, the baths and mission buildings at Santa Barbara, a panoramic view of the White Squadron passing in review of the beach at Coronado and other splendid photographs roused the audience to enthusiastic applause.

Sunset pictures of the "golden gate" were among the most admired. Mr. Erwin told how the name was given to the great entrance to the harbor of San Francisco. It was named by General John C. Fremont after one view of a particularly beautiful sunset. Among the other interesting views were those taken just after the big earthquake and fire in San Francisco, and along side these were shown the rehabilitated city.

The scenes in and about the Yosemite valley were perhaps the most wonderful ever shown. They included the famous falls known as the bridal veil and various rocky trails with sure-footed mules and horses carrying a party of tourists. In one of the moving pictures Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, then President, was seen smiling at the top of a huge coach. This view of the ex-President evoked prolonged hand-clapping. The final picture "El Capitan" showed this promontory silhouetted against a sky line of blue and gold which almost made one gasp at its collossal magnificence.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church and was one of a series of entertainments which this club has prepared for members and friends President Frank Clawson introduced Mr. Erwin who made a little preparatory speech. Mr. Erwin said he had been traveling through the golden west for upward of twenty-two years and each one of those years had revealed some beauty previously hidden to his eyes.

Mr. Erwin started today on a fourteen thousand mile trip through the Eastern States and will finally land in California. During the past year some of the views have been shown by Mr. Erwin to English audiences and he said last night that the astonishment and incredulity with which some of his lectures were received would have discouraged anyone who was not thoroughly conversant with the facts about California. Some of the slides thrown on the screen of magnified pictures of flowers brought gasps of astonishment and pleasure from the nature lovers present.

Park Commission Meet.

The North Plainfield Park Commission had a short session in the borough Council chamber last night with a number of property owners who are also interested in the scheme. Another session will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT HEAVENLY REST

Under the auspices of the Sunday-school of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, an excellent entertainment was held in the parish house last night. The affair was planned and arranged by a committee of which Miss Elizabeth Forster was the chairman, and much credit is due both Miss Forster and her assistants for the success attained. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the parish. This was the program:

Piano duet, Miss Grace Ludgate and Miss Helen Taylor; recitation, Richard Gorden; piano solo, Greasen Peterson; sketch, "Upside-down Drill," boys of the school; violin solo Miss Clara Hallard; vocal solo, "My Little Deutcher Girl," David C. Sutton; recitation, "My Pony and I" James Peterson; dance of the fariies, girls of the school; sketch, "The Burglar is Welcome," Miss Carrie Quipp and David C. Sutton; violin solo, Miss Clara Hallard; vocal solo, Miss Valleria Brooks; colonial minuet, young women of the school; vocal solo, "My Cousin Caruso," David C. Sutton; sketch, "Dottie Hague and Aunty Piggen," Miss Anna Hull and Jack Hull; "Sleepy Drill," girls of the school.

MEYERS REPRIMANDED AND PALMER LECTURED

Joseph Meyers and Harry Palmer, colored, the former the proprietor of a lunch wagon on East Second street and the latter a former customer, were lectured by City Judge Runyon this morning and warned against repeating their conduct of last Saturday under penalty of severe chastisement.

Last Saturday night Palmer, who had been drinking, entered Meyer's lunch wagon and ordered some food. Meyer refused to serve him because of Palmer's condition. There ensued a scuffle in which a window of the wagon was shattered. Meyer grabbed a club and started after Palmer who had taken to his heels in the direction of Watchung avenue. When he caught up with Palmer, it is alleged, Meyer attempted to use the club on the colored man, but the latter dodged, protesting meanwhile that he was willing to pay for the broken pane of glass.

Having done this Palmer was about to go home when another fellow created a disturbance and unfortunately for Palmer he was arrested because he was near the second fracas. Meyer was reprimanded for taking the law into his own hands and Palmer was lectured on the evils of drinking and the case against both dismissed.

GRACE SUNDAY SCHOOL TO GIVE ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Sunday school of Grace church, an Easter Mart will be given in the parish house, East Sixth and Sycamore streets, on Wednesday and Thursday, April 6 and 7, from 4 to 10 o'clock. In the evening of each day plays will be given by members of the school, entitled "A String of Pearls," and "The Mouse Trap."

There will be a number of booths for the sale of various articles, consisting of country store, Japanese booth, flowers, stationery, candy, cake, etc. One room will be devoted to a display of antiques, which is said will be unique and interesting. The proceeds of the affair will be given to the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

"Dutch Market" at Trinity.

"The Dutch Market," under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, opens at the church, tomorrow evening and will be continued on Friday evening. This will afford an excellent place for you to get your supper. There will be Dutch dishes galore and the prices will be reasonable. A feature will be a tulip bed, well worthy going to see. No admission fee will be asked.

Funeral of Robert Kyle.

Dr. Charles E. Herring pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Marconnier chapel, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

IS THE GANG ORGANIZED?

Bicycles Disappear as if by Magic, But Where do They Go to is the Question.

TEN STOLEN IN TWO WEEKS.

Suggestion Made that Special Cop Be Appointed to Watch for Thieves—The Culprits Reap Harvest.

There is ample evidence that a gang or it might be termed an organized gang of bicycle thieves is operating in this city with an impunity born of facility in eluding the police. The total number of bicycles stolen during the past few weeks would indicate that the occupation is one studied from the ground up and is productive of enough income for the thieves to warrant the taking of the chances which sometimes lead to arrest, but in Plainfield apparently lead to affluence.

Nearly all the bicycle dealers in the city who have recently sold wheels have some story of loss of wheels to report. Perhaps the one most vitally interested in the matter is "Pop" Thorn, of Park avenue, who has had several of his customers complains of new wheels stolen immediately or soon after their delivery. Mr. Thorn when questioned this morning furnished a list of some ten wheels which have been stolen within the past two weeks and, as he says, he cautions his patrons every time a bicycle is sold to be sure good care is taken of it because it is likely to disappear.

There is no doubt whatever that some measures are due to be taken to stop the practice of stealing wheels and riding them out of town for sale to some "fence." As Mr. Thorn says, "The wheels are not shipped away in the ordinary manner and they are not found among the dealers, therefore they must be taken away by the only natural method, riding." Someone has suggested that the police committee of the Common Council appoint some one bluecoat, who is himself a rider, and who is acquainted with the riders in the town, to do nothing but watch for the gang whic is enriching itself in most cases at the expense of young men whose savings of months are invested in a wheel.

Among those who have lost bicycles during the past two weeks are C. W. Bingeman, of the Y. M. C. A.; Dale Warren, of Hillside avenue; two pupils at Leal's School, two at Hartridge School and three at the Plainfield High School. There are others which have still to be heard from and in nearly every case the wheel has been one recently from the factory and in fine condition.

As to who is responsible for the non-apprehension of those industrious sneaks, who is to say? Just one thing remains to be done; let the proper authorities get busy and corral the thieves.

ANNOUNCE WEDDING OF MISS MARY COLLIER.

Cards have been received here by friends announcing the marriage of Miss Mary Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Collier, and Fred Hillman, both of this city. The ceremony was performed in New York on Thursday, February 17.

While the announcement comes as a great surprise to many friends of the couple, the marriage was known to a few persons who were intimate with the bride and groom. They are now residing in Jersey City. The bride is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and both she and Mr. Hillman have a host of friends in this city.

Funeral of Jasper Wilson.

The funeral service of Jasper Wilson was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home of his brother, Andrew Wilson, on Craig place, and was private. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside Cemetery and the pall-bearers were James Walker, William Demler, Jr., Douglass Demler, H. B. MacDonald and Simon Mantz, all nephews of Mr. Wilson.

Complain About the Dust.

The dusty condition along West Front street, is such as to arouse considerable indignation on the part of residents. The trolley cars and automobiles are constantly stirring up the dust making it practically impossible for householders to open their windows or sit on their porches these fine days. The taxpayers believe that it is time that the councilmanic street committee did something.

WILSON FORESEES VICTORY

Princeton University's President Declares Time is Ripe for Democratic Success.

DENOUNCES G. O. P. METHODS.

Local Democrats Hear Party's Probable Presidential Candiate Speak at Big Dollar Dinner at Elizabeth.

Local Democrats who attended the one dollar Jeffersonian dinner in Turn Hall at Elizabeth last night had the opportunity of listening to Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, and probable Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1912, denounce the methods of the Republican party in a forcible address. Among the local Jeffersonians who attended the function were the Hon. James E. Martine, Leroy J. Ellis, president of the Democratic club, James Caulfield, Frank Wagner, Walter L. Hetfield, Alexander Kane, P. P. Reville and Frank J. Shattle.

Dr. Wilson, and the other guest of honor, United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklohama, received volleys of mighty cheers when introduced to their audience. Other notables who made addresses were State Senator George S. Silzer, of Middlesex; Assemblyman Charles F. X. O'Brien, of Hudson, and the Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook, of Elizabeth. In being introduced Dr. Wilson was hailed as a "scholar and statesman."

Dr. Wilson declared that the signs of the time are most encouraging to the Democratic party. He declared with emphasis that the Republican party caters to special interests and disregards the wishes of voters in the matter of legislation. He referred to the prevailing high prices and said the time is ripe for a change.

"If the Democratic party see this opportunity," said Dr. Wilson," and takes advantage of it without selfishness, with patriotic enthusiasm with an ardor for the things a new age is to bring forth, it will win not mere party success but a glory which it will itself be glad to see merged and identified with the glory of the nation itself."

At that time the society will take up the water question and inaugurate a lively campaign. The members propose to undertake the task of getting the voters out on election day, April 19. CHARLES R. MALTBY DEAD

Succumbs to Acute Pneumonia and Heart Disease After Brief Illness.

AGED SEVENTY-THREE YEARS.

Mr. Maltby Made a Large Fortune in Wholesale Business—He Owned Much Property Here.

Charles R. Maltby, one of the best known citizens of Plainfield for thirty-five years, died at 4 o'clock this morning at his home, 1203 Putnam avenue, from acute pneumonia and heart disease with which he had been ill since Saturday. The best of medical skill was employed, including a New York specialist, but owing to Mr. Maltby's advanced age, all efforts were of no avail.

Mr. Maltby was born at Monterey, N. Y., and was seventy-three years of age. When a young man he went to New York city, where later he engaged in the wholesale grocery business. Afterward he established a large branch at Corning, N. Y. He continued in the grocer business for forty-five years, being active up to the time of his illness on Saturday. The concern was one of the best known in the trade and goods were shipped to all parts of the country.

When Mr. Maltby came to this city thirty-five years ago he purchased a farm on Plainfield avenue, where he lived until a few years ago, when he sold the handsome estate to the Watchung Hunt Club. Afterward he removed to 1203 Putnam avenue. He owned considerable property in the Washington Park section of North Plainfield and at one time owned what is now the Hotel Iroquois. He also had several fine properties on Putnam avenue.

Although he never held public office in this city, Mr. Maltby always showed a lively interest in city affairs. He was identified with All Souls church, Unitarian, on Park avenue, and frequently attended services there.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. W. S. Heyniger and Mrs. Hugh H. Kendall, of Corning, N. Y., and W. S. Maltby, with whom he lived in this city; also two brothers, Erastus C. Maltby, of this city, and Jerome B. Maltby, of Corning, N. Y.

The funeral service will be held from the late residence, 1203 Putnam avenue, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FRANKLIN COUNCIL IS HOST TO THE LADIES.

The annual "ladies' night" of Franklin Council Jr., O. U. A. M., which was conducted at Debele's Hall last night was an enjoyable event. About three hundred juniors, their friends, wives, sisters and sweethearts, participated in the pleasures of the occasion. There was dancing and an entertainment by professional talent from New York.

State Councilor Gray, of Jersey City, was the guest of honor and delivered an interesting talk in which he extolled the benefits to be gained by membership in the order. The committee in charge was George D. Wilson, Harry Nole, Wm. J. Firstbrook, George Townley and Harry Southard.

COLORED CHURCH FAIR MAKES A FINE START.

A large crowd was in attendance at the fair and bazar inaugurated at Mt. Zion A. M. E. church on West Fourth street last night. The affair is being conducted by the senior and junior stewardesses, the Trustees Aid Society and the Men's Club of the congregation, and will continue until Friday night. The interior of the church was prettily decorated in lavender and white.

Fancy articles and notions were on sale at decorated booths and all departments did a rushing business. Refreshments were also on sale. The joint committee in charge of the bazar is Mrs. Agnes Holmes, Miss Lizzie Grobes, Mrs. Annie Jones and Spencer Kelly.

NOVEL LUNCHEON AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Women's Association of the Congregational church were entertained and in turn helped to entertain others with a "shredded wheat" party in the church parlors yesterday afternoon. The food was served in half a dozen different ways prepared by an expert in that line and the regular menus printed for the occasion were a source of wonder to the sixty or seventy women who were present.

The proceeds of the novel luncheon went to swell the total which the association is gathering for the building fund of the church and a tidy sum was realized.

BOROUGH FIREMEN SAVE AN UNFORTUNATE HORSE

The reserves of the North Plainfield fire department were called out last night to rescue a horse belonging to George Voehl that was imprisoned in a quagmire of quicksand in Greenbrook near the residence of Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr.

Voehl's horse had been enjoying the day pasturing on the first crop of spring grass on West End avenue. At nightfall the animal started to wander home. A crowd of small boys were pilotting the animal when Councilman Smalley informed them that it belonged to Voehl.

It was about 8:30 o'clock when the animal got away from its escort and ran over an embankment into the brook. The horse struck quicksand and sank to a depth which covered its whole body the only part being visible being the animal's head.

Fire headquarters was notified and a party of reserves headed by former Police Chief William Campbell, Howard Sharp and Richard Hooper hastened to the scene. After three hours of labor with rope and planks and another horse the Voehl animal was extricated from its predicament apparently none the worse for the experience.

SMALL FIRE THROWS DANCERS INTO A PANIC

A couple of hundred or more young people who attended a dance given in Sebring's auditorium last night under the auspices of the W. O. W. club were given a scare while in the midst of the festivities. A blazing pile of boxes and rubbish in the rear of Leo Zeisel's bicycle establishment resulted in an alarm being turned in from Box 12.

Some one shouted "fire" and as the flames which were visible from the rear windows in the hall, together with the clang of the fire apparatus, many of the merry makers were given the impression that the building was on fire. Several young women added to the excitement by fainting and screaming while the orchestra stopped playing.

The committee, however, in a short time restored order and after a brief breathing spell the festivities were continued. The firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames. The cause of the fire is attributed to one of the young men at the dance who dropped a lighted cigarette out of the window.

During the progress of the fire some of the young men at the dance amused themselves by throwing empty cans and bottles at the firemen. Captain George Feiring of Company No. 2 was struck by a couple of cans and a bottle scaled Chief Doane's head. Chiefs Doane and Kiely visited the hall, closed the windows, and the practise desisted. An investigation is being made and it is probable that arrests of the guilty parties will follow.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TEMPLE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Reports were presented at the annual meeting of the Sunday school of the Temple Baptist church last night. The election of officers was postponed to a future date. Superintendent L. W. Randolph presided at the meeting, calling for the reports from all departments.

The treasurer's report, which covered a period from January 1, this year, when the organization was constituted a church, to April 1, showed total receipts of $377.22 and expenditures for missions and benevolence of $331.08, leaving a balance of $46.14.

There are 192 active members in the school, sixty-five in the Home department and sixteen on the cradle roll making a total membership of 373.

ANOTHER BIG FIRE LOSS

Blaze in the Old VanDeventer Structure Results in $10,000. Damage.

CAPT. DALY HAS CLOSE CALL.

Knights of Columbus Hall and Drake's Business College Gutted by Flames and Water—Defective Wires.

Fire, smoke and water, partially wrecked the old Van Deventer building, situated at 112-14 East Front street, early last evening. Cause of the blaze is attributed to defective electric light wires. The loss to the building, and to the different occupants, it is believed, will reach the $10,000 mark. A. J. Brunson, president of the First National Bank, is agent for the building, the owner of the structure being his sister, Mrs. Bonnell, of South Orange.

The blaze made its start in a small closet in the southeast corner of the handsomely equipped lodge rooms of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus. The flames burned their way upward through a small stairway leading to the banquet room and it was in that section of the building that the flames did the most damage. It is the general presumption that the flames had been smouldering all the afternoon.

Smoke filled the building quickly and the firemen experienced considerably difficulty in their battle to check the flames. One of the thrilling features of the blaze occurred at 8 o'clock when Captain James Daly, of headquarters, was overcome by the smoke and heat while feeding a stream of chemicals on the blazing stairway.

Captain George Feiring, of Company No. 2, at the time was endeavoring to get a line of hose to Captain Daly, when the latter staggered and fell to the floor. Daly retained his presence of mind, however, groped his way to a window through a cloud of smoke, and quickly recovered. Daly was ordered back to headquarters but he exhibited a gritty spirit by remaining on his post until the blaze was extinguished.

An alarm was sounded from Box 12 at 7:25 o'clock and the downtown companies hastened to the scene. Ten minutes later a second alarm brought Captain George Mehl, Jr., and Hose Company No. 3 into commission. At 9:20 o'clock the recall was sounded. The downtown companies returned to the building again at 4:20 o'clock when a small fire was discovered in an ante room in the front part of the building. This blaze was readily extinguished, although the contents of several lockers were destroyed.

The loss to the Knights of Columbus will probably be between $2,500 and $3,000. The hall was also tenanted by Court No. 3071, Independent Order of Foresters; Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum; Plainfield Council, No. 402, of Commercial Travelers; Mianonoma Tribe, No. 118, Independent Order of Red Men; Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias; Union Lodge, No. 340 F. and A. M.; Division No. 4, A. O. H., and the Plainfield Letter Carriers Association. All of the fraternal organizations involved are covered by insurance.

Drake Business College is closed as the main study room was thoroughly gutted by water and the loss will be about $1,500 to $2,000. The institution occupied the second floor and all of the furniture in the rear section was wrecked. About sixty three-quartered solid oak desks and a large quantity of text books and other paraphernalia belonging to the pupils were destroyed.

The management of the college announced this morning that temporary headquarters will be engaged immediately and studies resumed in a day or so. It is not expected that the old quarters will be ready for use for fully a month.

On the ground floor of the building are situated the stores of the United Cigar Company and S. H. Whitney, dealer in carpets and dry goods. In one of these instances the stock was considerably damaged by water. The cigar people estimate their loss at about $300, while Mr. Whitney represented no loss.

Jere Van Winkle rang in the alarm. He was standing on East Front street, and noticed smoke issuing from the windows on the top story. As Van Winkle was standing by the fire box John McCaffery, the janitor of the building came along. He was on his way to open the K. of C. lodge room and make preparations for a meeting of the St. Mary's Alumni Asociation.

McCaffery stood around and watched the apparatuses respond and asked a bystander, "Where is the fire?"

"The Knights of Columbus hall," was the answer and McCaffery hastened to the building, opened the doors, and was greeted by a huge flame which leaped out of the door.

No time was lost in instituting ef-

COAL STRIKE APRIL 1.

Operators Certain of Trouble and Make Arrangements.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 30.—Coal operators having their offices in this city are now certain that a strike will be inaugurated April 1, and last night telegrams were sent to mine superintendents to make arrangements for guarding the property and keeping the pumps in mines at work so as to not let the property suffer.

Owing to the very warm weather this month and the fact that the mines have been running full force, there is a considerable supply of coal on hand, but there is a shortage of steam coal both at the mines and in the manufacturing districts.

The railroads have large supplies at all the coaling stations on their lines and for more than a month have been increasing the amount gradually though thirty days or more have not confiscated any coal of consequence. Superintendents say that there is no danger of immediate interference with traffic after April 1, but they admit that they would like to have more coal on hand.

Wooed and Won Her $100,000, Widow Charges

Mrs. S. has brought suit against J. to recover $100,000. In her declaration on file today, it is asserted that J. induced her, in anticipation of marriage, "which it was thought would be contracted," to convey to him a large amount of real estate, representing, so the plaintiff claims, that she could not make a will after marriage.

Mrs. S., in her prayer to the court, says that upon the death of her husband, in 1891, she became possessed of $100,000 in personal property and securities, and, being related to Mr. J. by marriage, and without immediate relatives, she naturally turned to Mr. J. for counsel and advice. She soon decided to intrust all her property to his care, she says, and he has since had full control.

GETS COMPLETE CONTROL.

To give him complete control, Mrs. S. says, she signed a power of attorney and later she made a will, leaving him the bulk of her property. Everything went along smoothly, declares Mrs. S., but Mr. J. failed to render regular accounts of his stewardship. Payments were made to her, she says, from time to time, but she supposed they came from the income rather than from the principal, as claimed.

TURNS OVER PROPERTY.

Taking advantage of the relations existing between them and the alleged understanding regarding marriage, Mrs. S. asserts that by undue influence he induced her to turn over to him certain houses, representing that she could have the property back whenever she wished, further agreeing that she should have the income as before.

A little while after this transaction, Mrs. S. declares, she called on her trustee for $5,000, but claims that on various pretenses the defendant neglected to pay it, yet did not deny that the money was lawfully hers.

Mrs. S. now claims that all that is left of her fortune is certain houses, all standing in the name of J., and covered by mortgages for nearly or quite their full value.

All this would have been avoided had a responsible Trust Company been named as executor or trustee.

It is the business of such institutions as to protect its clients against such unfortunate contingencies AS WELL AS AGAINST THE ERRORS OR OMISSIONS OF HONEST AND WELL-MEANING INDIVIDUAL EXECUTORS.

Fidelity Trust Co.

NEWS AND NOTES

BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

HOW MATHEWSON INVENTED "FADEAWAY"

The April Magazine contains an article by Hugh S. Fullerton, entitled "The Spring Training." Mr. Fullerton is probably the greatest authority on the subject of baseball, having been associated with the game for over twenty years. In his article, he tells how the baseball players get into condition before the season begins and of the wonderful effect of training. He says:

"Those persons who imagine that baseball is a 'snap' or some special gift of nature should have been in the training camp of the New York Giants a few years ago, and their ideas would have changed. Early in the training season the word had flashed around the circuit: 'Matty's arm is gone.'

Translated, that means a revision of all the pennant calculations of all the clubs in the National League. If Mathewson's arm really was permanently injured the New York Club ceased to be a championship factor. I wandered out onto the training field a few days later where nearly forty men were hard at work.

"Over at one side a graceful, handsome boyish-looking man was throwing slowly and with evident caution to a young catcher. Slowly, and studying every move in order to avoid jerking or twisting a damaged shoulder, he kept pitching, trying to 'throw the soreness out.' He had drawn a little cross in the dirt upon which he pivoted his right foot, and two feet in front of that and a foot to the left was a hole in the sand.

"As he threw he swung off his stride, and instead of planting his left foot straight in front he sunk it into the hole to the left. He had changed his pitching motion to accommodate the sore shoulder and prevent adding to the strain. Presently he swung his arm slowly overhand. The ball floated away, seemed to hesitate in midair, dropped downward and to the right with a slow, twisting curve motion.

"'Here, what's that, Matty?' I called to him.

"'That's the fader,' he replied smiling.

"I had read of the 'fadeaway' and believed it one of the spring nature fakes evolved by imaginative reporters, but it was true. Mathewson, realizing that his arm might never again be strong enough to pitch the fast 'jump' ball or the wonderful fast curve that had made him the greatest pitching sensation of years, had deliberately set to work and by steady, persistent practice had evolved a new 'system of slants' by which he came near revolutionizing pitching.

"Hour after hour, despite the deadening pain in his shoulder, he kept at it. Pitching, pitching, twisting his hand a little less, a little more, then ten times to a spot two inches to the left or the right, to find how the change in stride would affect the ball, he worked until he developed one of the most puzzling curves ever pitched. How many hours of suffering and hard work were required to perfect his 'fadeaway' and make him again one of the greatest pitchers no one knows."

Local fans will have an opportunity to see a couple of games on Sunday. At Jersey City the Skeeters will tackle the Uticas, and at Wiedenmayer's Park at Newark, Joe McGinnity's Indians will make their 1910 debut in a contest with Connie Mack's Athletics.

Look out for Friday. It's April Fool's Day.

Some "phenoms" will be finding their way back to the minor leagues in a few days.

JIMMY EMERY IS SPEEDY ON THE THIRD CUSHION

Crescent Oval was a scene of activity yesterday afternoon when the old diamond was filled with ball players who were working the kinks out of their muscles in preparation for the coming ball season.

Scores of critical eyes were focused on Jim Emery, Jack Martin and Clifford Randolph, who will soon depart for their minor league destinations.

"Gee that's a peacherino," remarked Jimmy Blair when Jimmy Emery scooped in a sizzler that made the dust smoke. "If that kid doesn't make good at Reading I'll donate a dozen of three dollar 'dips' to my great uncle next Christmas. That boy is a pippin." Emery is in tip top shape and Blair's comments is only a sample of scores of similar expressions.

Martin is also exhibiting speedy form and is faster than ever before. He will surely make a good man for Worcester. Cliff Randolph is not risking a lame arm by overwork. He is taking it easy and has made no attempt to let out his full speed.

Somerville High will be here for the first game of the season on Saturday.

Otis Johnson, the western wonder, is displaying speedy form at third sack for the Yankees. If he keeps it up he may displace Jimmy Austin on that cushion.

Larry Jajoie is showing up as a clever third baseman for Cleveland.

Al Burch, who blossomed out under Charley Denman at Westfield, is slated for the captaincy of the Brooklyn team.

President Lynch, of the National League, will put his umpires through a cross examination on the rules, which will make all of them study before going to the meeting on April 4.

GOLF.

One week after Lakewood the scene of competitive golf will shift to the links of the Country Club of Atlantic City, the dates being April 28, 29 and 30. There the qualification test will be limited to eighteen holes. Provision has been made for six sixteens, the first for the Governors' Cup, the second for the President's Cup, the third for the Atlantic City Cup, the fourth for the Northfield Cup, the fifth for the Absecon Cup, and the sixth for the Chelsea Cup.

A special consolation event will be arranged for the second day for the defeated eights in the various sixteens, and as an eighteen-hole medal play handicap has been carded for Saturday, all who finish in the qualifying round will have a chance to remain in the tournament throughout the three days.

Special events will be a feature of the coming competitive golf season at the Yountakah Country Club. Two prizes are offered by the club, one to the player who makes the best six gross scores of the season selected from properly attested cards turned in from May 7 to Nov. 5, and one to the player who makes the six best net scores of the season. The same conditions will prevail, and one of the stipulations is that the same member cannot win both prizes.

Then there is the Governors' Cup, to be played for during May and June on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, with only one score each week to count. A round must consist of thirty-six holes, to be played on the same day, and the member with the five lowest net scores will be awarded the cup. Class A and B members will have a chance to try for the July Cup, conditions calling for three eighteen-hole medal play handicaps on Saturdays or Sundays. First will count three points, second two, and third one, and at the end of the month the contestant with the greatest number of points will be declared the winner.

Classes A and B will also have an October Cup to "shoot" at. Eighteen-hole medal play handicaps will be in order on the first four Saturdays, and then those who had the three lowest net scores each Saturday will compete in a thirty-six hole medal play handicap final round on Nov. 5. The club is in excellent condition, and the officials look forward to the best season in its history. Handsome prizes have been promised by the members.

Weak From Overtraining.

"So many prize fights end with a blow on the jaw."

"Of course. In prize fights that's the part of the body that is overtrained."—Cleveland Leader.

NEWARK

---The Industrial City.

We are glad to see OTHER stores taking up the question of a suitable name for Newark. It shows the proper PUBLIC SPIRIT. When WE first suggested the plan we thought possibly it might not "take," but now pretty nearly every one is talking about it, and we are receiving letters from all parts of this vicinity and many from REMOTE places. Scores of excellent names have been offered, but the "INDUSTRIAL CITY" is still in the lead by an overwhelming majority. The name suits us, and we believe it suits the MAJORITY OF NEWARKERS, so we shall henceforth call it the "INDUSTRIAL CITY."

By the way, this morning's paper stated that the latest city directory returns give the "INDUSTRIAL CITY" a population of 420,000. This is rather more than we expected, but it's bully, isn't it?

Let's all talk "INDUSTRIAL CITY"—it'll soon be the fad.

ANOTHER BIG FIRE LOSS

forts to save the furniture. John Carty, a member of the Watchung Council, was among the first to arrive in the lodge room, and he distinguished himself by saving the charter of the lodge. All of the charters of the other fraternal organizations were saved by Patrolmen Richard Birmingham and the firemen.

In the property belonging to the Knights of Columbus, which was totally destroyed, was a set of costly vestments belonging to the officers which had never been used. Robes belonging to the Red Men and Unity Lodge, Knights of Pythias, were also destroyed by water.

Firemen, in fighting the fire, were obliged to wreck portions of the lodge hall, in order to get at the flames and keep them from spreading. To accomplish this a number of electric wires were cut and windows smashed. The firemen were again confronted with light pressure, in some instances there was insufficient force in the stream to break the window panes, which necessitated the use of the hose nozzles.

A throng of 10,000 people jammed Front street from Watchung avenue to Somerset street to watch the spectacle, and it being one of the largest outpourings of congested humanity seen in this city for some time. Chief Kiely and a detachment of police with considerable difficulty established fire lines, but it was a hard job to keep the curious public on the outside.

The crowd was swelled by arrivals on east and westbound trolley cars, and so dense was the throng, that a delay in traffic ensued for about an hour. It appeared that almost every inhabitant from city and borough and from surrounding towns was out at the fire.

Last night's fire marked the second time in the history of the Knights of Columbus, that the organization had been burned out. At the Babcock building fire the lodge suffered a big loss. Temporary headquarters was established in the Coward building and about seven years ago, the lodge fitted up its present quarters at an expenditure of $3,000 dollars.

Until repairs to the hall are made, the lodge will use the Elks lodge room, which was tendered to them this morning by the trustees of that organization. Other arrangements are being made by the other fraternal societies effected.

The Van Deventer building has for years been classed as a "fire trap," and Chief Doane declared this morning that it was the worst building in which local firemen were ever obliged to fight a fire. In former years the structure was used as a theatre and later known as Masonic Temple. The Masons vacated the building about fifteen years ago.

DELINQUENT PROPERTY SOLD BY COLLECTOR TOWNSEND.

Eleven properties upon which the sewer assessments were delinquent were sold yesterday afternoon by Tax Collctor William R. Townsend. The amount realized was $650, including cost and interest. Eight of these properties were bought by Mr. Townsend for the city, and Enoch Berry purchased one property in the Highland Park section, another was bought in by the Highland Park Realty Company and the remaining property was purchased by DeWitt C. Ivins.

When Mr. Townsend began the sale of delinquent properties, there were 350 parcels in all, and yesterday's sale settled up all arrearages. The collector's prompt work in this matter has been highly commended by the city officials.

"The Goddess of Liberty."

When "The Goddess of Liberty" comes to the Plainfield Theatre next Saturday matinee and night, it is needless to say she will be greeted by two big houses. Good reports of the play have preceded it to this city and the seats are selling very fast. The cast includes Jos. E. Howard who, it is said, writes a popular song every morning before breawfast, and Stella Tracey, one of the most pleasing prima donnas on the American stage. A big feature in the play is the chorus which is made up of sixty people.

Freight Engines Collide.

What was reported to have been a serious collision in the railroad yards just east of the freight depot yesterday afternoon was nothing but an ordinary sidewipe which resulted in little or no damage to two locomotives, which can be easily repaired.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

ORGAN RECITAL MEETS WITH A HUGE SUCCESS

The organ recital and concert given in the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, last night was both an artistic and financial success. The interior of the edifice was taxed to its capacity with music lovers from the local villages and neighboring towns. The artists who appeared on the program were Miss Orrel Wrench, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; E. C. Martin, baritone, and Bayard Hawthorne, tenor.

Norman Landis presided at the organ. The Arlington quartet also contributed to the enjoyment of the audience by rendering several selections. The committee in charge of the recital was M. L. Rarick, choirmaster, A. F. Todd and Mr. Terrill. The program follows:

Organ solo, March Religieuse, Alex Guilmant, Norman Landis; Arlington quartet (a) "I Think of Thee," Hartel, (b) "She was but Seven," C. B. Hawley; tenor solo, "How Long, O Lord, Wilt Thou Forget Me?" from "Triumph of David," Dudley Buck, Bayard Hawthorne; soprano solo, "Sun of My Soul," Harris, Miss Orrel Wrench; contralto solo, "Eye Hath Not Seen" from "The Holy City," Weatherly, Adams, Miss Jessamine Burd; baritone solo, "Blessed are They," Dudley Buck, E. C. Martin; organ solo (a) Prayer and Cradle Song, Alex. Guilmant, (b) Homage a Mendelssohn, G. B. Calkin, Norman Landis; soprano solo, selected, Miss Orrel Wrench; Arlington quartet, (a) "Lead Kindly Light," Dudley Buck, (b) "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," Bland; tenor solo, "Soft Southern Breeze," from Darnby's "Rebekah," Bayard Hawthorne; baritone solo, "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," Dudley Buck, E. C. Martin; contralto solo, "Lungi dal cato bene," Secchi, Miss Jessamine Burd; organ solo, "Toccata from Symphony 5," C. M. Widor, Norman Landis.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The young people are looking forward to the firemen's dance on April 20 with big interest. The committee is sparing no efforts in making the affair one of the most successful dances in the borough's history.

Ground has been broken for Mrs. Kennedy's new house on upper Washington avenue. Mrs. Staats Titsworth has given out a contract for the erection of a bungalow on the New Market road.

The choir of the Presbyterian church will meet for rehearsal tonight.

REV. MR. STOUT'S STUDIES MAKE SUPPLIES NECESSARY.

As Royal A. Stout, the pastor-elect of the Netherwood Reformed church will be busily engaged with his final examinations at the New Brunswick Seminary during April, it has been found necessary to engage supplies for that month. Those secured are among the noted ministers in the Reformed church and they will officially introduce the church in that section prior to the installation of Mr. Stout in June. The supplies and their subjects follow:

April 3, Rev. Dr. John Howard Raven, professor of Old Testament languages and exagesis, New Brunswick Theological Seminary; subjects, morning, "Blessed Forgiveness;" evening, "God's Providence." April 10, Rev. Dr. T. C. Easton, of the Highland Park Reformed church, morning, "The Print of the Nails;" evening, "Esther, the Beautiful Queen." April 17 Rev. Dr. William I. Chamberlain, secretary Board Foreign Missions, Reformed Church in America; morning, "The Guest of Faith; The Sanctuary of Life;" evening, "The Power of an Endless Life." April 24, Rev. Dr. W. H. S. Demarest, president of Rutgers College and president General Synod; morning, "The Way of Life Eternal;" evening, "Life's Staying Power." The hours of service are 10:30 and 7:45.

The first service in this church was held July 4, 1909, and the present temporary edifice was dedicated July 8, 1909. The organization was effected by the Newark Classis, January 5 of the same year and the installation of the pastor will occur before June 1 next.

The erection of a permanent and more suitable house of worship is now being discussed and the presence of these representative men of the denomination during the Sabbaths in April is surely a recognition of the rapid progress and promising future for the new congregation.

—Elwin Giles, of West Fifth street, left today at noon for Kansas City, Mo., where he will enter the employ of the Corbin Cabinet Bank Company. He will later become a salesman for the concern.

—The Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, which is represented by John P. Emmons, agent, has adjusted and settled all automobile losses covered by the company, which occurred at the C. B. Brokaw Auto Co. fire.

A preparatory service will be held at Warren chapel tonight. The celebration of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the service next Sunday morning.

METHODIST PASTOR NOW EPISCOPALIAN

Giving an explanation of his attitude toward Methodism and Episcopalianism, and declaring that his experiences as a Methodist pastor and his study of the other church systems had convinced him that the future of united Protestantism rests with the Episcopal church rather than with any other denomination, the Rev. Francis T. Brown, of the First Methodist church, New Haven, Conn., yesterday told some of his reasons for his step from the Methodist to the Episcopal church, which he announced to the great surprise of his congregation Monday evening.

Yesterday it was learned that the Rev. Mr. Brown with Mrs. Brown, who is the daughter of a noted Methodist missionary and who herself was a missionary as a young woman, were both confirmed at St. Paul's Episcopal church in New Haven, Good Friday morning by Bishop Brewster and the pastor, the Rev. James De Wolf Perry. Mr. Brown's formal ordination as an Episcopal minister will be held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York, by Bishop Greer early next winter, it is expected, and he will be appointed to the rectorship of an Episcopal church at that time.

Meanwhile the Rev. Mr. Brown will serve under a special license as an Episcopal preacher at the Protestant Episcopal Mission House in New York.

"As a student I inclined toward the Episcopal church," Mr. Brown said, "and after my graduated from Yale I thought seriously of entering the Cambridge Divinity School with the intention of taking up Episcopalianism. My father and my uncle and many other relatives and those who were most dear to me were stanch Methodists, however."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Band of the First Baptist church will meet at the church Friday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held at the church Sunday night.

"The Knees of Christ" will be the topic of the prayer-meeting at the First Baptist church this evening. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will be in charge.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at its meetings Friday afternoon will consider the topic "Immigration."

"Faith a Leaning Toward God," will be the subject of the prayer-meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church this evening. The pastor, Dr. Zelie, will have charge.

Rev. and Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire and daughter are stopping in New York for a day or two waiting for the completion of the improvements at the parsonage of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mr. Maguire will preach at the church on Sunday for the first as pastor.

Old Ball Player Dies.

He is survived by a widow and several children. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Foresters of America and the Ira B. Tice Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The funeral will be held from his late residence Friday morning, followed by a solemn high mass of requiem.

The Man in Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart
Author of The Circular Staircase

Illustrations by M. J. KETTNER

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

I grew more and more wide-awake. At Cresson I got up on my elbow and blinked out at the station lights. Some passengers boarded the train there and I heard a woman's low tones, a southern voice, rich and full. Then quiet again. Every nerve was tense. Time passed, perhaps ten minutes, possibly half an hour. Then, without the slightest warning, as the train rounded a curve, a heavy body was thrown into my berth. The incident, trivial as it seemed, was startling in its suddenness, for although my ears were painfully strained and awake, I had heard no step outside. The next instant the curtain hung limp again; still without a sound, my disturber had slipped away into the gloom and darkness. In a frenzy of wakefulness, I sat up, drew on a pair of slippers and fumbled for my bath robe.

From a berth across, probably lower ten, came that particularly aggravating snore which begins lightly, delicately, faintly soprano, goes down the scale a note with every breath, and, after keeping the listener tense with expectation, ends with an explosion that tears the very air. I was more and more irritable. I sat on the edge of the berth and hoped the snorer would choke to death.

He had considerable vitality, however; he withstood one shock after another and survived to start again with new vigor. In desperation I found some cigarettes and one match, piled my blankets over my grip, and drawing the curtains together as though the berth were still occupied, I made my way to the vestibule of the car.

I was not clad for dress parade. Is it because the male is so restricted to gloom in his every-day attire that he blossoms into gaudy colors in his pajamas and dressing gowns? It would take a Turk to feel at home before an audience in my red and yellow bath robe, a Christmas remembrance from Mrs. Klopton, with slippers to match.

So, naturally, when I saw a feminine figure on the platform, my first instinct was to dodge. The woman, however, was quicker than I; she gave me a startled glance, wheeled and disappeared, with a flash of two bronze-colored braids, into the next car.

Cigarette box in one hand, match in the other, I leaned against the uncertain frame of the door and gazed after her vanished figure. The mountain air flapped my bath robe around my bare ankles, my one match burned to the end and went out, and still I stared. For I had seen on her expressive face a haunting look that was horror, nothing less. Heaven knows, I am not psychological. Emotions have to be written large before I can read them. But a woman in trouble always appeals to me, and this woman was more than that. She was in deadly fear.

If I had not been afraid of being ridiculous, I would have followed her. But I fancied that the apparition of a man in a red and yellow bath robe, with an unkempt thatch of hair, walking up to her and assuring her that he would protect her would probably put her into hysterics. I had done that once before, when burglars had tried to break into the house, and had startled the parlor maid into bed for a week. So I tried to assure myself that I had imagined the lady's distress—or caused it, perhaps—and to dismiss her from my mind. Perhaps she was merely anxious about the unpleasant gentleman of the restaurant. I thought smugly that I could have told her all about him: That he was sleeping the sleep of the just and the intoxicated in a berth that ought, by all that was fair and right, to have been mine, and that if I were tied to a man who snored like that I should have him anaesthetized and soft palate put where it would never again flap like a loose sail in the wind.

We passed Harrisburg as I stood there. It was starlight, and the great crests of the Alleghanies had given way to low hills. At intervals we passed smudges of gray white, no doubt in daytime comfortable farms, which McKnight says is a good way of putting it, the farms being a lot more comfortable than the people on them.

I was growing drowsy; the woman with the bronze hair and the horrified face was fading in retrospect. It was colder, too, and I turned with a shiver to go in.

As I did so, a bit of paper fluttered into the air and settled on my sleeve, like a butterfly on a gorgeous red and yellow blossom. I picked it up curiously and glanced at it. It was part of a telegram that had been torn into bits.

There were only parts of four words on the scrap, but it left me puzzled and thoughtful. It read: "—ower ten, car seve—" "Lower ten, car seven," was my berth—the one I had bought and found pre-empted.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Business Women

Depend on Telephone Service

EVERY good dressmaker, milliner, hair-dresser, nurse, is a telephone subscriber, otherwise she is inconveniencing many of her best patrons.

This is the telephone age.

Those who cater to the business of ladies should bear this in mind, i. e., that ladies are shopping and arranging their business affairs by telephone just as men are.

A business establishment of any distinction without a telephone loses valuable trade.

Remember, too, that every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance station.

No wonder scores of Plainfield citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Plainfield by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored a great deal but failed to find a cure until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and made up my mind to give them a trial. Good results followed their use and my kidneys were soon restored to a normal condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

MUSIC for dancing at home—in perfect time—is best secured by a player-piano.

Such an instrument enables you to play any piece of piano music, no matter how difficult—and you need not know one note from another.

You may have regarded a player-piano as a luxury beyond your reach. Not so the 88-note

Conway Player-Piano at $585

($10 a Month and Up)

You will hardly notice the easy monthly payments—while the continuous pleasure the Conway will give you will make it an investment that you can never regret. We take your old piano in exchange.

The Conway is remarkably easy to operate, both manually and physically. A few simple levers enable you to shade, soften or amplify the tone and to accelerate or retard the tempo of the piece you are playing, to suit your own taste. The exertion of pumping is reduced to a minimum. There's a "rest-shelf" for the wrists, too.

When used as a regular piano, the player mechanism is quickly enclosed out of sight.

At $585 you cannot buy another make of player-piano equal to this. It's a product of the Hallet & Davis Piano Co.'s 75 years' experience, large resources, immense plant, and scientific economy and efficiency in manufacturing. We sell direct to you.

If you wish the very highest quality, let us show you the Hallet & Davis Player-Piano at $750. An unusual value at a low price is the Lexington Player-Piano at $495 (Club Plan).

We'd be glad to have you try these player-pianos. Play the pieces you like—there's a treat in store for you!

We'll ask you to try but not to buy.

SCOTCH PLAINS IS TO HAVE A BALL NINE

The Scotch Plains baseball fans have decided to put a team in the field to represent the town on the diamond again this season. The loss of the club's pharaphenalia in the Frentz fire about the middle of February was discouraging and for a time it looked as though the town would not have a representative team this year. However, some of the lovers of the game had got together and decided to start anew, buy new uniforms, etc., and put an even stronger team in the field than that of last year.

Joe Alberts will manage the destinies of the club. While no regular line-up has been announced as yet, "Joe" is an old player and is in position to land the best, and he says he already has a number of the fastest players in this section, who are only waiting for the final word, when they are ready to sign up and wear the local uniform.

The line-up would necessarily include several new faces, as several of last year's team have removed to other places or quit the game.

The season will start early in May and only the best and fastest teams in this section and the metropolitan district will be booked. As a means of starting something in the way of a treasury account the team will hold a grand ball on the night of April 22 in Becker's auditorium, Garwood.

Despite Ban Johnson's protest Johnny Kling, the recalitrant Chicago catcher, will be reinstated by the National Commission. The case of Kling leads one to believe that a baseball player comes pretty near being at the mercy of a certain band of men. Of course, the days of slavery are over, but it really behooves a ball player to be real good.

"Colonel" Hacquer declared during his sojourn here that the Quaker City will have two champion teams. The Athletics, he predicts, will win the American League championship and the Phillies will win the cellar title in the National League.

Two-Man Tourney Results.

There was some high class rolling in Campbell's two-man tourney last night. Among the star performances were Frank Willett's two scores of 245 and 236; Meyers marked up 242 and 214 while Vail tallied 213 and 209. Koons was also in the process with a 215 score. The results:

Vail	213	145	169
Meyers	129	242	175
	342	387	344
Taylor	165	168	158

P. C. C. Opening April 19.

Plans are being perfected by the officers of the Plainfield Country Club to place the clubhouse in commission and ready for use on and after Saturday, April 9. John Hilton, the superintendent, has returned from England, and will take charge of the club for the coming season. He is now engaged in getting everything in readines for the opening day. Light luncheons will be served at the club on Saturday, for the convenience of tennis and golf players.

Miss Elsie L. Debele, of Somerset street, and Miss Katherine Debele, of Pine Grove Farm, are spending their Easter vacation visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Martin J. Bowman, of Perkasie, Pa.

Insurance Talks

No. 5

The time was when people were sceptical of fire insurance.

Now the person whose property is NOT protected against loss by fire is hard to find.

Why neglect any branch of insurance which protects property?

But, before we leave the subject of fire insurance, just take the time to look over your policy. Is it liberal and broad?

Does it permit you to use electric light?

Does it permit you to use benzine?

Does it cover oil cloths, carpets and matting?

Does it permit you to carry other insurance,

These provisions should be included in your policy. THEY COST NO MORE!

The situation is exactly the same in the matter of protection against THEFT.

The possible loss is covered as liberally in burglar insurance as in fire insurance, and the necessity for SECURITY is as great.

Moreover, if your fire insurance policy is not all that it should be, let our PLAINFIELD representative call and explain the modern fire policy.

HENRY M'CORMICK'S RISE

Former Local Trolley Conductor Now President of English Traction Co.

GOT $2.50 PER DAY HERE.

One of First Conductors on Fourth Street Trolley Line—Going to Visit Here Next Summer.

A former Plainfielder's rapid climb to fame and prosperity is cited in the meteoric career of Henry McCormick, who ten years ago was earning $2.50 per day as a conductor on the West Fourth street-Somerset street trolley, and who is now almost in the millionaire class and is president and general manager of the Cheltenham (England) Electric Traction Company.

McCormick left Plainfield nine years ago to go to Cheltenham for the purpose of assisting in the building of the Cheltenham trolley road which is one of the largest electric transportation lines in the United Kingdom. Before he left town he joined Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and during his absence, he was kept in touch with his fellow members with occasional letters, while trodding the highway of success.

At the farewell reception given to McCormick by his friends before his departure from this city he was given a rabbit's foot, and it is due to carrying this emblem of luck around with him that McCormick ascribes a part of his success.

In a recent letter received by John J. Kenney, a brother member of Watchung Council, McCormick stated that he has completed plans to pay a visit to this city in July. He will bring along with him three touring cars and this is evident that a royal good time is in store for his former Plainfield associates.

For four years Mr. McCormick was engaged in building the road. During this period McCormick's practical experience in trolley matters asserted itself and when operations were begun he was given a high managerial position. Since then he has been promoted several times and now he is at the top of the ladder, in the short time of nine years.

McCormick is a nephew of Thomas Nevins, of Newark, who was formerly the chief stockholder in the Plainfield Street Railway when the local line was built and put in operation. The former was one of the first conductors on the local line with "Uncle Jesse" Hatfield, Mark Hipp and others. Before coming to this city when the local line was opened, McCormick took the nickels on Newark trolley cars.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MARY J. DISBOROUGH.

The funeral service of Mrs. Mary J. Disborough, who died in the F. E. Parker Home, New Brunswick, on Tuesday, was held at the parlors of Trinity Reformed church at 10 o'clock this morning. The parlors were well filled with friends and relatives. The casket was covered with flowers, one tribute being from the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church, of which Mrs. Disborough was an active worker.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of the church, conducted the service, basing his remarks on the words of St. Paul: "For me to Live is Christ, and to Die is Gain." He spoke impressively of the life and character of the departed.

During the service, Miss Etta Raybert sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." The remains were sent to Bridgeport, Conn., today for burial.

JUNIOR ENDEAVORERS HOLD MONTHLY SESSION.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held its monthly business meeting and social in the church parlors yesterday afternoon. Miss Adelaide Cole, president, was in charge. Gratifying reports were presented. It was reported that the recent entertainment netted about $30 and the profit from the sale of postal cards, bearing the pictures of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor-emeritus; Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor, and Dr. Paul W. Harrison, the church missionary, will be about $10. The Log Cabin banks were also brought in and opened yesterday and $6 was realized.

After the business meeting the juniors had a social hour, during which they played all kinds of games. Later refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O U. A. M., will meet tonight and have initiation.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular conclave on Monday night.

WAGE DEMAND HOLDS UP BUILDING OPERATIONS

While Building Inspector Doane has been granting more or less building permits during the past month local contractors contend that operations are being retarded by the recent demands for higher wages by mechanics in the building lines. Until the wage question is settled the unsettled condition in the building trades is likely to continue. The various unions have asked that the increased wage scales go into effect on May 1. Following is a batch of permits issued by Inspector Doane:

Rushmore Dynamo Works, South avenue, erection of tin shop, 50x50.

Mrs. Cora Apgar, of Califon; erection of double dwelling house 918-920 West Sixth street. The architect and builder is M. D. O'Keefe and Joseph Brandt is the mason contractor.

J. Peter Kirch, 1223 George street; erection of dwelling at 46-48 Randolph road. William D. Kirch is the architect and builder and J. P. Kirch is the mason contractor.

Mrs. H. S. Schmeyer, erection of dwelling at 1224 Cammeron avenue. E. Schmeyer is the contractor.

S. Hirsch erection of store at 409 Watchung avenue. W. H. Clum is the architect, and S. Roth is the contractor.

K. Rothberg, erection of dwelling at 505 West Third street. Peter Themeson is the contractor.

Mrs. Edna B. Kriney, erection of dwelling at 16 Mariners place. The carpenter is H. Apgar and the mason Samuel Kriney.

Alex Millar, 718 Madison avenue; permit to remove barn.

F. V. L. Jones, erection of auto garage at 1,325 Evergreen avenue.

DANCE AT PARK CLUB GIVEN FOR MISS BROWN

Among the charming society affairs of Easter-tide was the dance at the Park Club, last evening, given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard McWilliams, of Hillside avenue, for her daughter, Miss Marjorie Brown, who is home from school at Farmingham, Mass., for the Easter vacation. The clubhouse was made very attractive by Stanley, and the program of dances was a popular one. VanEpps' orchestra furnished the music.

Miss Brown was asisted in receiving her guests by her mother and several intimate friends. There were about seventy people present, including the following from out of town:

Miss Elizabeth Oliphant, Mr. Oliphant, Duncan Oliphant and Miss Elita Smith, Trenton; Hamilton Torrey, of New York city; Harold Nexsen, Donald Battey, Earl Battey, Miss Jeannette Torrey and Miss Helen McWilliams, of Brooklyn.

During an intermission supper was served, after which the dancing was continued until an early hour this morning. Among the young people present were several who are home from school for the Easter holiday.

OLD HOTEL STABLE BURNED AT FANWOOD.

Fire destroyed the stables belonging to Antoni Valenci, proprietor of a roadhouse situated on South avenue on the top of Fanwood Hill. The buildings formerly belonged to John Benner, but more recently to Mrs. J. Stearer, who sold out the business to Valenci three weeks ago.

The buildings were in a delapidated condition and the loss is placed at $200. The blaze was discovered at 11:45 o'clock, but the stables were destroyed before the Fanwood fire department reached the scene.

Local Elks Visit Rahway.

A party of local Elks visited Rahway lodge last night and witnessed the initiatory degrees conferred on several candidates. In the delegation were John H. Cose, Harry Blimm, John Todd, E. H. Bennett, Elmer D. Cutting, William Smith, Marcus Hoyt and Charles Woolston.

IMPROVEMENTS AT TRINITY

Congregation to Expend $6,000. in Making Changes at Edifice.

MEMORIAL ORGAN OFFERED.

Extension to Be Built to Structure—Donor of Memorial Is Not Known to the Consistory.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting in Trinity Reformed church, last night, the congregation approved the plans submitted by the Consistory for the improvement of the church edifice, which includes the painting and repairing of the exterior, the redecorating and recarpeting of the interior and the building of an addition to the rear of the Sunday school room, all at a total cost of $6,000. F. E. Smith presided at the meeting and E. F. Sheppard was elected secretary. After the plans of Consistory were presented, there was a lively debate on the part of several members. F. S. Cutter, announced that in connection with the extensive improvements, there was an offer of a memorial pipe organ, it being made with the understanding that the improvements as planned be carried out by the church. The name of the donor is unknown to the Consistory.

Prior to the congregation's approval of the plans for improvements, a motion prevailed that the Consistory appoint a committee, comprised of representatives from each of the church organizations, to collect funds for the purchase of a suitable site for a new church edifice, the idea that a new building will be erected some day, still being entertained by some of the members.

The extension to the rear of the church will give added room for the junior, primary and beginners' departments of the Sunday school, as well as the desired room for the new organ. It will give a total additional floor space of 1,014 square feet, which is needed very much, as the Sunday school departments are now crowded to the limit.

With the approval of the plans for the improvements, it means that the church will be maintained in its present location for the next ten years at least. From a financial point of view the plans approved are the most feasible at present.

HORSE HAD PNEUMONIA; OWNER DIDN'T KNOW IT

Judge Newcorn had an assistant on the bench with him this morning who materially aided his Honor in passing out parcels of justice as needed. The assistant judge was Master Cecil Newcorn, the judge's youngest hopeful who never blinked an eyelash during the proceedings.

There was but one case in which a real contest occurred. Vincenzo Salvatore sued Benjamin Organs, a horse dealer, to recover $59, the value of a horse which developed a severe case of pneumonia within a few hours after it had changed hands. Salvatore declared that although the horse appeared sound when he led it to its new home, by 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day the animal was practically useless and Dr. Carpenter, a veterinary, pronounced the disease pneumonia and that it had been at least seven days suffering from the disease.

Organs claimed that he was not aware that the horse was ill and that he had sold the animal in good faith after giving the prospective customer a chance to try him out on the road.

The time occupied in hearing the testimony was nearly two hours and at the end Judge Newcorn advised the lawyers in the case to submit briefs. Robert Newton Crane appeared for Salvatore and J. Henry Crane represetned Organs.

TO PUT OIL ON STREETS

Within Fortnight Commissioner Gavett Will Start Anti-dust Crusade.

THE WATER WAGON TO GO.

City Finds It More Satisfactory and More Economical to Use Oil on the Public Thoroughfares in Summer.

In reply to many inquiries recently received by Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett it is announced by the commissioner that a carload of oil, the product of the Standard Oil Company, is on the way here, and will be laid on the streets as soon as possible after its arrival, which may be within the next week or two. It has been decided by the councilmanic street committee that this oil shall be laid on the principal thoroughfares and on streets where traffic is heaviest especially in automobiles.

Some consideration has been given to the subject of street sprinkling owing to the large amount of money spent in this work during 1909. It has been decided that so far as possible oil will be used this year as it is much more economical in the end. Various kinds of oils have been suggested to the committee and it is likely that tests will be made to determine which of the compounds is the most satisfactory from the standpoint of durability and economy. The application of oil last year was a satisfactory demonstration of its efficacy as a dust layer and as a sanitary method of producing a good surface.

West Eighth street, on which some tests were made last summer may have the distinction of proving a testing ground for some of the other brands of oils, but this will depend upon circumstances. The oil tried out on this street proved very satisfactory. The requests for the renewal of the oil treatment have been numerous and the majority come from automobile owners.

Mr. Gavett said this morning that the present consignment of Standard oil ought to arrive within the next ten days and he hoped to put it where it will do the most good immediately after its arrival. The committee at its meeting tonight may decide upon macadamizing some of the streets which have not yet been done and will also consider the matter of putting sewers in some that are not already provided with connections.

MORRISON POSTAL CARD BILL IS BEING PUSHED

A. E. Ballard, D. D., president of the Ocean Grove Association, although 90 years of age is taking an active interest toward having the Colonial souvenir post card bill passed by Congress. The idea of the measure is a scheme to reduce the postal deficit and to enable the government to provide a pension fund for disabled postal employes.

The originator of the bill is Thos. W. Morrison, former editor and proprietor of the old Plainfield Evening News, and the measure was introduced by Representative Howell, of Middlesex, several weeks ago. Mr. Morrison designed the card and it contains an attractive epigram that has been copyrighted. This is the epigram:

"Words are but wings of thought, which fly from mind to mind; wise are they who always say things thoughtfully and kind."

The border gives the postal card its name of "Colonial." Besides being pleasing and beautiful, it is historically correct and instructive in many ways. The border embraces about fifty scenes from childhood to old age in the Colonial days.

The latter has been quite ill but is now on the road to recovery, and they will return to town about April 15.

WEST END GANG IN TOILS

Fourteen Arraigned in City Court for Vandalism and Annoying Citizens.

FINE OF $10 EACH IMPOSED.

Solomon Mann, of West Third Street, Has Window Smashed and Door Broken—Mrs. Holland Identifies Culprits.

A gang of fourteen boys ranging in age from fifteen to eighteen years were ararigned before City Judge William N. Runyon this morning on complaint of Solomon Mann, a grocer of 919 West Third street. They were fined ten dollars each and sentence suspendd pending their good behaviour and the reimbursing of Mr. Mann for $9.25 worth ff damage done to his store at 936 West Third street.

Several of the boys denied being in the gang, but they were positively identifid by Mr. Mann and Mrs. Jane Holland, who lives close by and who has had occasion to complain of the boys before. Unless the damage is paid by Saturday morning the sentence of the court will be carried out and each one of the youthful mischiefmakers will have to pay his fine.

Mrs. Holland told the court that the boys are in the habit of congregating at the corner nights and Sundays and that their vile language has been a disturbing element in the neighborhood for months. During the winter they managed to annoher by throwing snow on her front stoop and otherwise kept her on tendter hooks. Mr. Mann said that they broke open his cellar door spoiling the lock; smashed a plate glass window and so badly frightened a prospective tenant that he would not take the rooms after one glimpse of the gang and its methods.

Although two or three of the boys declared the yhad not been with the gang and tried to show albis Judge Runyon thought otherwise and treated them all alike. These are the names of the young men: Philip Milwater, Salvator Gianuzzio, Angelo Barbaresi, Charles Nicholson, James and John McGauley, Frank Fitzgerald, William Cogge, Anthony Wisnewski, Patrick Honan, Roy Hall, Charles Smith, John Porter, and Mathew Ward.

FIRE THREATENED THE HORSE SHOW BUILDINGS

Flames from a wood fire threatened the buildings of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club on Randolph road last night but efficient work by the local firemen staved off a conflagration. A large area of woodland in the vicinity of the buildings was ablaze and the flames were within fifty feet of the building when Hose Company No. 2 arrived on the scene at midnight. It took the fire fighters just one hour to put out the flames.

This fire marked the twenty-fourth alarm the local companies have responded to since Friday morning, a record in local fire annals. The firemen also responded to the fire at Fanwood which destroyed the old Benner hotel stables, but as the fire was out their services were not required.

HOLY NAME DANCE IS LARGELY ATTENDED.

The dance given in Saengerbund Hall last night under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church was one of the most enjoyable social affairs since the Lenten season came to a close on Sunday. More than three hundred members and friends of the society were present and enjoyed the dancing.

A large slice of credit for the success of the dance is due to the energetic efforts of Robert McCormick, chairman of the committee. He was ably assisted by William McCullough, Thomas Meaney, John, Patrick and Cormick McDonough.

The sale of seats for the "Goddess of Liberty" at the Plainfield theatre is progressing rapidly and indicates that there will be a large turnout of society people. Mr. Howard's musical comedy has been presented in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia with great success. The cast is of unusual excellence and the musical numbers are bright and catchy. The costumes are original and very handsome and it promises to be an exceedingly interesting entertainment.

MR. FEICKERT RESIGNS AS TRUST CO. OFFICER

After having been with the concern since it was organized seven and one-half years ago, Edward F. Feickert, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, has tendered his resignation. Mr. Feickert confirmed the report today but beyond saying that his resignation was accepted at the meeting of the board of directors on Tuesday, he had nothing to say about his future plans.

When the Trust Company took possession of its first home in East Front street in 1902, Mr. Feickert came from the banking house of Kountze Brothers, New York, to act as its paying and receiving teller. He made many friends for the institution and before long was advanced to the position which he held at the time of his resignation. Much of the remarkable success of the concern has been due to his efforts. He introduced a campaign of publicity here and as a result the other banking institutions were compelled to advertise in newspapers. The weeklies and the dailies were resorted to to get business for the new company and the results of this attractive advertising were soon shown in the greatly increased business of the company. In 1902 the total bank deposits in all the banking institutions of the city were but $2,000,000 while today they amount to $8,000,000.

The many friends of the Trust Company will regret to learn that Mr. Feickert has severed his connection with the company.

BOY IS BADLY BURNED

Little Fellow is Probably Fatally Hurt in a Grass Fire.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

Five-Year-Old Boy Has Not Rallied—His Overalls Caught Fire—Mother Is Frantic.

Joseph Chiallo, the five-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Chiallo, of 218 Plainfield avenue, was perhaps fatally burned yesterday afternoon, while playing with burning grass in the rear of his home. He wore a pair of overalls, which caught from the flames and before the fire could be extinguished, the little fellow's legs and body and one arm, as far as the elbow, were frightfully scorched.

Dr. P. B. Cregar was summoned to the scene with all possible speed and he realized at a glance that the boy's condition was serious. After giving temporary treatment to alley the intense pain, the ambulance was sent for and the victim removed to the hospital. Today it was reported that the patient does not improve and his condition is not considered favorable.

At the time of the accident the boy in company with a colored lad of about his own age was having a lot of fun burning grass in the yard. They had several matches and as the grass was unusually dry they delighted in seeing it burn. In some way the Chiallo boy got too near the blaze and his overalls caught fire. The lad's screams attracted the attention of the neighbors as well as that of his mother and in a few minutes a large crowd gathered. For a time there was much excitement. Mrs. Chiallo was frantic with grief over the mishap and it was with great difficulty that she was pacified. A hurry call was quickly sent to Dr. Cregar and he arrived soon after the accident occurred. Until he applied temporary remedies the boy suffered excruciating pain, his cries being heard a block away.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield Fire Department was called out Tuesday to put out a brush fire that was getting dangerously near the houses at Embree Crescent. The fire was put out by the chemical engine and the firemen went away only to be called out again a half-hour later, as the fire had broken out again. Fire wardens are watching the mountain to prevent the spread of any fire that may be started.

An effort is being made by Westfield police to stop the disorder at Westfield Junction where the Railway trolley cars branch off to Rahway and Perth Amboy. This being a transfer point and some distance outside of the town, there has always been some disorder there. Of late, however, complaints have been numerous and the department is going to put a stop to it if possible.

SPORTS
NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

OLD "CY" YOUNG IS MARVEL OF DIAMOND

Youngsters, feeble tenants of an hour, appear and vanish, wars or politics may change the baseball map almost every season, but Cy Young goes on forever.

Young, one of the greatest characters ever associated with an ashen bat and horsehide sphere, celebrates his forty-third birthday on Tuesday. On April 14 he will begin his twentieth year of continuous service in the fast set.

Long after the allotted life of a baseball player, Young today is still one of the strongest pitchers in the country. Neither sentiment nor charity has kept him in the game this long. He is drawing a fortnightly check from a big league club on sheer merit alone.

Down South, the pitcher who won't wear out is preparing for another campaign with Cleveland, the city where he first bloomed as a baseball figure.

Young was born in Gilmore, O., March 2, 1867. A plowboy of wonderful physique, he took naturally to pitching. In 1890 he played his first professional engagement with Canton, O. One of his earliest exploits was the pitching of a no-hit game for Canton against McKeesport, in the course of which he struck out eighteen men.

This accomplishment reached the ears of the Cleveland management, and before he finished the year at Canton he was graduated to the major league. He made good from the start and has been a fast-set star ever since.

Young pitched winning ball for Cleveland eight years, and when the National League dropped Cleveland, Louisville, Washington and Baltimore from its circuit, Robinson and Tebeau, of Cleveland, took Young to St. Louis along with Burkett, Heldrick, Powell, Criger and other stars. Three years later, when the American League took up the cudgel with the National, Young jumped to the Boston team of the new circuit. He stayed there eight years, in which time he helped the Bostons win two pennants and a world's championship.

Last year he was sold to Cleveland the city where he made his big league start twenty years ago.

Young's pitching feats have been many. Probably his greatest achievement was in 1904, when he blanked the hard-hitting Athletics without a hit, not a Mackman reaching first. In 1908, he almost duplicated this feat when he shut out New York without a hit or run. The only man to reach first base was Niles, the first hitter up, who received a base on balls and was quickly stopped stealing.

In the nineteen seasons he pitched in the big league Young has won 497 games and lost 297, for an average of 626. This record may not soon be equalled.

Young owes his baseball longevity to carefull living. He has a farm in Ohio and stays there throughout the off season. Down South, Young says that his arm is as strong as ever, and he expects to make his twentieth season one of his most successful in baseball.

Bob Bescher is touted as the real star among the Cincinnati Reds.

Reports from New Orleans have it that "Nap" Lajoie is playing great ball at first base for Cleveland.

New York scribes with the Highlanders say that Harry Wolters will be the successor of Willie Keeler.

On account of his salary being cut from $5,000 to $3,500 George Stone refuses to report to the St. Louis Browns.

Manager Dahlen, of Brooklyn, contemplates making an outfielder of George Hunter, his southpaw pitcher, this season.

Honus Wagner seldom talks baseball, but when it comes to spouting automobile dope, Honus is there every time, like a duck.

Billy Sullivan, of the White Sox, is not recovering very rapidly from the poisoning of his foot and is still in the hospital at Los Angeles.

Fred Tenney, of the Giants, is taking no chance with his bad legs in training, and will try to round out into condition by slow degrees.

The Indianapolis club has quite a bunch of ex-big leaguers, including Car, Glaze, Hayden, Bowerman, Delehanty and Lewis.

The Franklin Field Club of Perth Amboy is desirous of booking games with local teams averaging 17 to 18 years. Address F. Applegate, Hobart street, Perth Amboy.

The second Marathon Derby, which will be run at the Polo Grounds, New York, next Saturday afternoon, will be started promptly at 3 o'clock when Hon. Timothy D. Sullivan will fire the gun which will start twelve of the world's greatest speed marvels on a journey of 26 miles 385 yards. Sparrow Robertson and Fred W. Rubien, official surveyor, will lay out the track which will be six laps to the mile. Mr. Rubien will make affidavit that the distance is correct. The start of the race will be made 275 feet back of the finish line which will be opposite first base. The size of the track will necessitate the runners making the circuit 137 times and an extra 275 feet. The position of the camps of the different runners will be designated by the flags of the nation they represent.

GOLF.

The Montclair Golf Club has decided to try the innovation of having players qualify in their rightful divisions, that is, according to their handicap. In other words, if first division man should happen to make a high score will not be allowed to compete at match play in a third or fourth division. It has not been announced as yet whether or not this plan will be tried at the coming open tournament to be held on June 16, 17 and 18. Apropos of this fixture, the Montclair club has no notion of changing its dates because it happens to conflict with the national open at Philadelphia. Montclair selected its dates several weeks before the parent organization made its announcement.

A number of changes from last year have been made in the conditions governing the interclub team contest for the Philadelphia cup, as follows:

The best seven scores of representatives of any one club playing in the qualifying round of the individual championship of Philadelphia shall be considered as qualifying for competition for the team championship; the four best club scores to qualify. Teams of ten men from such club shall then play at match play, said match play to be played under the following conditions, viz.: The club qualifying No. 1 shall play against No. 3, and No. 2 against No. 4, on the first day, then the two winners shall play on the following day for the team championship.

Two-ball matches shall be played in the forenoon and four-ball matches in the afternoon. In each match the full eighteen holes (or more, if necessary) must be played. The winner shall score one point for the match, and in addition shall score one-quarter of a point for each hole that he is up on his opponent. If the teams should tie in points, that one winning the greatest number of individual matches shall be the winner. The pairings for match play shall be made by the respective captains ranking their players and exchanging lists.

Two Scots were making a round, and fourteen holes had been played without the exchange of a single word. At the fifteenth McPherson ran down a thirty foot put, and as it halved the match, he remarked: "'Twas a fair put, eh, Douglas?" He won the next and halved the last, which gave him the match. "A fine day for the match," he said. "Aye," cautiously admitted Douglas, "but that's no reason you should be clacking like an auld wife every minute of the time."

RENAMES BOULEVARD.

Road from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May to be Called Ocean Highway.

In the morning session of the Jersey Senate Tuesday, Senator Brown of Monmouth introduced a bill changing the name of the proposed boulevard from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May to the Ocean Highway. The act is a supplement to the State Highway Commission statute, and provides for expending $50,000 of the money received from automobile registration for repairs each year.

The business of importance in the House in the morning session was the passage of the Minard bill, authorizing the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission to contract with the Government for the discharge of the sewerage of this trunk sewer into New York Bay near Robbins Reef Light. This is the last act in the legislation required to drain the Passaic Valley municipalities of sewage and return the Passaic river to its old-time purity.

—Organist S. Frederick Smith, accompanied by ten of the boys of the choir of Grace Episcopal church, enjoyed a bicycle ride to Duke's Farm at Raritan Tuesday.

The lecture on Japan which was to have been given under the auspices of the Young Friends' Association by Dr. Charles McDowell has been postponed.

C. N. FOWLER PRAISES THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Representative Charles N. Fowler, of this district, speaking in the House of Representatives at Washington on Tuesday to his bill to establish a complete financial and banking system for the United States, declared that a third trial in the courts of civilization impends, the trial being "the case of the Chairman of the National Monetary Commission, alias Aldrichism, alias the Special Interests, versus the People of the United States."

"Theodore Roosevelt," Representive Fowler concluded, "is the attorney of record for the People; and the People under his leadership will triumph most gloriously."

In championing his bill, which is a repetition of the Fowler bill introduced in the Sixtieth Congress before the appointment of the Monetary Commission, Mr. Fowler compared the pending crisis which he described to the "first great trial of civilization, British Tyranny versus the American Colonies," and the "second great trial, Slavery versus Liberty."

"If in this great crisis," said the New Jersey Congressman, "the American bankers, as a class, would prove worthy of their proud past, they must rise at the call of duty from their bank counters to an exalted conception of the American banker of the future, holding a trusteeship of the business welfare of the whole Republic and of the National credit."

In closing, Mr. Fowler made a strong appeal to the bankers of the country. The Congressman's final words are as follows:

"Two great trials in the courts of civilization have occurred on this continent.

"The first trial was British Tyranny versus The American Colonies. George Washington was the attorney of record for the colonies; and the colonies won.

"The second great trial was Slavery versus Liberty. Abraham Lincoln was the attorney of record for Liberty; and Liberty won.

"A third great trial is now pending. It is the case of the chairman of the National Monetary Commission, alias Aldrichism, alias the Special Interests, versus The People of the United States.

"Theodore Roosevelt is the attorney of record for the People; and the People under his leadership will triumph most gloriously."

NOT TO BUILD SANITARIUM.

Bishop McFaul, head of the Catholic diocese of Trenton, decided yesterday to bandon his tuberculosis sanitarioum at Hopewell, near Trenton, until such time as Pennington Seminary and adjacent property owners shall withdraw their opposition to the institution.

The Bishop was influenced largely by reason of the statement that the seminary, a Methodist institution, would be harmed by the opening of a sanitarium close at hand. He said he had no desire to work harm to any one.

TRENTON TO HEAR MR. HOBSON

Resenting the action of the Legislature in again turning down their local option bill, officers of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey will meeting at Trenton Friday to plan some new method to obtain the enactment of their favorite measure.

In the evening there will be a public mass meeting, with an address by Representative Richmond P. Hobson, of Alabama.

TRENTON HAS $75,000 FIRE.

Blaze Sweeps Up Elevator Shaft in Ribsam Building.

The Ribsam Building, one of Trenton's finest modern business buildings, was damaged by fire last night to the extent of $75,000. The loss is largely covered by insurance.

The cause of the fire is not known. It started in the cellar and swept up the elevator shaft. The first floor was occupied by stores and the upper floors by labor unions and fraternal organizations.

HERE AND THERE.

Sometimes you will run across a man who will bet on anything and then again it is hard to find one who will put up the money to back his opinion, but at all times you will find those who are willing to wager something on a sure thing. A case of the latter kind happened yesterday and an unsophisticated Italian was the victim. At the corner of Richmond and Third streets a group of excited people were noticed early in the afternoon, two of whom were gesticulating wildly while a third person contentedly smoked a cigarette awaiting the outcome of the argument, which was as follows: That the distance from the corner of Richmond and Third streets to Front and Richmond was further than it is from Washington and Third to Watchung and Third. But how to settle it was a problem until someone suggested the use of a ball of twine. This being procured willing hands took one end after the money involved had been entrusted to the cigarette smoker, and the measuring was undertaken forthwith. As it involved a long and tedious wait the observer of the preliminaries did not wait to see the outcome, but it is a safe bet that the unsophisticated one was the loser.

Some inventive genius has enlisted the interest of the school boys of this town in aviation by placing on the market a toy flying machine which consists of the propeller only, but it affords unlimited amusement to the kids and to some grownups as well, excepting when the whirling piece of painted steel suddenly tips its way down your back or flys into your face with danger to your eyes. Yes, it's fun for the youngsters, but look out for your eyes.

DR. E. B. VOORHEES IS STRICKEN BY PARALYSIS.

Dr. E. B. Voorhees, of New Brunswick, president of the State Board of Agriculture, was stricken with paralysis yesterday in his office in the State House at Trenton.

Dr. Voorhees was stricken suddenly as he was about to walk from his office. He had previously showed no signs of ill health. Office assistants ran to his aid and assisted him to a couch. He was later removed to the home of a friend, Dr. John M. Bruyere, of Trenton, who is now treating him. Dr. Bruyere said today that Dr. Voorhees was recovering and probably would be out in a week or so.

Dr. Voorhees, in addition to being president of the State Board of Agriculture, is also head of the State Experimental Station at Rutgers College, New Brunswisk, where he makes his home with his wife and children. He is about fifty years old and has been head of the State Agricultural Board for about ten years.

Dr. Voorhees has been identified with the State Experimental Station for many years and has for years been regarded as one of the best informed agricultural experts in the country. He has declined numerous offers to go to other States, preferring to remain in New Jersey.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

HEARD AN ADDRESS ON CHINA'S MISSIONS

The Women's Missionary Society of Hope chapel held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the chapel when reports for the year were presented, officers were lected and an interesting address delivered by Dr. Frances Catell, of Philadelphia, a missionary at Soochow, China.

The members of the society turned out in large numbers and the meeting was full of interest. There were present also representativs of the missionary societies of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and Warren chapel. Mrs. Isaac L. Miller opened the meeting with prayer, and Mrs. G. H. Condict, president of the chapel society, presided. These officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. G. H. Condict, vice-president, Mrs. L. R. Howard; secretary, Mrs. M. W. Clark; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Brown.

The treasurer's report showed that the society had aised $135.60 from all sources during the year and had disbursed for both home and foreign missions, $134.60, leaving but a small balance. The secretary's report was gratifying, too, showing an increased membership and a larger average attendance at the meetings.

Mrs. L. R. Howard read the report of the Ladies' Aid Society, which raised during the year the sum of $352.55 and disbursed $337.18. The societies raised together jointly for benevolences $488.15, which is the largest amount in the history of the two organizations, and the members are much pleased with the showing.

After the business, Mr. Condict introduced Dr. Catell, who made an interesting address. She is a woman physician of rare charm and dignity of manner, and she held the close attention of everyone from the commencement of her talk. For a number of years, she was in charge of the Nathaniel Tooker Memorial Hospital at Soochow, China. This institution was founded by the Tooker family, of East Orange, and it is doing a great work in China.

Mrs. Catell related her own personal experiences and gave interesting glimpses of the work being accomplished in China by missionaries She described graphically the different phases of the work, which included the dispensary treatments, the hospital work, the home visits and other features. She said that while on one of her trips she treated over three hundred patients in three days and such treatment invariably awakened an interest in the missionary work. Her remarks aroused a greater interest in foreign missions.

After the talk those present were given an opportunity to meet Dr. Catell personally. There was a social hour and tea was served by Mrs. W. S. Terry, chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Rittenhouse, Mrs. F. A. Weber, Mrs. Robert Hangliter, Mrs. James Penney, Mrs. James Heron, Mrs. Walter Bradford, Mrs. F. J. Wharton, Mrs. W. H. Cook, Mrs. William Doig, Mrs. Alfred Aitkens, Mrs. M. W. Clark and Mrs. Joseph Brown.

To Jail for Assaulting Nuns.

Mrs. Mary White, of Paterson, was sentenced to three months in the county jail by Recorder Carroll at Paterson Tuesday for assaulting two sisters connected with the Dominican Sisters' Convent, attached to St. George's Catholic church, in Getty avenue. The two sisters were walking along Michigan avenue, when Mrs. White ran out of her home and attacked them, tearing their habits and badly frightening them.

Princeton Man Falls.

Princeton, March 31.—Henry Earle Muzzey, of Paterson, a sophomore at Princeton University, fell through a window in Reunion Hall Tuesday and sustained severe cuts about the head. His fall was stopped bya a fire escape. He will recover.

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell the grocery goods at 537 West Third street, tomorrow at 2 o'clock. **

HOPE ENDEAVORERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

The annual business meeting for the election of officers and presentation of reports was held at Hope chapel last night by the Christian Endeavor Society. The reports showed that there had been increased interest in the meetings and a growing attendance. Reports were presented by Miss Lona Becker, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Becker, treasurer and the chairmen of the lookout committee, Miss Edna Eckert and Miss Mary N. Mortimer for the missionary committee.

A sum of money was voted for the deficiency fund of the chapel. Progress was reported by the committee in charge of the play to be presented by the society in May. The nominating committee presented a slate, which was adopted, and these officers were elected:

President, Miss Lona Becker; vice-president, Harry Kenny; treasurer, Alexander Doig; corresponding secretary, Frank Rimmer; chairman of the social committee, Miss Laura Hangliter; chairman lookout committee, Miss Elizabeth Becker; chairman prayer meeting committee, Miss Mary N. Mortimer; chairman missionary committee, Miss Edna Eckert. After the election the prayer meeting took charge and refreshments were served.

NICHOLS CREATES SCENE IN HOUSE YESTERDAY.

Mr. Nichols, of Cumberland, late yesterday, was the centre of excitement in the House when he tried to introduce a bill calling for ratification of th income tax amendment to the United States Constitution. He needed unanimous consen and it was not obtainable.

Mr. Nichols insisted that his bill go in, and refusing to sit down when Speaker Ward ordered him to his seat, the speaker called upon Sergeant-atArms Flavell to do his duty and the latter moved threateningly down toward the obsterperous Cumberland legislator.

"This is gag rule, nothing but gag rule," shouted Mr. Nichols, as he took his seat.

Majority Leader Edge moved through the House in his soothing way after the little incident and argued in favor of permitting the bill to be introduced.

"It is not quite apparent that there is any good reason why we should refuse permission to a fellow Republican to introduce a bill," said the Colonel, and a few minutes later het old Mr. Nichols to try again. The bill was admitted and referred to Colonel Edge's judiciary committee. It has been decided with no prospect of a change of mind not to ratify the amendment providing for an income tax.

Governor Fort says that there is no time limit, so far as he understands the matter, and that ratification may be any time, the requisite to make the amendment effective being adoption by the Legislatures of two-thirds of the States.

Squabary to Quit Business.

Raising squabs for the market has proved at Rockaway to be not such a profitable business as some imagine it to be. The Rockaway Squabary Company, with an authorized capital stock of $15,000, was turned over today to the company's bookkeeper, with instructions to wind up its affairs. Emil L. Lowenthal, of Rockaway, owns thirty-five out of fifty-eight shares, of a par value of $50 each, issued by the corporation. He holds notes against the company aggregating $3,987. The company's assets consist of real estate valued at $1,800 and thirty-five hundred live pigeons.

An Ironing Board Hint.

If you do not want your ironing board to fall down when the door behind which it reposes is suddenly opened, try keeping it in place with a noose. Fasten a screw hook to the woodwork at back of door and to it tie a double cord long enough to slip around ironing board and fasten the other end on the hook.

The Expressed Satisfaction of Business Houses that now have accounts with the is sufficient to warrant the officers in suggesting to other good houses that they give "The Only Bank in North Plainfield" a share of their deposits.

JERSEY SENATE CLOSING.

Resolution to Adjourn on April 6 Is Adopted.

The Senate yesterday passed a concurrent resolution to adjourn Wednesday, April 6, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This came after a long conference between Senators Frelinghuysen, Bradley, and Ackerman and Gov. Fort in the morning.

The Senators wanted to get away this week, and the members of the House said that they could be ready, but at the conference it came out that the House committees were holding many bills which Senaors were interested in, and because of this fact the Senators would not stand by their agreement of last Monday night to adjourn.

There was a lively debate at the Republican conference of the Senators. Senator Wakeley said that he could understand how the House Judiciary Committee could hold all of his bills except the Public Utility measure. A count showed that the House committees held some 100 Senate bills.

Wife Ends Long Chase.

Emil Carl von Miller, also known as Amiel Karl von Miller, was convicted of bigamy by a jury Tuesday in the Court of Special Sessions, Jersey City, and remanded for sentence The complainant against the count was Regina Viehlmann. She married him in Los Angeles and traced him to Hoboken, where she learned he had married Miss Paula Wood Powers, of Riverside, Cal., and Miss Annie Jacobs, of No. 214 West 92d street. Mrs. Viehlmann traced her husband back to California, where she caused his arrest and extradition.

Short & Miller, straight and eccentric dancers, are good, while Arthur Browning in "The Tramp, the Bottle and the Dog" is sure to please. The pictpres are better than ever.

A Believer in Roger.

"Good!" shouted the friend of the bibliophile as the latter emerged from the burning house carrying a bundle of books. "Did you save your Shakespeares?"

"No," replied the bibliophile, combing a spark out of his whiskers, "I saved my Bacon."—Houston Post.

THE FORUM.

Replies to Mr. Johnson.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It is much to be regretted that Willis Fletcher Johnson, every time he meets defeat, jumps into the public press with an attack. What is the use? When a fellow gets licked, he ought to own up to it. Mr. Johnson feels chagrined because the people gave him only a corporal guard's vote for chairman of the election, being the president of the Board of Education and a self-assertive little gentleman, he labored under the impression that there was no other man in the township fit to serve.

The people, however, selected by a vote of three to one Colonel Roland De-V. Parker, the local justice of the peace, to serve as chairman and the justice appointed the tellers according to law, one of them being the principal of the schools, who has served in the capacity of teller in the school elections for the past twenty-three years. It does really seem that Mr. Johnson never learns, and being handy with the pen, works up a story to set himself straight, if possible, to people outside of our township, for in the township, it would be impossible.

Mr. Johnson feels it keenly because the people would not continue the family Board of Education. He and his brother were members of the board. Louis Burgmiller and his two brothers-in-law, Thomas P. Rogers and Robert G. Rogers (brothers), were also members of the board making five out of nine.

Three of these gentlemen came up for re-election, to wit: Mr. Johnson's brother, Louis Burgmiller and Thomas P. Rogers, (Burgmiller's brother-in-law,) and at the school election held on March 15, we polled the largest vote in the history of the township; 96 out of a registration of about 100, they receiving 37 votes and the other candidates receiving 59.

If then, the Johnson-Burgmiller five was not a faction, what was it? It certanly was a factor and controlled the board absolutely, and because Mr. Johnson was unsuccessful in his attempt to continue these gentlemen in control, he attacks the successful candidates. He quotes Superintendent Baxter. I doubt if Superintendent Baxter desires to be drawn into the matter.

In conclusion, I desire to say that none of us had any complaint to make as to the character of the retiring members of the board, but we felt, and still feel that Boards of Education should not be made up of so many members of one or two families. There was no resentment manifested at the election upon the appointment of the tellers. The loud talk and unseemly behavior was wholly on the part of those who supported the Johnson-Burgmiller ticket, and the chairman did well to quote the law to them and he deserves the thanks of the community.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Editor, The Daily Press:

So many persons have asked me if the Board of Trade contemplates entering into the election on the water question April 19, that it seems proper to state specifically that the Board of Trade as such, will not enter into this campaign or into politics. The Board has done all that can be expected of it upon passing the resolution at its meeting held March 17, to wit:

That in order to secure an expression from the largest number of voters possible on April 19 next, in the matter of the acquiring of a municipal water plant, the board suggests the outsponken expression on the subject from the banks, large business interests, prominent taxpayers and the newspapers, so that a decisive vote may be had.

WIFE SUES W. H. BAKER.

After Thirty-five Years of Married Life Trenton Woman Asks Alimony, Accusing Husband.

William H. Baker, president of the William H. Baker Machine Company, was made defendant in the Court of Chancery at Trenton Tuesday in a suit instituted by his wife, to whom he was married in 1875.

Mrs. Baker wants alimony, charges non-support, abuse, violence and also that her husband has been associating with another woman. She also asserts that on one occasion he removed all the furniture from their home and she was compelled to depend on neighbors for support until she could find employment.

DOLL HOUSE FOR OFFICE.

Plaything of Children Becomes Place of Business.

A doll house is being transferred into a real estate office at Cranford. The little building, which formerly stood upon the property of Alden B. Bigelow and was used by his daughters, was moved from its site in Union avenue to Eastman street, in that place, where it will be equipped for the use of William Drysdale.

The little building was pulled through Miln street by six horses. At the corner of Alden street one side was shaken out by the building falling from the rollers.

$1,000 FIRE IN MILLBURN.

Two Other Blazes Keep Volunteer Firemen on Jump.

The Millburn Volunteer Fire Department was kept busy Tuesday by three fires. The first alarm came from the Maplewood Poultry Farm, where the supply barn had been set afire by burning brush. The barn, containing eggs, hay, tools and poultry food, was destroyed, and after a two-hour fight the combined departments of Millburn, Wyoming and Short Hills succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, which spread to the chicken-houses near by. The house used by the farm employes was slightly damaged.

During the fire, a house 500 yards away caught fire from a spark, but the blaze was quickly extinguished by a bucket brigade, led by Jack Van Ingen.

Back taps had just come in from the first fire when another alarm was sounded because of a blaze in the barn at the rear of George McCollum's house in Essex street.

The fire is believed to have been caused by a spark from a locomotive on the Lackawanna Railroad. The total loss of the first fire is $1,000 and the second $300.

GIVES WIFE "TO BOOT."

Man Includes Her in Sale of His Store.

Beverly, March 31.—Sixty dollars for a shoemaking business and a wife thrown in was the unique bargain made between Antonio S. Flourers and Cornelius Pace.

Flourers, a dashing son of Italy, came to this city last week with much money. While negotiating with Pace about the sale of his business place, Mrs. Pace fell in love with the stranger. When the shop and good will were sold she begged that she go with them. As she and Pace had been quarrelling, the husband accepted the proposition and an agreement was signed to that effect.

Everything went along smoothly for the pair until yesterday morning when Pace, who had gone to Philadelphia, regretted bargaining away his wife, went before a local squire for advice to reclaim her. He was told to go to Flourers and make demands for her. Confronted with the agreement and the refusal of Mrs Pace to go with him, Pace sailed into Flourers with both fists, but the latter retaliated and Pace left the town.

WITTPENN FOR GOVERNOR.

Jersey City Paper Booms Mayor Who Is Fighting Organization.

Mayor H. Otto Wettpenn, of Jersey City, who has declared war on the Democratic organization, is being boomed for the Democratic nomination for Governor, by a local newspaper that is backing him in his fight. The Mayor is apparently not averse to being the candidate, for, after stating yesterday that the nominations for County Supervisor and Mayor had come to him unsought, that he was independent and would not make any promises, he said:

"I doubt very much if a man can get the nomination for Governor of either party at the present time without making promises as to what he will do for the politicians, if he is elected. If the Democratic party is ready to nominate a man who has no connection with the machine of either party, then it has a splendid chance to win this fall. It is for the Democrats who are not controlled by the machine to speak."

DR. WILSON TALKS.

Has Heard Nothing Direct from Mr. Procter.

Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, who was in Elizabeth Tuesday night at the dollar dinner of the Democrats, was interviewed in regard to the recent address of Mr. Procter and the latter's statement hinting that he would renew his offer of $500,000 for an undergraduate school to Princeton.

"I have heard nothing from Mr. Procter about it," said Mr. Wilson. "All I have heard has come from the public press and therefore I cannot discuss it."

ELKS EAT BEEFSTEAK.

Lodge to Donate Proceeds to Charitable Purposes.

Bayonne, March 31.—Over 600 guests Tuesday night attended the beefsteak dinner given by Bayonne Lodge of Elks in aid of charity. The dinner was followed by speeches by District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Atwood, of Hackensack, and Superintendent of Schools Demarest, of Hoboken.

Former Mayor Egbert Seymour was the toastmaster. The hall was decorated in the lodge colors.

TRAIN KILLS MAN.

Jersey City Resident Ground to Death in Philadelphia.

Jersey City, March 31.—Word reached here Tuesday that Frederick Rupp, thirty-two years old, of 204 Duncan avenue, this city, a tinsmith for the Pennsylvania Railroad, was run down and killed by a train at West Philadelphia, Tuesday, where he went to do some work.

His wife, when she heard of his death, fainted. Besides a widow, two children survive him.

CHAPTER III.

Across the Aisle.

No solution offering itself, I went back to my berth. The snorer across had apparently strangled, or turned over, and so after a time I dropped asleep, to be awakened by the morning sunlight across my face.

I felt for my watch, yawning prodigiously. I reached under the pillow and failed to find it, but something scratched the back of my hand. I sat up irritably and nursed the wound, which was bleeding a little. Still drowsy, I felt more cautiously for what I supposed had been my scarf pin, but there was nothing there. Wide awake now, I reached for my traveling bag, on the chance that I had put my watch in there. I had drawn the satchel to me and had my hand on the lock before I realized that it was not my own!

Mine was of alligator hide. I had killed the beast in Florida, after the expenditure of enough money to have bought a house and enough energy to have built one. The bag I held in my hand was a black one, sealskin, I think. The staggering thought of what the loss of my bag meant to me put my finger on the bell and kept it there until the porter came.

"Did you ring, sir?" he asked, poking his head through the curtains obsequiously. McKnight objects that nobody can poke his head throught a curtain and be obsequious. But Pullman porters can and do.

"No," I snapped. "It rang itself. What in thunder do you mean by exchanging my valise for this one? You'll have to find it if you waken the entire car to do it. There are important papers in that grip."

"Porter," called a feminine voice from an upper berth near by. "Porter, am I to dangle here all day?"

"Let her dangle," I said savagely. "You find that bag of mine."

The porter frowned. Then he looked at me with injured dignity. "I brought in your overcoat, sir. You carried your own valise."

The fellow was right! In an excess of caution I had refused to relinquish my alligator bag, and had turned over my other traps to the porter. It was clear enough then. I was simply a victim of the usual sleeping car robbery. I was in a lather of perspiration by that time. The lady down the car was still dangling and talking bout it; still nearer a feminine voice was giving quick orders in French, presumably to a maid. The porter was on his knees, looking under the berth.

"Not there, sir," he said, dusting his knees. He was visibly more cheerful, having been absolved of responsibility. "Reckon it was taken while you was wanderin' arpund the car last night."

"I'll give you $50 if you find it," I said. "A hundred. Reach up my shoes and I'll—"

I stopped abruptly. My eyes were fixed in stupefied amazement on a coat that hung from a hook at the foot of my berth. From the coat they traveled, dazed, to the soft-bosomed shirt beside it, and from there to the collar and cravat in the net hammock across the windows.

"A hundred!" the porter repeated, showing his teeth. But I caught him by the arm and pointed to the foot of the berth.

"What—what color's that coat?" I asked unsteadily.

"Gray, sir." His tone was one of gentle reproof.

"And—the trousers?"

He reached over and held up one creased leg. "Gray, too," he grinned. "Gray!" I could not believe even his corroboration of my own eyes. "But my clothes were blue!" The porter was amused; he dived under the curtains and brought up a pair of shoes. "Your shoes, sir," he said with a flourish. "Reckon you've been dreaming, sir."

Now, there are two things I always avoid in my dress—possibly an idiosyncracy of my bachelor existence. These tabooed articles are red neckties and tan shoes. And not only were the shoes the porter lifted from the floor of a gorgeous shade of yellow, but the scarf which was run through the turned over collar was a gaudy red. It took a full minute for the real import of things to penetrate my dazed intelligence. Then I gave a vindictive kick at the offending ensemble.

"They're not mine; any of them," I snarled. "They are some other fellow's. I'll sit here until I take root before I put them on."

"They're nice lookin' clothes," the porter put in, eying the red tie with appreciation. "Ain't everybody would have left you anything."

"Call the conductor," I said shortly. Then a possible explanation occurred to me. "Oh, porter—what's the number of this berth?"

"Seven, sir. If you cain't wear those shoes—"

"Seven!" In my relief I almost shouted it. "Why, then, it's simple enough. I'm in the wrong berth, that's all. My berth is nine. Only—where the deuce is the man who belongs here?"

"Likely in nine, sir." The darky was enjoying himself. "You and the other gentleman just got mixed in the night. That's all, sir." It was clear that he thought I had been drinking.

"I drew a long breath. Of course, that was the explanation. This was number seven's berth, that was his soft hat, this his umbrella, his coat, his bag. My rage turned to irritation at myself.

Kranich & Bach GRAND PIANOS

IN OUR SPECIAL EXHIBITION

Those who know the Kranich & Bach Piano, those who have had one of the K. & B. instruments in their homes, need not be told of its splendid qualities. They will swear by it and assure you that there is no better piano made than the Kranich & Bach—and most of these people judge by the upright pianos which are most largely used. What wouldn't they say in praise of it if they owned a grand piano, so much more beautiful than the upright, and even better in tone?

We are showing a number of magnificent specimens of the piano makers' art in our Piano Warerooms, and the Kranich & Bach is one of the conspicuous features of the display. The cases are works of art, the musical qualities of the instruments simply unsurpassed, making them everything the true music lover could wish for.

Kranich & Bach Pianos have been built by the same family for more than half a century, and they have held their place with the best instruments produced in America these many years. Every part is made in the K. & B. factories, so that perfection thruout has been obtained.

We sell these splendid instruments at very moderate prices and on the easiest possible terms. Those who wish to, can just as readily buy these beautiful grand pianos as they can buy the upright.

Pleased to have you visit our piano warerooms and hear any of these instruments played. No obligation on your part to buy. Second Floor.

FAIR ROLLING IN THE TWO-MAN TOURNAMENT.

Fair rolling characterized the competitions in Campbell's two-man tourney last night. "The Upstart."

The seat sale for Bertram Harrison's latest comedy success, "The Upstart," which will appear at the Plainfield Theatre on April 7 and 8, will open on Thursday, March 31. "The Upstart" is from the pen of Tom Barry and word comes from Hartford that he has written a first class remedy for the blues, as it is full of extremely funny situations and in the hands of an excellent comany Mr. Harrison has provided, it is sure to prove one of the most interesting plays of the season.

John J. Dorgan to Wed.

Announcement was made today of the approaching marriage of Miss Kathryn McGuirk, of Raritan, and John J. Dorgan, of Arlington avenue, this city, which will take place in St. Bernard's church, Raritan, Wednesday, April 6. Rev. J. J. Zimmer, the pastor, will officiate. The groom is an engineer employed by the P. S. C. in this city.

FORT ADDRESSES M. E. CONFERENCE

Criticizing the advocates of an "open Sunday" and the promoters of Sunday games, Governor J. Franklin Fort told the members of the Newark Conference in session at the Central M. E. church, Newark, last night, that there would never be an open-Sunday bill signed as long as he is Governor. He was addressing the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society.

The anniversary observance was dampened somewhat by an announcement of the serious illness of Rev. Dr. John A. Gutteridge, finacial secretary of the American University, who has been conference statistician for many years.

The conference opened yesterday with the usual exercises and Bishop Anderson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., presiding. The afternoon was devoted to the anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, Mrs. J. H. Knowles presiding. The officers of the conference were re-elected and impressive services in memory of the late Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, whose death occurred ten days ago, were held.

Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, formerly of this city, but now district superintendent of the Jersey City district, read the memorials of clergymen's wives who died during the past year.

The session continued this morning with the presentation of reports from the various departments, and this afternoon the anniversary exercises of the Women's Home Missionary Society will be held.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles Woolston and Miss Finger, of this city, are enjoying a pleasure trip to Bermuda.

Among the guests registered this week at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., are Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Low, of Westfield.

Dr. Raymond G. Stevens and Albert Steiner, of the borough, have returned from a ten days' pleasure trip to Bermuda.

Miss Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Harris, a student at college, is spending her Easter vacation at her home on Central avenue.

Misses Adelaide and Katharine Ball, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, of the Cedarcroft, are planning to spend their summer in Europe.

Miss Helen L. Terry, a student at the Hartridge School, is spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Terry, of Clinton, Hunterdon county.

Miss White, one of the pupil nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is improving slowly. She contracted the disease while caring for a patient.

THE GRACEFUL CURVE.

The keenly observant will take note of the subtle way in which the painfully straight lines of last season have been changed into graceful curves.

The new coats are far removed from the cut that predominated in the autumn and early winter models. Curved seams are being introduced, and variations of the lapels, fastenings and lower lines are very noticeable.

Flounces and pleatings have invaded the realm of afternoon and evening costumes, while a decided fullness at the waist is evident.

The masculine coat sleeve is giving place to the slightly full shape of the coming jacket, and capes are actually promised for the attainment of the heroic attempts of femininity to keep down the avoirdupois may be allowed to lapse, although it is hardly necessary to add that the appreciation for curved lines is not likely to be manifested with any startling celerity.

It is true that there is a swinging of the pendulum in the opposite direction. Womankind must accept the verdict against the straight line and adapt just enough of the curves to approximate the golden mean.

Mad Dog Killed.
